Court System In State Is Explained

(Editor's Note: Following article on courts in Minnesota was prepared by the court information office of the Minnesota supreme court.)

The average person probably knows more about what happens on a basketball court than what occurs in a court of law. Yet the courts of justice are being called upon to take an increasingly prominent role in modern society. Not only are major policy questions being raised in court cases, but also important matters affecting people's daily lives.

In the past year alone, the cases that have been filed in courts cover a broad spectrum. The range includes issues on the environment, affirmative action in education, hunting rights, freedom of the press and benefits for the elderly, as well as matters that affect people most directly: divorce, personal injury, landlord and tenant problems, criminal law violations. Even cases from the basketball arena have come to court — sports contracts, equal opportunity for women, suspension of college players.

Knowing the court system and some of the rules of court is the key to understanding legal cases. In Minnesota, there are several different levels of courts. What distinguishes one court from another is the type of cases that can be heard by a judge of that court. This is called the court's jurisdiction. Under a progressive new law, though, judges from one court level can be assigned cases from another level to reduce delay and court backlog.

The court with the most limited jurisdiction in Minnesota is conciliation court. Conciliation court — often called small claims court in other states — is the place where people can bring their civil cases of amounts less than $1,000. Conciliation court is usually informal, without many legal trappings. No attorney is necessary, and in many counties an attorney isn't allowed to represent someone in conciliation court. A losing party in conciliation court may be able to try again, since cases can be appealed to county court, or in the Twin Cities to municipal court. If appealed, the case proceeds as if there had been no decision in conciliation court.

County court is the next level of courts in Minnesota. There are 67 county courts. There are county courts serving every county, except for the counties of Hennepin and Ramsey, where there are municipal courts. County court judges can hear civil cases where the amount of money damages doesn't exceed $5,000. Other cases can also go to county court — divorces, juvenile matters, probate questions. In the criminal area, county courts can handle cases that are less serious in nature — misdemeanors or petty misdemeanors. On a misdemeanor charge, a person could be fined up to $500 and jailed for no longer than 90 days.

Municipal courts in Hennepin and Ramsey counties handle the large volume of cases and serve the diverse population of the Twin Cities. Municipal court judges can hear civil cases in amounts up to $6,000, and criminal cases where a misdemeanor or petty misdemeanor is charged. Some cases that could be heard by a county court — divorces, juvenile, probate — are handled by other courts in the Twin Cities. From both county court and municipal court appeals can be made to a panel of three judges from the next higher court, district court.

The district courts handle the major cases — ones including large dollar amounts in the civil area or serious offenses in the criminal area. The district court gets its name from the 10 judicial districts that divide the state. With a total of 72 judges, the district courts can take any civil case, no matter what the dollar amount, and any criminal case, no matter what the charge.

But, because county and municipal courts hear lesser matters, the district courts generally handle cases of greatest magnitude. In the criminal area, this means felony matters, for which a person could spend a year or more in prison, or gross misdemeanors, which could bring from three to 12 months in jail.

If someone is dissatisfied with a decision of the district court, there is only one place in the state to go — to the Minnesota supreme court, the highest court. The Minnesota supreme court hears appeals of cases from courts throughout the state and can make decisions that impact on future cases, as well.

BROWN SWISS breed championship at Northwest Dairy day Tuesday was won by Jon Lofstedt of Roseau and his four-year-old grade cow. Now in his ninth year of exhibiting at dairy day, Jon showed the same animal to a reserve championship in the breed last year and a state fair grand championship in 1978. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Lofstedt of Roseau.

PIANO DUET performed by Rick Trontvet and Renelle Twistol received a superior rating at the state Free Church youth fellowship piano competition held at Bethel college in Minneapolis June 9. Rick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Trontvet and Renelle the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Twistol. For the state contest the two performed "Hallelujah Chorus", written by George F. Handel and arranged by Rob Roy Peery. Rick also received an excellent rating for his piano solo, "Praise the Lord, Ye Heaven's Adore Him," written by Franz Hayeln, arranged by William Stickles. The students may now advance their duet to the national contest to be held July 9-13 at San Diego state university in San Diego, Cal. Both Rick and Renelle are piano students of Marcia Knuttila having taken lessons five and six years, respectively.

Urban Forestry Plan Designed By State DNR

Department of Natural Resources officials have announced a new program designed to assist Minnesota cities and towns with their urban forestry plans.

Aim of the program is to interest communities in planning, establishing, enhancing and managing their urban vegetation and wildlife areas. The DNR will provide direction, guidance and technical assistance to communities in developing comprehensive urban forest management plans.

Appointed supervisor of the urban and community forestry program is Dr. Jean C.B. Waddington, a biogeographer with an interest in vegetation, particularly the forests of Minnesota.

"The maturing urban forest and the threat of disease," said Waddington, "have created a need for an inventory of our urban trees to assess sanitation and planting needs. The program will stress the value of the urban forest in enhancing the environment and providing shade, vegetative screening and wildlife habitat."

Waddington holds a bachelor of science degree in botany and microbiology from the University of Bristol, England. She received a master's degree in botany and a Ph.D. in geography from the University of Minnesota. She has held various scientific, research and teaching posts at the University of Minnesota and has been a visiting professor on environmental studies at Macalester college, St. Paul.

A member of the Minneapolis committee on urban environment (CUE), Waddington served as chairwoman of the shade tree task force. She was the 1978 Minneapolis Arbor month chairwoman.

Working on the program with Waddington will be Peggy Coleman, a graduate forester. Coleman will have responsibility for the program in the seven-county metro area. She previously served as land acquisition specialist for the DNR's division of forestry.

For further information on the urban and community forestry program, contact Dr. Jean Weddington, DNR, Box 44, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155 (phone 612-296-0757). In the seven-county metro area, contact Peggy Coleman, DNR Regional Headquarters, 1200 Warner Road, St. Paul Minnesota, 55106 (phone 612-296-0807).

Fair Livestock Show Schedule Is Announced

After a successful inaugural last year, the Minnesota state fair's open livestock shows will again be split for the 1979 exposition. Beef cattle, half the sheep breeds and half the swine breeds will be shown the first four days of the fair, August 23-26. Dairy cattle and the remaining sheep and swine will compete August 27-30. 4-H and Future Farmers of America livestock comptition will be held the final four days of the fair, August 31-September 3.

The split livestock show concept, instituted in 1978, succeeded in relieving crowded barn conditions and helped cut exhibitors' expenses since most had shorter stays at the fair. In addition, conflicts with other fairs and livestock shows are reduced.

Horse competition will continue with a format similar to past years; English breeds will be shown August 23-28 and Western breeds will compete August 31-September 3. Poultry competition will also remain basically unchanged with the chickens August 23-29 and rabbits, pigeons, waterfowl and turkeys, August 30-September 3.

An addition to the cattle show will be a class for Limousin cattle. Limousin owners will compete the first four days of the fair. Other exotic breeds will be on display August 23-30 in non-competitive exhibits.

Swine judged during the first segment of the split shows will include barrows, Spotted Hogs, Hampshire and Landrace; sheep include market lambs, Rambouillet, Suffolk, Cheviot, Columbia and Corriedale. Swine competition in the second segment includes Berkshire, Poland China, Duroc, Yorkshire and Chester White. Sheep to be shown during the second phase of competition will be Hampshire, Dorset, Shropshire and Southdown.

4-H Scholarship Program Plans Major Awards

Young people planning careers in agriculture, or in related fields such as forestry, veterinary medicine or animal science, may be eligible for $5,000 in scholarship grants this year if they meet requirements set by the cooperative extension service.

Valued at $1,000 each, the scholarships are provided by private-sector donors and are arranged by national 4-H council, a not-for-profit organization serving the 4-H program.

One scholarship, donated by educational foundation of Alpha Gamma Rho, goes to a current 4-H member who will be enrolled as a college freshman in the fall of 1979. The recipient must be planning to major in agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine or a closely related field.

Allied Mills, Inc. donates scholarships to two present or former 4-H'ers who will be enrolled as college juniors this fall and plan to major in animal science.

Two former 4-H members currently enrolled in college of veterinary medicine can earn $1,000 scholarships provided by Champion Valley Farms, Inc., recipe division.

All scholarship applicants must have completed at least one year of 4-H work. Winners are selected by the cooperative extension service and are announced prior to the 58th national 4-H congress, November 25-29 in Chicago.

Present and former 4-H'ers who are interested in applying for these scholarships should get in touch with their state 4-H leader or county extension agent for more information and special application forms.

New Materials May Cause Human Illness

During the past two months, the Minnesota department of health has been investigating a possible link between reports of human illness and the presence of formaldehyde vapor in some homes.

Department officials say that, under the right conditions, a number of materials commonly used in mobile homes and other residential construction can give off formaldehyde vapor. Older housing is less likely to be affected, since many of these materials have only been introduced recently. They include items like urea formaldehyde insulation and bonding agents used in products like chipboard, wall coverings, floor boards and carpets. The amount of vapor released increases with higher temperatures and humidity.

Exposure to formaldehyde is not usually a serious problem for anyone over the age of two, according to department officials. The vapor can irritate the eyes, nose and respiratory tract of a healthy adult, but these symptoms will improve whenever the affected individual spends time away from home. Even small amounts of formaldehyde vapor have a very noticeable odor, so the problem seldom goes undetected.

Formaldehyde vapor may pose a greater hazard for people with chronic lung diseases, respiratory conditions or asthma, and for those few individuals who may be allergic to formaldehyde. Low levels of vapor exposure may cause special problems for these people.

A variety of formaldehyde exposure symptoms have been reported in infants, including restlessness, lethargy, vomiting, diarrhea, irritation of the eyes, nasal stuffiness, coughing, wheezing and other respiratory difficulties. Health authorities caution that most of these symptoms can have other causes, including virus infections and a variety of allergies.

Department officials say more research needs to be done on the long term effects of exposure to small amounts of formaldehyde vapor. As more is learned, they hope it will be possible to set exposure standards for private homes.

Anyone with possible symptoms of formaldehyde exposure should see a doctor. If your physician determines that the symptoms may in fact have been caused by exposure to formaldehyde, your case can be referred to the Minnesota department of health. If department officials also determine that formaldehyde vapor in your home may be causing the symptoms, they will take air samples, analyze them for measurable levels of formaldehyde, and return the results to your physician.

Young Showman Takes Dairy Day Show Honors

Weather was again good for the 30th annual event with only a few drops of rain around noon dampening an otherwise comfortable day.

MILK'S THE ONE

"MILK'S THE ONE" is this year's slogan for the American Dairy association, and caps proclaiming that motto were evident around the Northwest Dairy day cattle show Tuesday in Thief River Falls. There's nothing wrong with doing a little promoting even while taking a snooze, and who has more of an interest in dairy product promotion than the promoter pictured above?

City Council Informed On LASAC Action

River Falls is a member, went on record opposing the assignment of responsibility to the CAB staff, which would be understandably biased, and supporting the assignment of the duties to the bureau of administrative law judges who, LASAC members felt, could hear all the evidence in the cases and decide them objectively.

LASAC also went on record opposing a regulation which could be interpreted in such a way that essential service would be granted to the closest rather than the most important hub city to a community. The regulation defined a hub city as one which handles five hundreths per cent of al airline boardings in the country. Under this definition, Grand Forks would not qualify for a hub city but Fargo, N.D. would and unless the regulation were properly interpretted Thief River Falls could end up receiving service to Fargo rather than to the Twin Cities when the Twin Cities is actually the regional business center with which Thief River Falls residents are most involved.

At the June 7 meeting, Wurst indicated that the Minnesota organization also voted to oppose a regulation involving experimental programs, a regulation setting 60 as the maximum number of seats to be made available to a community's hub city in an essential service determination, a regulation disallowing the consideration of air cargo needs in making a service determination, and a regulation calling for the CAB determined service level to go into effect during the appeal of a service decision.

LASAC felt no experimental program should be gone into without the voluntary consent of the community involved; that CAB should not arbitrarily set a 60 seat limit on service without regard to time of day and frequency of service; that a liberal reading of the airline deregulation law would allow the consideration of air cargo in making an essential service determination; and that during the event of an appeal service should remain at its previous level until the appeal is resolved.

Immediate contact will also be made by LASAC with legislators and the organization will attempt a national mailing to get a coordinated effort underway in dealing with the deregulation law.

Reporting on cases where essential service determinations had already been made, Wurst indicated that the communities involved had received far less service than they had previously enjoyed and much less than they felt was neccesary.

Upon hearing the report the council felt that the city should make contacts with Senators Boschwitz and Durenburger and Representative Stangeland to seek assistance in coping with the implementation of the deregulation bill or to begin efforts to have it repealed.

In other business, the council passed a resolution officially adopting a position regarding the marketing of power after 1985. The position was adopted at the recommendation of superintendent of utilities John T. Anderson and the city utilities committee. It opposed expansion of the marketing area of the Western Area Power Administration, supports holding future marketing of power to existing customers, asks that existing contracts with W.A.P.A. be extended through 1989, states that the most favorable type of product for Thief River Falls at the present time would be a firm load with no energy restrictions, and encourages the development of new resources and an equal marketing of them to existing customers.

Al Christopherson appeared before the council on behalf of a committee studying the rental housing situation in Thief River Falls. Christopherson requested a $600 contribution from the city for the hiring of two persons to inspect all rentals in the city.

The committee made up of members of the planning commission and the HRA (housing and redevelopment authority) proposed the hiring of two students from Northland community college. Cost to the city would be 58 cents an hour with the remainder of the students salary to be covered by the college work study program. Christopherson indicated that it would take approximately 12 weeks or 960 hours to complete the inspection work. Total city cost would be $556.80 or not more than $600. Council approved the allocation.

Also making an appearance before the council was Norm Cruse, executive vice president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce. Cruse presented a recommendation on behalf of the chamber that the two-hour parking restriction on the north end of the parking lot south of the post office be removed.

Approximately one year ago the chamber had approached the council requesting the establishment of two-hour zones in three city lots for one year's time on an experimental basis. The restirction in the other two lots had previously been removed since they were judged not to be accomplishing their purpose. Complaints have been received on the one remaining two-hour zone and the council voted to remove it.

At its Monday meeting council member set July 9 as the date for a hearing on the proposed parking assessment district. The hearing will commence at 7:30 p.m. in the city auditorium with downtown development committee (DDC) members who have planned the project to be in attendance to make a presentation and answer any questions.

Jodi Ripley Is Named To Two Honor Lists

Jodi Ripley

Jodi Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Ripley of this city, has been selected to represent Lincoln high school in the "Society of Distinguished American High School Students," said to be one of the most selective high school honor societies in America.

She was also nominated by the National cheerleading association, to "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and was found worthy by the selection board.

Both societies have chosen Jodi because of her academic excellence and leadership in extra-curricular and civic activities. Her autobiography of activities, honors and awards will be placed into the 1979 volumes published by these organizations.

MPCA Urges Recycling Of Motor Oil

If you're planning to change your motor oil this spring, don't dump the used oil into the trash can or on the ground, suggests the Minnesota pollution control agency. Not only can that cause pollution, it also wastes a reusable resource. Instead, take the used oil to your neighborhood collection site.

Every year, about one million gallons of oil is disposed of improperly in Minnesota. Even if the oil is carefully placed in a trash can, it could eventually contaminate the soil or water. It takes only a small amount of oil to foul the taste of hundreds of gallons of water. But recycling can put the oil back to work as a fuel or lubricant and help reduce our demand for natural resources and our dependence on foreign oil imports.

To recycle your used oil, first drain it into a suitable container. You can rinse out and use common household containers with tight-fitting caps, such as old windshield washer fluid or bleach bottles (using a funnel makes it easier).

Then take the used oil to your local oil collection site. Sites include many neighborhood service stations, discount stores, shopping malls and government or community centers. Store where you buy your motor oil is required by Minnesota law to post a sign indicating the nearest oil collection site.

Used oil is then picked up from the collection site by haulers who take it to be re-refined. After re-refining, the oil can be used again to lubricate engines and farm machinery, and it can also be used as a fuel.

For more information on oil collection sites, call the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency at (612) 296-7294, or the Minnesota Energy Agency's toll-free number: 1-800-652-9028.

ROBERT G. Turtle Shell Reveals Age, Sex, Species

Everyone knows that a turtle's shell acts as a protective suit of armor for the reptile. But the shell also serves other purposes. On close inspection, it can reveal the turtle's age, sex and species, according to Ranger Rick's nature magazine for children.

Some species of turtles — the wood turtle, for example — have rings on the scales of their shells. Each year the turtle grows a new ring, so you can count the rings and guess the turtle's age. This method isn't foolproof, however, says the National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children, for the rings can wear down as the turtle gets older.

How to tell a male from a female turtle? In many species the shape of the lower shell is the giveaway. The male's lower shell is more concave than the female's, allowing him to balance on top of the female while mating.

With over 79 species and sub-species of turtles in North America alone, the turtle shell is a big help in identification. For example, the shell on the map turtle is lined with a faint, yellow pattern of spots and lines — like a map. The box turtle, a land species (other land turtles are called tortoises, notes Ranger Rick), has an arched shell, four to five inches high. And the ornate box turtle's upper and lower shells are marked with a distinct pattern of rays.

The hawksbill turtle, easy to recognize because of its shell's overlapping scales, is the smallest of the sea turtles, and is the species from which "tortoiseshell" comes. "Today these animals are so rare that they are in danger of dying out," says Ranger Rick. It is illegal to sell tortoiseshell made from hawksbill turtles.

Incest Will Be Topic Of June 19 Public Forum

Diane Markel, family counselor employed by the Glenmore foundation, will be featured in a public forum Tuesday, June 19. She will speak on "Incest: Causes and Cures." The forum, sponsored by the Agassiz champer of the National Organization for Women (NOW), will explore the factors which sustain an incestuous family and what the remedies are when it is discovered.

Markel stated that approximately 29 per cent of the child abuse cases in Minneapolis were cases of incest. Site for the forum will be Northwest regional library with the meeting to open at 7 p.m.

Incest is found to be a prevalent, though unreported, sex offense occurring throughout this area. Discovery is made principally through secondary causes: authorities are alerted by suicide or attempted homicide by the victim, family arguments or reports of rape involve the police, treatment of alcoholism results in exposure of the problem by family members during counseling, or a daughter becomes pregnant or runs away.

Conviction rates in incest have always been low. Although incest is a crime punishable by law, prosecution is difficult. A study by the American Humane society in New York revealed that to prosecute 173 cases of rape the children involved had to put in more than 1,000 personal appearances in court. Then nearly half of the cases were dismissed.

The same study by the humane society found that the sexually abused child is statistically more prevalent than the physically abused or battered child. The median age of sexually abused children was found to be 11 and statistics showed that 10 girls were molested for every one boy and that 97 per cent of the offenders were male.

The first federal report on industrial hygiene in the United States was "Factory Sanitation and Labor Protection" by C.F.W. Doehring, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in 1903, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication "Labor Firsts in America."

Hallinglag Of America Plan Convention

Hallinglag of America will hold its 72nd annual convention at Memorial Union on the North Dakota state university campus in Fargo June 22-24. The organization was founded in 1907 and is a society of emigrants from Hallingdal, Norway and their descendants. A complete program dedicated to the Norwegian heritage is planned and members of Sigdal will also attend the convention.

Keynote speaker Friday, June 22, will be Dr. Ken Smemo, department of Scandinavian language, Moorhead state university. Friday afternoon a youth session is planned with the youth of Hallinglag providing entertainment. One of the main features of the entertainment will be an acrobatic team from Fargo-Moorhead. The team recently performed for half time of two Kansas City Kings basketball games and received a standing ovation.

Friday's schedule also includes a program by Concordia college language village and the presentation of scholarships to three persons who have shown an interest in learning more about the languages and culture of Norway. Special groups will be available to those interested in roots, rosemaling and Norse literature and music, and there will be a mini museum showing Norwegian artifacts.

A regular business meeting will be held Saturday morning with skits and special music. Saturday afternoon pioneers who have reached the age of 80 will be recognized and Howard Burtness of Spring Grove will have a slide presentation showing how he rejuvenated an old cemetary by refinishing old tombstones.

Highlight of the convention will be entertainment Friday and Saturday by Knute Myhren and his music group and folk dancers from Hallingdal. The group will perform a different concert each evening. Also present to perform will be Dr. O. Myking Mehus, former president of Hallinglaget. Other guests from Norway are expected in addition to the performers.

The Hallinglag will close Sunday, June 24, with a morning Norwegian church service at Peace Lutheran church in Fargo. Pastor M. Vettrus of Grand Forks will be in charge of the services.

The public is invited to attend all meetings of the convention. Mail any inquiries to the local chairman: Olivia Tufte, 334 6th Ave. S., Fargo, N.D. 58103.

NWSA Alumni, Staff Reunion Slated June 30

All alumni and staff of the former Northwest School of Agriculture are invited to participate in the annual reunion Saturday, June 30, at the Northwest Experiment Station, University of Minnesota, Crookston campus.

Following classes are making special plans and alumni are asked to contact the person listed with their class for information and details:

1919 — Berneil Nelson, Learning Resources, University of Minnesota, Crookston, MN 56716

Reunion festivities will begin with registration and refreshments at 1 p.m. in the agricultural research center. There will be tours of the University campus, special class activities, reminiscing and renewal of friendships in the afternoon. Class pictures will be taken from 4 to 5 p.m.

Short program in Kiehle auditorium will follow the buffet dinner served in the main dining room at Bede hall. "Top Aggies" from the alumni and former staff to be honored this year are Bruce Beresford of Crookston, and Theodore Peet, '29, of Wolverton.

Those who wish to attend the buffet dinner are asked to make reservations by June 22 with Superintendent B.E. Youngquist, Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, MN 56716.

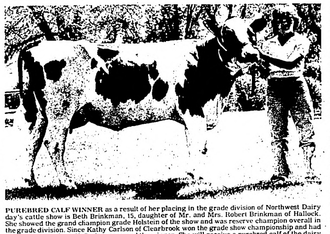
BEST UDDERED COW of the 1979 Northwest Dairy day show was this three-year-old grade animal shown by 19-year-old Chip Beyer of Red Lake Falls. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Beyer of Red Lake Falls, Chip was in his eighth year of showing at Northwest Dairy day.



PUREBRED CALF WINNER as a result of her placing in the grade division of Northwest Dairy day's cattle show is Beth Brinkman, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brinkman of Hallock. She showed the grand champion grade Holstein of the show and was reserve champion overall in the grade division. Since Kathy Carlson of Clearbrook won the grade show championship and had already received a calf, Beth was named the winner. She will receive a purebred calf of the dairy breed of her choice at 1980 dairy day.

Seek MN Law Requiring Use Of Car Seats

by Jeanne Hanson
University News

What would you do if you knew a way to eliminate the leading cause of death in children and could persuade no one to do anything about it?

More than 90 per cent of the deaths of children older than one month could be prevented if parents bought or borrowed effective car seats and used them properly. Shaffer, a graduate student in public health who also works with the Minnesota safety council, initiated a bill currently before the Legislature to require children to be restrained in car seats until they are four years old.

The bill, which is currently in the House transportation sub-committee, could make Minnesota the second state in the United States to pass such legislation. Tennessee and 23 foreign countries already have such a regulation.

To Shaffer, who spends much of his time lobbying for the bill, such a law would not infringe on parents' rights, but instead would protect children's rights. Although effective car seats can be expensive, Shaffer feels the law would not work a hardship on poorer families if enough "rent-a-seat" programs were organized. Group health already has such a program in operation.

Legislation seems appropriate because persuasion hasn't worked, Shaffer said. National safety council used $51 million worth of public service time contributed free by the media several years ago to persuade adults to use seat belts. The media blitz had no effect, according to Ray Carlow, assistant professor of health education at the University of Minnesota.

"Information by itself has no influence on behavior," he said. Public health research has shown that information must be heard by people in a state of "psychological readiness" if it is to have an effect.

Studies of why people don't do what's good for them indicate that people are most influenced by their friends and neighbors, Carlow said. If your friends and neighbors don't use car seats for their children, you won't either. Legislation is an attempt to get everyone started, he said.

Excuses for not using car seats abound, Shaffer said. People say their children would complain, that they forget about the seats, that they are uncomfortable, that accidents won't happen to them, and that the seats cost too much. "But if you're hauling a chandelier, you make sure it won't break," Shaffer said, "and children's lives are certainly more valuable."

Many people don't realize that children are more at risk than adults in car accidents, he said. They can "tunnel under" a standard waist seat belt in a crash, or suffer abdominal injuries, or have their necks slashed by an adult size harness. These adult models are not safe until a child weighs about 40 pounds, usually at about four years old, Shaffer said.

Since children's heads are quite large in proportion to their bodies, a crash turns them into "guided missles," Shaffer said. A collision at 30 miles per hour can turn a 30-pound child into a 600-pound projectile. A crash-tested, effective car seat is the only way to contain the child, and a law may be the only way to get children into them, he said.

Auto Owners Continue To Pay The Price

Recent effort by many gas stations to raise their prices to the ceiling levels allowed by law in order to discourage customers is not working. Although gas prices have taken the biggest leap yet in the past two weeks, gas consumption shows no signs of slowing down, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA).

AAA's latest survey of 62 stations throughout Minnesota shows that in the past two weeks prices have increased an averageof 3.1 cents per gallon at full-service pumps and an average of 3.9 cents per gallon at self-service pumps. During the past few months, prices had been increasing an average of a penny or a penny and a half a week.

"Since the California shortage started, price is no object — people will pay anything," noted Ken Wingard, executive secretary of the Minnesota independent retailers association.

However, there is no need for Minnesotans to panic — there should be an adequate number of service stations open on Memorial Day weekend, according to Minnesota AAA. Gas stations will be open at least every 50 miles along all heavily traveled routes in the state, according to the Minnesota energy agency.

Greatest number of Sunday closings has been in the metropolitan area, where 26 of the 34 stations surveyed were closed Sunday. Only 10 of the 28 stations surveyed throughout the remainder of the state will be closed this Sunday. Seven of the 28 outstate stations reported they'd be open on Memorial day (May 28) and three stations were unsure of their plans.

Minnesota energy agency is attempting to help travelers by publishing a list of all the service stations in Minnesota that have volunteered to remain open Friday through Sunday throughout the summer. Information about these stations is available by calling the energy agency at 612-296-5175 in the metro area or toll free at 800-652-9747.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full-service stations is 83.2 cents for regular, 88.4 cents for premium, 87 cents for regular unleaded, 90.7 cents for premium unleaded and 76.3 cents for diesel.

At self-service pumps, the average price per gallon is 80.4 cents for regular, 86.5 cents for premium, 84.9 cents for regular unleaded and 89 cents for premium unleaded.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that most of 1978's record labor force gains, like most of those throughout the 1970's, occurred among women under 35.

Seminarian To Spend Summer At Middle River

Gary LaMoine, a third year Catholic seminarian studying at the St. Paul seminary in St. Paul, will be working with Rev. Duane Pribula this summer as part of his preparation for ordination to the priesthood. Rev. Pribula is currently pastor of St. Joseph's parish in Middle River, St. Edward's parish in Strandquist and St. Joseph's parish in Benwood.

Residing at Middle River, Gary will assist Rev. Pribula in his pastoral and administrative duties coordinating the summer camping program, instructing readers, visiting parishioners and training parishioners to minister to one another.

Born and reared in East Grand Forks, Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace LaMoine. He attended Sacred Heart grade and high school, graduating in 1967, and spent the following two years at Assumption junior college in Richardton, N.D., acquiring an associate of arts degree.

Transferring to St. John's university in Collegeville, he completed his undergraduate studies, acquiring a bachelor of arts degree in history.

In 1971 LaMoine entered the Benedictine order at St. John's abbey. As a Benedictine monk he taught social studies and was appointed chairman of the parents' fund raising committee at the St. John's preparatory school. He also served as an administrative assistant to the president of St. John's university in the capacity of director of the institute for regional culture.

Upon leaving the order, LaMoine entered St. Cloud state university where he earned a Minnesota secondary teaching certificate and a bachelor of science degree in the areas of social studies and language arts.

In the fall of 1977 he entered the program of major theological studies at the St. Paul seminary in St. Paul for the diocese of Crookston. He has presently completed two years of study in the four-year program of theology.

Unfair Farm Prices

The agriculture industry plays an important role in our nation's economy. We all depend on the farmer for the production of food, and unless the Administration decides to change its mind and develop methods to allow farmers to attain fair prices for their crops, our nation's economy will be severely impacted.

The high rate of inflation is making it increasingly difficult for the farmer to make a decent living, and maintain a level of economic stability. Production costs have risen dramatically in recent years while market prices to the farmer have remained relatively low. Labor, processing, transportation, and distribution costs have increased rapidly and now, at a time when it is crucial for the farmer to begin increasing profit margins, the energy crunch has begun taking its toll. Diesel fuel and gasoline prices have sky rocketed, adding to the cost price squeeze dilemma the farmer has been facing for so long.

It is imperative that Congress act now to pass fair price legislation. One such bill is the Agriculture Assistance Act of 1979, which is intended to increase target prices for wheat from $3.40 to $3.63, and increase the target price for corn from $2.20 to $2.35 per bushel. The target prices do not directly affect the commodity market or consumer prices, however, they do provide income protection for farmers by requiring the Department of Agriculture to make direct payments to eligible farmers if the market price averages below the target price. Individual farmers can qualify for the protection only if they cooperate with the set aside programs already announced for 1979 grain crops.

The idea of increasing target prices is good, but it has one flaw — it does not go far enough. This legislation limits target price increases to President Carter's anti-inflation levels of only 7 per cent, and if the farmers are going to be able to keep their heads above the waters of the economic sea, they need target prices of at least 15 to 20 per cent above last year's prices to compensate for the inflation of the last two years. A reasonable cost of living increase to farmers is no more inflationary than cost of living increases in other sectors of our economy.

Howard Hjort, the Agriculture Department's chief economist said "The Administration has already stated quite clearly that it would not accept any change in target prices or price support levels this year." This is totally unfair, particularly when you consider that this bill falls within the anti-inflation guidelines that the President has established, and that he has not taken any significant action to limit or condemn rather large pay raises that have recently been granted to non-governmental employees.

Without strong action to provide farmers with fair prices, the farmer will continue to fall behind and greater in debt, and sooner or later it will not be economically feasible for him to produce the food that we eat. I am disappointed that President Carter has turned his back on the industry that has been the backbone of this country, but I guarantee I will continue to work with my colleagues in Congress to help insure the farmer of fair prices, and a livable income.

Prices Paid For Fertilizer May Continue Rise

Events in the Middle East and transportation problems closer to home may increase overall fertilizer prices 10-15 per cent compared to spring, 1978, but plant food should be widely available for farmers who place orders before the seasonal rush.

University of Minnesota soil scientiest Harvey Meredith says the Fertilizer price outlook has changed somewhat since November of 1978. At that time, 10 per cent price increases for potash and phosphate, and steady to lower nitrogen prices, seemed likely.

"Since then, the Iranian situation has disrupted natural gas supplies, which affects both nitrogen and phosphate production in various countries," he explains. "The higher price of phosphate abroad will make our domestic production very appealing for export trade, and may decrease domestic supplies."

The "Hardest winter since 1910" has added to normal transportation difficulties on this continent. Canadian potash producers can't find enough rail cars to move their product and are turning to high-cost trucking. Spring flooding along the Mississippi could still prevent fertilizer delivery from the Gulf by barge.

Fertilizer is widely available, however. Distributors and dealers in the upper Midwest expanded warehouse space after the shortage of plant food in the springs of 1973-74.

"The farmer who contracts now for his NPK and puts money on the barrelhead can contract for all his needs," Meredith says. This may not be true during the three-week peak demand period in mid-spring.

"There is no fertilizer shortage, but we do have problems with transportation and distribution," he comments. "The dealer who started planning last summer and has the necessary warehousing is in pretty good shape on supplies."

GAMBLING BOOTH is set up in the American Legion club for that organization's gambling operations. A licensed gambling facility since August of 1978, the club has a committee set up to oversee the gambling operations and volunteers from the Legion Auxiliary man the booth. Manager of the American Legion, L. L. Jones, states that business has increased considerably since the facility began the gambling operation and chairman of the club's gambling committee, Vernon Lee, comments, "The gambling fund helps a lot in financing projects." Pictured trying his luck at the booth is Lannie Peterson of Thief River Falls with Joni Jones working in the booth.

PULL TABS with an 80 per cent payback is the main gambling device used in the American Legion club of Thief River Falls. The games vary but generally the player buys four tickets for $1 or $2. He then exposes the numbers on the end of the ticket hoping for a match with winning numbers specified in the game. For example, the ticket in this bunch ending in 30 would be a $2 winner. The American Legion is one of four local clubs licensed for gambling. Others are Elks, Eagles and VFW club.

Veterinarian Talks About Eye Problems

by Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

The eyes of your pet — like your own eyes — are highly sensitive organs that need special care. Eyes are shielded by the eyelids, protected by the eye sockets, and constantly lubricated with tears. However, these protective mechanisms cannot prevent all eye problems, and you should be alert for signs of eye trouble.

Redness and tearing, cloudiness or bluish discolorations, excessive blinking and inflamed eyelids tell you that your pet needs assistance.

Dust, dirt or other foreign material trapped in the eye readily causes redness and weeping. If these symptoms appear, calm your pet and try to examine the irritated eye. If you spot the particle, try to gently lift it out with a bit of moistened sterile cotton. When you cannot see any reason for your pet's distress, it's time for some professional help. Conjunctivities, corneal scratches and bacterial infections cause inflammation similar to that caused by a foreign body.

Neglected scratches or other superficial injuries to the surface of the eye create cloudy or bluish spots on the cornea, a thin transparent layer on the front of the eyeball. The spots are the result of changes on or within the cornea to repel the infection. If the eye is treated properly, the infection will recede, and the spotting will clear.

Clouding of the lens, which is deeper in the eye, is called a cataract. Generally thought to be a result of aging, the cataract may involve all or only part of the lens, and may be seen by looking through the pupil (the dark spot in the center of the eye). Research has perfected a technique for cataract removal, so that the pet can still see objects in its path, even though it cannot focus well. Recently cataracts have been observed in poodles and Boston terriers as young as five years old. Veterinarians are trying to determine if early development of cataracts is a hereditary trait.

A condition that is definitely inherited is a tendency toward malformed eyelids. In certain small dogs, the lower eyelid turns in and causes the eyelashes to brush the cornea. Each time the dog blinks, the cornea becomes more irritated, making the dog blink even more. Excessive blinking is a sign that you need to take your pet to a veterinarian. The opposite situation, where the eyelid turns outward or sage downward is seen in large dogs like the St. Bernard. The exposed inner lining of the eyelid is a perfect trap for bacteria and dust, and becomes irritated and infected. Minor corrective surgery in either case eliminates the problem.

There is one instance where an eye defect presents only a cosmetic problem. Many poodles lack a tiny duct which normally drains away excess fluid from the eye. In these animals, tears spill over the edge of the lower lid and stain the hair on either side of the nose a dark rust color. Although it causes the dog no discomfort, some poodle owners choose to have the condition surgically corrected.

Prompt attention to these and similar eye problems can prevent or correct these conditions in your pet.

38 Youths Gain Employment In Gov't. Programs

Thirty-eight young people in the Times area will be employed in summer youth programs administered by the Inter-county community council in Oklee. They will include 17 in Goodridge, Highlanding and east Marshall county, 18 in Thief River Falls and three in St. Hilaire.

In Thief River Falls the young people will work with the Northwest educational cooperative service unit (ECSU), Pennington pioneer village operated by the county historical society, city of Thief River Falls, Thief River Falls regional airport and Thief River Falls public schools.

At St. Hilaire the youths will be employed as workers for the village and the elementary school while those in Marshall county will be employed with the Highlanding county crew, city of Goodridge, east Marshall county crew and Goodridge public school.

The program is designed basically for youth whose family income falls below certain income guidelines. Under the state program, however, one-half of those employed may be from families whose income is beyond these guidelines.

Selection of youths to fill the jobs was made at meetings of local community action committees from a list of eligible applicants. They must be employed by a non-profit or public institution and the eight weeks of training is designed to provide supervised work experience as well as provide employment in needed areas.

A GOOD CALF can also be a good friend. This Guernsey heifer received a few kind words of affection and encouragement prior to being shown at Northwest Dairy day in Thief River Falls Tuesday. The showman is 16-year-old Natalie Bruun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bruun of Climax, who was in her fourth year of showing at dairy day.

BSU Offers Summer Human Relations Plan

Plans are now final for the 1979 summer human relations program to be held May 26-June 2 and June 3-June 10 at Bemidji State University's Bald Eagle center, an outdoor learning facility. Located some 30 miles from the main campus, the Chippewa national forest site enables in-service teachers to fulfill the necessary recertification requirement while enjoying the north country environment.

Dveloped by the BSU office of area services, this is the only human relations program featuring an environmentally tuned live-in approach. Coordinator Dr. Michael Field attributes past successes to this closely knit atmosphere.

"Our goal is primarily to increase awareness of various racial, ethnic, cultural and economic groups. By providing an open atmosphere and a cohesive live-in situation, the experience is much more intensive and dynamic.", Dr. Field explains.

Emphasis is also placed, he points out, on the ability to recognize and deal with dehumanizing biases, discrimination and prejudices.

Like the traditional classroom program, the knowledge component includes a varied schedule of films, lectures and discussions. The interaction component, however, reaches beyond structured learning. Staff members, who also reside at Bald Eagle, help organize experiences that increase self awareness and awareness of others.

Participants are arranged in small groups, and as Dr. Field says, determine to a great extent the course they will follow. Any diversity within this mini-community only serves to enhance the total effect.

"It's not necessarily just teachers enrolling for the program. Social workers, principals, superintendents and nurses are frequently involved," he comments. "I'd say quite a few are not here because they have to be, but because they want to be."

Qualified professionals on hand also add to the multi-interest project. They come from varied backgrounds encompassing such fields as literature, counseling, psychology, race relations and history.

Cost of the program is $40.95 graduate or $31.95 undergraduate tuition for Minnesota residents plus a $75 charge for meals and lodging during the eight-day stay at the Bald Eagle center.

Further information about the summer project is available by contacting the Office of Area Services, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601. Phone: 218-755-2068.

Satellites To Aid Forecasts Of Farm Crops

Information gathered by satellites passing over America's agricultural areas may prove valuable to improved crop production forcasts, if experiments this summer are successful, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service.

Carroll Rock, statistician in charge, says that about 200 production areas scattered across 29 states, 11 of them in Minnesota, will be included in the project conducted jointly by the U.S. department of agriculture and the national aeronautics and space administration.

The program will begin in mid-June and continue through harvest. Farmers operating the selected fields will be asked about acreages and crops in those units. During the growing season field enumerators will check crop development and that information will be matched with data transmitted to earth from the satellites after passing over the fields. The ground-collected "truth" will determine how well the satellites can identify the same crop growing in many different areas under a wide variety of conditions.

If this season's experimental work is successful, crop estimates in the future will be more timely and accurate both for domestic and foreign commodities.

Rock says that farmer cooperation is essential to develop reliable groud data from the selected fields to evaluate the satellite imagery.

VA Itemizes Expenditures In Minnesota

Veterans administration disbursed $353.3 million in Minnesota during fiscal year 1978, an increase of $686,000 over the previous year.

Total disbursement for Pennington county was $895,780, with $537,825 paid for compensation and pensions, $192,519 for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation, $70,436 for insurance and indemnities and $90,000 for direct loans.

Morris Nooner, Jr., director of the VA center at Fort Snelling, reported recently on the federal agency's estimated expenditures in the state. He said that the largest portion, $157.7 million, represented disability compensation and pension checks to veterans, their dependents and survivors.

Approximately $58 million provided for GI bill educational and vocational rehabilitation programs for Minnesota veterans, and $109.8 million went toward VA hospital and regional office operating costs, he said.

Remainder was expended for GI insurance and indemnities ($20.6 million), direct home loans ($6 million), and construction and related costs ($1.1 million).

The VA has five facilities in Minnesota, including medical centers (hospitals) in Minneapolis and St. Cloud, and a regional office, data processing center and national cemetery, all at Fort Snelling.

In Hennepin county, disbursements totaled $156.2 million, of which $44,9 million was paid in the form of compensation and pensions, and $87.9 million for hospital and regional office operating costs. Another $16.5 million was expended for veterans' schooling and vocational rehabilitation programs, Nooner said.

In Ramsey county, the VA expended $32.2 million, with $21.5 million for compensation and pension benefits, and $7.9 million for GI bill education and rehabilitation.

Payments in Stearns county, where the St. Cloud VA medical center is located, totaled $27.4 million, with $21.9 million for hospital operating costs. Compensation and pension payments amounted to $3.5 million.

4-H Leaders Care For Kids Enough To Share

"4-H leaders are adults with a soft spot in their hearts for young people. They want to make sure today's children grow up to be self-sufficient individuals who care about others," says Deborah Matero, Pennington county extension agent.

"Leaders serve without pay, knowing that they are people the members and extension agents can't get along without," Deborah adds. "Seldom are there enough of them."

About 16,000 adults gave their time and talent to 4-H in Minnesota last year. "That may seem like a lot of people, until you realize they are working with 43,000 members."

There are many types of leaders, all of them vital. Project leader is usually found in the middle of three-to-fifteen young people, teaching such topics as bread-baking, engine-tuning, bee-keeping, goat-milking, turnip-raising, dog-training, hog-judging, tree-planting or one of 100 others.

"Such a leader gets the idea across and makes it stick by explaining theory, showing how, encouraging the member to try, and praising efforts," the agent adds. "It takes imagination, but it keeps you young."

Organization leaders (sometimes called club leaders) are the "Managers" of local 4-H. They recruit members and other leaders. They share their skills as leaders to the young people who conduct monthly meetings and help keep the group organized.

Resource leaders share their expertise with project leaders. Activity leaders are skilled at planning and carrying out special trips, camps or meetings.

Adults who want to volunteer in "building the future" should contact the Pennington county extension office of the University of Minnesota located at the courthouse in Thief River Falls, phone 681-2116.

A Minnesota winter can be as hard on your tires as it is on your car. If your tires are worn, you may wish to move into spring by replacing them. Here are some tips on the selection, care and maintenance of replacement automobile tires.

A replacement tire should never be a smaller size tire than the tires which came with the car.

It is recommended that replacement tires be the same size and construction as original tires unless a larger size or different construction is approved by the automobile or tire manufacturer. Use of different types or sizes of tires is not always possible due to differences in load ratings, tire dimensions, fender clearance and tire rim sizes. Also, the best all-around car handling performance will ordinarily result from using tires of the same type on all four wheel positions.

While it is not recommended, you may be able to use your present larger tires or tires of different construction as long as tires of the same size and construction are used in pairs on the same axle. If radial tires are used in combination with bias or belted bias tires, the radials must be placed on the rear axle.

When a pair of replacement tires are the same size as the pair remaining on the vehicle, the replacement tires should be put on the rear wheels. This will provide for better traction and protection against flats. A single replacement tire should be paired on the rear axle with the tire having the most tread depth of the original tires.

Properly inflated tires will help provide better tire safety and tire mileage. Having enough air in tires decreases rolling resistance, thereby increasing gas mileage, and provides better traction and braking, easier steering, better handling and longer tire life.

Tire inflation should be checked every few weeks and before long trips. Heat from driving can increase tire pressures up to six pounds or more, so check your tire inflation when tires are cool.

Tire rotation also will extend the life of a tire. Follow the recommended procedure for tire rotation found in your car owner's manual. The normally recommended interval for tire rotation is 6,000 to 8,000 miles. However, if irregular tire wear occurs before the recommended interval, early rotation may be advisable. After rotation, adjust each tire's inflation in accordance with the car or tire manufacturer's recommendations.

Regular inspection of tires for excessive or abnormal tread wear will help you discover problems before they become serious. Also, inspection may reveal nails, stones and glass which can then be removed from the tread of a tire, avoiding flats or serious tire damage.

Bald tires can reduce braking power a great deal, especially on wet roads. Bald tires are also far more likely to go flat than new tires. Therefore, all your tires should be checked often for excessive tread wear. To check tire wear, place a penny in the tread with Lincoln's head upside down. If the top of Lincoln's head shows above the tread, the tire should be replaced.

With proper care and maintenance, a well-selected tire can save you money and help make driving safer and more pleasurable.

If you have any questions concerning any consumer problems, please contact the Consumer Division, office of the Attorney General, 102 State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

SENIOR SHOWMANSHIP champion at Northwest Dairy day in Thief River Falls Tuesday was Paula Olson, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Olson of East Grand Forks. Winner of the junior showmanship title for entrants 13 years of age and younger last year, she moved into the senior division in fine fashion to walk away with top honors.

CHARM CLINIC held June 6 for Miss Thief River Falls candidates included instruction in sitting, walking and make-up application. Present to offer professional pointers was Phyllis Hamilton from Don-Lu modeling institute in Fargo. She is pictured here with Jane Olson, who will be among the candidates in the July 27 Miss Thief River Falls pageant.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My husband died from service connected causes. How much monetary assistance may I expect from the Veterans Administration?

A—The VA will pay up to $1,000 toward the burial when a veteran dies from a service-connected disability, plus transportation charges under certain conditions. You may also be entitled to a monthly compensation based on the veteran's rank while in service. Application should be made to your nearest VA regional office.

Q—When is the dividend paid on Veterans Administration government life insurance policies?

A—Dividends are payable on the anniversary date of the policy.

Q—My wife and I are veterans attending college. Can we both claim each other as dependents?

A—Yes. Public Law 92-540, October 24, 1974, made these benefits payable to both make and female veterans.

Q—Am I entitled to burial in a national cemetery as the widow of a deceased veteran?

A—Yes. A widow of a veteran who is buried in a national cemetery may also be buried in the same grave with that veteran, provided arrangements were made with the cemetery director at the time the veteran was interred, and provided the widow has not remarried.

Q—I am rated 30 per cent disabled for a Veterans Administration service-connected disability. I understand that I can now draw additional money for my dependents. How can I get these additional benefits started?

A—The percentage of disability for entitlement to dependency benefits was reduced to 30 per cent by Public Law 95-479. If you have not already filed a claim for this benefit on the application form sent to all potentially eligible beneficiaries in December 1978, you should obtain VA Form 21-686C, complete it and submit it to your VA regional office.

Q—I was recently discharged from the military service. The only entitlement I have to Veterans Administration school benefits is under Chapter 32 since I enlisted on January 29, 1977. Am I entitled to tutorial assistance?

A—Veterans attending school under Chapter 32 are not entitled to tutorial assistance.

Q — I have a World War I U.S. Government "K" Life Insurance term policy. I have been advised to convert it to "Endowment at Age 96" to save money. Why?

A — Term policy premiums provide the lowest cost at the younger ages. Later in life they become too expensive. The "Endowment at Age 96" provides the least expensive permanent plan for older "K" term policy holders. A veteran may exchange the term policy for the "Endowment at Age 96" on or after the 65th birthday.

Q — How often will I receive my Veterans Administration GI Bill education benefits if I enroll in a correspondnece course?

A — Payments to eligible students in approved correspondence courses are made quarterly. The amount paid depends on the number of lessons completed and certified by the school to the VA.

Q — Can a veteran use the Veterans Administration home loan guaranty to buy rental property?

A — A veteran may purchase up to a four-family dwelling. He must, however, certify that he intends to live in one of the four units.

Q—Since separation from active duty I have maintained my $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. Has the law changed to allow more than $10,000?

A—Public Law 92-188, which became effective July 1, 1972, provided for the purchase of paid-up additions with dividends. This is the only way that the $10,000 maximum may be exceeded.

Q—I am a veteran of World War II. When may I apply for burial at a national cemetery?

A—Application may be made only at the time of death of the eligible veteran or eligible dependents. Application should be made to the director of the national cemetery where interment is desired.

Q—I am currently drawing nonservice-connected pension. My wife died in June of this year and there have been no other changes in my dependency or income status. Must I report Social Security paid her up to the date of her death?

A—Yes. All family income must be reported. You should, however, show the cost of her last illness and burial providing you have paid the cost out of your pocket. This is an allowable exclusion which serves to reduce your countable income for VA purposes.

Q — Can an individual receiving dependents' educational assistance from the Veterans Administration also receive VA work-study benefits?

A — No. VA work-study allowances cannot be paid to people on dependents' educational assistance. Only a veteran is entitled to the program.

Q — I have heard that some mortgage companies will make a 40-year home loan. Will the Veterans Administration guarantee a 40-year loan for me to buy a home?

A — No. VA home loans can be made for a maximum of 30 years and 32 days.

Q — Does a widow or widower lose entitlement for life to Veterans Administration benefits if she or he remarries?

A — No. A widow or widower may reclaim eligibility for Veterans Administration benefits if the remarriage is terminated by death, divorce of annulment

Education Board Has Full Agenda

Thief River Falls board of education waded through a pile of resolutions at the regular meeting held Monday evening at the school district service center. Acceptance of a bid for food service at the combined student commons for Northland community college and the area vocational-technical institute was among those resolutions handled at the meeting.

Bid presented by Lon's, Inc., of Thief River Falls was accepted for the facility and calls for Lon's to pay the school district a commission of three per cent on gross sales of manual and catering service and eight per cent on gross sales of vending service. Sixteen companies presented bids for the contract, including firms headquartered in Arizona, Illinois, Texas and Missouri as well as the Twin Cities and Grygla.

Resignations were accepted from Dolores Trudeau, SLD teacher at Franklin school and Tamicia McGann, bus driver. Hired was Mary Kay Isaacson as practical nursing instructor at the AVTI. Reassigned were Ruth Leader from head cook at Knox to head cook at Franklin and Mayme Boughton from head cook at Franklin to cook at Washington as satellite cook for Northrop.

Transfers approved involved Clarice Galliher from math at Lincoln to remedial math at the AVTI for 1979-80 only; Diane McKeever from grade one at Mark Twain to grade five at St. Hilaire; and Susan Olson from Title I at Northrop to grade three at Northrop. Terminations were for Mary Lou Brosseau and Marvel Carlson of food services due to dropping of school food service at the AVTI.

Thirty-eight extracurricular positions were approved for the 1979-80 school year with rate of pay to be negotiated. All positions are at Lincoln high school.

Hired or continued in employment as swimming instructors and lifeguards were Georgianna Desrocher and Kevin Murphy and as locker room attendants were William Hustad, Marci Pluth and Debra Williams.

Early retirement pay and severance pay were approved for Dorothy Halverson as agreed upon between the school board and Thief River Falls Education association.

Resignation of Larry Golden as Franklin industrial arts instructor was accepted and severance pay approved. Bernard Myers was hired as a full time custodian and Gregory Holmes as a summer seasonal employee with the buildings and grounds department.

Bids were accepted from James Thibodeau for AVTI radio engineering in the amount of $3,000 per year; from James Olson in the amount of $40,003.59 for the AVTI house at 833 Alice Drive; and from Delaine Johnson in the amount of $38,600 for the AVTI house located at 902 Tindolph av. S. Bid of Greenberg Roofing company in the amount of $23,575 for reroofing of Franklin middle school was also accepted as low among five bidders.

Athletic proposal of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club was accepted with funds provided by the Sports Boosters to be handled through the school trust fund.

The board entered into an agreement with the city of Thief River Falls for rental of the new sports arena, old sports arena and baseball field for the 1979-80 school year in the amount of $17,500.

Acceptance was made by the board of a contribution of $430 (or sum to be negotiated) for payment of Prowlins supervisor for 1979-80 and the Prowlins group was included under the board's sponsored activities.

Approval was given for the Lincoln high school building and site to be included in the proposed tax assessment district with the condition that adjustment be made for additional space.

Mrs. Lillian Ranum was employed as 1979 school census taker at an expenditure of $1,560. Tentative list of summer school faculty members was approved.

Authorization was given for the administration to proceed in developing specifications on Knox elementary school and to call for and award bids after submitting the resolution of action to state regulatory departments for clearance prior to approval.

One year leave of absence without pay was granted to Carol Ihle, speech therapist, at her request. Harry Sjulson, board member, was named to represent the school district at the MSBA meeting June 19 in Minneapolis.

At the June 25 board meeting tentative approval is scheduled to be given to the 1979-80 budget for School District 564.

Administration was directed to prepare a comprehensive report concerning all buildings owned by the school district for presentation at the July 9 meeting of the board.

Resolutions tabled were those approving the employment of George DeWall as a full time custodian and employment of George Sodon as transportation supervisor. The resolutions are to be on the agenda again June 25.

Vietnam Veterans Week — May 28 to June 3 — will be a one-time opportunity for the people of the United States to put aside their convictions about the war itself and pay tribute to the people who are called upon to fight it, according to Max Dleland, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Requests MGRI Support In Gas Tax Indexing

Mike Koempel, special assistant to Governor Quie, told more than 50 members of Minnesota Good Roads (MGRI) that legislation establishing an indexed gasoline tax in Minnesota will need widespread public support in order to pass this legislative session.

At the March 20 breakfast meeting, Koemple said "Governor Quie supports the consumer price indexed gas tax proposal. He's told a group of leaders from both parties that he will lead the charge."

Koemple told MGRI members to encourage a groundswell of support for the measure, which would permit the gas tax to fluctuate based on the cost of living index. Minnesota's current nine cent gas tax, the primary source of dollars for construction and maintenance, is now expressed as a fixed cents-per-gallon.

Mn-DOT commissioner Dick Braun attended the meeting and praised Governor Quie for his leadership role supporting the indexed gasoline tax. Said Braun, "In this period of skyrocketing maintenance and construction costs, the gas tax money buys less and less each year. The other alternatives we've considered amount to borrowing from Peter to pay Paul, and that will put the pinch on other state services."

MGRI president Larry Schaub, county engineer for Stevens and Traverse counties, echoed the concerns of Koempel and Braun, telling members that "It's time for Minnesotans to speak out and let our legislators know where we stand."

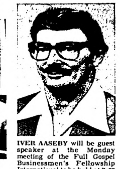
Jan Holmgren To Sing At Ev. Covenant

Holmgren and Lundwall

Next Wednesday evening, June 20, at 7:30 p.m. a special concert will be given at the Evangelical Covenant church of Thief River Falls. Soloist for the evening will be Jan Holmgren.

Holmgren, 25, has studied song and music at the Royal Music academy in Stockholm. He has been singing gospel songs since childhood, and his performance will range from spirituals to the sacred classic field.

Pianist Lars Lundwall, 23, is currently studying at the Stockholm academy. He will accompany Holmgren in Wednesday evening's performance. The public is invited to attend.



IVER AASEBY will be guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. Men and women of all religious faiths are invited to attend. Aaseby plans to begin training soon for full time ministry.

Doctors Need Training With Older People

Why do "old" people get tossed from place to place, made fun of, not listened to (because of supposed senility) and mainly, not cared for with regard to health and personal needs?

In an editorial in the February issue of the "Annals of Internal Medicine", Paul B. Beeson, MD, Veterans Administration hospital, Seattle, discusses the medical probqlems of the aging in relation to the training the doctors receive.

Dr. Beeson was appointed to a committee (at the request of the director of the national institute of aging) to investigate how well the medical doctors worked in the "training for care of the aging" in their curricula.

According to Dr. Beeson's statistics, "by the year 2000, when our present medical students and residents are at their peak professional activity, there will be about 55 million American citizens over age 65." But too little attention is being paid to their health care, he adds. House officers and students find it most difficult to spend time in this area, because they change from one in-patient service to another every few weeks—too soon to become aware of the need to take into consideration the psychological and social plights of our aged people.

Old people were once young. Then came retirement, maybe loss of a spouse, and arthritic, crippling diseases causing a once ambulatory person to become dependent on a wheelchair or other device. Doctors should not only be reminded of, but need the first hand knowledge they can only get when they are treating elderly patients, Dr. Beeson believes. Nursing homes in which medical students and residents can observe geriatric patients are scarce. In any case, most old people are reluctant to enter a nursing home.

"The preferable medical objective is to work out ways, through political and welfare agencies to enable elderly people to live as long as they can in their own homes" Dr. Beeson states.

He goes on to say there is no master plan that can solve the health care of the aging problem, but makes a number of suggestions. One would be establishing an introductory medical training course in geriatrics, featuring home nursing demonstrations by paramedical professionals with emphasis on ambulatory care and rehabilitation; arrangements to have trainees observe patients in long-stay institutions; find a way to identify expert teachers of geriatrics, and, lastly have positions on every medical school faculty for young men and women who want to work in the area of geriatric medicine.

Roseau, Crookston Northwest Leaders

Roseau, despite a 3-1 season-opening loss to Thief River Falls last week, could be a very definite title challenger in the Ninth District Northwest League Sub District American Legion baseball tournament this summer.

Past history makes Crookston, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks the perennial Northwest League favorites. But East Grand Forks suffered through a miserable year in 1978 and began 1979 by absorbing a 14-0 pounding at the hands of Crookston. And Thief River Falls, in spite of its win over Roseau Friday, must prove it can win with a line-up that doesn't look as strong as a 4-10 Lincoln high school squad this spring.

That puts Crookston in front. Pitcher Brent Stahlecker began the summer American Legion season in impressive fashion as he held East Grand Forks to hit hits and struck out 11 in six innings. He had lots of offensive support, including a grand slam home run by Dan Royal.

But Crookston then truned around and managed no better than a split at Red Lake Falls Friday, losing 8-3 and needing eight innings before winning the nightcap 4-3 on a suicide squeeze. Batter Mark Melby missed the pitch, but base runner Brent Weiss scored when the catcher juggled the ball and missed the tag.

All of that puts Roseau, with its fine high school team nearly intact, back into the title picture. Mark Huglen, the league's best right-handed pitcher and second only in quality to Stahlecker, headlines the Roseau squad.

Thief River Falls could become a contender with the addition of pitcher Scott Sabo, a talented left-hander. Sabo, who rates better than both Stahlecker and Huglen, has bypassed Legion ball in the past by new Thief River Falls coach Terry Sullivan hopes to have him on the squad this summer. He missed the opener because of a vacation trip.

Shortstop Jeff Ulrich and pitcher Kelly Gutterud were the only Lincoln high school starters in the Thief River Falls line-up for the American Legion opener against Rosau, and Gutterud spent most of the spring at second base for the Prowlers.

Sullivan's first game line-up included Scott McKeever, Jeff Cwikla, Steve Bengston and Monty Peterson of Middle River and Jim Sethre of Newfolden, a Thief River Falls American Legion starter a year ago.

Tom Drury, a reserve on the Lincoln ball club, and Mark Lundin, a member of the Region 8AA Lincoln tennis team, rounded out the Thief River Falls American Legion opening game line-up.

Northwest League play this year features just six teams in two groupings. Thief River Falls is paired with Warroad and Roseau while Crookston is placed with East Grand Forks and Warren. Northwest League Sub District tournament games will be played July 24-28. The 1979 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament will be played Aug. 1-4 at New York Mills.

Miscellaneous

+ Players from Detroit Lakes, Mahnomen, Audubon and Frazee are members of teams playing in the newly formed eight-team Detroit Lakes summer basketball league for boys who will be in grades 10-12 during the 1979-80 school year.

+ Whitey Anderson began his fourth year as coach of the Bemidji American Legion baseball team, marking the first time in at least 25 years the team has had the same mentor for four seasons, reports the Bemidji Pioneer. Anderson has a 40-27-2 record over the past three years. Brainerd beat Bemidji 7-2 in the 1979 season opener last week. Bemidji's 26-game schedule does not yet include Thief River Falls, but both Anderson and Thief River Falls coach Terry Sullivan are looking for additional games and they will probably get together.

THE BALL BOUNCED to Warroad second baseman Brad Nash as Thief River Falls base runner Jim Nyland claimed an easy stolen base during Tuesday's American Legion baseball game played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond. Nyland started a six-run second inning when he drew a one-out walk, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Steve Bengston. Thief River Falls improved its record to 2-0 with an 8-1 Northwest League win.

Peterson Beats Warroad With One-Hitter, 8-1

A two-hitter pitched by Kelly Gutterud in a season-opening 3-1 win over Roseau Friday was topped by Monty Peterson's one-hitter Tuesday as the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team beat Warroad 8-1 in a Northwest League game played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

Peterson, a Middle River left-hander, struggled with his control throughout the seven-inning contest, walking seven batters, but he gave up only an unearned second inning run and a two-out single through the left side of the infield to Dave Ortmann in the fifth.

A six-run Thief River Falls second inning decided the issue. With one out, catcher Jim Nyland, who just joined the team, walked, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and was joined on the base paths by Dave Kays who also walked. A single to right by Steve Bengston produced a run and sent Kays to third. With two out, Jim Sethre beat out an RBI infield hit to shortstop, Peterson and Scott McKeever both walked for a 3-1 lead and Jeff Ulrich's single to left had an error tacked on for a sudden 6-1 game.

Nyland also scored in the third when he led off with a single and came home on a three-base throwing error by Warroad third basemen Keith Heurd on a ball hit by Kays.

Final Thief River Falls run scored in the fourth as McKeever singled, stole second and third and scored on Ulrich's sacrifice fly to center.

Thief River Falls committed three of its four errors in the top of the second inning to supply Warroad with a 1-0 lead. Two errors on a walk produced the run as Nyland, not knowing Nash had just received a free pass, threw the ball to second trying to nail Ken Feldman who was running on the pitch. The ball went into center field and rolled past McKeever for a second error and a run.

Coach Terry Sullivan's Thief River Falls ball club will be idle until Thurs., June 21, when East Grand Forks arrives for a 7 p.m. game.

RLF Sweeps Twinbill In Women's Softball

Red Lake Falls swept a Monday doubleheader in Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball to take over first place in the 16-team league.

Barb Weiss' grand slam home run highlighted Red Lake Falls' 15-5 victory over J & B Drug, with Deb Kota's home run helping erase a 9-2 deficit in a 17-11 come-from-behind win over Roseau Transport.

Three St. Hilaire home runs beat the Farmer's Co-op Stingers 11-6. Laurie Bottem hit a three-run homer for the winners who received solo shots from Sharon Stauss and Marcia Spilfiling.

Down 7-2 in the third inning, Hydra-Mac-Toreq rallied for an 8-7 decision over Rusty Nail.

In a hitter's game, the Schmidt Stealers out-scored Great Northwest Agency 14-10. Rosie Naeseth and Nancy Fellman homered for the Stealers. Laurie Cwikla hit two home runs for the losers who also turned a double play.

Elsewhere, Pizza Hut hammered First Federal Savings & Loan Association 20-5, Falls Clinic beat the Healthy Hustlers 17-12 and the Ridge Runners handled Credit Bureau 27-6.

Bears Split Doubleheader To Share Division II Lead

A Monday night doubleheader split by the St. Hilaire Bears was good enough for a piece of the Division III lead in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association.

Beaten 7-6 by Home Lumber in the first game, the Bears rebounded on the strength of inside-the-park home runs by Chris Lee, Wane Gutterud and Mark Huot to down Dallmann Athletic, Inc. 18-4 to move into a first place tie with Bridgeman's, an 18-11 loser at the hands of The Get-A-Way. The Bears and Bridgeman's are both 5-2 for the year.

In other Division II games Monday, Popplers-Action Realty edged Home Lumber 6-5 and Hamms-Pizza Hut, sparked by a rare triple off the bat of not-too-speedy Clark Hendrickson, knocked off error-plagued First Federal Savings & Loan Association 12-7. Gordy Peterson homered and hit two triples for the losers who were charged with 10 errors.

Hartz split a Monday doubleheader in the only early week Division I games, losing to Swenson Plumbing & Heating 7-2 but beating Hobo Haus 9-5.

Tuesday doubleheader winners in Division III included The Club and Consumer's Co-op Association, while Phase II and McDonald's both dropped both ends of twinbills.

Jay Kverno was 4-for-4 as The Club out-scored First Northwestern Insurance Agency 15-11 and Denny Barlau was 3-for-4 in a 9-5 victory over McDonald's.

A 4-for-4 performance by Stewart Peterson and Chuck Hoard's home run led Consumer's Co-op Association to an easy 21-2 win over First Northwestern Insurance Agency, with the winners adding a 9-5 victory over McDonald's.

Tom Ronchetti legged out two triples as Shumacher's Tireland edged Phase II 13-11. Phase II also lost to Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 18-2 as Cal Shaw went 4-for-4, Terry Jesme 3-for-3 and George Lindquist 3-for-3.

Charlie Boyer hit a two-run home run as Wilson Brothers Co. beat Tip & Ring 14-4 in Tuesday's only Division IV game.

Summer Roller Skating Offered In Sports Arena

Summer roller skating program sponsored by the Thief River Falls park and recreation department is being held in the sports arena.

The arena will be open to roller skaters from 6 to 10 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday and Friday throughout the summer.

There is a 50-cent fee, which covers the cost of skate rental. The program is open to all ages. Special activities scheduled during the summer will include games, fun nights, 50's nights and disco nights.

Water Resource Meetings Set At Crookston, BSU

Crookston and Bemidji will be northwestern Minnesota sites as the University of Minnesota water resources research center (WRRC) holds a series of eight regional meetings throughout the state early this summer in an effort to identify water research needs and priorities.

The 7:30 p.m. meetings will be held Wed., June 27, in room 11 of the Bemidji State University service center, and on Thurs., June 28, at the Highland middle school in Crookston.

Other meetings are planned at Brainerd, Marshall, St. Paul, Willmar, Duluth and Rochester.

The Minnesota environmental education board and its system of 13 regional environmental education councils will be assisting and cooperating with WRRC in arranging and conducting the regional meetings.

The public is invited to attend and help identify problem areas which need greater attention. Citizens should give their point of view on water problems which they identify as being most pressing.

Jim Marshall has played in an NFL record 266 consecutive games from 1960 through 1978 with the Cleveland Browns and Minnesota Vikings.

Lincoln Batting Average Has Slight Improvement

Addressing the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club before the start of the 1979 season, Lincoln high school baseball coach Charlie Cornell promised the Prowlers would improve upon a lowly .209 team batting average they posted in 1978. They did — to .216.

There just weren't many base hits to be found in the Thief River Falls line-up this spring and the net result was a 4-10 record — worst in the history of the sport at the school; a sport that is scheduled to be dropped in 1979-80 because of School District 564 budget cuts.

Thief River Falls offensive problems put a premium on pitching and defense. In fact, the only games the Prowlers won during the 1979 season came on shutouts — 4-0 over Red Lake Falls, 5-0 over Roseau, 7-0 over Crookston and 10-0 over Mount St. Benedict.

Junior Dave Odegaard was the only Thief River Falls batter who finished above the standard .300 measuring stick with 10 hits in 30 at-bats for a .333 batting average. His 10 hits were good for a share of the team lead in that department with senior Scott Sabo.

There were only three other Prowlers who managed to hit above .200 for the year. Senior Mark Huot was 8-for-27 for a .296 average; Sabo was 10-for-36 for a .278 mark; and junior Paul Drees was 7-for-26 for a .269 finish.

Other regulars included Kelly Gutterud, 7-for-38 for a .184 average; Jim Nyland, 4-for-22, .182; Murray Dicken, 7-for-39, .179; and Jeff Kosel, 5-for-41, .122. Often times used as designated hitters, Scott Langlie was 3-for-39, .158; and Bryant Peppin was 1-for-15, .066.

Rest of the squad members included Wayne Huseth, 2-for-4, .500; Dan Cullen, 1-for-4, .250; Mark Schmitke, 2-for-10, .200; Tom Drury, 1-for-6, .166; John Stimac, 1-for-6, .166; Dave Kays, 0-for-2, .000; and Jeff Mongoven, 0-for-1, .000.

Nineteen of the Prowlers' 79 base hits went for extra bases. Sabo and Dicken hit two home runs apiece to lead the team in that category; Dicken collected a team-high three triples; and Odegaard led the team with two doubles.

Sabo's 13 runs-batted-in more than doubled the RBI figures of any teammate.

Kosel, after stealing 23 bases a year ago, managed just six thefts this spring, but still led the team in that department.

Sabo was the ace of the Thief River Falls pitching staff with a 1.89 earned-run-average that better described his performances than a luckless 1-4 record. He struck out 71 and walked 26 in 37 innings.

Dicken, who tossed a no-hitter at Red Lake Falls, was 2-2 on the mound with a 3.15 ERA. He struck out 35 and walked 26 in 26 two-third innings.

Gutterud finished with a 1-2 pitching record and a 5.00 ERA. He struck out nine and walked 12 in 14 innings.

Although Huot, Huseth, Schmitke and Ulrich all pitched briefly, only other decisions went to Langlie who was 0-2, with a 2.70 ERA. He struck out 14 and walked five in 10 and one-third innings.

Thief River Falls' season ended with an 8-3 loss to Crookston in the first round of Region 8AA Sub Region 4 tournament play. During the regular season the Prowlers lost to Moorhead 3-0, Roseau 9-7, Crookston 1-0 in 10 innings, Bemidji 6-5 and 5-4, Red Lake Falls 5-1, Bagley 11-6 and Fergus Falls 2-0 and 13-9.

Elks Tip Crookston To Open Busy Week

Rob Blankenfeld, Brent Schmitz and Tim Bergland all played key roles Monday as the 13-15-year-old Thief River Falls Elks baseball team outlasted Crookston 10-9.

Blankenfeld, the winning pitcher in relief of starter Kerry Wollin who went the first 3 and one-third innings, protected the one-run Thief River Falls lead in the bottom of the seventh when host Crookston put runners on first and second with no outs. Blankenfeld got out of the jam with a pair of strike-outs and a fielder's choice.

Schmitz collected half of the Elks' six hits, drove in two runs and scored twice himself.

Bergland came up with two superb shoestring catches in center field that saved three runs for the winners.

Starter Jim Miller was the losing pitcher as Thief River Falls built a 10-6 lead before surrendering three runs in the sixth. Crookston out-hit Thief River Falls 8-6.

Thief River Falls, 4-0 for the year, will complete a busy week with four games on the Northland community college diamond. The Elks were scheduled to host Red Lake Falls today (Wednesday) at 1 p.m.; entertain East Grand Forks Red Friday at 2:30 p.m.; and play the Bemidji Lions in a doubleheader Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

Meanwhile, the 13-year-old Thief River Falls Merchants will travel to Crookston today for a 1:30 p.m. game and host East Grand Forks Friday at 12:30 p.m. at Northland.

Permits Needed For Work On Lakes, Streams

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has reminded contractors and shoreland owners that permits are required before changing the course, current or cross section of a public body of water.

Officials noted that the construction season has started and many new shoreland owners are not aware of the state laws and regulations.

Nearly every activity or project involving placement of a structure or fill in a lake or stream requires a permit from the DNR.

Other types of work requiring a permit include excavation or dredging of shoreline or lake bed, water level control, impoundments, permanent docks, breakwaters, harbors and marinas, underwater sewer and water lines, stream or channel changes and partial or complete drainage.

Some other activities also require permits and officials cautioned anyone planning work in or near public waters to check with the department before proceeding.

Applications for permits should be made as soon as possible so that they can be processed by the time the work is to be started.

Action Realty Wins Twinbill

Action Realty claimed a pair of one-run decisions over Radio Shack 6-5 and Schmidts 4-3 Tuesday in Thief River Falls fast pitch softball play to gain a spot among the leaders in the seven-team league with a 3-1 record.

Tonight's (Wednesday) schedule features a 7:30 p.m. game matching Dallmann Athletic, Inc. (4-0) against Coca-Cola (3-1).

Radio Shack 5

Action Realty scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to pull out a 6-5 extra inning victory over Radio Shack in the first half of Tuesday's doubleheader for the winners.

Radio Shack started with a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning when Bob Lundbohm walked and Mitch Dicken singled. Don Forney's double to left scored both runners.

Action Realty tied it in the bottom of the inning as Harley Drees walked and Wayne Smith reached base on a fielder's choice. Drees scored on an error and Smith scored on a single by Wayne Liden.

The see-saw contest featured a 3-2 Radio Shack lead in the fourth, a 4-3 Action Realty edge in the fifth, a 4-4 game in the seventh when Radio Shack's Brian Peterson came through with a sacrifice fly and a 5-4 Radio Shack advantage in the top of the eighth when Forney collected his second double and Joel Carlson singled.

But Action Realty scored the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the eighth on a fielder's choice and Brad Kosel's single to left.

Schmidts 3

Another come-from-behind effort netted Action Realty a 4-3 triumph over Schmidts in the twinbill nightcap.

Howard Dalager's one-out home run to center field in the top of the first inning supplied Schmidts with a 1-0 head start.

Jim Olson's run-scoring double and a throwing error gave Schmidts a 3-1 edge in the third, with Mark Thorstad's center field home run cutting the margin to 3-2 in the fourth.

Schmidts fell apart defensively in the fifth inning, though, committing five errors on seven batters to fall behind 4-3.

Fish Disease Strikes During Spring, Summer

Spring and early summer is the time of the year for "columnaris disease" to rear its ugly head, the Department of Natural Resources noted.

Biologists at the DNR said the disease frequently takes a heavy toll of certain species of fish in some lakes, but is seldom severe enough to significantly affect fishing success.

The disease commonly attacks sunfish, crappies and bullheads but other species can be affected too. It is usually brought on by a rapid warm up of water when fish are already under stress due to a harsh winter, spawning activity or overcrowding.

Fish are often seen gasping for air at the surface of the water. Other symptoms are a red mouth, inflammed gills or a film of mucous or slime over the gills and other portions of the fish. Sometimes a secondary fungus infection is present.

Dead fish are seen along the shoreline, often in considerable numbers.

State Supreme Court Role Is Explained

(Editor's Note: Following article on courts in Minnesota was prepared by the Court Information office of the Minnesota supreme court.)

There is a man in Minnesota who wants to be known as 1069, pronounced One Zero Six Nine. He filed a case in district court asking that his ordinary name be changed to 1069. The district court judge turned him down, saying that a number used for a name is dehumanizing. But, the hopeful 1069 disagreed, and he decided to try his next legal recourse. He appealed to the Minnesota supreme court.

Each year hundreds of people from throughout the state bring their appeals of legal cases to the Minnesota supreme court. Appeals are the main business of the state's highest court, along with administering the court system and regulating the practice of law. Last year there were 1,192 appeals — an increase of nearly 300 per cent from only 10 years ago.

But numbers alone do not reflect the true impact of the supreme court's role. In hearing appeals from lower courts, the supreme court acts as the legal system's safety valve, a double-check to assure that justice is being administered in a fair and legally correct manner throughout the state. In addition, it is this court's obligation to insure that the Constitution is upheld in cases brought before it.

The cases that come to the court span a broad range of topics, from major policy questions to problems facing the average citizen. Recent cases include election contests, child custody problems, rights of persons charged with crimes, questions on taxes, personal injuries, pensions and many others.

The decisions of the supreme court sometimes only affect those people involved in the lawsuit. But, as often happens, the court's orders may touch the lives of many citizens in the state. In May, for example, the supreme court made a ruling on wild and scenic rivers, important to environmentalists, campers, canoers and property owners. The court upheld a challenged state law that prevented certain owners of river front property from cutting trees or building too close to the water in order to preserve the river's natural beauty. This and other decisions of the supreme court serve as a model for all future cases in the state and must be followed under a rule of precedent.

A case gets to the supreme court when there is an unhappy litigant — a party to a lawsuit, such as the hopeful 1069, who is dissatisfied with the decision of a lower court. Cases never begin in the supreme court, but they often end there. There must also be some legal basis for the appeal. The basis might be that a judge made an error in interpreting the law, that the law violates the Constitution, or that proper procedures were not followed.

The handling of a case before the supreme court is different than that of any other court in the state. There are, for example, no witnesses, no juries, no evidence and no trials. Instead of one judge, there are nine justices, although they often hear cases in panels of three. If an oral hearing is granted — some cases are decided on the lawyer's written briefs only — the attorneys are limited to no more than 40 minutes in their arguments to persuade the court.

All of the decisions of the supreme court are written. One justice is assigned to write the opinion of the court, explaining the legal basis, and other justices review it and make revisions. With the high volume of cases before them, this process takes from one to six months. The opinion is then released and printed immediately in a legal newspaper. Later the decisions are bound in books for law libraries.

Minnesota supreme court opinions can be appealed only to the United States supreme court, and then only if a matter of the United States Constitution is involved. Each year less than a half dozen Minnesota cases reach that stage.

Minnesota's eight associate and one chief justice also are charged with other duties. Under their auspices come a host of judiciary functions, from overseeing the processing of cases and making rules for the courts, to admitting applicants to the practice of law and disciplining wayward lawyers and judges. The supreme court itself is located in the State Capitol in St. Paul.

Archives Bring History Exhibit To MSU Campus

"Taking the Measure of the Land", a national archives exhibit of 78 original maps, charts, photographs, manuscripts and cartographic instruments, will be on display at the Moorhead state university Comstock Memorial Union May 20-July 5.

Exhibit hours are from 1:30 to 4 p.m. and 7-8:30 p.m. daily. Classes, clubs and organizations can make special arrangements to tour the exhibit by contacting the university's public affairs office at 236-2555.

The exhibit depicts the development of the United States from 1769 to the present and is considered a priceless collection of history. It includes a 13-foot square, one-ton recreation of the Gettysburg battlefield produced by 50 men and is so detailed that even rocks and shrubs are identified.

The collection has toured the Lyndon Baines Johnson library in Austin, Texas, and the historical societies in Chicago and Dallas.

Organized into categories of exploration, science, survey and military mapping, and focusing on westward expansion, the exhibit ranges in time from a Georgia plantation map drawn in 1769 to a 1974 space satellite photograph of the Chesapeake bay.

Among the highlights are

+ A map and report by soldier-explorer John C. Fremont, whose romantic portrayal of travel in the Rocky Mountains in the 1840s drew thousands westward;

+ Small renderings of the California gold rush fields in 1848 by William Tecumseh Sherman, then a lieutenant,

+ The map that accompanied the army's report on the battle of Little Big Horn, with "Xs" marking where the bodies of Gen. George Custer's slain troopers were found.

The Gettysburg map, in 20 sections and weighing a ton with its case, was compiled by the army engineers in 1868-69 and revised in 1873. The detailed color rendering shows contours, woods and drainage patterns, lists names of residents and shows where military forces were positioned.

Acquired by the national archives in 1946, this treasure has since been seen only by staff and researchers.

There are also photographs by Matthew Brady and others, a field notebook kept by John Wesley Powell during his western survey in 1871-78, a theodolite used for computing distance and elevation and a 19th century dryplate camera of the kind used in survey expeditions.

The exhibit is co-sponsored by the Hartz foundation and Moorhead state university.

SHOWMANSHIP of dairy cattle includes the proper preparation of animals for the show ring as well as handling of animals in the ring. FOR SALE

405 Evergreen St., 3 bdrm. rambler, full masonry basement, masonry chimney, oak cabinets, oak trim, brick planter, double garage, carpeted, $54,500 — FHA, VA, or conventional financing.

601 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Schult mobile home, with expando, wood skirting, tie-downs, new floor covering, on large lot facing the park and tennis court, $21,500 - will sell contract for deed.

605 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield mobile home and lot, two entries, front living room, stove and fridge, washer and dryer, skirting and tie-downs installed, $22,750 - terms.

147 Willow Rd., 12x68 Schult, large entry, wooded lot, new floor cover, new water heater, good starter unit that would cost less to own than rent, $16,725.00 with terms.

625 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield, nearly new, huge entry and deck, large corner lot by the park, $24,800 with terms.

We have three new homes in various stages of construction that are for sale, all under $45,000 with financing available now. If your're shopping, these may be a better buy than many older homes in town - the interest rates continue to rise but this is still a good time to buy a new home.

We have a limited number of mobile home lots for sale. These are also good values as compared to renting a site - we can finance or rent to you with an option to buy at a later date - we can and will trade almost anything of value to help with your down payment. Call us.

In Memorium

In loving memory of husband, father and grandfather, Art Lofberg who passed away June 11, 1978.

Safely Home

I am home in Heaven, dear ones;
Oh, so happy and so bright!
There is perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief is over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in Heaven at last.

There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idly stand;
Do it now, while life remaineth—
You shall rest in Jesus' land.

When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you Home;
Oh, the rapture of that meeting,
Oh, the joy to see you come!

Sadly missed by wife, Eileen, sons, daughters and grandchildren. 1t48p

In Memorium

In loving memory of our dear son and brother who left us 19 years ago, June 11.

Little Angels

When God calls children to dwell with Him above,
We mortals sometimes question the wisdom of His love,
For no heartache compares with the death a child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and mild.
Perhaps God tires of calling the aged to His fold
So He picks a rosebud, before it can grow old.
God knows how much we need them and so He takes but a few
To make the land of Heaven more beautiful to view.
Believing this is difficult, still somehow we must try,
The saddest word mankind knows will always be "Goodbye"
So when a child departs, we who are left behind
Must realize God loves children
Angels are hard to find

Missed by his Dad, Mom, brothers: Les, Bruce, Rick, Steven and sister Shirley. 1t48c

They all helped Mrs. Palma Broten celebrate her birthday which was June 12. She wishes to convey her sincere thanks for all the cards, gifts, flowers and the beautiful decorated birthday cake. May God richly bless each one.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Broten were guests of Johnny and Henry Bjornrud at a breakfast Monday morning at the Newfolden cafe.

A week ago Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gene Halvorson and Danny were guests at the Mabel Sorum home of rural Newfolden. Also there were Mr. and Mrs. Scot Magner, Shannon and Trevor, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Magner and Brent, also Donald Larson of Newfolden. The occasion was to celebrate Brent's birthday. Two birthday cakes highlighted the birthday luncheon — one baked by his mother and one by Mrs. Gene Halvorson.

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Grandstrand attended the services at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. The Bible school pupils had a part in the service. The Grandstrand's grandchildren, Cheri Sinn and Jeremy Grandstrand were among the group taking part.

Mrs. Ida Gustafson, Mrs. Manda Znerold, Agnes and Glen Halvorson were Sunday dinner guests at the Mrs. Ruth Ranum home. In the afternoon they all went to Thief River Falls to visit at the Northwestern hospital with patients Mrs. Ida Halvorson and Malcolm Tangquist and later were luncheon guests and visited at the Raymond Halvorson Jr. home in Thief River Falls.

Baptism

Erin Ann, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Holthusen, was baptized recently at Zion Lutheran church in Viking with the Rev. David Gabrielson officiating. Sponsors for little Erin Ann were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Halvorson and Mark Halvorson.

Following the service a noon dinner was served at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Halvorson. In attendance besides the parents and sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Holthusen of Thorholt, Mrs. Hannah Halvorson and Kenneth of Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Scot Magner, Shannon and Trevor of Newfolden. Later in the afternoon joining the party were Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kelly of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Davin Halvorson, Mandi and Erika. The afternoon party was in observance of Gene Holthusen, Tricia, Kelly, Scot and Tamie Magner, Mandi and Erika, all celebrating their birthdays. The supper table was highlighted by a decorated birthday cake baked by Mrs. Davin Halvorson.

Wednesday evening Mrs. William Braddock called on Mrs. Ida Gustafson.

THE THIEF RIVER FALLS CHAPTER OF FULL GOSPEL BUSINESSMEN'S FELLOWSHIP INTERNATIONAL Will Meet
Monday, June 18, 1979
At the BEST WESTERN MOTEL
Thief River Falls, Minn.
GUEST SPEAKER: IVER AASEBY

Iver Aaseby was born in Thief River Falls, Minnesota. He is one of seventeen children of Norwegian parents who were early pioneers of Thief River Falls. Aaseby's curiousity and eagerness to learn new things aided him to succeed in the following business adventures: Auto wrecking, barber, cafe, housing development, musician, pilot, radio announcer, and trailer court business. But after five heart attacks and open heart surgery, Aaseby realized something was missing in his life. Since accepting Jesus Christ into his life, Aaseby has been ministering to others and plans to begin training soon for full time ministry. He will relate some of the miracles that Christ has performed in his life recently.

Yours Is The Hand

that lights your child's face

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security . . . that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light . . . and held his son's hand!

Sunday — Father's Day — in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God . . . experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

Suggest Court Rules Change In Rape Trials

by Jeanne Hanson
University News

The old expression "you can't unring a bell" applies to many rape trials — once evidence is admitted, the jury does not ignore it.

Some evidence about the rape victim's general sexual history is allowed in the courtroom in many states. This testimony tends to put the rape victim "on trial" along with the accused rapist and should be legally restricted, according to Eugene Borgida, psychology researcher at the University of Minnesota.

A jury that learns of a woman's history of sexual activity is more willing to believe that she consented to sex with the alleged rapist, and so less willing to return a conviction for rape, Borgida said.

In his research, which so far has focused on the evidence rules in rape trials, Borgida examined court records and rules of evidence in various states, interviewed rape victims, and studies simulated rape trails with jurors, lawyers, actors and carefully varied "scripts." More trials and analyses are scheduled for summer.

"Minnesota has a progressive rape shield reform law, the 'moderate reform' version, but it could be more progressive," Borgida said, adding that Minnesota is not now considering a stronger rape evidence rule but should do so. Efforts to protect the accused rapist's constitutional rights and centuries of special protection for those accused of rape are responsible for the slow progress in rape reform, he said.

Minnesota's present evidence rule for rape doesn't allow the rape victim to be questioned on the witness stand about her sexual history unless the alleged rapist claims that she consented to sex or unless the judge decides that this history is greatly needed to decide contested facts.

"Moderate reform rule," followed in 21 other states besides Minnesota — including Iowa, Nebraska, and North Dakota — is less prejudicial to the rape victim than the "common law rule." Under the common law rule, followed in 10 states, the rape victim can be fully questioned about her sexual history, Borgida said.

But Minnesota's moderate reform rule falls short of "radical reform rule" — followed in 19 states including North Dakota and Wisconsin. This evidence rule totally excludes from the rape trial any testimony on the victim's sexual history with other men, unless necessary to show the source of "semen, pregnancy or disease."

Only the radical reform rule led to more rape convictions in Borgida's simulated rape trails, and then only in situations where the victim's consent to sex seemed quite improbable. But there is no evidence yet that any of the still relatively new reform rules have changed rape conviction rates nationally, Borgida said. The moderate and the radical reform rules are being upheld on appeal, an indication that the alleged rapist's constitutional rights are protected even when the victim's prior sexual history is kept out of the trial, he said.

Restrictions on such testimony make the rape trial somewhat less difficult for the victim, Borgida said, thus encouraging more women to bring cases to court. "The rape victim has a harrowing career through the criminal justice system," he said, adding that there is no way to predict which women will be especially traumatized by rape and a rape trial, and which will be able to cope somewhat better. A network of rape crisis counseling centers can make the situation less harrowing, though, he said.

"Probably the most powerful way of changing the prejudicial aspects of a rape trial is to adopt the 'radical reform rule' on the evidence," Borgida said.

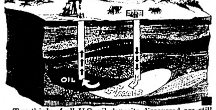
Secondary Oil Recovery



Two-thirds of all U.S. oil deposits discovered are still in the ground because underground pressure diminished before the oil supply did. Now, like toothpaste at the bottom of a tube, it needs encouragement to emerge.

This diagram depicts one of fifteen waterflood units operated by W. R. Grace & Co. in the western part of the country which artificially restores pressure by pumping water into the fringes of the oil zone to force the crude to the surface without changing the environment.

Tornado Season Approaches NW Minnesota Area

Minnesota lies at the northern end of "Tornado Alley," a belt that cuts through the middle one-third of the United States. Every year the region experiences a high incidence of tornadoes, mainly between April and August.

If 1979 is a so-called "normal" year for tornadoes, more than 700 violent twisters will strike throughout the U.S. Last year, tornadoes killed 53 persons. By May of this year, the storms had already killed nearly 600 persons.

During the prime tornado season, Minnesotans should keep aware of weather conditions, said Roy Aune, acting director of emergency services, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Dark, heavy thunderstorm clouds are closely associated with tornadoes," he said. "If high winds or dark skies indicate an approaching storm, listen for weather bulletins on your radio or television.

"Learn the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning and be prepared to protect yourself and your family from these sudden, destructive storms."

A tornado watch means a tornado is possible, and that weather conditions are favorable to tornado formation. A watch is issued for areas that might be threatened by severe thunderstorms and tornadoes.

The tornado watch will specify time periods and areas where tornadoes are most probable. During the watch period, you should be on the lookout for threatening weather. Keep listening to your radio and television for further weather information and make sure your family knows where to seek shelter.

A tornado warning is much more serious and means a tornado has been sighted or indicated by radar. If you are close to the projected path of the storm, take shelter immediately.

If you are in the general area covered by the warning, be prepared to take cover quickly if you sight threatening conditions, such as thunderclouds showing a rapidly-spinning or rolling motion. These rotating systems can form into tornado columns or funnels.

Logging Camp Shows Life Of Lumberjacks

After long winter months of careful research, and the collection and restoration of artifacts, the forest history center's 1900-era logging camp is due to open to the public. The camp, located just south of Grand Rapids, will be open to visitors (families, school and community groups(through October 31, seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The camp, which is part of the total forest history center interpretive complex, has been reconstructed after years of research and planning by the Minnesota historical society. It is designed to interpret the life and work of the Minnesota lumberjack in a "deep woods", medium sized, turn-of-the-century logging camp. This is the time in Minnesota's history that the White Pine tree was still "the monarch of the forest" and the lumberjack was the "bull of the woods".

Situated on the center's tree studded site near the banks of the Mississippi river, the camp is complete with eight authentic log buildings — a bunkhouse, cook shanty, root house, saw filer's shack, horse barns, a blacksmith shop, an office-store and an outhouse.

Costumed tour guides will be on hand to show the site to visitors and portray the life and daily acitvities of the lumberjacks of that era through "living history". The cook will be baking on his wood burning range; the balcksmith bending metal on his forge; and the company clerk ordering supplies and marking down wages. Visitors will be exposed to the sights, sounds and smells of a functioning logging camp of years gone by.

Public is encouraged to visit the center's logging camp, to turn back the pages of history 80 years and to view Minnesota's logging history. Groups of 15 or more people are asked to call for a tour reservation, 218-326-1390. Families and individual visitors are welcome to visit at any time during the listed hours.

Says Support Of Wage Rates Hurts Taxpayer

Families in Minnesota are paying approximately $51 in excess taxes each year to support a law which allows the U.S. department of labor to set wage rates of federal construction projects in this state. So says Donald E. Manger, executive director of the Minnesota chapter of Associated Builders and Contractors, a construction industry trade association which is leading a nationwide effort to repeal the Davis-Bacon act.

The act, as currently administered, often sets wage rates for federally assisted construction in excess of those wages which actually prevail in most outstate communities.

Manger said the information on the cost of the Davis-Bacon act per family was provided by the forecast and survey center of the U.S. chamber of commerce. "The American public is, for the most part, unknowingly and needlessly paying billions of dollars annually because of this law", Manger added. He estimated that the Davis-Bacon act increases the cost of federal construction projects by approximately 15 per cent.

"Unfortunately, the cost goes higher than $51 per household", Manger said, "when the cost of Minnesota's own version of the law is further considered." Recent articles in the St. Paul Dispatch and Minneapolis Star have alleged maladministration of the law and official bias toward establishing union wage rates for public construction in most communities.

Manger claimed that the result of these alleged activities has been "grossly inflated costs for public construction. I have seen cases where the taxpayer had to pay as much as $50,000 more for a project due to the high wage rates. My own studies have shown that as many as 60 per cent of the wage rates were adopted from counties outside the project area. This is a practice which thwarts the entire purpose of the law."

Labor - management relations committee of the Minnesota house of representatives is currently considering a bill to repeal Minnesota's "little Davis-Bacon act". "It's a positive step that they're having hearings on the bill, but it remains to be seen whether they'll have the courage to take any action. The legislature seems much too afraid of tackling one of organized labor's "sacred cows'," Manger said.

Small Cities Study Results Released

Officials of America's small cities believe federal programs would be more useful to them if requirements could be standardized and reduced, and if similar programs were grouped under a single federal agency, according to a report released today by the department of housing and urban development (HUD).

"Developmental Needs of Small Cities," a Congressionally-mandated study conducted by HUD, is primarily a report of the views of local elected officials on their communities' needs and priorities. Their concerns also focused on a need for more information on available Federal funding, reduced application approval time and more equitable allocation of Federal funds.

"Our small cities defy generalizations," secretary Partricia Roberts Harris said. "They have the same tremendous diversity that characterizes all of America's cities. Averages portraying small cities as a category tend to mask the individuality of the communities, their needs and characteristics."

Small cities — defined as those under 50,000 population which are not central cities of metropolitan areas — are home to almost one-third of our population. Population figures for 1975 show 71,323,000 persons living in large cities, 77,811,000 living in rural areas outside of incoprorated places, and 64,701,000 living in small cities.

Small city characteristics, such as size, geography, economic base, poverty level, tax effort and population makeup, that impact developmental needs and fund allocations vary significantly.

Almost three quarters of the small cities are in the category of very small, meaning less than 2,500 population. At the same time, these very small cities account for only 16.6 per cent of the total population of small cities.

Information on small city development needs was compiled for this study through a mail survey directed to chief executives of 1,962 randomly selected small cities, to which more than 1,000 responded; intensive cases studies of 48 small cities with populations ranging from 154 to 43,262; and 17 group meetings with city officials held in every part of the country.

Attitudes toward growth, particularly rapid growth, are less than unanimous. Some of the smallest cities see growth outside their limits as an asset, with others viewing it as inevitable. Larger nonmetropolitan communities perceive a negative impact on their municipal finances, as expansion draws off middle income and industrial taxpayers. And still others hold the view that rapid growth will lead to an increase in the cost of housing and burdensome municipal costs associated with expanding demands on facilities.

The single economy small town is a condition of the past. Most small cities have combined economic bases. In the case where cities do identify a predominant economic base, residential cities are the fastest growing and manufacturing cities the slowest.

The poverty rate for small cities in metropolitan areas is lower than the metropolitan central cities. Until recently, nonmetropolitan areas had higher poverty rates than large cities but the two rates are now about equal.

Community problems related to development cited most frequently by the small cities respondents were lack of jobs, lack of adequate housing for low- and moderate-income persons, and condition of streets. Ranked as top funding priorities were infrastructure needs — water and sewer facilities, streets, solid waste disposal, parks and recreation and public buildings.

Housing, cited consistently as a severe or moderate community problem, was generally considered a priority for funding in only the larger - over 25,000 population — of the small communities. Existing housing facilities received ratings as poor or less than adequate more often than any other community facility. Housing conditions were rated poor more often by nonmetropolitan cities than by their metropolitan counterparts.

The question of how community development funds for small cities should be allocated is addressed in one section of the study. Combinations of variables, such as poverty, age of housing, overcrowded housing, lack of plumbing, population, and population lag, are discussed as possible elements in alternative formulas.

"The role of these variables in determining the equitable allocation of available funds to the nation's small communities is one that remains unresolved," Secretary Harris said. "In presenting a range of alternatives, and the relative strengths and weakness of each, we offer a basis which will encouarge discussion and consideration by the Congress and the Administration."

A copy of the study may be obtained by writing to: HUD, Division of Product Dissemination and Transfer, Room 8124, Washington, D.C. 20410.

Bicyclists Urged To Ride Defensively

Bicyclists must ride defensively at all times to be safe in today's fast-moving, crowded traffic, warns Chief James Crawford of the state patrol, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"No bicycle rider is a match for a two-ton auto. The best advice is to stay out of the way of motor vehicles and don't argue, regardless of your rights," he said.

May has been declared American Bike month and Crawford urged community groups and schools to conduct special programs to help promote safe bicycling.

In Minnesota, and nationally, most bicycle crashes are caused by the bicyclist. Last year, 23 bicycle drivers were killed in Minnesota, one less than in 1977. Record number of bicycle fatalities was 27 in 1972.

Crawford offered some basic safety tips for bicyclists:

+Know and obey the traffic laws. Some frequent, and possibly fatal, violations by bicyclists are failure to obey signs and signals, swerving into traffic and failure to yield when entering traffic from a driveway or alley.

+Bicyclists should ride single-file on the extreme right side of the road, moving with the traffic flow. Where possible, ride beside the roadway, and on sidewalks outside business districts, or on bike paths and lanes. Remember, however, that pedestrians have the right-of-way on sidewalks.

+Never carry passengers on a bicycle designed for one person because the bike driver will have a difficult time steering, balancing, and stopping and seeing other traffic.

+Common hazard is the car that turns across the bicyclist's path. Even though the bicyclist may be properly on the far right side of the road and have the right-of-way, the bike driver must be alert and ready to stop.

+Always use a headlight or flashlight at night so other drivers can see you. Front lights must emit white light visible from 500 feet away. Rear reflectors must be visible from 600 feet away when in front of a vehicle using low beam lights. Also, the edges of each pedal must be reflectorized.

+Side reflectorization is also required. Reflective tire sidewalls or spoke-mounted reflectors on both wheels are recommended. But 20 square inches of reflective tape may be used on each side of the bicycle or on the bike rider's clothing, instead of wheel reflectorization.

Clean Car Wash Wax Off Auto Windshields

Motorists should clean the car-wash wax off windshields and windshield wipers immediately after going through the car wash, advises the Minnesota department of public safety.

If not cleaned off, the wax mixes with dust and road grime. In a rain storm, the wax and grime can form a waterproof smear when you turn on the wipers and cause a dangerous loss of vision.

The smear appears unexpectedly because in good weather and clear light the windshield will look clean.

Effective cleaners are household window cleaning liquids and mild detergents mixed with alcohol. Rub the glass vigorously with the cleaner and rinse it off. Also clean all wax off the windshield wipers.

Beef Council Gives Tips On Outdoor Cooking

Almost any cut of beef suitable for roasting, broiling, pan-broiling, or pan-frying, may be cooked out of doors over hot coals. Roasts should be as regular in shape as possible to insure even cooking. Steaks should be at least ¾ inch thick. Cubes of meat to be cooked on skewer must be cut into uniform-size pieces, suggests the Minnesota beef council.

A general guideline for determining how much meat to prepare is to allow the following amounts per person: one-fourth to one-half pound of ground beef, one-half pound of boneless beef, and three-fourths to one pound of beef with bone. You'll still want to plan on one T-bone, loin or rib steak per person, but chuck and sirloin steaks can be cut into several portions. Remember, outdoor appetites are usually hearty.

If you use charcoal, do you have trouble getting it started? The following method really works. Cut both ends out of a three-pound coffee can. Using a bottle opener, make about six air vents around the bottom edge. Place the can on the bottom of your grill, fill with charcoal and soak well with lighter fluid. Allow the fluid to soak for about 15 minutes, light and let burn until coals are covered with grey ash. Remove the can and spread out the coals evenly.

Roasts are excellent when cooked on the rotisserie or in kettle cookers. Be sure to use a meat thermometer to determine degree of doneness. Insert the thermometer in the center of the thickest muscle, away from fat, bone and the rotisserie rod. Remember to take the roast off five degrees to 10 degrees before your desired degree of doneness, as the roast will continue to cook.

Beef may be basted during all or just the final part of cooking. If the sauce is high in sugar, apply it late in the cooking period to prevent charring. Use tongs. Puncturing the beef with a meat fork allows the juices to escape and make the beef drier. Don't "squish" the ground beef patty, as all the juices running out cause flare-ups and dry hamburgers. If you do have flare-ups, instead of drowning the coals with a glass of water, use a squirt gun or bottle to direct a stream of water directly on the flare-up.

Kabobs can be made with almost any cut of beef. Select long, sturdy skewers and leave space between food for even cooking. Either precook raw vegetables that may take longer to cook than the meat, or cook the vegetables on a separate skewer.

Low to moderate temperatures are best for cooking meat either out of doors or in the kitchen. Coals should glow rather than flame. The amount of heat and the rate of cooking can be controlled by adjusting the distance of the grill or rotisserie from the coals. Remember, heat can be intensified by the wind.

If you want to add smoke flavor to the meat, the best method is to use wood chips. Soak hickory, oak, apple or cherry chips in water for at least an hour before using them. Soaking with provide a maximum amount of smoke, but will prevent the chips from burning. Add a few soaked chips at a time to the charcoal during cooking. If the chips burn, replace them with wet chips.

Committee To Study County Court Systems

New project to study the court personnel systems in Minnesota has been announced by the judicial planning committee of the Minnesota supreme court. A sub-committee headed by Judge Harold Krieger of Rochester will analyze the pay scales, job descriptions and management of court personnel, including clerks, bailiffs, registrars and managers.

Currently, a total of $16.5 million is spent annually in salaries and benefits for non-judicial personnel. The counties must bear these costs, even though the courts are state courts. In addition, there is no uniformity in pay from county to county.

The new personnel sub-committee will be studying ways to improve the system of justice by unifying all court personnel. Standardization of court positions, which now vary widely in the counties, will be one of the focuses of the group. The project will analyze a plan for all non-judicial personnel to be classified under one system and be paid through state, instead of county monies. This would be similar to the current structure for judges in Minnesota, in which all receive a uniform salary from state funds.

Another problem facing the sub-committee is that half the counties in Minnesota employ no personnel classification scheme for court employees. Job descriptions in those counties are virtually unknown, and there is no possibility for clerks or other personnel to be transferred or promoted to positions in other counties. The sub-committee hopes to make recommendations on these issues.

The sub-committee plans to complete its study by January, 1981, at which time a bill may be proposed to the state legislature.

Members of the sub-committee are: Thomas Conlin, attorney, St. Paul; Hon. Howard Albertson, judge, Stillwater; Steve Askew, County Attorneys Council, St. Paul; Rep. Bill Brandall, Minneapolis; Kelton Gage, attorney, Mankato; Laurence Harmon, state court administrator, St. Paul; Dennis Howard, district court administrator, Bemidji; Dennis Hron, county commissioner, Shakopee; Jack Provo, district court administrator, Minneapolis; Senator Douglas Sillers, Moorhead; Representative Gordon Voss, Blaine.

The judicial planning committee is an agency of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, created to "establish priorities for the improvement of the courts." It has thirty members, all appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Robert Sheran. Offices of the Judicial Planning Committee are located at the Legal Education Center, Room 302, 40 N. Milton, St. Paul, Minnesota 55104.

Overregulation

Following thoughts on regulation by government were written by Robert D. Cousins in the Curtis Courier:

I am no more opposed to reasonable government regulations than I am to police protection. But I am just as much opposed to overregulation as I am to a police state. Overregulation has cut down on productivity; it has impeded growth; it has held down employment; it has slowed down research and development; it has stifled enterprise; and, worst of all, it has fueled inflation, our nation's most serious economic problem.

According to a reliable source, the cost is staggering. Federal regulations cost every American family $1,000 per year. Last year, federal regulations alone cost General Motors $1.3 billion. In 1976, it cost the federal government $1.7 billion just to store the forms that Americans were required to comply with and fill out. Regulatory agencies grew by one-third between 1970 and 1975 alone. In 1976, keeping the regulatory agencies operating cost the federal government $3.2 billion. The cost to regulated business, and to the consumers the regulations are supposed to serve, was a staggering $63 billion. Never before in history have so few regulated so much for so many.

Overregulation has, in effect, created a new bureaucracy outside of the three main branches of government, and it thrives without the normal checks and balances that were provided by the wisdom of our Founding Fathers. This new bureaucracy generates more regulations and is what amounts to an economic police state. Its inherent excesses threaten the survival of many business enterprises that make essential contributions to society.

We should oppose those legislators who propose regulatory laws that are counterproductive and insist that new regulations be justified on an economic basis with costs considered against benefits.

The public today is greatly concerned about inflation. The public must learn and continue to learn that overregulation adds to intolerable costs; the public should know that it isn't business that pays — it's the consumer who pays for inflation. The public must be aroused to stem the tide of this bureaucratic monster for the benefit of business and consumers alike.

Conditioned To Pain

Following editorial is from the Plainview News:

Somewhere I either read or heard about a form of conditioning that would even make pain seem to be acceptable.

I believe the story I heard or read was that if you received a pin prick, at regular intervals, over a long period of time, you might even get to enjoy the sensation and at the very least you would become conditioned to the point of believing that the regular pin prick was a normal and necessary occurrence.

That might be the case with the Minnesota State Legislature and its relationship with the rest of the people of the state.

It wasn't too many years ago that the state legislature met every other year and once in a while, mostly caused by stubbornness, they wouldn't get their work done on time and would have to hold a short special extra session. Most times they would cover the clock on the House and Senate walls and in a few untimed hours complete the business that was absolutely necessary.

At that time legislators, who I believe had only the interests of making lucrative careers out of their elective office, cried loud and long for annual sessions as a means by which we could eliminate: 1. special extra sessions; 2. hurried and uninformed action on laws of major importance; 3. inadequate time in which to study and cull bad amendments which are normally tacked on major funding bills that are an absolute necessity.

We listened to that rhetoric for several years and finally were conditioned to believe that annual sessions would be the miraculous cure-all for all the state's problems. In fact most people when questioned don't even remember when we used to allow the legislature to meet only every other year.

Well now we have annual sessions and now, through stubbornness, we will need a special extra session to pass funding legislation of an absolute necessity.

I wonder if this is just the same conditioning process whereby legislators are trying to make our annual session even longer so that they can: 1. eliminate special extra sessions; 2. eliminate the hurried and uninformed action on laws of major importance; 3. allow adequate time in which to study and cull bad amendments which are normally tacked on major funding bills that must be passed.

It's practically impossible to turn the clock back, but maybe we as a constituency can say no to any further conditioning pin pricks.

Before They Spend, Why Don't They Ask?

Following comments were written by Bob Myers in the Lapeer (Michigan) County Press:

Business buildings must now have toilets and entries designed to accommodate people in wheelchairs.

When we built the new County Press quarters, a couple a years ago, it meant a couple of special toilet stools, wider stalls, and a ramp instead of steps at the front entrance.

The extra cost only amounted to a few hundred dollars so I didn't pay much attention to it. It did occur to me, though, that in my 50 years around The County Press, I have almost never seen a person in a wheelchair enter our building. The same is true since we moved into the new building.

Now there's a new law that requires modification of old government facilities so wheelchair people can use them.

In New York City, the law will cost taxpayers $4.5 billion. the cost is huge there, not only because of the many government buildings, but also because subway trains and stations must be modified.

The Wall Street Journal did some figuring. The paper learned that if this money was invested at eight per cent interest, the income would give every wheelchair person in New York an income of $3,800 per year.

You can bet none ever asked these wheelchair people which they would prefer.

A lot of government services and subsidies could be given the same test.

Why don't they determine the cost of Saturday mail delivery and ask taxpayers if they would rather have that, or a cheaper stamp?

Why don't they find how much money they lose on every Amtrak passenger and see if they would have a free bus or airplane ticket?

Why don't they ask the voters if they want to continue to provide free driver-training, or whether they want the parents to pay for it?

They won't because the politicians are afraid of the answers. If our local politicians had asked the voters if they wanted to spend $100,000 for elevators in the new courthouse, the voters might have given the politicians the shaft instead of the elevator.

This country might be a lot closer to democracy if the voters got a chance to make more of the decisions.

Government is becoming too expensive to let the politicians decide how to spend our money.

Why We're Tired

Tired lately? Me, too. But it took the resurrection of an old explanation to bring me to the realization of what the problem is. Here is the way it was explained in the DBS Gazette, published by Diversified Brokerage services:

The population of this country is more than 200 million. 84 million are over 60 years of age, which leaves 116 million to do the work. People under 20 years of age total 75 million, which leaves 41 million to do the work.

There are 22 million who are employed by the government, which leaves 19 million to do the work. Four million are in the armed forces, which leaves 15 million to do the work. Deduct 14,800,000, the number in state and city offices, leaving 200,000 to do the work. There are 188,000 in hospitals, insane asylums, etc., so that leaves 12,000 to do the work.

Now it may interest youto know there are 11,998 poeple in jail, so that leaves just 2 people to carry the load.

That's you and me. . . and brother, I'm getting tired of doing everything myself.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"Mama, if I get married will I have a husband like Daddy?"

"Yes, dear."

"And if I don't get married will I be an old maid like Aunt Minnie?"

"Yes, dear."

"Mama, us women have a tough world, don't we?"

A candidate and his friends were all surprised when he was elected. The only way he could explain the victory was, "Well, I guess everyone who knew me voted for him, and everyone who knew him voted for me, and he knew more people than I did."

An Eye Specialist Can See Into Your Body

Your eyes have it—a key to your health.

That twinkle in "smiling eyes" or the malaise of an "evil eye" may often, like most folklore, reflect more truth than poetry—particularly to a medical eye physician.

By looking into your eyes an ophthalmologist—a physician specializing in eye care—can see signs of diseases which may require immediate treatment—diabetes, high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, even some types of cancer. Other early warning signs may indicate brain tumor, multiple sclerosis, kidney or blood disease.

"Consider the eyes in terms of the entire body," says Whitney G. Sampson, M.D., a Houston ophthalmologist and president of the American Association of Ophthalmology. "Symptoms of illness or disease may first manifest themselves in the eyes, permitting the early diagnosis and treatment so often critical in arresting or curing these conditions."

Dr. Sampson adds, "Prescribing corrective glasses or contact lenses is only part of total eye care. A medical eye examination by an ophthalmologist can reveal subtle changes which signal the beginning of such sight-threatening conditions as glaucoma or cataract. In most cases, early treatment can prevent impairment of vision, even blindness."

The ophthalmologist, a doctor of medicine (or osteopathy), is a specialist who has served an additional year as an intern and three more years in a hospital as a resident in ophthalmology.

Ophthalmologists also take postdoctoral courses in the diagnosis and treatment of eye diseases, application of physiological and optical principles to the prescription of lenses and the correction of eye muscle malfunctions, and in surgery of the eye and its related structures.

Of the more than 11,000 practicing ophthalmologists in the U.S., 11 percent conduct research in addition to caring for patients. Almost 90 percent include surgery among their services.

The ratio of ophthalmologists to population is increasing. In 1950 there were only 2.2 ophthalmologists per 100,000 population. In 1960 there were 3 and, in 1970, there were 4.9.

Letters to the Editor

June 10, 1979

To the Editor:

Recently I wrote a letter questioning Arlan Stangeland's influence in Congress since he failed to get on the agriculture committee and two freshman Republicans did.

I am shocked at his response. He has been going around the 7th district saying he never tried to get on the committee. Doesn't he realize the need for the 7th district to have a voice in the agriculture committee? Does he think he is improving his image by explaining away his lack of influence by not trying to get on the committee? If he doesn't know enough to at least try to get on the Agriculture Committee I wonder if he even belongs in Washington.

Repeal The Davis-Bacon Act

The Davis-Bacon Act of 1931 had merit when it was passed by Congress, but this inflationary and expensive law has become outdated and unnecessary, and it must be repealed.

The great depression brought hard times to this country, and legislation like the Davis-Bacon Act was needed to help people survive. Prior to its enactment, local construction workers were exploited by construction companies who hired cheap labor from other areas for local construction projects. This resulted in drastic disruptions to the local wage structures and robbed people of much needed jobs. The Davis-Bacon Act, which is still in effect 48 years later, required contractors who worked on federally funded projects to pay locally "prevailing" wages, or, in other words, the same wages paid to private sector workers on similar projects in the same geographical area.

Since the depression significant changes in our economy and worker protection laws have made this type of legal protection unnecessary. Today, the ability of government contractors to set wage rates is generally restrained by competition from many private sector projects and institutional wage setting practices. Government investigations have determined that contractors, on the average, tend to pay prevailing wages or higher even when the Davis-Bacon Act would allow them to pay less. This confirms that the free market is acting positively to insure the original intent of the legislation, and that the Act is no longer necessary.

The General Accounting Office, which acts as the investigating arm of Congress, has also attacked the Davis-Bacon Act, and called for its repeal. In a report issued April 27, the GAO called the Davis-Bacon Act inflationary, impractical to administer and extremely expensive resulting in hundreds of millions of dollars each year in unnecessary construction costs to the consumer, and at least $715 million in administrative costs. The GAO also pointed out that many workers, for whom the law is intended to protect, are actually hurt by this antiquated legislation.

One of the problems is that the Act frequently sets wages for federally funded projects above the prevailing wage of a community by basing wages on union scales paid to workers in larger metropolitan areas instead of the specific community's prevailing wage. This prohibits many small contractors from paying the wage without disrupting their normal wage structure, and forces projects to be undertaken by larger outside contractors, thus resulting in less jobs and reduced economic gain for the local community.

The Davis-Bacon Act further impacts communities by limiting federal construction assistance for schools, limiting federal library assistance for buying books, and limiting federal assistance for building homes.

I agree with the General Accounting Office's recommendation to repeal the Davis-Bacon Act. Others who share that opinion are the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Associated Builders and Contractors, Associated General Contractors, the National Association of Manufacturers, and such noted economists as Arthur Burns and Milton Friedman.

The Act benefits few and penalizes almost everyone. It has inflated construction costs in many cases by at least 30 per cent, not only for public funded projects, but also those in the private sector. Had it not been for this law, the funds drained by these inflated prices could have been used to provide additional federal funding for many other well-deserving construction projects such as schools and housing, thereby creating more jobs. The law also increases dramatically the paperwork and bureaucratic red-tape for the small contractor, workers find employment opportunities limited, and the economy and labor conditions are negatively impacted.

It's time we removed our heads from the sand and begin taking a good hard look at this law which hinders continued economic growth in this country.

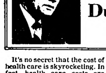
Washington Report



Sen. Dave Durenberger

It's no secret that the cost of health care is skyrocketing. In fact, health care costs are escalating at the rate of $1 million per hour. The average American works one month each year just to pay his or her share of the nation's health care bill.

What's being done about this problem that affects every person? As is so often the case, a flood of bills has been introduced, many of them so complex that only a handful of health care experts can truly understand their meaning. Much of the proposed legislation attacks the increasing cost of health care by adding layer upon layer of new government regulations.

Are more regulations and government interference the solution when everyone is clamoring for less involvement by Washington in our daily lives? And, these untested proposals are being offered when Minnesota is setting a practical example of how health care costs can be controlled.

How is Minnesota working to keep down health care costs? A major factor is an old-fashioned practice that has worked since the free enterprise system was founded: Competition. When consumers are able to select from a variety of alternatives, those people providing the services have a tremendous incentive to keep the cost as low as possible to attract business.

The effect of competition in Minnesota is felt most in the Twin Cities where the competition is the greatest. In the metropolitan area, hospital cost increases reported by the Minnesota Rate Review Program have been only 10.3 per cent for 1978 and 1979 while the national rate has been 12.8 per cent. Health insurance premiums in the area have been increasing at a 2 to 4.5 per cent rate, instead of the 12 to 16 per cent rates in previous years. Hospital utilization for Blue Cross insured employed groups decreased statewide by 16 per cent last year.

What do I mean by competition in health care? Quite simply, I mean hospitals and doctors competing for your business by providing better service at a lower cost. Health maintenance organizations (HMOs) are proving to be an effective means of competition in large population centers. Employers contract with a group of physicians offering a full range of medical services to provide health care coverage for their employees. Since the physicians receive a set fee regardless of the extent of their services, they have a great incentive to keep costs down and to stress preventive medicine.

Other competitive measures are also helping to control costs in the seven county metropolitan area.

But, there is more to keeping the lid on costs than competition. Too many of the costs for health care are "hidden" — we don't pay them directly, so we don't recognize their impact on our family's budget. Most of the charges for health care are paid by insurance or the government (through medicare and medicaid). While we don't pay the price directly, businesses pass on the cost of providing their employees health insurance in the form of higher prices for their products, and I don't have to tell you how our taxes are being hiked to pay for government-provided services.

The national health insurance plans we have seen so far are expensive — Senator Ted Kennedy's proposal, for example, may cost the government up to $29 billion — and rely on a patchwork of legislation that is incredibly complex and doesn't seem to address the core problem.

It is clear that we — government, private business and citizens — must take cooperative action to control health care costs. The action we take, however, should not simply heap more regulations on an already heavily regulated industry.

Our health care plan must include the following:

—It must help assure competition by encouraging several alternative systems to deliver our health care services;

—Employers contributing a set amount to insurance premiums to cover a basic package of protection;

—Tax deductability for the cost of basic minimum benefits to encourage expanded protection;

—Catastrophic coverage to be added by placing a limit on consumer cost sharing; and

—Coverage for dependents, the unemployed and others.

I am convinced that we can build a system which is designed around what competitive industry does best — efficiently provide a quality product — and around what the American public does very well if given a chance — choose products with discrimination and care.

JOINING A PHYSICAL FITNESS CENTER

If you are considering joining a physical fitness center, these tips from the Association of Physical Fitness Centers may help you make a more fitting choice.

First, visit the physical fitness center you are considering at a time you would typically make use of it. Inspect the facilities, including the locker rooms and showers. Ask for a trial workshop.

Choose a full service physical fitness center that offers a supervised, active exercise program geared to develop flexibility, strength and cardiovascular-pulmonary improvement. Be wary of those that offer only "passive" exercise: equipment such as vibrating belts or tables are not effective for toning muscles or reducing weight. They may, in fact, be dangerous.

Be sure that the center provides the equipment you want. Some offer whirlpools, swimming pools, saunas, steamrooms and massage services. Some also offer facilities for tennis, hand and racquetball, and training in physical skills. Many provide childcare services.

Select a center that is easy for you to get to, and open when you are most likely to use it. Ask about the variety and cost of services.

Inquire about the instructors' qualifications. Employees should be trained in designing exercise programs and in the safe and effective use of all exercise equipment. They should be able to provide nutritional counseling.

Study the contract and be sure that you understand it thoroughly, especially the terms of payment and cancellation.

Finally, look for the seal of membership in the Association of Physical Fitness Centers. It is your sign that the management subscribes to the Association's ethical business practices, to its standards for facilities, and to the code of fair dealings.

Once you do choose the physical fitness center, make it work for you: the more time you can put into it, the more you'll get out of it.

Regulations On Hazardous Waste To Start

Minnesota's hazardous waste regulations will go into effect on June 16, the Minnesota Pollution Control agency (MPCA) announced recently.

Many areas around the country, including Minnesota, have discovered sites where chemicals were illegally dumped, causing pollution in the surrounding land, water and air. During the last few years, the OPCA and Minnesota industries have worked cooperatively to develop a plan to safely manage hazardous wastes in the state.

With the adoption of the regulations, Minnesota will join about a dozen other states which have regulations to manage their hazardous wastes. Those states without regulations will be required to comply with federal hazardous waste regulations which the U.S. ENVIRONMENTAL PROGECTION AGENCY (EPA) plans to adopt by the end of the year.

The proposed regulations govern those wastes which may be either corrosive, carcinogenic, flammable, explosive or otherwise harmful to human health or to the environment. They range from chemicals such as cyanide to paints and oils, and to materials containing PCBs or mercury. A byproduct of many manufacturing processes, hazardous wastes are created by the production of such diverse items as telephones, color televisions, books, newspapers, clothes and processed food.

Minnesota's regulations are designed to monitor and regulate hazardous waste by giving complete "cradle to grave" responsibility to the generators of the wastes, subject to the rqview of the MPCA. One of the key portions of the new regulations is the requirement for industries to submit detailed disclosure forms describing all hazardous wastes they generate. This information is vital for the MPCA to receive in order to properly develop a long-term hazardous waste management plan for Minnesota. Until now, there has been no uniform, in-depth method to gather information on exactly how much and what type of hazardous wastes exist in the state.

Once the wastes are identified, their containers must be properly labelled. Each container of waste will require shipping papers to accompany it from the location where the waste is generated, through the shipping process, and then to the waste's final disposal point. Shipping papers will also include instructions on what to do in case of a spill of the waste.

Each year, Minnesota industries produce an estimated 150,000 tons of hazardous wastes. Some of these dangerous materials are properly disposed of, but each year thousands of tons are illegally dumped into sewers, lakes and rivers, and into the ground.

The new regulations require industries to dispose of their hazardous wastes at a permitted facility. Aside from a few private industry sites, there are currently no permitted hazardous waste sites in Minnesota, and nearly 16 per cent of the state's hazardous waste is shipped to other states such as Illinois. The regulations will create an incentive for industries to develope safe, permitted hazardous waste management sites.

However, the new regulations will also cause a reduction in hazardous waste generation. Since the regulations require industry to bear the longterm liability for improper disposal, it will eventually become more economical to find ways to reduce or recycle hazardous wastes when possible.

The MPCA staff is currently planning a series of workshops and meetings with industry representatives, to begin a cooperative effort of managing the state's hazardous wastes. The agency will work with industries to gather information needed to properly plan for the treatment, recycling or disposal of these wastes, and to assess training needs for hazardous waste handlers and transporters.

The hazardous waste regulations were developed with a series of public hearings and considerable input from industry representatives and environmental groups over a three-year period. The regulations will be published in the state register on June 11 and will take effect five days later.

Slow down and live.

U.S. Senator
Rudy Boschwitz
reports to Minnesota

How Do You Feel?

A matter will soon face me here in the Senate which may affect the future shape of radio broadcasting in Minnesota. Before I make by decision, I'd like to receive input from more Minnesotans. I've listed several questions at the end of this column — if you have a chance, drop me a letter with your thoughts.

First, however, here's an explanation of what's coming.

Though it's hard to picture WCCO AM radio and its homey and genial crew as controversial, they and 24 other radio stations across the country have become the subject of heated debate here in Washington this session.

WCCO and its counterparts are known as "clear channel" radio stations. This means they operate on frequencies whose use is pretty much theirs alone at night. Their evening programs can be heard for extremely long distances.

Other radio stations are prevented from those frequency bands. If they weren't — because radio waves travel much further at night — signals from other stations would interfere and produce a jumble of sounds.

(The special clear channel status was given to the 25 stations in the early days of radio when stations were few and far between. Protection was guaranteed so that the few would go ahead and spread out their evening broadcasting to areas covering the country.)

However, since interference is more likely at night, the number of stations on the air must be cut in order to keep the clear channel stations' transmission "clear". Thus, we have many stations who can broadcast only in the daytime, and these stations quite naturally resent the fact that they must leave the air when the sun goes down. Local listeners may be able to pick up a station out of Little Rock or New Orleans, but their local station may not be able to bring them community news about the city council meeting or the basketball games till the next day.

The FCC Steps In

To change this situation, the Federal Communication Commission (FCC), our federal guardian of the airwaves, has proposed a change that would protect clear channel service for only 750 miles from the station. This would then allow other stations onto the air at night.

Minnesotans, since they're less than 750 miles from the Twin Cities, could still hear WCCO at night. But, at the spot on their dials where they used to bring in clear channel stations from out of state, they'd possibly be picking up local newcomers to the air.

Further, if any of the public believes that clear channel ranges should be cut even further (thus allowing even more newcomers to the evening hours), they're asked to submit comments. They must be ready to prove, however, that the need for more stations and the benefits would justify the loss of clear channel station service.

I'll get in on this whole act since a bill's been introduced in the Senate which seeks to stop the FCC from making any changes in this area; the bill' supporters want to retain full protection and range for the 25 stations.

Before I decide finally, I'll like to hear from you on the following: Do you listen, fairly regularly, to clear channel stations? Which ones? Do you listen, fairly regularly, to your local stations? Is your nearest station a "daytime only" station? If so, do you regret this status? Do you support the FCC's attempts to free these special frequencies for use by more stations? Why or Why not?

My address is: Senator Rudy Boschwitz, 2107 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510. Letters should be sent soon and, if we receive them before the end of June, we'll send copies over to the FCC. They're also asking for public input as part of their regulation-changing process.

Pimiento-Chicken Dumplings—Bursting With Flavor

This deliciously different recipe for preparing budget wise chicken is accented by the colorful and tasty addition of bright red pimientos.

An excellent use for left-over chicken, the recipe combines celery, chopped onion, mushrooms and chicken inside pastry squares which are then topped off with a zesty pimiento cream sauce.

Add a crisp green salad, ice cold milk and you have a simple yet delectable meal that helps stretch the food dollar.

PIMIENTO-CHICKEN DUMPLINGS WITH PIMIENTO SAUCE

Pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie

Filling:

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¾ cup diagonally sliced celery
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms, optional
- ¼ cup flour
- ¾ cup chicken broth
- 2 cups cooked cubed chicken
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 (4 ounce) jars pimiento, divided

Heat butter or margarine in saucepan; saute onions, celery and mushrooms until crisp tender; sprinkle with flour and stir to blend. Add chicken, chicken broth and ½ of the pimiento cut in pieces. Cook and stir about 2 minutes. (Mixture will be very thick.)

Roll pastry into six, 6 inch squares. Place 1/6th of the chicken mixture in each square, pull pastry ends up to center and pinch edges together to seal. Place in greased baking dish and bake at 350 to 400 degrees about 30 minutes until golden.

In the meantime make white sauce, add your favorite spices and a generous share of pimiento cut into small pieces. Top the hot dumplings with two tablespoons of sauce and be sure to serve extra for second helpings.

VIRGINIA'S HAPPY HAUNTING GROUNDS

Virginia is one of the top "haunting grounds" in the nation, according to the U.S. Travel Service. More than 15 historic homes are said to be inhabited by ghosts.

When is the last time you encountered a ghost...much less two? For nationally-known travel writer Mary Alice Kellogg, it was during a recent trip to Virginia.

Intrigued by a U.S. Travel Service brochure which ranked the Old Dominion as one of the nation's top "haunting grounds," Ms. Kellogg undertook a bit of spirited reporting by bedding down in several of Virginia's ghostly domiciles.

Recounting her eerie odyssey in the May issue of Signature magazine, Ms. Kellogg describes her rude awakening at Alexandria's Ramsay House: "It was well past midnight when I suddenly awakened from a light sleep and felt something cool hovering over me. ...The field, which has been so intense that the hairs on my arms were standing straight up, suddenly vanished."

Kellogg found Halloween a yearlong event at Haw Branch plantation, an Amelia County estate not far from Richmond. Assured by its owners that Haw Branch, is a happy place, except for the spine-chilling screams that have been heard from the attic, Ms. Kellogg dropped off to sleep in an upstairs bedroom. At three in the morning, she awoke with a start to hear the sound of heavy footsteps running into her room and stopping abruptly at the foot of her bed. In the morning, Ms. Kellogg learned that the last person who slept in the room had awakened to find a thick vapor maternally tucking the blanket under her chin.

"At least they were friendly," recalled Ms. Kellogg.

Belle Grove plantation, located in the placid Shenandoah Valley near Middletown, harbors a particularly gruesome tale involving the alleged murder of the plantation's mistress by a dissident slave. Reports refer to a mysterious lady in white, believed to be the ghost of one Hettie Cooley, gliding along the path between the mansion's porch and smokehouse. In hopes of communing with the ghost, Ms. Kellogg settled in a stately room at the far corner of the expansive house.

"Nothing extraordinary happened and I slept well," recounted Ms. Kellogg. "I left the next morning armed with a recipe for genuine southern cornbread and the distinct feeling that the property's manager was getting rather exasperated with the ghost of Mrs. Cooley."

Nearly a score of ghost-inhabited homes are to be found throughout Virginia. Traditionally, the James River area, with its stately plantations and turbulent history, has the greatest concentration of spirits and specters. Westover, Shirley and Bacon's Castle each boast a legendary ghost or two, and nearby Petersburg lays claim to the only house constructed for the precise purpose of repelling apparitions and evil spirits.

The Trapezium, built in 1816 by Irishman Charles O'Hara (no kin to Scarlett, though her ghost may still be in pursuit of the unattainable Ashley), contains no right angles in its interior and exterior construction. A West Indies slave convinced O'Hara that squared corners only served to germinate gremlins and ghosts.

Further down the James, historic Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown also purport supernatural incidences at Wyth House, the Curse Tree and Nelson House, respectively. Fort Monroe, Hampton's naval stronghold since colonial times, claims to house eight different ghosts within its masonry fortress including that of Varina Davis, Confederate President Jefferson Davis' young wife.

But ghostly happenings aren't solely confined to the Tidewater area. Virginia's proud capitol, Richmond, alleges several ghost stories, and the Edgar Allen Poe Shrine stands as a macabre testament to Virginia's fascination with the netherworld.

For more information about Virginia's vacation opportunities, contact the Virginia State Travel Service, 6 North Sixth Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219, 804/786-4484.

Muscle Needed To Develop Iron Mines

Muscle.

That's what Minnesota needed if it was to extract its rich lode of iron ore out of the ground. Muscle. Not just from a body or two, but from thousands of bodies.

Minnesota's first iron mines tapped a pool of trained hard-rock miners from the ore mines of Michigan and the eastern United States. But the open pit techniques of the Mesabi Range mines demanded large numbers of unskilled laborers. In the late 19th century, that demand could only be met by immigrants.

Who were they?

Young, single men at first; mere boys age 11 to 16, who came with their parents' blessing to seek a new life. Young fathers left their families with the understanding that he would send for them when he had saved enough money. Some families came, bringing their few possessions packed in a small trunk or two.

Some fled political or religious persecution; some fled war or unstable times at home. Some left bleak job prospects. Railroad and steamship companies recruited many. Others came to America for the economic opportunity, to "seek their fortunes," to find a chance for education, or to find some sense of freedom or adventure.

Few of these immigrants made the trip "First Class." Most traveled as cheaply as possible, obtaining space in steerage; some herded into cattle cars. As one immigrant recalled of the trip more than 70 years ago, "We didn't know where we were going. The ship ride was bad enough to make me want to go back." They were all journeys of uncertainty, discomfort, and fear.

Another immigrant said: "I saw the Statue of Liberty, and I was ten feet tall! I see the American flag today and I'm still ten feet tall!"

Another, who had never seen a banana, ate it skin and all. Still others became frustrated, homesick, and surprised by the bitter winters and returned home. Most stayed and traveled to the Iron Range through Duluth; some by railroad cars, some by horse, others on foot.

Aside from their proximity in new, harsh land, about all the various ethnic groups shared was the trauma of immigration; of having decided to leave home and travel long distances to an unknown place and life. The mix of specific differences in background and tradition with the similarity of immigration experience gave Iron Range lifestyle its unusual character. This "being united only in being different" had its impact on work experiences and status, social structure, family life, environment, education, religion, citizenship, and leisure.

The Center, a division of the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation Board, is open every day of the year (10-6 from Oct. 16 to May 14; summer hours are 9-9), located just off U.S. Highway 169 between Hibbing and Chisholm. A free brochure is available from the Iron Range Interpretative Center, Box 392, Chisholm, MN 55719.

The first state legislation requiring monthly physical examinations for workers in hazardous industries was passed in Illinois in 1911, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication "Labor Firsts in America."

Avoid Wall Clutter When Decorating

Avoid wall clutter when decorating. Before you hang anything, ask yourself three questions: What space is available? Where should the point of interest be? And, what would fill it most effectively? In the national 4-H home environment program, supported by The S&H Foundation, Inc., young people 9-19 learn-by-doing to create more pleasant living spaces for themselves and their families.

You may have lots of interesting items you'd like to display on your walls, but beware of clutter!

Wall hangings need to relate to a furniture grouping as part of a total arrangement, says Jane Graff, home furnishings and design specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

As a general rule, she advises, place art works about 6 inches above major pieces of furniture such as sofas. To avoid a spotty look, if you're hanging more than two items space them relatively close together. If the wall area to be filled is large, you may need to add another item to fill out the grouping.

Before hanging anything, however, ask yourself three questions: What space is available for wall decorations? Where should the point of interest be? And, what would fill it most effectively?

Wall decorations don't have to cost a lot of money. Such items as record album covers, book jackets and colorful maps can be inexpensively framed to add interest and individuality, especially in a young person's bedroom.

Young people enjoy the challenges of helping create more pleasant living spaces for themselves and their families. And the national 4-H home environment program, supported by The S&H Foundation, Inc., offers boys and girls 9-19 a variety of opportunities to learn and apply basic principles of color, design and texture in practical home improvement projects.

4-H'ers can focus on furnishings, equipment or housing, or any combination of these. Their projects and activities, geared to individual interests and skills, are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

To recognize these 4-H members, S&H provides a number of incentives: four medals of honor in each county, an expense-paid trip to the 58th National 4-H Congress Nov. 25-29 in Chicago for one winner per state, and six $1,000 scholarships at the national level.

Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service and awards are arranged by National 4-H Council. More information is available from county extension agents.

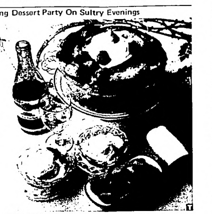
SUMMERTIME ENTERTAINING

Have A Cooling Dessert Party On Sultry Evenings



Turn a hot July night into a refreshing, impromptu dessert party. Lime Wine Sherbet cools a steamy appetite. Strawberry Cake Chantilly heaped with cream and ripe summer fruit will satisfy any sweet tooth. Serve your desserts on the porch, lawn or patio, lighted with colorful candles and torches. A chilled glass of Michelet Cotes de Duras dry white wine imported by the Dennis & Huppert Company will make a July night with friends truly a special occasion.

STRAWBERRY CAKE CHANTILLY

- 1 quart ripe strawberries, washed and hulled
- 3 bananas, sliced
- 3/4 cup superfine sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups heavy cream
- 1/3 cup Michelet Cotes de Duras dry white wine
- 1 angel cake, baked and cooled

Whip cream in Waring electric mixer. Add wine. Fold in fruits. Pile into center of cake. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

For added wine flavor when using angel cake mix, substitute 1/2 cup dry white wine for water in directions.

LIME WINE SHERBET

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups milk
- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups light cream
- 1/3 cup Michelet Cotes de Dures dry white wine
- 1/4 cup lime juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon peel, grated
- Fresh strawberries

In small heavy saucepan, sprinkle gelatin on 1/2 cup milk to soften. Heat, stirring, until gelatin is dissolved. Combine with remaining milk, sugar, salt and cream. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Stir in wine, lime juice, lemon juice and lemon peel. Freeze until frozen 1-inch from edge. Turn into chilled bowl. Beat with Waring electric mixer until smooth but do not melt. Return to freezer. Freeze until firm.

To serve, spoon into dessert dishes. Garnish with strawberries. Makes 6 servings.

Are you hot stuff when it comes to questions on energy? This quiz can help you tell.

CALENDAR
COAL

1. The annual cost of improving oil is (a) $1 billion (b) $10 billion (c) $50 billion?

2. Our coal reserves could last us (a) a century (b) a decade (c) a generation?

OIL

FOREIGN OIL DEPOSITS

3. If our oil companies had more money, our fuel supply would likely (a) increase (b) decrease (c) stay the same?

4. Which energy option can reduce our foreign oil dependence the fastest? (a) domestic oil (b) wind power (c) nuclear fusion?

ANSWERS: 1. (c) We import 8,400,000 barrels of oil a day, at a cost of more than $50 billion. 2. (a) We have over 100 years of coal reserves, but its use is hindered by environmental and technological problems. 3. (a) If oil companies keep the money they'll get from decontrolled oil, they can use it to find more oil and gas. One company, Pennzoil, has pledged to use any additional cash it receives from decontrol to look for more domestic oil and gas. 4. (a) Domestic oil can be found relatively fast. Wide-scale use of wind power or nuclear fusion is well in the future.

Steiner

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2,
City, 681-3897

Annual Picnic June 24

The community picnic held at the Steiner hall each summer will be Sunday, June 24, starting with a noon dinner. Each family is asked to bring buns, wieners, and pie enough for their own family, and one other item of food which may be a hotdish, a salad, cake, cookies or bars. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson and Mrs. Lloyd Larson drove to Rocky Point on Lake of the Woods Sunday morning and returned home the following morning. Lloyd Larson went up there on Saturday. The Larsons have a trailer house at Rocky Point.

Sunday afternoon visitors with Mrs. Vernon Malberg at the Valley Home were Mrs. Hazel Christianson and Mrs. Lydia Olson, both of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Helen Russell returned home Wednesday from Buffalo where she had been a house guest at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Dale and Lorraine Grondahl, since the previous Saturday. Tuesday evening she attended commencement exercises at the Buffalo high school. Her granddaughter, Kim Grondahl, was a member of the graduating class. An open house was held at the Grondahl home of Kim later in the evening.

Recent visitors at the Lloyd Larson home were Mr. and Mrs. Art Johnson of Mesa, Ariz., Mrs. Orlando Solberg, Lance and Keith of Plummer, Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter, Kent and Hope of Strandquist and Joann Kasprowicz of Stephen.

Olaf Jorde, Gilfred Sannes and Vernon Malberg left Sunday afternoon for Lake of the Woods to try their luck at fishing for a few days.

Thora Skomedal, Mrs. Amanda Torgerson and Mrs. Margaret Pederson spent Sunday afternoon with their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pederson at Oklee.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson visited Friday afternoon with Mrs. Tillie Conklin at her home in Thief River Falls. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Larson was a guest at the Alvin Halvorson home.

Two bus loads of Boy Scouts and Cub scouts spent the past weekend in Winnipeg. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson were in charge of one bus. The Halvorsons enjoyed a river cruise Friday evening. Saturday afternoon they spent at the Assiniboia Park and zoo. In the evening they attended the races at Assiniboia Downs. Sunday afternoon they visited the Margaret Park. They all left Winnipeg for home at 8:00 Sunday evening.

Tami Jorde left Sunday afternoon with the Les Torgerson family for Lake of the Woods Bible camp at Baudette. Maurie Torgerson and Tami are the two attending Bible camp until Friday from Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Congratulations are extended to Marvin Yonke, who was one of the graduates at commencement exercises for the AVTI at the East Grand Forks civic center Friday evening, June 8.

Mrs. Angeline Larson and Mrs. John Lubitz attended the Greg Olson - Sheryl Olson wedding at Silver Creek Lutheran church Saturday evening.

Vacation Bible school was held all last week at Trinity Lutheran church and also at Silver Creek Lutheran church. Special music was provided during services Sunday morning at both churches by the Bible school children Mrs. Richard Jorde, Mrs. Rudy Rude and Mrs. Donald Jorde were three of the teachers at Trinity church. Mrs. Larry Gustafson and Mrs. John Lubitz were two of the teachers at Silver Creek church where 45 children were enrolled. Thursday afternoon the teachers and pupils from Silver Creek church visited the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital and presented gifts they had made to the patients.

Mrs. Angeline Larson, M-Sgt. and Mrs. Jim Giles, Mary and John and Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz, David and Dean spent Sunday afternoon at Mrs. Larson's trailer house at Twin Lakes. Mrs. Larson stayed to spend a few days there and the rest returned home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Clara Jaennette and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja of Smiley had lunch with Harvey Johnson at his home Sunday afternoon. They also visited Mrs. Mabel Swanson, who is a patient at Oakland Park nursing home.

The Curt Johnson family and the Lowell Naeseth family drove to Waskish Saturday and stayed overnight. They reported poor fishing.

Mrs. Leonard Yonke was a patient at Northwestern hospital from Monday to Thursday last week following surgery on her foot.

Mrs. Helen Carlson of Duluth and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem were Tuesday evening supper guests at the Harold Halvorson home. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Carlson visited at the Lester Halvorson home and was a supper guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem and Bobby Sheldon were Saturday afternoon coffee guests at the Arnold Haugen home and at the Orville Christianson homes in River Valley Saturday afternoon.

LITTLE OAK . .

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Haugen and Brenda of Parkville came up here on Saturday morning. Mrs. Haugen and Brenda spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Sophie Norby. Mrs. Norby accompanied the Haugens home to Parkville Sunday evening and will spend a few days with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Haugen were brief coffee guests at the Bud Homme home near Thief River Falls Thursday and then went to town to do some shopping. On their way home they stopped and visited with Mrs. Alice Lund in Highlanding.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Homme, Chad and Mishaun of rural Thief River Falls spent the weekend at the Arnold Haugen home. Bud helped Floyd Haugen do some spring work.

Refer Half Of Pre-Schoolers For Treatment

Nearly half of the Minnesota four-year-olds who received a pre-school health screening needed to be referred for medical or dental treatment, according to state department of education figures.

Some 49.5 per cent of the 47,196 children from 429 school districts who were screened were referred for at least one problem.

Dental problems were the top cause for referrals, as some 26 per cent of the children screened were asked to see a dentist. Other problems heading the list included the need for diphtheria and polio immunizations, hearing, speech, vision, and motor skills.

"Health problems are often closely related to learning problems," said Tom Lombard, coordinator of the state's preschool screening program, which was mandated by the 1977 state legislature. "Finding these problems before a child starts school could prevent the accumulation of barriers in the education of a child. This early identification benefits the child by reducing the need for specialized instruction and later costly health care."

Law requires school districts to offer preschool screening to all children at least once prior to entering kindergarten, but participation by the individual is voluntary.

"These figures establish the need for the screening program and show that it may provide great benefits to the state," said Lombard. The 1977 law says, "The legislature finds that early detection of children's health and developmental problems can reduce their later need for costly care, minimize their physical and educational handicaps, and aid in their rehabilitation."

"In addition to potential savings, another great benefit is the opportunity to inform and advise the parent about the health and development of the child," said Lombard.

Some 32.8 per cent of the children with problems were referred to physicians, 26 per cent to dentists, 17 per cent to school specialists, with the rest referred to public health clinics, hospitals and various social service agencies.

The state legislature allocated $1.2 million for the first two years. The 1978 cost was $570,938 or about $12.09 per child.

The screening program is planned for children between 3½ and 4½, although some schools chose to screen 5 year olds.

A total of 41,947 problems were found, averaging two problems for each referred child.

The referral problems are listed below in order of frequency: dental, 26.0 per cent, (10,973 children); diphtheria immunization, 17.2 per cent, (7,278); polio immunization, 15.0 per cent, (6,313); hearing, 8.9 per cent, (3,777); speech and language, 7.7 per cent, (3,234); vision, 5.8 per cent, (2,458); coordination or motor skills problems, 5.7 per cent, (2,393); measles immunization, 4.1 per cent (1,762); rubella immunization, 4.0 per cent (1,687); socialization problems, 2.2 per cent, (949); weight problems, 0.8 per cent, (343); other problems, 2.7 per cent (1,123).

State officials hope for a continued high rate of participation in the 1979 screenings.

The first states to have equal pay legislation for women were Michigan and Montana in 1919, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication "Labor Firsts in America."

Title Search Helps Clear Home Title

People selling their houses sometimes can't understand why there has to be a title search and examination together with a new owner's title insurance policy as part of the closing.

"We just bought the house three years ago, and there was a title search then," one seller said. "Why does there have to be another search and new policy, when there hasn't been a change in the ownership?"

This is a reasonable and frequently-asked question, according to the family housing bureau, a public information service of a Chicago insurance company.

The answer is that although there was a title search and examination several years ago or even several months ago, and an owner's title insurance policy issued, many things could have happened to affect the title to the property since that date. The buyer and the mortgage lender need to be sure the title is clear at the completion of each new transaction.

Some of the things that could happen in a short period to affect the title are these:

—The current owner may have placed a second mortgage on the property.

—The current owner may have made a prior sale of the property which, even though he thought it had fallen through, may not have cleared on the record or may still be enforceable by the first buyer. The current seller may even have given a deed for the property to his spouse or to a relative or other person.

—The current owner may have had some remodeling or improvement done to the house but failed to pay for the work, so the contractor has filed a mechanics' lien against the house.

—The city or state may have taken part of the property by right of eminent domain to widen a street.

—There may be newly-created liens against the property as a result of unpaid taxes or special assessments for public improvements such as streets, sewers and water which the current owner had no control over and possibly no actual notice.

The owner may have a judgment against him, automatically resulting in a general lien on the property until the judgement debt is satisfied.

—The couple may have become divorced, and now one spouse claims a legal or equitable interest in the home.

—There may have been a death of one of the owners, resulting in the possibility of a will; a will contest; undisclosed heirs; minor heirs who require a guardian to convey their interest; estate taxes; and claims of creditors.

So even though there has been no apparent change in ownership, the title can be impaired or totaly lost by these and other occurences, according to the family housing bureau. These developments mean that other people may have claims which take priority over the rights of the new buyer or the lender.

Virtually all of the records affecting real estate would have to be examined from the date of the earlier purchase to bring the title up to date for the subsequent sale. The work involved in reviewing these records — whether any defects in title are discovered or not — may be almost the same as in the earlier search and examination.

Once the new search and examination is performed and all newly-discovered title problems such as those mentioned above are properly disposed of, the new sale and loan transactions can be concluded. New title policies will then be issued, insuring the owner that his rights in the new home are what he contracted for and assuring the lender that it has a valid first mortgage on the property. The insurance pays for any losses incurred by the policyholder in case the title insurance company is found to be wrong in its determination.

The point is that each time the property is sold, the new owner and the lender want to make sure that the title is good. They want to be certain that the current sale results in the ownership that both bargained for. That's why the title search and exaination are necessary.

Senator Says Hospital Cost Cap No Answer

Minnesota can provide a national example of competitive alternatives in hospital and health care, says senator Dave Durenberger. Speaking at a breakfast sponsored by the council of community hospitals in Bloomington, Durenberger said competitive alternatives are a better answer to the problem of spiraling health care costs than is the suggested hospital cost cap.

Durenberger criticized current health care proposals as "a patchwork of proposed legislation, designed to correct the problem, that is incredibly complex but does not address the core problems."

He said the crisis in health care costs is brought about by two forces, a system of reimbursement which removes both the consumer and the providers from cost consciousness, and a plethora of government regulations which have almost totally ignored the question of cost effectiveness.

He criticized efforts such as Senator Ted Kennedy's health care plan for Americans as an attempt to pay for broader insurance coverage by limiting health care cost through more government regulations.

"I do not believe that more regulation on top of the existing controls will solve the problem," Durenberger emphasized.

A more worthwhile effort, he said, would "deal with the fundamental problem caused by our cost-based reimbursement mechanisms and third-party coverage, must be simple enough for policy makers to understand the full implications of decisions, and must be capable of containing costs without compromising quality, access and service distribution nor denying services to the elderly or poor.

"We appear, already in Minnesota, to be well on our way to a viable alternative to increased government intervention," Durenberger said.

He cited the seven-county metropolitan area, with seven health maintenance organizations (HMOs) serving almost 13 per cent of the population as providing a diversity of competing plans. Also helping to keep health costs down, he said, are the growing multi-hospital systems, progressive hospital administrators and trustees who seek better ways to deliver hospital care, aggressive group practices, and satellite or branch clinics, and physicians who seem interested. All of this combined provides a successful approach to cost-cutting "without the heavy hand of government regulation." Durenberger said.

At the national level, the senator said, a health plan should provide for: (1) Several alternative delivery systems (HMOs, for example), (2) employers contributing a set amount to insurance premiums to cover a basic package of protection, (3) tax deductibility for the expense of basic minimum benefits to encourage expanded protection, (4) catastrophic coverage to be added by placing a limit on consumer cost sharing, and (5) coverage for dependents available.

"As the competitive structure develops," Durenberger said, "medicare and medicaid can be brought in to where those programs pay a premium established in the marketplace, just as employers would do."

He said the proposed cap on hospital revenues is a desperate measure, and he fears viable competitive alternatives, such as we have now in Minnesota, may vanish if we move to revenue controls.

"My position, therefore, is that if industry and government begin equally and in earnest to build and test a national model built on the competitive alternative, the cost CAMP should not be imposed," Sen. Durenberger said. "If, on the other hand, pressure develops for only minor regulatory changes or status quo, I must support a form of revenue cap.

"For my part, I intend to work hard to protect and nurture alternatives such as those now present in the metro area, while encouraging an ambitious effort to design and implement a national strategy based on this experience.

"Toward that end, I have asked the health subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee, of which I am a member, to set up hearings throughout the country to hear how such a system would work and where it is now operating.

"I am convinced that we can build a system which is designed around what competitive industry does best — to provide a quality product most efficiently — and, around what the American public does very well if given a chance — choose products with discrimination and care.

PBS Television To Investigate Seal Harvest

Every February and March, before any sign of spring comes to the frigid coastline of eastern Canada, thousands of harp seals climb onto the ice floes to give birth to their young. And every year, the furry, whickered pups become the center of a bitter and sometimes violent controversy between those who demand an end to the annual seal hunt and those who insist on the right to harvest this valuable marine resource.

The controversy is examined in "Rites Of Spring," a presentation of WGBH-TV in Boston, Sun., May 20, at 7 p.m. on Prairie Public Television.

At two to three weeks of age, the pups have coats of soft white fur — and this fur is both a protection and a curse. It absorbs ultraviolet light from the sun, keeping the seals warm until they can develop heavy, protective pads of blubber. It is also a valuable pelt for making coats, trimming for purses and boots and toy souvenir seals. The pups' blubber provides oil for margarine, soaps and lotions, the meat from their flippers is made into a Newfoundland delicacy — seal flipper pie.

During the past few years, members of the Greenpeace Foundation, an organization with offices both in Canada and the U.S., have attempted to halt the annual seal hunt, which they claim kills as many as 85 per cent of the 200,000 or so pups born each year. Their campaigns to stop the killing emphasize the cruelty of the sealers' methods: pups are clubbed on the head before their mothers' eyes, and skinned on the spot — often, the protesters say, while they are still alive.

On the other side of this controversy are those who earn a livelihood from the hunt. Many of those who take part in the hunt are involved in the fishing trade in the summer, but would otherwise be unemployed all winter.

There is also disagreement over whether and how quickly the seals' numbers are being depleted, and whether they are in danger of extinction. An aerial count of seals was made in 1977, but funds for the project have since been discontinued. Consequently, it is difficult to know whether the population is decreasing or increasing. Sealers contend that they see "as many seals as ever" on the ice, while hunt opponents say the seal numbers are dwindling.

Environmentalists have employed numerous methods in attempts to stop the hunt, ranging from newspaper appeals to physically blocking the sealing vessels. A plan to mark baby seals with harmless green dye — which would have rendered pelts useless — was stymied when the Canadian government ordered the plan halted. The protesters then opted for person-to-person confrontation with the sealers; and not surprisingly, were met with resentment and anger from the Newfoundlanders, to whom sealing is a tradition and way of life as well as a source of income.

Greenpeace maintains that sealing is no longer an important part of the Newfouldland tradition; they compare it to slavery as a way of life that has no place in today's society. After all, they say, it provides only two-tenths of one per cent of Newfoundland's income. They argue that the government should put money and resources behind finding new sources of income for Newfoundlanders, and not subsidizing the hunt.

Cancer Answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society, and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

I had a hysterectomy several years ago at age 50 due to a problem with bleeding and haven't had a pap smear since. Is it necessary to have pap smears after a hysterectomy?

Jean

Dear Jean:

The answer to your question depends upon the nature and reason for your surgery.

If you had a total hysterectomy (the ovaries and cervix removed) for some reason other than cancer, your doctor may feel that a yearly pap test is unnecessary and may recommend screening less frequently, possibly only every 3 to 5 years.

On the other hand, if the hysterectomy was a "subtotal" (cervix not removed) a yearly pap test would be in order — since cervical cancer is what the pap test is designed to detect.

In high-risk cases where hysterectomy was performed for cancer of the cervix or uterus, pap tests would be continued every 6 to 12 months.

You should check with your doctor as to how often you should have this test done.

Dear Cancer Answers:

What kinds of cancer are the most difficult to diagnose?

Marion

Dear Marion:

Cancers that are difficult to diagnose are, generally speaking, those that may not have early symptoms and-or develop in internal organs that are not readily accessible for routine examination.

These types of cancer often are found only when the disease is far advanced and the chances of cure much diminished. The most common cancers which may not have early symptoms occur in the lung, prostate, stomach and pancreas in men and in the lung and ovary in women. Not surprisingly, these types are responsible for the majority of cancer deaths in the United States.

The best way to insure earliest possible detection of any form of cancer is to have regular physical examinations and to promptly report to a physician any unusual body changes.

A new publication of the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare called, "Cancer, What to Know, What to Do About It" will give you additional information. For a free copy, write to the Office of Cancer Communications, Dept. S, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Maryland 20205.

Dear Cancer Answers:

What are doctor's opinions about using face creams that contain "natural estrogens"? Are these creams risky? I know there's been a lot of concern about estrogen in connection with uterine cancer in women after menopause.

Mrs. R.S.

Dear Mrs. R.S.:

Doctors do not recommend using facial creams that contain hormonal medications. Their opposition to creams that have estrogens and-or progesterone in them is based on two points. First, there is no evidence that the hormones serve any useful purpose in the face cream. Second, unnecessary additional hormones can be potentially hazardous to the health of some women, even when applied in topical medications. Thus, you would be advised not to use such face creams.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I heard on television about a new cancer drug that is made from platinum. What kind of cancer is it used for? Has it been pretty successful?

Mrs. M.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Cis-platinum, or platinol, is a compound containing small amounts of the precious metal platinum.

The drug has been tested experimentally in humans since 1972 and has recently been approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

Most useful in the treatment of cancer of the testes, cisplatinum has also been helpful in the treatment of solid tumors of the ovary, head and neck and bladder. The results of the drug's activity in the treatment of a type of bone cancer, osteosarcoma, and cancer of the lung and of the cervix also appear promising.

It may be that cis-platinum is simply the first of a series of heavy-metal compounds that will show anti-cancer activity. Even though there are a few drawbacks to the drug, some of its characteristics make it a good choice to use in combination with other anticancer drugs, enhancing the overall effectiveness of treatment.

Dear Cancer Answers:

Does circumcision help prevent cancer? We have a six-week-old baby boy and are wondering whether we should have had him circumcised.

Mr. and Mrs. S.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. S.:

Although there have been various reports of an increased risk of cancer of the penis or prostate in uncircumcised men and a higher rate of cervical cancer in their wives, there seems to be no reliable data that bears this out.

A New York City study of 1,148 women with cervical cancer showed that they were no more likely to be married to uncircumcised men than a comparable group of women without cancer of the cervix.

There are no studies that support a link between lack of circumcision and cancer of the prostate.

Cancer of the penis is very rare among men who practice good hygiene, whether they've been circumcised or not. In fact, the number of babies who suffer complications from circumcision (2 per 1,000) is larger than the number of men who develop cancer of the penis.

Based on current information, cancer prevention need not be a concern for parents in considering the pros and cons of circumcision.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I once took the "morning-after" birth control pill for five days when I was in college. Now, at age 26, I'm having problems with an abnormality of my cervix, a condition my doctor calls dysplasia. After reading about the dangers of estrogen and DES I'm wondering if this dysplasia is related to the "morning-after" pills I took 6 years ago. Is the "morning-after" pill an estrogen? Could this be the cause of my problem? Am I likely to get cancer because I took this?

Worried

Dear Worried:

DES, a popular estrogen, has been used in very large doses as a "morning-after" contraceptive pill. When a woman takes the "morning-after" pill, she is exposed to a dose of estrogen which is much larger than that which she would get in a standard birth control tablet.

At the present time, however, there is no proof that taking a large dose of estrogen for a short period, such as in your case, can be harmful. But this type of contraceptive should be used only in emergency situations. Your current condition, cervical dysplasia, has not been associated with estrogen usage.

You should mention to your doctor that you previously took the "morning-after" pills, since that information could influence decisions regarding the prescription of estrogens for you in the future.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

It's spring. America is in full blossom and the countryside grows more beautiful by the day. But this year, many Americans have been distracted from that beauty by an increasingly ugly reality — the energy crisis, which has given way to longer lines, higher prices and hotter tempers at the gas pumps.

The public is looking for explanations and leadership. But it's gotten little more than hot air — irresponsible rhetoric suggesting our energy crisis might disappear if enough Americans simply go after the petroleum industry with a hatchet, and if enough of them form vigilante groups to spy on each other and force down "unreasonable prices." I do not have all the answers, but let me share with you a few facts.

First, the oil companies are not creating a shortage to increase prices. A real shortage already exists. The seeds of that shortage were planted in late 1971 when the federal government — supposedly to "protect" consumers — decided to artificially control domestic oil prices. The effect was precisely the opposite because through its decision the United States government flashed the following message to the rest of the world: We don't care how much it costs to drill deep wells and explore for oil. (An offshore installation can cost hundreds of millions of dollars.) The price our domestic producers receive will remain fixed, and we're going to rely on the goodwill of foreign oil producers to ensure the balance of our energy needs at reasonable prices.

Result? As costs rose, domestic exploration predictably began drying up. The United States became progressively more dependent upon the OPEC cartel, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. And OPEC has vividly demonstrated that is has the gift of grab. OPEC now jacks up prices (an increase of approximately 500 per cent per barrel in six years), and manipulates supplies almost at will. The United States is dangerously vulnerable.

Our immediate problems pinpoint that vulnerability. The revolution in Iran led to a temporary but complete interruption in that country's oil exports. Those exports have now been resumed, but not at their prior levels. That means the United States is now receiving about 700,000 barrels a day less than it normally would, which represents a shortfall of about 3.5 per cent of normal supplies. Not much you might say, and you'd be right. But look what else is happening to aggravate the problem.

While we are seeing a reduction in the supply of crude oil, we are also witnessing a tremendous increase in the demand for gasoline — demand for unleaded gasoline is up more than 20 per cent over last year. The government has mandated the increased use of unleaded fuel, even though it gobbles up more oil per barrel in the refining process than does leaded fuel.

And to make matters worse, expensive government price and environmental regulations have sharply reduced our refining capacity. Only one major refinery has been built anywhere in the United States for six years, and one on the East coast for 20 years. What a way to run a country that runs on gasoline!

The federal government also insists refineries process a greater share of their crude oil into home heating oil than into gasoline stocks — just the opposite of what usually happens at this time of year. Hopefully this additional sacrifice of gasoline supplies will at least prevent schools, offices and homes from being without heat.

Finally, the oil companies have had to voluntarily reduce the amount of gas they deliver to their stations under contract to try to lessen the impact of the gasoline shortage. Stations are being allocated gas on the basis of the quanitity of gas they sold during 1977-78, not on the basis of their overhead. That means self-service stations might receive more gas than full-service stations, even though the latter need to sell more gas to cover their high overhead and stay in business.

These are just some of the reasons why lines at service stations are lengthening and prices are rising. Still, even at 80 cents a gallon, gas costs less than half here than it does in much of Europe. In fact, since 1939, the price of gas has risen less than most of the food we eat, and a wage earner works fewer minutes to purchase a gallon today than his counterpart did in 1939.

Who really makes the money on the gas you buy? From the time the oil leaves the sand in the Mideast to the moment it fills up your tank as gasoline, all governments, both foreign and domestic, can take up to 65 cents of every dollar you pay. And after subtracting costs for refining, storage, transportation, marketing and local dealers, the oil companies are left with about two cents net profit. The real question Americans should be asking is: Who's ripping off whom?

While Alice, the lovely young heroine of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland", and "Through the Looking Glass", was walking through a magical forest, she chanced upon a grumpy, egg-like character named Humpty Dumpty. The two immediately began discussing the meaning of words.

"When I use a word," Humpty Dumpty said, in rather a scornful tone, "it means just what I choose it to mean — neither more nor less."

"The question is," said Alice, "whether you can make words mean so many different things."

Alice, of course, quickly learned that you can, and this puzzled and unsettled her. During her seven short years she had come to believe a word has a strength and integrity of its own. She could rely on it. But now, Humpty Dumpty had jolted her into realizing that what often determines meaning is not the word itself, but the people using it, and their cleverness in manipulating it.

I cite Alice's experience because it applies to us. It helps explain the growing frustration so many Americans feel toward the federal government — a frustration leading to an erosion of credibility. Today, more and more, Americans distrust what they hear from Washington because they sense the words are being manipulated; they sense the truth is being manipulated and they know they are being manipulated. Consider a few examples.

The Davis-Bacon Act, which stipulates that the prevailing wage of a local area must be paid on all federally funded construction projects, has been roundly denounced for unrealistically and arbitrarily jacking up the costs of construction. The General Accounting Office (GAO), the independent and respected congressional oversight agency, conducted nine separate studies over 20 years which concluded: Davis-Bacon is poorly administered; it adds hundreds of millions of dollars to construction costs and it adds to the rate of inflation. GAO now recommends Davis-Bacon be repealed.

GAO released some truly shocking evidence. It found that wage data collected by the Department of Labor was not used or was "deleted, added and changed. . .without adequate reason or rationale." GAO found that Labor's comments on its study were mostly "misleading, inaccurate, taken out of context, unsupported, and often did not reflect the information in its files." In essence, it found manipulation of words, facts and people.

How did the Administration react? The Secretary of Labor thinks Davis-Bacon is quite all right, thank you, and he dismissed the GAO study as a "sloppy piece of work." The President, who has used the words, "I will do everything in my power to combat inflation," has in effect, done nothing. Reason? Politics.

Happily, the Department of Labor has just released a study of its own which should make everyone feel a lot better. It seems that the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which has been widely criticized as one of the most demonstrably corrupt of all federal programs, has actually been the very model of efficiency all along. Surprise!

Silly me. Here I was, genuinely concerned to read CETA might be subsidizing four existing jobs for each new job it creates. . .frankly disturbed by a GAO study showing that the $755 million summer jobs program within CETA last year provided meaningful work training for less than a third of all youngsters who participated... and really alarmed to hear that millions of dollars are being administered by CETA in prisons to murderers, rapists, and armed robbers — prisoners ineligible for parole for many years. You can imagine my relief upon learning an exhaustive five-year Labor Department audit suggests less than one per cent of CETA money has been "misspent."

The manipulation of words goes to the highest levels of government. Stung by its inability to control inflation, the Administration has taken to bragging it has slashed the deficit in half. We're supposed to believe that's due to an "austere" budget. Sorry, federal spending has ballooned by almost 25 per cent in just the past two years. The decisive words are always left unsaid. The deficit went down last year because inflation pushed your taxes up — an average of $1,000 per household, and a record for any four-quarter period. While inflation punishes you, it rewards the government.

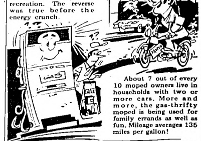
This is a dangerous game; we can no longer afford to abuse words. Should people conclude Washington is not serious, that the fight against inflation is empty rhetoric, they will understandably rush to protect themselves and buy now rather than later.

That will make inflation worse. It will feed upon itself and our nation will risk a terrible economic breakdown. And if that ever happens, no amount of speeches, promises or men, will quickly succeed in putting our economy back on its feet again.

FANCY THAT!

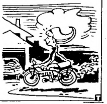
Energy Ace-In-The-Hole: Moped In The Garage

Latest surveys show that mopeds, two-wheel motorized pedal vehicles that have multiplied tenfold in just four years, are now being purchased more for utility than recreation. The reverse was true before the energy crunch.



About 7 out of every 10 moped owners live in households with two or more cars. More and more, the gas-thrifty moped is being used for family errands as well as fun. Mileage averages 135 miles per gallon!

The Moped Association of America figures using a moped instead of a car for an average of 12 miles a day saves more than $200 a year, about $4 weekly. $20 worth of gas propels the average U.S. car about 375 miles. The same $20 buys enough gas to travel on an average moped for 3,700 miles!



RIVER VALLEY . . .

Birdie Gunderson was pleasantly surprised last Friday on her 76th birthday when her neighbors came. A pot luck luncheon was served and a special decorated cake centered the table baked by Helen Chervestad. Mrs. Audrey Stawarski entertained the group and they were Mrs. Eileen Votava and family of Erskine. Sena, Annebelle and Helen Chervestad, Signe Evenson, Shirley Gunderson and Jamey, Lottie and Evelyn Lundeen, Mable Hofstad, Luella Peterson, Alice Olson, Opal Stucy, Clara Knutson and Mrs. Oscar Flatland.

At this meeting as in Erskine, the Mayor, Mr. Bolstad presented them with the key to the city. This custom was later followed at most of the meetings. They also had an evening banquet and it proved so successful with Bjornaraa as toastmaster, that it was established as a regular custom Speakers at the banquet were Alav Dahle, Halvor Lolland, Knut Nomeland, John Brakken, Dreng Roisland and secretary Grunde Grundeson.

The section report was as follows, Same Chairman and Secretary and Vice Presidents. Minnesota Olav Dahle, North Dakota Dreng Roisland, Treasurer Anend Rystad, Directors Knut Hovet, Arne Home, Grunde Nomeland, Tallak Aakhus and Halvor Lolland

At this time they moved to historian or Soga Skirvaren, should go to work whenever possible and expenses should be paid by the lag. There was much enthusiasm displayed at this time and the lag became well known. Story to be coninued next week.

Note. The Setesdals laget of America will hold its 70th Anniversary fest at the Oklee high school auditorium, June 30, Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. and evening program at 7:30 p.m. The Hadeland, Norway folk dancers and musicians will perform in concert. They delight the audience with their talent. A Norwegian skit is also in the making by Audrey Stawarski and Eleen Votovaa and many more local musicians and Skrono (humerous stories) and many more. The evening dance is planned for the new renevated Oklee community hall with music by the Erskine Oldtimers. Let us strive to retain knowledge of the Norse language so we may be able to enjoy the beautiful and magnificent poetry and prose in the Norwegian literature. It is through the reading of the native language that we learn to understand the thoughts aspirations and dreams of our people who came across to America.

Heartworm Is Given To Dogs By Mosquitoes

You probably won't be slapping mosquitoes until at least early May, but if you have a dog it's not too early to find out from your veterinarian why mosquitoes — whenever they hatch — can be far more troublesome for your pet than they are for you.

Canine heartworm disease is transmitted by mosquitoes, and the Minnesota Veterinary Medical association warns that if this disease is not prevented or detected and treated it can lead to extensive organ damage and death to your dog.

Entomologist Sandy Brogren of the Metropolitan mosquito control district explains that it's difficult to predict when this year's first mosquito crop will hatch. It depends on when our long winter ends and what temperatures follow, our early rains.

Very important for you and your dog is rainfall. The species of mosquito that's most suspected of being the primary heartworm carrier hatches when rainfall brings moisture to eggs in low spots. Other mosquitoes, which are also capable of carrying heartworms, hatch earlier in the moisture left by thawing snow and ice.

Minnesota veterinary medical association explains that when a mosquito bites an infected dog it may take up blood containing immature stages of the heartworm. A two-week incubation period in the mosquito then develop tiny infective worms. If these worms are transmitted by the mosquito to another dog, they migrate through the body to the heart. Here they grow to adult size of from six to 14 inches in length in five or six months.

Heartworm disease can be prevented, but your veterinarian needs to test your dog before any preventive program can be started. Treatment is most effective if the disease is detected in its early stages — before obvious symptoms show up and before serious damage is caused.

EPA Bans PCB Manufacture, Monitors Use

There will be no more manufacture, processing, and distribution of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), said the U.S. environmental protection agency (EPA), and the use of exsisting PCBs will be severely restricted and eventually phased out.

"In fact, there have been no PCBs produced in the United States since January of 1979," said EPA midwest regional administrator John McGuire, "however, there are still some 750 million pounds of PCBs currently in use, mainly as insulating fluids in heavy-duty electrical equipment. By bringing these PCBs under strict control, we'll help prevent further contamination of our air, water and food supplies by this highly toxic and very persistent chemical."

Some 150 million pounds of PCBs are dispersed throughout the environment, including air and water supplies. Another 290 million pounds are buried in landfills nationwide.

PCBs have caused birth defects and cancer in laboratory animals, and they are a suspected cause of cancer and skin and liver ailments in humans. Resisting natural decay in the environment, PCBs get into the food chain by accumulating in the fatty tissues of fish.

"The midwest is one of the largest PCB-use areas in the country," said Dr. Sheldon S Simon, chemical engineer with EPA's regional toxic substances office. "EPA has an ongoing enforcement program which dispatches inspection teams to make sure that companies are aware of the new PCB regulations and comply with them."

Under the regulations, the manufacture of new PCB electrical equipment (transformers and capacitors) is entirely prohibited. However, EPA will allow the servicing of most existing large electrical equipment containing PCBs under controlled conditions for the life of the equipment.

EPA will stop the use of waste oil containing even the faintest trace of PCBs if such oil is used as a sealant, herbicide carrier or dust control agent on roads. During the next three to five years, EPA will reduce existing PCB uses in electrical equipment in railroad and public transit systems, and phase out or reduce PCB uses in mining machinery, in hydraulic and heat transfer systems and in paints and pigments.

New EPA regulations will put all substances containing over 50 parts per million (ppm) of PCB's under strict control, except that the use of PCB-contaminated waste oil is prohibited at any level. EPA has controlled waste disposal of PCBs since February 1978, but now these regulations will apply to all substances containing PCBs of 50 ppm, down from the 500 ppm level regulated until now.

It will cost the electric utilities, which are most affected by the PCB ban, between $3.2 million and $17 million per year to dispose of PCB-contaminated mineral oil in transformers and large capacitors. These costs are much smaller than the $80 million it would have cost utilities under the earlier high-temperature incineration requirement. Consumer electric bills, because of these costs are not expected to increase significantly, if at all.

The new PCB regulations were issued under authortiy of the toxic substances control act of 1976 and will take effect 30 days (about June 15, 1979) after publication in the Federal Register.

"...HERE'S ONE THAT'S 'IN' AGAIN..."

To Raise Food Stamp Amount Starting July 1

Low-income families will receive a 6.8 per cent cost of food increase in food stamps from the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) starting July 1.

"The 6.8 per cent increase is based on the increase in the cost of foods in the department's "thrifty food plan" between September of 1978 and March of 1979," stated Monroe Woods, midwest regional administrator for USDA's food and nutrition service.

"It is less than the 7.9 per cent increase in the cost of all goods because the cost of foods in the thrifty food plan, which uses the cheapest foods available to achieve a nutritionally adequate diet, rose at a slower rate than the increase in all foods. With the increase, food stamp users will be getting an average food stamp benefit of 35 cents per person per meal," he said.

Effective July 1, the maximum monthly allotment in the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia for a family of four with no net income will increase from $191 to $204. Nearly all food stamp households will receive less than this amount, however, because allotments are reduced if families have income, Woods noted. The maximum monthly net income a family of four may have and still be eligible for food stamps will increase from $542 to $596.

By law, the U.S. department of agriculture adjusts food stamp allotments twice a year, on January 1 and July 1.

The maximum thrifty food plan amounts of stamps for households of various sizes effective July 1, are as follows: One-person household, $61; two-person household, $112; three-person household, $161; four-person household, $204; five-person household, $242; six-person household, $291; seven-person household, $321; and eight person household, $367.

For each additional member over eight, add $46 per month.

Amount of food stamps an eligible household receives is determined by subtracting 30 per cent of net income from the thrifty food plan amount for the appropriate size household. All one and two-person households receive a minimum monthly allotment of $10.

USDA adjusts income eligibility limits for food stamps annually. Effective July 1, maximum net monthly income for the 48 continguous states and the District of Columbia for households of various sizes is as follows:

One-person household, $306; two-person household, $403; three-person household, $500; four-person household, $596; five-person household, $693; six-person household, $790; seven-person household, $886; and eight-person household, $983.

For each additional member, add $97 per month.

New eligibility criteria mandated by the food stamp act of 1977, which include lowering allowable net income to the federal poverty level, took effect on March 1. States have until July 1 to complete applying the new criteria to all food stamp recipients.

Julie Schelling In Miss Minn. Event

Representing Thief River Falls in the Miss Minnesota pageant in Austin this week is Julie Schelling, Miss Thief River Falls of 1978. Julie arrived in Austin Sunday for registration and will participate in activities throughout the week.

Having met most of the other 25 contestants at a "girl talk" session in April at Austin, Julie was looking forward to the pageant week and the renewal of acquaintances. "I think that session relieved a lot of the tension," she said.

During the early part of the week the girls will concentrate on rehearsals of choreography for dance routines, attend banquets and dinners, have press interviews and meet the judges. Thursday and Friday evenings will be taken up with preliminary pageant events where contestants will compete in evening gown, swimsuit and talent competitions. Miss Minnesota of 1979 will be selected at the final pageant Saturday evening.

Julie's talent presentation will be an original free verse poem entitled "Life Is a Flower". It was written for the Miss Thief River Falls pageant last year and modified for the state event this week. She made the trip to Austin by air Sunday with travel provided by Bergan Travel service.

The state pageant will be a big part of Julie's reign as Miss Thief River Falls — a year that will be climaxed July 28 with the crowing if Miss Thief River Falls of 1979 at the local pageant. During her reign she has made a number of appearances in behalf of Thief River Falls and the sponsoring Jaycees organization.

Among her appearances were Sunday events at the Registration took place on Sunday and preliminary competition will be held on Thursday and Friday with the final pageant Saturday evening.

Close Highway 1 To Traffic Due To Repair Work

Excavation of a portion of the roadway of highway 1 east of Thief River Falls to remove areas which are subject to "frost boils" each year is beginning today, according to the Minnesota department of transportation ffice located in Thief River Falls.

Due to the construction work, which is expected to take about two weeks, the highway will be closed to through traffic from the intersection at Main avenue and Eighth street in the city to the Mavie corner about 10 miles east of Thief River Falls.

Detour in effect during the construction period will be on highway 59 south of Thief River Falls to county highway 7 (Smiley bridge road), east on highway 7 to county highway 22 and north on highway 22 to highway 1. Eighth street in the city will be open for local traffic as will sections of the highway where work is not in progress.

Information On Retail Issues To Be Presented

Informational meeting of interest to local retail businessmen will be held Wednesday at the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Sponsoring the meeting will be the Minnesota Retail association and the retail business association of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce. There is no charge for attendance.

Areas of interest to be discussed by representatives of the retail association will include state and federal minimum wage, comprehensive health act, health coverage for terminated employees, clean indoor air act, equal credit and fair credit acts, worker's compensation, required posters for retailers, Minnesota OSHA, warranty law, repossession law and deficiency judgments, bad check law, child labor laws, unemployment compensation and age discrimination.

Minnesota Retail association is a non-profit organization formed to help retailers solve and prevent retailing problems.

Co. Grand Jury Charges Murder In First Degree

Indictment of Paul Walter Boman on a charge of murder in the first degree was returned by a Pennington county grand jury Friday after deliberation of less than an hour. Five witnesses were called by the jury which returned the indictment at mid afternoon.

The grand jury was called to hear testimony in the death of Duane Morben who died after being struck by a charge fired from a 12-gauge shotgun on Monday, June 11, at his mobile home in Northwestern Trailer court in Thief River Falls. Morben was pronounced dead at the scene of the shooting which happened about 3:30 a.m.

Grand jury indictment charges that Paul Boman fired the fatal shot ". . . willfully, wrongfully, unlawfully, knowingly and feloniously, without excuse or justification, without authority of law and with premeditated intent to effect the death of another, to-wit: Duane Morben. . ."

Called as witnesses at the grand jury hearing were

Humane Society Annual Meeting Slated Friday

Catherine Brey, director of the Grand Forks humane society for the past five years, will be guest speaker at the annual public meeting of the Tri-County humane society to be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Officers of the Tri-County society emphasize the need for community support in its program to relieve suffering for animals and encourage anyone interested to attend the Friday evening meeting.

Mrs. Brey was quoted in a Grand Forks Herald feature article recently as stating that, "We live in a throwaway society. If people get tired of their pets, they get rid of them." She directs the humane society shelter at Grand Forks where, according to the Herald story, some 60 unwanted animals must be destroyed each week.

Officers of the Tri-County society point out that it is not functioning solely to find homes for strayed or unwanted animals but to encourage a reduction in reproduction of such animals. They are convinced there is a need for a humane society in the tri-county area of Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake, based on the number of calls received from people in the three counties.

There are two investigative agents representing the society who answer all complaints of suspected cruelty to animals.

July 4 Holiday Changes Times' Print Schedule

Independence day holiday falling on Wednesday, July 4, will result in several necessary changes in the 'Times' publication schedule. Advertisers and new sources are advised to note the schedule change.

The issue for Monday, July 2, will be published on Saturday, June 30. This will permit full use of Monday to prepare for publication of the Wednesday issue which will be printed Tuesday afternoon, July 3. Because of the advanced publication, earlier dealines will be necessary for both editions.

Usual fine public understanding and cooperation will again be appreciated.

Paper Drive Is Set Wednesday

St. Bernard's school will conduct a paper drive this Wednesday beginning at 5 p.m. Newspapers should be boxed or bundled and placed at the curb for pickup in Thief River Falls or St. Hilaire.

Persons who need to arrange for special pick-up may call Donna Olson at 681-7187. Additional pick-ups are planned during the summer months and will be held in the evening rather than on Saturdays.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In his research work on cereal grains in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Yuri Nikolaevich Klepko is working with more than 1,000 varieties of oats from a number of different countries. Increased production and resistance to plant diseases are objectives of the research program.

Klepko is in the United States under the 1979 Young Agricultural Specialists Exchange program (YASEP) and spent the past week as a guest in the home of the Robert Parnow family southeast of Goodridge. He is currently staying for a few days with the Clyde Christensen family near Thief River Falls.

A 1975 graduate of Kirovskij agricultural institute in agronomy, he is married to a woman who is also an agronomist, specializing as a plant breeder in peas. They have two daughters, one who is three years old and the other who is less than two months old. Yuri was able to see his youngest daughter only once before preparing to leave on the exchange trip.

Although he has made application for the exchange last November, he was not too hopeful about being selected. There were many eligible applicants and only five were selected for the exchange program. He was informed by telegram of his selection on May 18. On May 22 he arrived with the four other exchange participants in Washington, D.C.

Klepko handles the English language quite well, having studied it in school to a certain degree and more intensively for a several month period recently.

Purpose of the exchange program, under which five American men and women are visiting in Russia, is to share agricultural technology and strengthen understanding between the people of the United States and USSR. Now in its fourth year, the exchange provides a unique opportunity for the young specialists involved to observe practical application of agricultural technology and to share cultural interests by living and working directly with farm families of the respective countries. The exchange also provides for academic training in agricultural technology.

YASEP is conducted in the United States by the national 4-H council in behalf of the cooperative extension service and the U.S. department of agriculture. Major funding is provided by the United States international communication agency.

Following his on the farm visits here, Yuri will go to Kansas and Colorado state universities for intensive agricultural training in cereal grain production. In July he will live on three different host farms in Colorado and Kansas. Final tour and consultation will take place at the 4-H center in Washington, D.C., in early August and he will return to the USSR on August 14.

Yuri said that oats production in the Soviet Union takes place on collective farms which specialize in the growing of crops. Other farms specialize in livestock enterprises or other agricultural specialities. In his area of the country the farms average about 10,000 acres and will have 300 to 500 workers employed. Mechanization is increasing and Soviet made tractors as well as those imported from the United States and Eruope are used in the operations. Soviet tractors are also made for export to the United States, Europe and Asia.

Although Klepko draws an annual salary which would be equivalent to about $11,000 in our country, he does not have

DAIRY CATTLE held the interest of Yuri Klepko of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics during dairy day in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Klepko is an agronomist working in selection and seed production of cereal grains, particularly oats, for human consumption as well as feed for livestock. Klepko said that the collective farms in Russia specialize in various areas of agricultural effort with one farm specializing in growing the feed for livestock produced at another. Robert Parnow of Goodridge (left) was host to the Russian visitor for several days during his stay in Pennington county.

City Undertakes Inspection Of Housing

Rent survey committee of Thief River Falls received authorization from the city council Monday to undertake an inspection of all rental units in the city limits. Information obtained in the inspection will be computerized and used to make determinations about the nature and extent of the substandard rental housing problem. On the basis of the data, the rent survey committee will outline what strategies they feel might be effective in correcting deficiencies and its recommendations will be presented to the city council for action.

The rent survey committee, made up of housing and redevelopment authority (HRA) and planning commission members, was appointed in April of this year to review the rental housing situation in Thief River Falls. The request for funding for a survey of rentals came after two meetings of that group.

Proposal presented to the council Monday night called for the employment of two work study students from Northland community college at a cost to the city of 58 cents per hour with the college bearing the remainder of the salary expense. The students would be hired for a period of roughly 12 weeks bringing total city contribution to approximately $600. Following a training period with city building inspector Bob Bregier, the students would go door-to-door in the city limits and inspect all rental housing.

With council approval of the project, final preparations are being made by the city housing staff and the inspections are scheduled to begin June 25. Selected to undertake the door-to-door survey are Marilyn Anderson and Chris Charlebois. Both will be second-year business administration students at Northland next year.

This week the students will work with housing administrator Jan Reid, building inspector Bob Bregier and city planner Jack Quinlivan to map out inspection routes and receive training in inspection methods. The girls will become acquainted with the Uniform Housing Code, which has been adopted by the city as the official city housing code and they will go into actual housing units and make inspections under the direction of the building inspector prior to beginning the survey work.

Anderson and Charlebois will work streets together probably moving through the city by wards or precincts. They will wear badges for easy identification by the public and their inspections will include checks of the square footage of the rental units, number of windows, bathroom ventilation, plumbing facilities, number of electrical outlets, condition of the wiring and fixtures, heating system, fire exits and equipment, general sanitary condition of the housing units, general condition of the building, walls, ceilings and floors, insulation, lighting and ventilation.

Although the survey will indicate all deficiencies found, owners or renters should not assume minor in inconsequential violations of the housing code will be required to be corrected. City building inspector will likely follow through on any violations that might endanger health or safety and require repair of RECEIVING INSTRUCTION in the Uniform Housing Code Friday from city zoning and housing administrator Jan Reid (center) were two Northland community college students. The girls, Chris Charlebois (left) and Marilyn Anderson, have been hired on a work-study program to complete a rental housing inspection in Thief River Falls. Following a week of training the girls will hit the streets Monday, June 25, to begin the door-to-door survey. They will wear badges for easy identification by the public. Information gathered in the survey will be computerized, used to appraise the seriousness of the sub-standard rental housing problem in the city and consulted in planning strategy to alleviate the problem.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Newcomers Club Makes Plans For Coming Events

At the meeting of the Newcomers club held Tuesday, several future events were planned. The first event was participation at the flea market by sponsoring a lunch stand featuring hotdogs, bars, coffee and cold drinks.

The month's coffee in the park was discussed and scheduled. The event will be held June 27 at 11 a.m., at the Wizard of Oz park on Nora Street. Those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

A progressive dinner was also discussed. The dinner is being planned for July with the date to be announced later.

The program at Tuesday's meeting was given by Mrs. Laura Nelson. She gave a demonstration using a sewing machine for appliqueing. The door prize was won by Ruth Tweet. Kathy Turner provided the refreshments.

The next meeting of the Newcomers club will be held July 10 with Diane Paulson giving information about the Jaycee Women.

Judith Faye Stoe And Randall Adamson Wed

Miss Judith Faye Stoe and Randall G. Adamson, both of this city, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m., at St. John Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stoe of Badger. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Adamson, Thief River Falls.

Rev. Barrie Henke officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with carnations. Forming the chancel setting were large baskets of rose-colored fuchsias.

Serving as organist was Mrs. Sherman Idso. She accompanied the soloist Craig Swenson as he sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," for the processional; "God, a Woman and a Man," and "Kneeling, Dear Savior," during the ceremony. The congregational hymn, written especially for the bride and groom by Rev. Henke, was sung to the, "How Great Thou Art." For the recessional, Mrs. Idso played "Trumpet Air."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in an ivory knit floor-length gown featuring an empire bodice with Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves. Venice lace graced the bodice, sleeves and hemline. Her softly draped skirt flowed back into a chapel-length, peacock train. In her hair, she wore double combs accented with silk ivory colored, cinnamon-tipped roses and babies breath. She carried a bouquet of matching roses, with stephanotis, ivory carnations and babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Lana Christianson, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Frances Chwialkowski, Thief River Falls; Pat Hanson, Newfolden; and Rosanne Sandland, Roseau, all friends of the bride. They wore identical, floor-length gowns of rosejay polyester knit with molded, high-rise bodices, short, cape sleeves and softly, flared skirts. Their V-necklines were complemented by wide collars, in the cape-look. In their hair, they wore a single rose with babies' breath. They carried nosegays of ivory and cinnamon-tipped roses, cinnamon and ivory carnations and babies' breath. Their pearl necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Janelle Stoe attended her sister as flower girl. She wore a pink and white floral gown with matching shawl trimmed with ivory lace. Her Princess Anne basket was filled with minature flowers, matching those carried by the bridesmaids. The rings were carried by Brent Jaenicke, a cousin of the bride. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a beigh tuxedo with brown vest and trousers. His boutonniere was a cinnamon-tipped ivory rose. The groom, whose rose boutonniere was accented with stephanotis and babies' breath, wore all-beige attire with deeper beige trim.

Best man was Dennis Nabben of this city, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Tom Wang, Thief River Falls; Rick Kalinoski, Fargo, N.D., and Pat Travnicek, Detroit Lakes. The ushers were Warren Stoe, Badger, brother of the bride, and Tim Benedict, a friend of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stoe selected a floral polyester floor-length gown topped by a pink lace jacket. Her corsage was composed of three pink roses. A similar corsage featuring yellow roses, was worn by the groom's mother who was attired in a blue floor-length gown complemented by a cape of matching chiffon.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mrs. Alice Habedank, Thief River Falls, grandmother of the groom, and Alfred Thompson, Badger, grandfather of the bride.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 180 relatives and friends. Hosts and Hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Adamson and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. James Ziegler registered the guests as Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stoe served the punch.

Centering the reception table was a three-tiered, cherry-chip Iridescent wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with Iridescent baubles and doves. Bells were suspended on pink ribbons between the tall Roman colonnades that supported the tiers. On either side of the cake were heart shaped cakes, decorated with iridescent bells and doves and inscribed with the names of the bride and groom. A miniature bride and groom topped the main cake. Cutting and serving the cake, made by Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, were Mrs. Albert Lee and Sue Adamson. Mrs. Myron Johnson and Mrs. Phyllis Wilhelm poured the coffee.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, the couple is now at home in this city at 222 North Tindolph. The bride is a graduate of Roseau high school, Northland Community college and the Grand Rapids practical nursing program. She is currently employed as an LPN at Northwestern hospital. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland Community college. He is employed by Arctic Enterprises, Inc., in the service department. *Photo, Lund Photography, Roseau.

Our Lady Of Victory Mission Circle To Meet

Our Lady of Victory mission circle will meet Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m., at St. Bernard's rectory basement. Quilts and bandages will be packed and shopped.

Lunch will be served. Anyone is welcome to attend.

May Activities At Oakland Park Home Are Varied

Observance of National Nursing Home week highlighted the activities at Oakland Park Nursing home during the month of May. The week's activities concluded with an open house with coffee and cookies served to the public. To add to the festivities, the staff was attired in pioneer clothing. In appreciation, the members of the staff were guests at a chuckwagon dinner featuring baked beans, ribs, roast rabbit, potato salad and apple or blueberry pie. Organ music for dancing was provided by Paul Grinier of Crookston.

Also during the week, the annual Mother-daughter tea was held with Carol Larson providing the accordion music for dancing. Approximately 75 guests attended the tea.

The monthly birthday party was held the following week. Making the event unique, was the fact that none of the residents had birthdays in May. Lunch featured orange drinks, provided by McDonald's, and popcorn made at the home.

Only two residents hosted private Sunday dinners during the month. They were Ragnvald Eldevik, on May 6, with his wife and Bea McLeod as his guests; and Tilmer Lausness on May 13, who had his brother, Stanley Lausness as guest.

The Oakland Park bowling team suffered their first loss on May 31 when they bowled against the Valley Home team. Members of the Valley Home team were Belle Erickson, who had a high of 89; Hilda Johnson, 58; Albert Bergerson, 51, and Carl Cleven, 40. Tilmer Lausness with a 62, was the high bowler for the Oakland Park team. Other members of the team were Annie Jenson, 59; Olga Ellingson, 40, and Andrew Hendrickson, 38. Bowling took place in the activities room, where practice sessions were also held.

Church services during the month were conducted by Rev. Julius Hovland of Trinity Lutheran church, who was also in charge of the communion services; Rev. Marden Wickman of the Evangelical Covenant church, and Rev. Hans Floan of the Newfolden Lutheran Parish. Devotional programs were given by a group from Our Savior's Lutheran church, Grygla, who served ice cream, bars and cookies, and the Miriam circle of Trinity, who also served refreshments. A special Bible study was led one afternoon by Olga Ellingson's son, Gary, who is attending Bible college in Omaha, Neb.

Other events included Bingo with the American Legion auxiliary and the Eagles auxiliary assisting the residents; slides shown by Bea Erickson, a resident of the home; a program of accordion music for listening and dancing by Carol Larson, a daughter of residents Henry and Bertha Grondahl; skits by the staff, and a program by the Kitchen band. Movies provided by the Public Library included "Steamboat," "Nature's Way," "Frontier Experience," and "Brown Wolf."

Also Agnes Bakken visited the home and distributed the American Legion poppies to all the residents; and the Northrup school children brought spring floral decorations for the doors. A program featuring guitar music, puppets and balloons was presented by Eddie O'Neil, Mandan, N.D., "The Irish Nut." Haircuts, perms and sets were given by the students at the local cosmetology school.

Memorial services were also instituted at the home during the month. Three such services were held in May for residents of the home who died. On May 9, a memorial service was held for Alice Vraa, with Rev. Hushagen of Trinity in charge. Rev. Lloyd Heroff of the Calvery Lutheran church, St. Hilaire, conducted the memorial service held May 17 for Henry Rux; and Rev. Hovland presided at the service held for Ragnvald (Rags) Eldevik on May 23.

Convenience Foods Can Save Time And Money

Convenience foods save time but you pay for that convenience, right?

Not necessarily, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey. In fact, shoppers who know what to look for can actually save money by buying convenience items. Of 160 prepared foods surveyed, about one-third cost less than their homemade counterparts.

For example, fresh peas cost almost two and one-half times as much as canned or frozen. Canned and frozen lima beans also cost less than fresh. Orange juice made from frozen concentrate costs about one-third as much per glass as squeezed juice.

Every day, young people 9-19 are learning facts like these in 4-H projects and activities that help build management skills.

4-H members learn-by-doing to manage their resources—money, time and talents, for instance—to get the things they want or need. They use the management process to reach their goals and solve problems in daily life.

Encouraging boys and girls to develop management skills, Beatrice Foods Co. supports the national 4-H home management program with awards at all levels of participation. Eight 4-H members earn $1,000 national scholarships, and one 4-H'er per state receives an expense-paid trip to the 58th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 25-29 in Chicago.

Four 4-H'ers in each county are eligible for medals of honor.

All winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program. Awards are arranged by National 4-H Council.

More information is available from county extension agents.

Orange juice made from frozen concentrate costs about one-third as much per glass as freshly squeezed. In the 4-H home management program, supported by Beatrice Foods Co., young people 9-19 learn to use their money, time and other resources wisely.

Urges Parental Support For Smaller Classes

Merle Griffith, president of the Minnesota elementary school principlas' association (MESPA), has reaffirmed the organization's commitment to the governor's K-3 class size reduction proposal and also reflected on the association's concern that local school officials are not supporting the concept.

"We cannot afford to pass up this unique opportunity to successfully affect the learning success of our children at this early age," he said. "Millions are presently spent on remedial education in this state and unless considerable dollars are earmarked for preventative approaches, demands for remedial effort will surely increase."

"We can incite a new enthusiasm among teachers, but those class sizes must be reduced. With the rush to close buildings, we will see class size escalate which will tend to push the teacher back behind the desk and you don't teach primary children seated at a desk," Griffith contended.

"We have tried many new approaches to the instructional process but most require increased individual student attention by the teacher, an opportunity not available in many classrooms."

Noting that it was parent groups that spearheaded the legislation for special education programs, Griffith urged a similar committment by parents of K-3. "Nothing worthwhile comes easy in the legislative process" he said.

Griffith pointed out that the governor's proposal "does not take anytning away from existing programs. In fact, the governor has built in aid factors for the more isolated schools, improved averaging formula for declining districts and provides the opportunity for the local communities to levy additional money if special programs are desired."

"The K-3 proposal is educationally and economically sound. It is an investment in young children."

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Cal Offerdahl

Thief River Falls

Peaches and Cream Dessert
1½ cup vanilla wafer crumbs
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ lb. marshallows
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups fresh peaches, diced
1 cup cream, whipped

Method: Mix vanilla wafer crumbs with melted butter, reserving ½ cup crumbs for topping. Press remaining crumbs evenly in a 9-inch cake pan. Heat marshmallows and the lemon and orange juice over a low heat until almost melted, stirring constantly. Chill mixture until partially thickened. Fold in diced peaches and whipped cream. Pour over vanilla wafer crust and sprinkle remaining crumbs over the top. Chill until ready to serve.

The Cal Offerdahls live in rural Thief River Falls with their two children: Cari, 10, and Cory, 5. In addition to her household duties, Mrs. Offerdahl is employed at the Municipal Airport. Her husband is employed by Bridgeman's. The family attends services at Zion Lutheran church.

The Sunday morning worship services at St. Pauli church were presented by the children and teachers of the Vacation Bible school. Richard Geske read from the scriptures. Other readers were Dana Torkelson, Charissa Bjorge, Jennifer Davidson, Brian Mathson, Jacki Davidson, Christi Mathson and Scott Grove. Several songs were sung by the children and Suzanne Johnson offered prayer.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Anton Torkelson home were Norma Belange Ahoe and daughter of Two Harbors and Carolyn Haugen and children of St. Hilaire.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Gustafson returned Thursday evening from visiting at the Erling Lundeen home at Spicer. The Gustafson's grandson, Mark Lundeen graduated from Spicer New London high school on Sunday. Before graduation his parents entertained at dinner in honor of Mark. Guests were Mrs. Luella Lundeen, Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Silk and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Gustafson of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen, Anthony, Perry, Dale and Jeffry of Trail. On Tuesday Mrs. Gustafson visited relatives in Alexandria. She was a dinner guest of Mrs. Carl Johnson and was a supper guest at the home of her cousin John Peterson. The Petersons are leaving this week to visit relatives in Sweden. While they are there they will have an audience with the King of Sweden and Lynnea and Jay Peterson will present him with a replica of the Kensington rhinestone. They will also have their picture taken with the king.

Newfolden Is Set For Anniversary

Schedule of events has been prepared for the Newfolden diamond jubliee to be held June 29 and 30 and July 1 with dedication of the community center on Friday evening, June 29 to be the opening event.

Community center dedication ceremonies will start at 7 p.m. at the center with a free lunch to follow, served by the Newfolden study club. Beard judging will take place at 9 p.m.

Saturday at 9 a.m. the jubilee tennis tournament will begin and children's games will get underway at 10 a.m. Parade will start at 12 noon, followed by a tug of war at 1:30 p.m. Horseshoe tournament will get underway at 2 p.m., followed by a Norwegian concert at 3:30 p.m.

At 8 p.m. Saturday June 30, a fiddlers' contest will be held with lunch and a dance to follow. Street dance will be held at 10 p.m.

United church services will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday, July 1, at the Marshall county central school auditorium. At 2 p.m. a Norwegian choir will present its concert at the auditorium.

Tennis finals will get underway at 3:30 p.m. and at 4:30 p.m. A Folden church reunion and dedication will be held at the Harvey Dyrud farm.

Food will be available for people attending the jubliee at several locations. Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt will be serving at the new community center from 4 to 8 p.m. Saturday and on Sunday noon. Westaker ladies aid will serve food at the old village hall all day Saturday and Sunday noon; and Bethlehem ALCW will serve at the Bethlehem church from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 8 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

Local Youths Members Of Lutheran Choir

Ruth Dalager, Jane Olson and Bill Saetre of Thief River Falls have been selected as members of the all-state Lutheran choir which will appear in concert at Trinity Lutheran church in Crookston on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. There is no admission and public attendance is encouraged.

The choir will also perform at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in East Grand Forks on Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

The 60-voice a cappella choir is composed of Lutheran juniors and seniors in high school from throughout Minnesota. Area auditions were held in January and students were selected by director Mark Aamot from among hundreds who auditioned.

Music to be performed was sent to the young people selected and they were to have it memorized by June 8. The 60 singers met at Clearwater bible camp near Brainerd to begin eight days of rehearsal, singing up to 12 hours a day. They then begin a 12-day concert tour of Minnesota.

Dr. Aamot founded the choir in 1969 and it has toured Europe twice. The director holds a master and doctor degree from Arizona state university in choral conducting and is presently director of choirs at Carroll college in Waukesha, Wis.

To Plan Class Of '50 Reunion

Members of the Lincoln high school graduating class of 1950 are asked to meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Thief River Falls city auditorium to assist in planning a class reunion for 1980.

Minnesota 'U' Tuition Upped 7% For Fall

Tuition at the University of Minnesota will rise an average seven per cent next fall if the increase is accepted by the board of regents at their July meeting. The proposed figures were released recently during a meeting of the regents' committee of the whole.

Tuition rates vary from college to college within the university system. For students in the college of Liberal Arts, General College, University College and dental hygiene program and at the Morris Campus — who pay the same tuition rate and together constitute the largest group of University students — tuition will increase from $271 a quarter for residents and $772 a quarter for nonresidents to $290 for residents and $798 for nonresidents.

While the tuition rate is going up, the proportion of total instructional costs that each student pays for an education at the university will go down as a result of a constant increase in the Consumer Price Index, university president C. Peter Magrath told the board.

"The average percentage of instructional cost paid by our students is predicted to decline next year to a percentage no higher than 23.8 per cent," Magrath said. Students currently pay 24.8 per cent of their instructional costs.

Tuition for freshmen and sophomores at Duluth will rise to $288 a quarter for residents and $792 for nonresidents. Until now, those students have paid different amounts for different schools at Duluth, with the lowest rate set at $271 and the highest at $357 a quarter for residents. Rates for junior and senior students at Duluth will remain differentiated.

Under the proposed plan, tuition at Crookston and Waseca will rise from $250 to $268 for residents and from $687 to $737 for nonresidents. Tuition for continuing education and extension, which is levied by credit hour, will rise from $17.50 to $18.50 for both residents and nonresidents.

Fourth Of July Celebration At Trail Planned

Fourth of July celebration at Trail this year will be sponsored by the community club and Veterans of Foreign Wars post and auxiliary of that community. Parade, rodeo and dance are among activities scheduled.

Kiddie parade will start at 12:30 p.m. with cash prizes for first, second and third place and every entrant receiving 50 cents. Street games and a dunking stand will begin operation in the afternoon when the Buffington rodeo will also be held:

Free ice cream will be provided, coin scrambles will be held for children and a barbecue beef supper will be served. Vern Malafa and his band from Grand Forks, N.D., will play for the dance and a fireworks display will be presented at 10 p.m.

Persons under 12 years of age or 70 years of age or older will be admitted to the rodeo for half price. Third graders will be admitted free and may get their free tickets at Mary's cafe in Trail.

All states, and cities, counties and combinations of local units with populations of at least 100,000, receive direct federal allocations from the U.S. Department of Labor to conduct employment and training programs.

COURAGE DAY CAMP for boys and girls with physical disabilities or speech or hearing problems is underway for two weeks in Thief River Falls. Major expense of the camp is underwritten by Courage Center, a United Way organization. Parents may contribute toward the cost if they wish to do so. The Thief River Falls camp has 12 participants this year with Cecelia Stoltman as director and Jim Vigness and Steve Jorstad as youth assistants. Activities include games, crafts, hikes, swimming and other outings with youngsters particularly enjoying active sports such as this game of dodge ball. Participation in a day camp is considered an excellent way to prepare campers for a stay at Camp Courage near Maple Lake. This residential camp is designed for children and adults with physical handicaps and speech and hearing impairments.

Pearson Bros. Have Top DHIA Herd In April

Pearson Brother's farm was on top of the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association (DHIA) for the month of April, according to Jerry Hamre, supervisor. The Pearson Brothers' herd averaged 54.8 pounds of milk and 1.94 pounds of butterfat a day during the month.

Second place herd in April was the Knute Nesland herd with an average of 54.7 pounds of milk and 2.02 pounds of butterfat per day. Other herds in the top ten were from the following farms with daily milk and butterfat production listed respectively: Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 52.6 and 1.84; Myron Erickson, 51.5 and 1.97; Duane Krohn, 51.0 and 1.82; Orlan Stolaas, 50.4 and 1.75; Robert Rausch, 50.1 and 1.90; Duane Vastass, 48.7 and 1.93; Gary Broughton, 48.2 and 1.64; Warren & Lowell Hamrick, 46.2 and 1.99.

Hamre points out that herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since the amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of his herd's earning power for the month. If many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low even if cows in production are high volume producers.

There are 28 DHIA herds on test and four owner-smapler herds in the month of April. During the month six cows completed records of 600 pounds of butterfat in 305 days or less including one from each of the following farms: Gordon Wetterlund & Son, Warren & Lowell Hamrich, Gary Boughton, Clarence Swanson, Duane Vatsaas and Knute Nesland.

MGRI To Help State Find Matching Funds

Ninety-four members of Minnesota Good Roads, Inc. (MGRI) returned from Washington last week with a new assignment: Adopt a leadership role in making sure there are state dollars to do the job.

The "job" is to maintain Minnesota's road system. Under the 1978 federal surface transportation act, Congress has changed the matching ratios on highway projects by increasing the federal share. Now it's up to the states to come up with matching dollars to get projects underway.

Each year, MGRI members visit Washington on the annual Fly-In, meet with their congressional delegation and with federal transportation officials and discuss the state's transportation needs. Fly-In '79, the eighth annual event, included meetings with the House Public Works staff, all eight of Minnesota's Congressmen and the state's two new Senators.

"The overriding problem is money," said MGRI president Larry Schaub, county engineer for Stevens and Travers counties. "Highway funds aren't able to keep abreast of inflation and costly delays caused by red tape."

There is widespread support among Minnesota's lawmakers for a variable gas tax indexed to the cost of living, thus permitting income to the Minnesota Road User Fund to keep pace with skyrocketing costs.

Minnesota Good roads is an association of 1,500 concerned citizens working together to insure adequate funding to maintain the quality of Minnesota's road system.

The first woman cabinet member was Frances Perkins, who served as Secretary of Labor from 1933 to 1945, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication "Labor Firsts in America."

Let Bridge Bid By Greenbush

Swingen Construction Co., Grand Forks, N.D., was apparent low bidder at $357,729 for a bridge to be built and for approaches on highway 32, 2.6 miles south of Greenbush. Work is scheduled to begin July 2 and to be completed within 70 working days.

Thorson, Inc., Bemidji was apparent low bidder at $53,481 for production and stockpiling of mineral aggregate for US 2 at the Delorme pit about 14.5 miles east of Crookston in Red Lake county.

Student Service To Find Housing Offered By MSU

Anticipating a squeeze in on-campus housing again next fall, Moorhead State University is opening an information service to help students find a place to live when school opens in September.

Although Moorhead state's residence halls can accommodate 2,300 students, it wasn't enough last year, according to Elliott Garb, the university's housing director. More than 150 students were still waiting for on-campus rooms when classes opened.

Already, Garb said, his office has 200 more applications for on-campus housing than it did at the same time last year. "Students definitely are going to need some help."

"The purpose of the program," he said, "is to give students an idea of what the housing situation is here as early as possible. We're not making any promises; we're just trying to give them a head start and a straight-forward report."

Throughout the summer the university's housing office, besides its usual weekday hours, will be open Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Also as part of the new program, visiting students from out of town who are looking for housing will be allowed to rent rooms on campus at a reduced cost.

The university has already contacted over 850 landlords approved by the city of Moorhead and will print weekly reports on available off-campus housing.

The housing office is also keeping a list of students seeking roommates to share off-campus housing and will maintain an updated waiting list for on-campus housing. It also hired an extra person to work strictly with off-campus housing information as a student advocate.

Garb said the university investigated the possibility of leasing large blocks of housing — hotels, motels, other schools — but it just didn't work out.

"We're going to be totally up front about this," he said. "We're telling students that it might be hard to find a room in town if they don't start early," he stated.

For information about housing in and off-campus, students should call the university's housing office at (218) 236-2537.

Moorhead state's record enrollment of 7,033 students this year is expected to go over 7,200 next year.

Gas Prices Level Off As Supply Drains

After record price increases of 2.3 cents per gallon the first week in June, prices were relatively stabilized last week, increasing an average of half a cent a gallon, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA).

Closing hours are also about the same as the first week of June, although a few more stations are limiting purchases and going to split hours, revealed Minnesota AAA's survey of 65 stations throughout Minnesota and the metropolitan area.

About 59 per cent of the stations surveyed in outstate Minnesota are still open on Sundays, compared to 29 per cent of the metropolitan area stations, reported Minnesota AAA. Stations are also remaining open later in the evening in the outstate area; 44 per cent of those surveyed are open after 8 p.m. on weekdays and 56 per cent are open after 6 p.m. on Saturdays. In the metropolitan area, 29 per cent are open after 8 p.m. on weekdays and 24 per cent are open after 6 p.m. on Saturdays. None of the stations surveyed are open 24 hours.

Six of the 65 stations surveyed are now limiting purchases to between $5 and $10 (compared to one station limiting sales the first week of June).

The tighter fuel situation this month was also reflected in the fact that eight stations reported running out of at least one grade of fuel for one day or less.

"Amoco's 10 per cent allocation cut for June really hurt us; they're our biggest supplier," commented Brian Ettesvold, executive director of the Minnesota service station association.

Ettesvold also noted that Union 76 is now allocating supplies to its stations on a weekly, rather than monthly basis, which could cause shortage problems.

Texaco is also cutting their supplies for the next week, noted Ken Wingard, executive secretary of the Minnesota independent retailers association.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full service stations is 87.6 cents for regular, 92.7 cents for premium, 91.4 cents for unleaded, 94.9 cents for premium unleaded and 84.6 cents for diesel.

At self-service stations, the average price per gallon is 85.7 cents for regular, 91.7 cents for premium, 89.8 cents for unleaded and 93.5 cents for premium unleaded.

Minnesota energy agency is helping summer travelers by publishing a list of gas stations in outstate Minnesota that have volunteered to stay open Fridays through Sundays. The list is available by calling the Minnesota department of Economic Development, 612-296-5029, or toll free, 800-652-9747 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The list is also available through all Minnesota AAA offices from a.m. to 5 p.m., all statewide chambers of commerce, the 11 radio stations of the Minnesota State Patrol and all county sheriffs.

Norwegian Folk Dancers To Be At Oklee Event

Hadeland, Norway folk dancers and musicians will appear in Oklee high school auditorium at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 30 under sponsorship of the Setesdals Laget of America.

Organized in 1929 the group has actively performed in weekly concerts and often performs on Norwegian television as an amateur entertainment group. The performers also entertain tourists weekly at the Sas hotel in Oslo.

The group will arrive in Fargo, N.D., on June 29 as part of the Norway "people to people" program will leave on concert tour from there. While in this country they will stay in private homes. The folklore team is part of a cultural exchange with the Fargo school's music department which will have a group leaving June 20 for Norway.

Pedestrian Safety Urged In Summer

Motorists should drive with special care this summer when greater numbers of walkers and joggers will be ambling along streets and roads, advised commissioner John P. Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"The pedestrain toll in 1979 is already about eight per cent higher than last year. Motorists and pedestrians alike should do all they can to hold down pedestrain deaths this year," he said.

In the first five months this year, 41 pedestrians were killed by motor vehicle drivers, according to preliminary figures. These figures could go up due to late reports and deaths of injured pedestrians.

Last year, 115 pedestrians died in Minnesota. In 1977, 140 pedestraisn were killed, the worst toll since 1973 when 149 persons died. In 1976, 120 persons were killed by motor vehicles.

Sopsic said drivers must be extra careful when making turns at corners, particularly when turning right on a red light. "Remember, Minnesota law states that pedestraians always have the right of way in this situation."

He advised both drivers and pedestrians to emphasize maximum alertness and visibility, especially during the night and hours of dawn and dusk.

Pedestrians should always wear light colored clothes or reflective material during darkness. Pedestrians should walk along the left side of the roadway facing traffic to be able to see oncoming vehicles.

Sopsic advised drivers to make sure all windows are clear before starting out. Also, he said, the law requires that motorists turn on vehicle headlights at dawn and dusk and when visibility is cut by weather, smoke or fog so that persons or vehicles cannot be seen 500 feet away.

Must Certify Crop Acreage By June 29

Alton Nybladh, chairman Marshall county ASC committee, has requested that all county farmers certify their crop acreage by June 29. Even though a farm is not enrolled in the 1979 set-aside program, acreages should still be certified as the 1979 planted acreage could have an effect if the farm enrolls in a future year's program.

Aerial photos were given to all farmers at sign-up time and Nybladh asks that farmers draw in their fields and acreages as this will speed up the visit to the county office. He stressed that June 29 is the final date to certify program acreages.

Julie Schelling Takes Part In Minn. Pageant

1978 Aquacade, Grygla fall festival, Blast to Brooks parage, Potato Bowl parade in Grand Forks, a promotional event for Northern Blood bank, Inc., Miss Owatonna pageant, Miss Middle River pageant, farm wife appreciation night, judge of the Miss Red Lake Falls pageant, Jaycees charity ball, kidney foundation auction and several local photography sessions for features in the Times. She will also participate in the Miss Northwest pageant and parade in Detroit Lakes.

As Miss Thief River Falls Julie won $1,000 in scholarships and $1,400 for travel and expense. She attended Medicine Lake Bible school for one quarter and completed the basic modeling course at a modeling school in Fargo, N.D. The intensive basic course included 11 hours a day for five days studying make-up, hair styling and care, fashion awareness and clothing selection. She continued on for another month and a half on a part-time basis while working full-time at Vanity and as a hostess at the Fargo Biltmore.

She says the past year has been one of personal growth for her as she has learned to know herself better and to become closer to her family. The year has gone fast, she said, and she has enjoyed the experience.

"I wish more girls would enter local pageants," she said. "Everyone has a talent and pageant participation can help them develop it. I think the experience would be great for anyone."

When her reign as royalty is over, Julie plans to go to Montana to work for a year in a health spa, then move on to a four-year school to major in nutrition.

Dear Friends,

When a death occurs, the funeral director of your choice should be promptly notified. With the family doctor, he will process the death certificate, then procure the burial permit and begin funeral arrangements.

When violent or accidental death occurs, the coroner or medical examiner must be notifed. The body must not be moved or disturbed without the coroner's permission. He may order an autopsy or inquest to determine the cause of death.

Respectfully,

Area Students On UND Dean's List Announced

Six Thief River Falls area students were among approxmiately 6,000 graduating from the 19 schools and colleges at the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities this spring. Since several University units have only one graduation program a year, students who completed their studies any time during the past year were eligible to participate.

Charles A. Rambeck of Thief River Falls completed his graduate work in March of this year and received his Ph. D. in the spring commencement ceremonies.

Graduating from the school of dentistry in June with a bachelor of science degree was Neil B. Sjulson of St. Hilaire.

U of M law school graduate from Thief River Falls was Richard A. Stenberg. Stenberg received his Juris doctor degree following June completion of his studies.

Three remaining area students who received degrees in spring commencement at the U of M are all from Thief River Falls and graduated from the institute of technology having completed their academic work in June. David F. Borning graduated with distinction and received a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree. Graduating with high distinction and earning a bachelor of electrical engineering degree was Paul E. Kreuter. Final area graduate was Carter B. Green who received a bachelor of chemistry degree.

Grace Dalager Earns Degree

Grace Kathryn Dalager, daughter of Gladys Dalager of St. Hilaire, graduated on the dean's list from Golden Valley Lutheran college on Friday, May 25 with an associate in arts degree.

Golden Valley Lutheran college is a liberal arts institution with a program of studies in the areas of general education, Biblical literature, music, physical development and semi-professional training.

Minnesota '79 Dairy Products Volume High

Although Minnesota's dairy processors reduced butter manufacture by 8 per cent during the first four months of 1979 compared to that period last year, the more than 59-million pounds volume represented nearly 36 per cent of national butter output, reports agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin.

That was enough butter, according to U.S. department of agriculture estimates of per capita consumption nationally last year, to satisfy the needs of almost 38.6-million consumers.

Minnesota processors increased production this January-April of American cheese and ice cream.

Commissioner Seeting observed that the past winter rated one of the coldest and snowiest on record apparently heated up rather than chilled the ice cream appetites of consumers of Minnesota dairy products. In April alone ice cream manfacture was over 42 per cent greater than last year.

Ice cream manufacture in Minnesota January-April totaled over 9.7-million gallons, a nearly 17 per cent increase over that period of 1978, and was enough to satisfy almost 20-million consumers. Nationally during the first four months of 1979, ice cream output was up only 3 per cent.

American cheese continues to be the biggest volume of Minnesota's three monthly reported manufactured diary products. January-April output was almost 146.2-million consumers of Minnesota diary products. Minnesota is second only to Wisconsin in total manufactured dairy products.

National per capita consumption of these dairy products during 1978 was estaimted at 4.6 pounds of butter, 17.4 pounds of cheese, and about one and one half gallons (17.7 pounds) of ice cream.

Minn. Among Top States In Stock Slaughter

Commercial livestock slaughter in Minnesota during the first four months of 1979 yielded an estimated 575 million pounds of red meats, seventh highest among all states and 5 per cent of the national output, reports agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin.

At average prices paid to Minnesota farmers for red meat animals during the period, that amount of consumer red meats production had an estimated gross farm value of over $486.7 million.

Minnesota is one of only nine states that approximately equalled or increased red meats production during the January-April period this year compared to 1978, while national production was down by five per cent.

Commissioner Seetin said that the average return to Minnesota farmers for red meats during the first four months this year was 84.6 cents per pound, an 18-cent increase over that period of 1978.

Pork continues to be Minnesota's leading contribution to consumer meat supplies. The nearly 1.9 million hogs grossing almost 444 million pounds that went to slaughter this January-April yielded an estimated 312.5 million pounds of pork, third highest in the nation. Farm value of the hogs slaughtered in Minnesota was $219.7 million, or about 70.3 cents per pound of pork yielded.

Beef cattle slaughter if the major source of gross farm income from meat animals for the period. The 399,400 cattle slaughtered in Minnesota during the first four months had a farm value of $259.3million, or about $1.01 per pound for the estimated 257.2 million pounds of beef yielded.

Sheep and lamb slaughter continuing sixth highest in thenation, yielded an estimated 5.1 million pounds of lamb and mutton and grossed producers $7.3 million or about $1.43 per pound of lamb yielded. Calf slaughter, at one of the lowest levels in a decade, yielded less than 242,000 pounds of veal and grossed farmers an estimated $330,300.

Two Contests For Marshall Are Being Held

Marshall county area residents are being invited to participate in two countrywide contests — a Centennial photography contest and a contest to name the village complex on the Marshall county fairgrounds.

Entry blanks are available in all the Hartz stroes in the county and the grocery stores in Gatzke, Viking, Alvarado, Strandquist and Warren for the photo contest.

With the development of an early Marshall county main street on the southwest corner of the fairgrounds, the second contest is underway to name the village complex which forms a town square surrounding the visitor center. General public is invited to participate. Winner will receive $10 and two free Centennial buttons. Mail entries with name, address and telephone number to Marshall County Historical Village Contest, 208 East Colvin Avenue, Warren, MN 56762.

Tax Exemption Bill Ratified For MN. Guard

Minnesota's omnibus tax bill, passed by the legislature and signed recently by Governor Al Quie, will mean more take-home pay for members of the Minnesota army and air national guard.

In the closing days of the recent legislative session, a $3000 tax exemption was restored for members of the state's military forces, as well as members of reserve and active forces stationed here, and serving on active duty outside Minnesota.

"Young people considering joining the guard will see the tax exemption as an attractive demonstration of the state's support for the guard," said first Sergeant Jim Wolcott, president of the Minnesota guard enlisted association. "And, hopefully, it will encourage people to stay in the guard."

The newly restored exemption means that guard members can earn up to $3,000 annually in military pay without paying state income tax on it. Military personnel serving outside Minnestoa can exempt an additional $2,000 of their military pay received for such service.

Lieutenant Colonel Donald Simpson, chairman of the Minnesota Guard Association's legislative committee, called the exemption an appreciated gesture. "This helps recognize the guard," he said, "for what it's done in the past during floods and other natural disasters, and what we're ready to do now to assist our state and nation."

The exemption had existed prior to 1977, when it was replaced by a limited $140 tax credit. With enactment of the new legislation, the tax credit was eliminated.

Hold Advisory Committee Meeting June 6

Health advisory committee for the Inter-County Community Council home start program met June 6 at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls. Function of the committee is to advise in the planning, operation and evaluation of the health services program for the home start children.

A wide section of health professionals, parents and special education representatives make up the health advisory committee.

Five local health professionals who have agreed to be consultants for the home start program are Dr. Peter Johnson, physician; Dr. William Ramsay, opthamologist; Dr. Tom Dimich, dentist; Dr. Scott Bentson, psychologist and Gary Anderson, audiologist.

Meningitis Is Still A Major Serious Disease

Childhood meningitis strikes suddenly and may result in serious complications. Even in this age of antibiotics it remains one of childhood's most serious diseases.

But children can recover from meningitis — usually without crippling complications — if parents are alert to the warning symptoms and get early help for their child, said Dr. Paul Kubic of St. Paul Children's Hospital clinic.

Meningitis is an infection of the tissues that surround the brain and spinal cord. It can cause mental retardation, deafness, seizures and hydrocephalus (water on the brain) in children. Early diagnosis and treatment will lessen the complications.

It is important for parents to take a child with meningitis symptoms immediately to a physician or hospital where a small amount of the child's spinal fluid is obtained and analyzed to confirm the disease's presence.

The symptoms of meningitis are more marked in children over the age of two years. They are any fever, often over 104 degrees, lethargy and irritability, failure or refusal to eat, stiffness of the neck, headache or vomiting.

In infants, the symptoms are more subtle, Kubic warned. They may consist only of lethargy and poor eating.

A combination of all or any of these smyptoms should be reported immediately to your family doctor. The majority of meningitis patients do well with early diagnosis and prompt treatment, Kubic said.

Nobody really knows how or why children get meningitis. Childhood meningitis is somewhat different from the adult variety. It is caused by pus-forming bacteria. The infection often spreads from the middle ear, sinuses or blood.

Another variety of childhood meningitis is caused by viruses. The viral variety is often seasonal, occurring mostly in late summer and early fall, and is usually milk and doesn't respond to antibiotics. Each type requires different medical treatment.

Bacterial childhood meningitis usually requires 10 to 14 days of intravenous antibiotics plus additional days of hospitalization for observation, Kubic said.

Isolation unit doctors warn that meningitis is serious if not diagnosed and treated early. They cite a Tennessee study in which 11 of 86 children with meningitis died. Fifty-six of the surviving children were later checked; 29 per cent had developed neurological, psychological and physical handicaps. Only 43 per cent were completely healthy.

The first use of federal government contracts to restrict the employment of child labor took place in 1918, according to the U.S. Labor Department's "Labor Firsts in America."

Build with Stran now.

You might as well get ready for it. Energy costs continue to go up. And most forecasters don't see them ever coming back down to earth.

All that stands between you and a small fortune in energy costs is a well-insulated building that holds utility costs to a minimum. A building like Stran builds.

You see, Stran has factory-insulated wall and roof systems, including our famous Stranwall 70 system, that can cut heating and cooling costs in half as compared to other methods.

Which is why some Stran wall and roof building products are specified for constructing refrigerated warehouses with temperatures held at 20 F or more. So we know how to keep you cool. Or warm, very efficiently.

As long as you're planning a new building, you might as well be prepared for the future. Give us a call. We'll show you why Stran buildings are looking better all the time.

Best Wishes For Julie

Julie Schelling of Thief River Falls is in Austin this week competing with 25 other girls for the Miss Minnesota title. Crowned Miss Thief River Falls last summer, Julie is representing this community in the state event.

The Times joins the rest of the community in wishing her well in the state competition, knowing that she will be a fine representative of our northwestern Minnesota area. Her bright smile and genuine liking for people will stand her in good stead in the state pageant and in the future.

Depends On How You Look At It

Following editorial appeared recently in the Wadena Pioneer Journal:

Members of the Minnesota Legislature have now returned home to tell the state's voters how much they benefited from the 1979 session completed last week with a one-day special session.

From now until November, 1980, we suspect Minnesota voters will be told again and again about how much they benefited from the tax relief provided in the 1979 session. We'd like to remind voters not to be hoodwinked too easily about that tax relief. Remember, you provided it out of your own pocket. The Legialature was able to return the money only because it had overtaxed you previously when the DFL controlled the Legislature and the governor's office.

Why are you going to get your money back? Because voters expressed their dissatisfaction with high income taxes last November and elected enough Republicans to the House to cause a 67-67 split and also elected a Republican governor. This message apparently was strong enought to reach the previously arrogant DFL leadership and tax relief became a major goal in the 1979 session.

Members of both political parties now feel, in our opinion, they have satisfied the voters enought to calm their dissident attitude. We, frankly, have not been calmed. It's our opinion the Legislature still missed the complete message from the voters. That message was to halt soaring state spending. This the Legislature did not do.

Look at the new two-year budget adopted — a whopping $7.4 billion after you deduct the tax relief expenditures. That's a full $1 billion over the current biennium which ends June 30. That means our legislators voted a 15.6 per cent increase in state expenditures over the previous two years. That's above the current national inflation rate.

If you were to add in the new money collected by the state and paid back in aids to local governments and school districts, plus direct property tax subsidies to individuals, the spending increase percentage would be even greater.

Granted, Minnesotans will benefit from the tax relief. But remember, the Legislature is only returning our own money. It's being returned because an unnecessarily high surplus mounted in the state coffers through overtaxation.

Outstate Minnesotans will benefit through exemptions to the state building code and changes in the trespassing law that eliminate posting of farms. But we see little else of major importance to our rural area residents.

And look at what these gains have cost us:

1. The city of Minneapolis was bailed out of the underfunding of its employee pensions to the tune of $4.5 million a year. This state funding means Minneapolis can cut its property taxes at the expense of all state residents.

2. The city of Minneapolis got its domed stadium again at some expense to outstate residents who will pay hotel and liquor taxes when they visit the city.

3. State residents were denied the right to write and repeal laws when initiative and referendum proposals died in legislative committees. Also sidetracked were proposals to force Congress to pass a U.S. constitutional amendment calling for a balanced federal budget and a similar proposal limiting state spending and tax increases.

We're partially satisfied with one major provision of the Legislature's new tax bill. That's the portion which indexes income-tax brackets to 85 per cent of inflation.

This indexing, backed strongly by Gov. Quie and Independent Republicans, was accepted grudgingly by the DFL. But it will help to prevent unnecessary surpluses in the state treasury that previously have been used to meet the ever-increasing spending requirements of new state programs. Because of indexing, Minnesotans will no longer be punished by inflation that rewards a spendthrift government.

But Minnesotans should be cautious in the next 18 months about accepting without doubt the tales of how they benefited from the 1979 legislative session. There are still major goals to be sought and the most important of them is a halt in the soaring spending at the state level.

Because we've been denied initiative and referdum, our only choice is to elect those legislators who are willing to give us those alternatives and who are willing to battle for reduced state spending. Keep that in mind in the campaigning that goes on until November, 1980.

Wildlife Funds Upheld

Anyone who is honestly interested in the welfare of wildlife should be pleased with the action of a federal judge who has issued a written order dismissing without prejudice the action brought against the Interior department in March, 1978, by the Committee for Humane Legislation, Inc., and Friends of Animals, Inc.

*In another obvious step in con*tinuing efforts to stop hunting, the two "anti" organizations sought to halt federal funding of state wildlife management programs via the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service under the Pittman-Robertson Act. They claimed that Interior had not used proper care in assessing the environmental impact of programs designed to enhance wildlife environment. They demanded individual Environmental Impact statements (EIS) on each of more than 600 Pittman-Robertson programs across the nation.

Incredible ignorance of the outdoors is evident in the claims made by the organizations involved. Friends of the Animals, for example, insists that "for 40 years, the federal government has financed the ruination of millions of acres of wildlife habitat for the sole purpose of raising millions of deer and ducks for the five per cent of the population who engage in 'sport' hunting. For this goal alone, wildlife managers have ruined the habitat of innumerable other 'non-game' animals and birds."

Wildlife management programs have maintained wetlands which would otherwise have been drained. They have helped improve forest habitat for countless species. Where there is water for ducks, there is habitat for muskrats, beaver, turtles, fish and countless other species. When a forest is improved for deer, the grouse and many species of songbirds and small animals benefit. Ducks and geese eat millet and corn planted under a Pittman-Robertson program for migratory game birds on the way south. The whooping crane, a magnificent endangered species, enjoys its share. Stopping the funding of wildlife management programs would have a direct effect on endangered species, according to the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies.

Carrol Henderson, a Department of Natural Resources non-game wildlife specialist writing in the May-June issue of the Conservation Volunteer says that "without state and federal wildlife lands, it is doubtful that sandhill cranes could have recovered in Minnesota. . .the only possible future for our cranes lies on our state and federal wildlife lands."

It is ironic that the funds that the two anti-hunting groups seek to keep from developing wildlife projects come from those who hunt. Funds for wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs are from an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, a 10 per cent tax on hand guns and an 11 per cent tax on certain archery equipment. Distribution of the funds is based on a formula which takes into account the number of hunting license holders and the area of each state.

Friends of Animals, Inc., contributes nothing. Neither does the Committee for Humane Legislation, Inc. The simple truth is that there would be virtually no wildlife in America if it had to depend upon such organizations for assistance.

Tax Credit Aids Hiring Of Disadvantaged

Private employers who hire eligible job seekers may recieve up to $4,500 in income-tax write-offs over two years under the new federal targeted jobs tax credit program.

"That's the effect of the new law that provides tax vouchers for seven categories of persons who ordinarily would have difficulty obtaining work," secretary of labor Ray Marshall has announced.

The secretary said that certification procedures to verify targeted groups are now ready in most job service offices, where the vouchers are available.

"It is a real and added incentive for greater involvement of the private sector in Federal jobs programs.

"We estimate that this program will create at least 120,000 new jobs and could mean several hundred million dollars in tax savings for employers. It is a program that benefits everyone — business, the government, and, most of all, the disadvantaged job seeker," Marshall said.

Target groups are:

(1) Recipients of supplemental security income (SSI) payments.

(2) Handicapped persons referred from vacational rehabilitation and the Veterans Adminstration.

(3) Youth, 18 through 24, who are members of economically disadvantaged families (with income the preceding 6 months less than 70 per cent of the Bureau of Labor statistics lower living standard).

(4) Vietnam-era veterans under 35 who are economically disadvantaged.

(5) Recipients for general assistance (state or locally financed welfare) for 30 or more days.

(6) Youth, 16 through 18, who are participants in an approved cooperative education program.

(7) Ex-convicts (convicted of a felony) who are economically disadvantaged and hired within five years of release from prison or date of conviction, whichever is later.

The targeted credit is based on wages earned between Jan. 1, 1979, and Dec. 31, 1980. The workers must have been hired after Sept. 26, 1978, with one exception for vocational rehabilitation referrals.

The credit is equal to 50 per cent of first-year wages up to $6,000 and 25 per cent of second year wages up to $6,000. The maximum allowable credit for the first year is $3,000 and is $1,500 for the second year.

Egg Production Down; Prices Up In Spring

Improved prices, up slightly over nine cents a dozen from last year, helped make the farm value of Minnesota's January-April egg production an estimated $30.2 million, agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin reported recently.

Minnesota's egg production for the first four months of 1979 was estimated at 704 million or 58.7 million dozen eggs. That was about five per cent power than the state's 61.75 million dozen putput during the same period of 1978, but the value this year is $4 million higher.

Commissioner Seetin said Minnesota farm egg prices this January-April averaged 51.5 cents a dozen or 4.3 cents per egg, compared to last year's 42.4 cents a dozen or 3.5 cents per egg.

"Only milk is a cheaper source of animal protein than eggs. Minnesota dairy farmers in May averaged less than 11 cents a pound for fresh whole milk, while the egg producer last month received 49.4 cents a dozen or about 33 cents a pound for grade A large eggs," commissioner Seetin pointed out to budget conscious consumers.

Other Minnesota mid-May farm price averages per pound for animal protein sources, based on the live weight of livestock and poultry, were: 43.9 cents for hogs (pork), 64.5 cents for beef cattle, 95.4 cents for veal calves, 71.3 cents for lambs and 40 cents for turkeys.

U of M Awarded Research Grant

Two-million dollar grand for research in developmental psychology has been awarded to the University of Minnesota's institute of child development by the national institute of child health and human development.

The five-year grant will be used by 10 researchers to study the social, cognitive, and perceptual development of infants and children. The research will cover such diverse areas as the emergence of personality in the young child, the origins of friendship, problem-solving methods, and the developing awareness of melody in children.

Handling Anger In Children Is Major Problem

Handling children's anger can be puzzling, draining and distressing for adults, states personnel at the Northwestern mental health center in Crookston. One of the major problems in dealing with anger in children is the difficulty in handling the anger that is often stirred up in the parent.

It has been said that parents, teachers, counselors and administrators need to remind themselves that they were not alway taught how to deal with anger as a fact of life during their own childhood. They may have been led to believe that to be angry was to be bad and perhaps made to feel guilty for expressing anger.

Experts say it is easier to deal with children's anger if the adult can get rid of the notion that anger is "bad." The goal is not to repress or destroy angry feelings in children — or in adults — but rather to accept the feelings and to help channel and direct them to constructive ends.

Parents and teachers must allow children to express all their emotions. Adult skills can then be directed toward showing children acceptable ways of expressing their emotions. Strong feelings cannot be denied, and angry outbursts should not always be viewed as a sign of serious problems; they should be recognized and treated with respect.

To respond effectively to overly aggressive behavior in children we need to have some ideas about what may have triggered an outburst. Anger may be a defense to avoid painful feelings; it may be associated with failure, low self-esteem, and feelings of isolation; or it may be related to anxiety about situations over which the child has no control.

Angry defiance may also be associated with feelings of dependency; anger may be associated with sadness and depression. In childhood, anger and sadness are very close to one another, and it is important to remember that much of what an adult experiences as sadness is expressed by a child as anger.

If interested in learning more about this subject, write for a copy of "Plain Talk about Dealing with the Angry Child," publication number 645G, available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. The brochures was prepared by the National Institute of Mental Health, which is part of the alcohol, drug abuse, and mental health administration, DHEW.

Small Business Administration Provides Loans

Paul W. Jansen, district director of the Minneapolis district office of the small business administration, announced this week that $5,895,400 in SBA loans had been approved for 47 Minnesota companies in the month of May. The projected additional employment created as a result of these loans is 469 jobs.

Direct management assistance counseling was provided to 321 Minnesota firms through the small business administration's in house counselors or through support groups like the service corps of retired executives and the ten colleges participating in the small business institute program.

Five loans, amounting to $341,000, were made to minority owned firms; making the minority component of the May loan portfolio 10.6 per cent of the total laons and 5.8 per cent of the total loan dollars.

Eleven Towns Jubilee Buttons Go On Sale

Eleven Towns jublice button, designed by Mrs. Ethel Wiseth, is now on sale. Finance chairman, Mrs. Norma Johnson, has distributed the buttons to various businesses in Goodridge and they can be purchased at those places.

The button design featuring the old kerosene lantern will allow everyone wearing the button to attend all the activities planned for the celebration on July 4. Activities include dedication of the old Woodrow school, outdoor pageant, "Weathered Years" and many booths. The button will also be used to get into the old time dance that evening by paying only an additional dollar.

Withholding SS Tax Subject Of IRS Study

Employers who do not follow specific instructions regarding the income and social security taxes withheld from their employees' wages can expect close attention from the Internal Revenue service.

This severity exists because employers act as trustees for part of their employees' wages. Withheld income and social security taxes belong to the employees who earned the money rather than to the employer who paid the wages and who must pay over the withholding to the IRS. In effect, employers who are delinquent with social security and income taxes are misusing other people's money, the IRS says.

Specific instructions on withholding from wages, filing employment tax returns and paying over withheld taxes are in IRS publication 539, "Withholding Taxes and Reporting Requirements," and incircular E, "Employer's Tax Guide," both of which are available free from local IRS offices.

Employers can also attend IRS-sponsored small business tax workshops to learn about their federal employment tax responsibilities. Information about these free workshops, as well as about IRS publications, is available by calling the tax assistance number listed in your local directory.

Repeatedly failing to promptly file or pay taxes due on form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return," may subject an employer's business practices to scrutiny leading to inclusion in the IRS' trust fund compliance program.

An employer with a history of not meeting his or her withholding tax responsibilities usually receives an IRS letter warning that future trust fund violations may lead to placement in this program. After receiving this warning, the employer's withholding tax practices are observed by IRS collection personnel. Should the monitored employer continue to circumvent withholding tax reporting or payment requirements, local IRS officials may place him or her into the trust fund compliance program.

Only a business financially able to meet current withholding tax liabilities while paying off past obilgations is admitted to this program which is intended to help on-going businesses achieve withholding tax stability. Businesses which cannot meet this criterion will be subject to immediate collection procedures such as seizures and sale of business assets to pay owed withholding taxes.

An employer who is placed in the program may be required to file and pay withholding taxes monthly rather than quarterly. A program employer may also be required to open a special bank account into which the current withholding taxes must be deposited within two working days after the employees are paid their wages. While in the program, an employer's filing and payment habits also are closely monitored.

Fulfilling current withholding obilgations and paying old liabilities qualifies an employer for release from the program. However, failure to comply with these requirements may result in criminal prosecution with subsequent fines or imprisonment.

Internal Revenue service reports that most employers fulfill their withholding obilgations without special IRS attention. Withholding tax stability is achieved by many other employers during the "warning letter" stage while many others successfully attain withholding tax reliability in the trust fund compliance program.

All in all, IRS collection procedures are designed for one purpose: to insure that all taxpayers pay their fair share — no more, no less.

State Patrol Seeks Trooper Applicants

Applications are being accepted for state patrol trooper positions through July 2, according to Col. James C. Crawford, chief of the patrol, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Because state law now requires higher standards for state troopers and other peace officers, only three groups are eligible to apply," said Crawford. To apply, persons must meet one of the following qualifications:

—Have completed the academic training required by the Minnesota Police Officers Standards and Training (POST) board and will be taking the licensing exam. (Failure to pass the exam will mean disqualification for a trooper candidate position.);

—Have completed a POST board training course and are now serving the probation requirements with a law enforcement agency;

—or, have a valid Minnesota peace officers license.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, at least age 18, in good physical condition and without any emotional or mental conditions that might hamper performance as a law enforcement officer.

Persons applying must also be free of any felony convictions and have a valid Minnesota driver license or be able to obtain one.

Applications must be received no later than 4:30 p.m. July 2 at the state Department of Personnel, Space Center Building, Third Floor, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Applicants selected will be required to pass written and oral exams, physical and agility tests and a background investigation before being admitted to the 16-week trooper candidate school next fall in St. Paul. Actual hiring as a trooper will be done after a person successfully completes training.

Application forms are available at state Job Services offices; through the State Patrol Training Center, 1900 W. County Road I, St. Paul, MN 55112, 612-636-4990 or at the Patrol District Office, Zeh and State Ave., TRF, 56701, 218-681-3741.

Soo Line To Pay Dividend Of 76 Cents

A dividend of 76 cents per share on the capital stock of Soo Line railroad company was declared today by the company's board of directors meeting in Minneapolis. The dividend will be paid July 26, 1979, to holders of record July 6, 1979.

Soo Line's common stock was split three-for-one on Jan. 31, 1979, and on a restated basis which reflects the stock split. Soo paid dividends during the past year of 86 two-thirds cents in January, 1979, and 66 two-thirds cents per share in July, 1978.

Soo's board of directors has not established a fixed dividend rate for the company's common stock. The board, however, considers the matter of dividends at its regular June and December meetings.

The company currently has 7,595,455 shares of its single class of stock outstanding among approximately 4,600 shareholders.

State Fair Employment Service Opens

Applications for employment at the 1979 Minnesota state fair will be accepted by the Minnesota department of employment services beginning June 18. Persons aged 16 and over may apply for summer and fair period positions at the employment office, located at the north end of the 4-H building on the state fairgrounds.

Office hours June 18 through August 13 will be 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday. Beginning August 14, the office will be open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day through Monday, September 3.

More than 1,700 state fair employees are hired through the state employment service last year. Positions will be filled on the basis of applicants' qualifications and the needs of state fair departments, exhibitors and concessionaires.

For more information, contact Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul, 55108; phone (612) 645-2781.

Mrs. Quie Sets Plans To Host Mansion Visits

Minnesota's First Lady, Gretchen Quie, thinks at least some of the state's citizens should have an opportunity to spend a night at the governor's Summit Avenue residence in St. Paul. She has organized a special program for Minnesotans interested in doing so.

"This 20 room house is a unique experience in itself, and we'd like to share it in many ways with Minnesota citizens. There is a great deal of interest in the historical society tours on the third Thursday and first Saturday afternoons of each month. We look upon this program as a kind of extension of those tours," Mrs. Quie said.

Here's how the program will work: Minnesotans who fall into one of four special categories (there's one for each of the guest bedrooms) are asked to send a postcard before July 2 indicating the category, name, address and phone number to: Gretchen Quie, "A Night at the Governor's Mansion", 1006 Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55105.

The four eligibility catefories for the July 16 overnight are: (1) Retired school teacher with brown eyes (and spouse); (2) A single grocery store clerk from north of St. Cloud; (3) Two sisters with last name beginning with the letter B; or (4) A state employee who plays the guitar (and spouse).

People whose postcards arrive before July 2 will be separated into the proper category and one will be selected at random. The winners will receive a confirming call and plans will be made to spend a night at the governor's mansion."

The itinerary is flexible, according to Mrs. Quie, and will include a Monday evening dinner, followed by some entertainment or possibly a game or two. Mrs. Quie will serve as hostess. It will be "lights out" before 11 p.m. Tuesday breakfast will be at 8:30 a.m. and a tour of the Capitol is included immediately afterwards.

The program was announced by Mrs. Quie at a June 14, 9:30 a.m. governor's residence news conference. Mrs. Quie hopes to have future overnight guests through continuing the program with many different categories as times goes on.

Former Oklee Resident To Tour Norway

Michael Radniecki, former Oklee resident, will spend three weeks this summer touring Norway with a select group of 150 choir, band and orchestra students from the Fargo public schools. Radniecki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Radniecki of Oklee and grandson of Mrs. Hilma Stromberg of Thief River Falls, will direct a 22 voice pop choir and will share directing honors for the 50-voice concert choir.

The trip was organized at the invitation of Fargo's sister city Hamar and the group's members will stay with Norwegian families. The tour will begin with a three-day international music festival in Hamar followed by six to eight additional concerts in the cities of Oslo, Lillehammer, Vass, Gol, Kristiansand, Bergen, and Copenhagen, Denmark.

Barb Lundeen At Conservation Leader Camp

Barbara Lundeen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen and a member of the Deer Park 4-H club, attended conservation leadership conference June 4-8. The camp was held at the University of Minnesota forestry and biological station at Lake Itasca.

While at camp, campers went on bus tours, a forest and water environment tour and a prairie environment and interrelationships tour. They also attended classes of their choices in aquatic ecology, plant identification, wild edibles, insect collections, hunting ethics, firearm safety, compass, pacing and land use.

Barbara was selected for the trip from among applicants of 4-H conservation project members throughout the county. Her trip was sponsored by the county 4-H leader's council.

Area Students On President's Roll At UND

Among the 336 University of North Dakota students named to the president's roll of honor for the spring semester were five area students. Earning a spot on the roll, which recognizes outstanding academic accomplishment over the course of the student's academic career, were Rebecca Nelson of Goodridge, and Roger Erikkson, Diane Hellie, Kevin Kompelien and Robbin Trontvet, all of Thief River Falls.

To qualify for the president's roll, students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.8 or higher on a 4.0 system, have earned a cumulative minimum of 30 semester hours and have earned a minimum at the close of the last semester.

TRF, Bemidji Legion Teams Meet

As was expected, Thief River Falls and Bemidji American Legion baseball teams, not originally scheduled to face each other this year, have gotten together and will meet Tuesday at Bemidji.

It'll be a good test for Terry Sullivan's young Thief River Falls squad, 2-0 for the year after surprising a strong Roseau club 3-1 and handling a not-so-strong Warroad outfit 8-1.

Bemidji, after a season-opening loss at Brainerd, has bounced back to beat Wadena and Park Rapids. The win over Wadena, whose high school team lost just one game all year — in the Class A state tournament semifinals — was particularly impressive. TThen on Thursday Dave Evenson pitched a no-hitter as Bemidji drilled Park Rapids 12-2 in six innings. Evenson struck out eight and walked two. Park Rapids used those two walks in the third, along with a throwing error, to get on the scoreboard. Bemidji pounded out 14 hits off two Park Rapids pitchers, collecting five extra base hits.

A Bemidji doubleheader at New York Mills Friday never materialized. The Bemidji squad left home with 12 players in three cars. But one car carrying six players broke down. Coach Whitey Anderson, when he learned of the situation, sent two of his remaining six players back to locate their stranded teammates. But the pair were unable to locate either the players or the car.

Thief River Falls, after playing Bemidji, will complete its first swing through the six-team Northwest League with games Thurs., June 21, against East Grand Forks; Tues., June 26, at Warren; and Thurs., June 28, at Crookston.

Crookston's Brian Bachmeier two-hit Warren Thursday in a 9-1 victory.

Miscellaneous

+Region 8AA boys high school golf tournament will be played at the Pebble Lake golf course in Fergus Falls in 1980. Thief River Falls and St. Cloud Tech are already mentioned as championship favorites.

+Ada Booster Club has asked that funds it gave the Ada school district to invest two years ago be used to continue the baseball and golf programs that have been cut at the school. The club gave the district about $3,200 in 1977 when the Ada school board voted to discontinue the junior high school athletic program and the money was kept by the district in a contingency fund. Members of the Booster Club felt if the money isn't used to assure continuation of baseball and golf that they would like to have the money returned.

+Steve Lundeen, a standout Fergus Falls high school hockey player, will attend the University of Minnesota-Duluth and coach Wayne Horgen of the Otters says that Lundeen "can fill the bill" as a hockey player at UMD. Lundeen scored 100 points during his prep hockey career.

+Several Thief River Falls players are expected to face world-famous softball pitcher Eddie Feigner Mon., June 25, when the "King and his Court" perform in Crookston. The 7 p.m. exhibition is sponsored by the Crookston park and recreation department.

+Work begain this month on the new Bemidji high school all-weather track. The 400-meter facility will be located behind the junior high school gymnasium, with a new football practice field included inside the running lanes. Grading it well underway, with the track expected to be completed by late summer. It'll be the first track facility for the Lumberjacks in their 33 year track history.

+Northland community college football coach Irv Smith was one of 13 northern Minnesota high school and college coaches who listened to new University of Minnesota football coach Joe Salem during a two-day speaking session at Bemidji State University recently.

John (Papa John) Drury, the oldest active ball player in Thief River Falls, pitched a rare no-hitter Wednesday as the St. Hilaire Bears blanked Popplers-Action Realty 7-0 to take over the Division II lead in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association. The week's busy slate of games also featured the fall of the 32-team association's final unbeaten team — Division III leader Arctic IWA.

Division I

Doubleheader splits were commonplace in Division I Wednesday.

Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. edged Tony Dorn, Inc. 13-12 in a home run contest as Jim Carlson and John Nelson homered for the winners while Randy Dallmann hit two homers and Jim Leach added another for the losers.

Tony Dorn, Inc. bounced back to trip Wagon Wheel 4-2 but Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. lost its second game to Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. 17-3 as Jeff Kosel went 4-for-4 and Gary Laidley homered for the winners.

To complete the series of twinbill splits, Wagon Wheel defeated Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. 11-6.

Division II

Gordy Peterson was 3-for-3, hitting two home runs, and Rick Koivisto also homered as First Federal Savings & Loan Association dropped Bridgeman's from the Division II lead, 23-11 Wednesday.

Hamms-Pizza Hut routed Home Lumber 23-13 when Jim Olson and Mike Leach both scored four times.

Division III

Arctic IWA, with Greg Bulger going 4-for-5, ran its Division III season-opening winning streak to six games by beating Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 18-12 in the first half of a Thursday doubleheader but lost the nightcap 13-9 to Schumacher's Tireland despite holding a 16-8 base hit advantage.

The Club stunned Phase II with a seven-run outburst in the top of the seventh inning for a 9-8 come-from-behind victory.

Chuck Hoard and Mark Haats homered as Consumer's Co-op Association handed Great Northwest Agency, Inc. its second loss of the night, 16-5.

Division IV

Jim Kohler, Jim Vigness and Steve Jorstad all hit two-run home runs as Lon's Restaurant & Pub snapped a season-long five-game losing streak with a 12-2 Thursday night Division IV triumph over the TRF Aggies.

Jean Junction-Rundell Electric secured its hold on first place with a 7-6 squeeker over Kmart while Smith & Holthusen handled Tip & Ring 15-4.

One-game winning streak by Lon's Restaurant & Pub came to an end in Friday's only game, won by Kmart 14-9.

Grygla Holds Area Wildlife Meeting June 26

Because of flooding conditions and travel restrictions at the time of the annual wildlife meeting in April, the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District has rescheduled the wildlife meeting for Tues., June 26, at 8 p.m. at the district office in Grygla.

The wildlife meeting is held for the purpose of inviting state and federal wildlife and forestry personnel to meet with the board to discuss changes in their operations and plans for the upcoming year. The meeting is open to the public and all landowners and interested parties are invited to attend and talk over any problems or suggestions that might arise.

The district board will be holding it's monthly meeting that same night beginning at 7 p.m. The public is also welcome to attend the board meeting as all board meetings are open to the public.

Tom Zieman Wins Title In Father's Day Shortstop

Tom Zieman, a former Lincoln high school standout now a member of the Bemidji State University golf team, shot a 27-hole total of 106 Sunday to win the annual Father's Day shortstop golf tournament at the Thief River Country Club.

Zieman, an International Falls high school graduate, propelled himself into the lead with an outstanding second-nine total of 33. His two-under-par total provided him with a four-shot cushion over his nearest rival, defending champion Wade Hoppe of Thief River Falls.

Bob Fitzgerald and 1979 Minnesota golf association player's champion Scot Ham's of Roseau were tied for third at 111. Fosston's Greg Mireault and Thief River Falls' Mike Kosel were next at 112, followed by Lee Sorenson of Red Lake Falls with 113. Bob Ham's Scott's father, 114 and Dave Engelsgaard of Fosston at 115.

Stan Sjoberg won the first flight with victories over Scott Blankenfeld, Wes Plummer and runner-up Bruce Restad. John Moum nudged Blankenfeld in a three-hold sudden-death playoff for consolation honors.

Second flight action was highlighted by Champion Vince Vanyo's wins over Joel Carlson, Rick Reierson and runner-up Jon Bolen. Rick Johnson defeated Dennis Schmidtke in the consolation finals.

Wins over Mel Aase, Milt Reierson and runner-up Blaine Rugland enabled Jim Frieson to claim the Third flight championship. Monty Markstrom beat Ford for consolation honors.

Rick Anderson knocked off Clayton Hefty, Carl Hanson and runner-up Cliff Mattson to win the sixth flight. Hefty came back to win the consolation championship over Gary Olson.

Seventh flight honors went to Ed Debnes, who used victories over Ken Blokzyl, Ed Sylvester and runner-up Bob Mjeon to claim them. Bob Beaulieau was beaten by Blokzyl in the consolation bracket finals.

Harder Has No-Hitter . . .

Busy Week Ends For TRF Elks, Merchants

East Grand Forks and Bemidji teams handed the Thief River Falls 13-15-year-old Elks Babe Ruth baseball team three losses to complete a busy five-game week for the Thief River Falls squad.

The Elks, after beginning the week with a 10-9 win at Crookston Monday, stretched their season-opening winning streak to five games Wednesday with a 12-2 triumph over Red Lake Falls. But East Grand Forks Red ended the string Friday, 15-7, and the Bemidji Lions took both ends of a Saturday doubleheader, 5-4 and 9-6.

Meanwhile, the 13-year-old Thief River Falls Merchants began play with a 13-7 win at Crookston Wednesday and added an 18-1 victory over East Grand Forks Friday.

The Elks, after their four-game homestand, will be on the road this week, playing a 1 p.m. game against the East Grand Forks Blue Tuesday and playing a 1 p.m. doubleheader against the Bemidji Braves Saturday.

The Merchants will host Roseau in a 1 p.m. doubleheader Wednesday on the Northland community college diamond.

Elks — RLF

Thief River Falls collected eight base hits, including a 3-for-4 performance by Tim Bergland and a 2-for-2 effort by Rick Langlie. They both scored three times.

Elks — EGF

East Grand Forks Red utilized five walks and a double in the fourth inning to score five times in a 15-7 victory over Thief River Falls.

Kerry Wollin was the game's losing pitcher. He succeeded Rick Langlie and Rob Blankenfeld on the mound for the Elks, out-hit 7-4.

Elks — Bemidji

Five first inning walks issued by losing pitcher Greg Harder led to three runs and a 5-4 Bemidji Lions win in the doubleheader opener. Harder, after the first inning, toughened as he limited the Lions to just three base hits. Thief River Falls did its damage in the third inning when Tim Bergland's two-run double highlighted a four-run inning. Harder, who belted a long RBI triple, had two of the four Thief River Falls hits.

Out-hit 9-7, the Lions still came away with a 9-6 second game win against Elks pitcher Dave Stimac. The Elks attack featured Harder, 2-for-3 and 2 RBI; Bergland, 2-for-4, 2 RBI; Jeff Milander, 2-for-3 with a 370-foot ground-rule double; and Rob Blankenfeld, 2-for-3.

Merchants — EGF

Winning pitcher Tim Bottem also homered and was 2-for-3 as the Thief River Falls Merchants drilled East Grand Forks 18-1.

Scott Johnson was 2-for-2 for the winners, hitting a pair of doubles.

BEATING OUT an infield single, Schmidts Stealers base runner Sharon Elshaug crossed the bag as Credit Bureau first baseman Marsha Quigley waited for the second inning throw during Wednesday's Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league game. After spotting Credit Bureau a 2-0 lead, the Schmidt Stealers came back to win easily, 28-5.

SCHMIDTS STEALERS base runner Florence Froschheiser was tagged out at the plate by Credit Bureau catcher Jamie Hanson on a bases-loaded force play in the first inning of Wednesday's Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league game played on the Northland community college diamond. The Schmidts Stealers, benefiting from eight first inning walks, won the game 28-5.

Unbeaten Pizza Hut, RLF Meet Tonight In Softball

Pizza Hut and the Schmidt Stealers climbed into a first place tie with idle Red Lake Falls Wednesday with wins in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league. That sets the stage for tonight's (Monday) 7:40 p.m. confrontation on the fairgrounds diamond II matching Pizza Hut against Red Lake Falls in a battle of 4-0 teams.

Gayle Peterson homered and tripled as Pizza Hut defeated the St. Hilaire Saints 18-6 Wednesday. A solo home run by Georgine Troska began a third inning outburst by the winners that decided the contest. Additional extra base hits included a triple by Sharon Stauss of the St. Hilaire Saints and a double by Sally Collins of Pizza Hut.

Three Credit Bureau pitchers served up eight first inning walks in a 28-5 loss to the Schmidt Stealers. The winners scored nine times that inning in matching Red Lake Falls and Pizza Hut with a 4-0 record. Connie Hedlund hit a pair of home runs for the losers.

In a Middle River match-up, Great Northwest Agency dropped the Ridge Runners from the ranks of the unbeaten, 6-3 despite doubles by the Ridge Runners' Vicki Lorenson and Tracey Nelson.

Hydra Mac-Toreq kept pace with the league leaders by tripping Falls Clinic 8-7. The loss spoiled an outstanding night at the plate for Helen Anderson who hit two and three-run home runs for Falls Clinic.

Farmer's Co-op Stingers bats were active as Laurie Bottem hit a bases-loaded triple, Deb Berggren had a bases-loaded double and Linda Rux belted a two-run double in a 13-3 victory over First Federal Savings & Loan Association.

Sally Martinson enjoyed a 4-for-4 night at the plate, including a home run, as the Healthy Hustlers beat Rusty Nail 8-1 in a match-up in winless teams.

Ekeren handled J & B 18-1 in the drug store match-up behind the home run hitting of Kelly Storhaug and Patty Myers.

Roseau Transport came from behind for a 12-9 victory to prevent Ekeren Drug from claiming a doubleheader victory. The losers' efforts included two double plays and a Storhaug home run.

Dallmann Athletic Tagged With Two Losses

North Star Transport Is Fast Pitch League Leader

An undefeated league leader the week before, Dallmann Athletic, Inc. was tagged with two losses in Thief River Falls fast pitch softball play to drop into a third place tie.

Radio Shack surprised Dallmann Athletic, Inc. 7-2 Friday, just two days after a shorthanded Dallmann Athletic, Inc. squad was forced to forfeit a key match-up against Coca-Cola.

Meanwhile, North Star Transport (4-0) remained unbeaten with a 3-0 blanking of Schmidts Wednesday and Coca-Cola (5-1) became the league's winningest team with a 7-3 victory over Action Realty Friday. Action Realty kept Melvies out of the win column Thursday, 7-4.

North Star Transport combined four base hits with a Schmidts error to score two runs in the fourth inning en route to a 3-0 Wednesday victory.

Both pitchers — Dean Lawrenz of Schmidts and Tom Neibauer of North Star Transport — had no hitters going through three full innings. Schmidts' Howard Dalager broke the hitless string with a one-out double to right-center in the top of the fourth, and North Star Transport struck in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Carriere began the winner's fourth inning with a double to center, moving to third on Cal Shaw's opposite field single. With one out, Danny Peterson beat out an infield base hit to load the bases. Al Jenson's infield bouncer scored Carriere, with Shaw scoring on an error.

North Star Transport added a third run in the fifth when Neibauer doubled and Shaw singled.

Melvies 4

Wayne Smith had a 3-for-3 night at the plate that included a long three-run home run and five runs-batted-in as Action Realty handed Melvies its seventh loss of the year, 7-4, in Thursday's only game.

Melvies tied it in the top of the third, but Smith's run-scoring single made it 2-1 in the bottom of the inning. Melvies tied it again in the fourth on Spencer Johnston's RBI base hit, but Smith's homer over the center field fence highlighted a five-run Action Realty outburst for a 7-2 game.

Melvies finished the scoring in the fifth on a two-run single by Del Beito.

Coca-Cola 7
Action Realty 3

Four Coca-Cola home runs produced a 7-3 win over Action Realty in the first half of Friday's doubleheader. Rob Almquist hit two homers for the winners.

Action Realty started with a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning by combining two base hits with two Coca-Cola errors.

Coca-Cola tied it in the fifth inning when Almquist homered and Wayne Gutterud scored on Tom Drury's single.

A four-run Coca-Cola sixth inning featured back-to-back home runs by Goddard and Almquist. Peterson started the inning with a single, scoring on an error on Paul Walker's base hit. Walker scored on Goddard's home run.

Dallmann 2

Tim Engelstad and Mitch Dicken homered as Radio Shack completed the week with a 7-2 triumph over Dallmann Athletic, Inc. in Friday's doubleheader nightcap.

Engelstad's first inning home run supplied the winners with a lead that lasted only until the bottom of the inning when Dallmann Athletic, Inc. tied it on a walk, an error and Mike Drury's base hit.

Radio Shack regained the lead in the second on a walk, a hit and two errors by the losers.

Dicken's two-out third inning homer made it 4-1 and a pair of hits, combined with some more Dallmann Athletic, Inc. defensive problems upped the count to 5-1 in the fifth.

Dallmann Athletic, Inc. scored its second run in the bottom of the sixth on Bruce Johnson's single, an error and a wild pitch. But Radio Shack finished the scoring with a couple of unearned runs in the seventh.

City To Begin Inspection Of Rental Housing

upgrading; but what path will be taken in enforcement of the remaining code requirements will ultimately be up to the city council.

At the present time the rent survey committee has outlined four alternatives for utilizing the data received through the survey. 1) They could take no action at this time, merely keeping the information on hand. 2). The city could contact building owners, inform them of their code violations and seek voluntary compliance. 3). It could set up a system of periodic inspections to insure code compliance. And 4) the city could pass an ordinance requiring the licensing of rental facilities and call for yearly inspections by a staff inspector. Or the city could use a combination of these strategies depending on how strict a code enforcement the council would like to see undertaken.

At the very least, housing administrator Jan Reid comments, the city will gain accurate information regarding the housing situation in Thief River Falls. The data will prove valuable to the planning staff in making applications for HUD grant funds on behalf of the city and it can be used in completing the existing land use map being prepared in the planning office. The information could also help in the identification of persons who might be candidates for rent subsidy and would prove invaluable in city applications for a new HUD grant program for the rehabilitation of rental units.

To aid the city council in the eventual decision making process the planning office has made contacts with Crookston, East Grand Forks and St. Cloud to determine how those cities deal with the rental housing situation.

Crookston, which is of comparative size, does have a full-time housing inspector in addition to a full-time building inspector which Thief River Falls does not. They do not certify rental units and operate on a complaint basis as Thief River Falls does.

East Grand Forks, also of comparable size, has a full-time building inspector and checks on new rental units through the utilities meter readings. When a unit becomes vacant they inspect it and if they note code violations they instruct the landlord to correct them. The unit is orange tagged until deficiencies are corrected and the state fire marshall is used in code enforcement.

St. Cloud, which has a population of more than four times that of Thief River Falls, has three full-time housing inspectors for its estimated 6,000 rentals and one part-time inspector. St. Cloud city code requires yearly inspection of all rental units and there is a $10 registration fee for a parties first unit with a $2 fee for each additional unit. The city uses want ads, the city directory, meter readings, etc. to seek out new units. The Uniform Housing Code is used as a guide in inspections and reports are in narrative form.

Landlords in St. Cloud sanction the program and have used city inspection records in court cases involving vandalism and damage done by tenants. There is a document on each premise certifying its condition and the document is updated yearly after inspection.

Gary Muntifering, who was contacted in regard to St. Cloud's rental housing situation was one of the opinion that an inspector in a full time position is necessary even for a city the size of Thief River Falls. Since the certification program was instigated in St. Cloud, he stated it significantly upgraded the rental housing stock.

With the data from the local survey expected to be available next fall, some change may be anticipated in the Thief River Falls situation as well.

his own automobile and has no desire to have one. Under the Russian attempt at full employment, a number of people are hired as drivers. When Klepko needs to travel where he can not go by the network of electric trains, he has a car and driver available to him.

He explained that to be licensed as a driver in Russia it is necessary to successfully complete an intensive training program and pass a test. If a driver is found guilty of a major driving offense, such as drunk driving, he forfeits his license and can not take a test to get in back for a number of months.

Many of the Russian people are excited about hosting the Olympic games in 1980, he said. Millions of people are expected to see some of the events which are being held in different areas of the country, depending upon the sport in which competition is taking place.

Yuri emphasizes that he is in the United States as an observer and not as a researcher. He expressed his appreciation to the local people who have welcomed him into their homes and assisted with making his stay more pleasant.

Production Credit Association
Farming is everybody's bread & butter
Everyone who's ever planted a crop knows the worry that comes when storm clouds roll in. And everyone who's had good insurance protection knows the peace of mind good coverage can bring.
Farmers who carry crop hail insurance through Production Credit Association have peace of mind plus. They know that when they have a claim their PCA representative will have an interest in seeing that they receive a fair settlement.
PCA members have a choice of policies, standard or deductible. Rates are realistic, based on probability of hail in your area.
Take away risk, worry and tension with crop hail insurance available from PCA. Then you can enjoy summer weather and have peace of mind at thunderstorm time.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

June 18, 1979
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
June 5, 1979

Pursuant to adjournment the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 9:00 A.M., June 5, 1979.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

The minutes of the meeting of May 8, 1979 were read and approved as read.

A group of 29 persons from Numedal and Bray Townships appeared and discussed roads matters. The Commissioners Room would not accommodate the number of people comfortably so the meeting was temporarily moved to the District Court Courtroom. The group requested consideration for bituminous treatment of S.A. 10 as it runs from the Southwest corner of the County North to TH No. 1 at Carpenters Corner. Engineer Olson was asked to review the State basis for the spending of funds for bituminous surfacing of a State Aid Road and a quick estimate of the cost of the proposal. It was explained that the State has a minimum requirement of 100 cars per day for a road to be considered for this improvement and a check of the latest road count indicates a daily count of from 55 to 76 cars per day along the various stretches of road in the length of the road. The Engineer indicated that it was possible that a Contract would cost about $1,200,000. to surface the road.

It was agreed that some kind of improvement was imperative and the road would be 'shaped up' as best it could and the Engineer was asked to provide the Board with some estimates of cost of some kind of stabilization for this sandy road. The Board agreed that it would re-evaluate the priorities and give consideration to the request at the time of planning for extending the present 5 year plan for Highways to a new projected 5 years.

Dan Helle and Vern Lee representing the Pennington County Fair Board presented a request for assistance in the financing of the Fair Board activities in development of the site and conduct of the Annual County Fair.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Tasa that the sum of $10,000. be appropriated and paid to the Pennington County Fair Board of Agricultural Development for the year 1979. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Noreen Bros., Al and Lloyd, indicated a need for some work along County Road 61 as it runs East and West on the South edge of their property that is presently being developed in the area known as Southtown. Adequate drainage does not exist as the road runs toward the river and although a ditch appears to be in existence no legal County ditch appears to be of record. The Board agreed that a study should be made to find out what procedure should be undertaken to correct the problem.

A representative from the Inter-County Community Council then explained a Home renovation program that is being proposed to be financed with a Federal Grant and to employ a small crew of carpenters. The plan is to purchase dilapidated homes, renovate them and resell them to certain priority people (presently thought to be retired farmers and-or senior citizens). The Board was asked for a letter of support in the proposed endeavor. Moved by Grabanski that the matter be tabled to be discussed again at a future meeting. Motion seconded by Koop and upon vote declared unanimously carried.

Bernard Huot of St. Hilaire presented a proposed Plat of a portion of an area in the Western part of the City of St. Hilaire including Block 42 and 47 and the west half of vacated Blocks 43 and 46 of the Original Townsite of St. Hilaire and asked for approval. Moved by Grabanski seconded by Koop that Plat be approved after final drawings and upon approval of the City Council of St. Hilaire. Plat to be known as Woodland Acres, 1st Addition. Motion declared carried.

County Engineer Olson indicated to the Board that a serious problem exists in the area West of the South St. Hilaire Bridge. It appears that the metal survey stakes that had been driven into the ground by the survey crew have been removed. The stakes were metal 3 ft. long stakes and someone has apparently gone to considerable trouble to remove the stakes. It was mentioned that the removal of survey stakes is in violation of the Law and that anyone having knowledge of how the stakes were removed and who did the removing should report the facts to the County Sheriff.

At 2:00 P.M. the Board proceeded to open bids for the season's supply of culverts as duly advertised and called for: The following bids were opened and read aloud:

Westeel, Inc., Fargo	$19,607.72
Armco, Minneapolis	16,017.62
Northern Culvert, Shakopee	15,213.40
N.W. Sheet & Iron, Wahpeton	15,661.84
All Steel Prod., Chaska	17,500.00
H. V. Johnston, Circle Pines	17,604.94

Moved by Tasa seconded by Koop that the bid of the Northern Culvert Co. in the amount of $15,213.40 be accepted as the lowest and best bid received and the Chairman and Auditor be instructed to enter into Contract with said low bidder. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Koop seconded by Tasa that Cat. Motor Grader delivered under Contract by Ziegler, Inc. be accepted as delivered and Contract is complete and the Auditor be instructed to pay for said Motor Grader in the amount of $74,377.00. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Koop that the Road Committee and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads, bridges and culverts at 9:00 A.M., June 25, 1979. Motion declared carried.

City Planner, Jack Quinliven appeared and asked participation of the Board and other County people in a meeting that he is planning to cover Land Management matters and other areas important to local Governmental Officials. He has been successful in getting State participation in setting up a meeting in Thief River Falls instead of having to have everyone travel to St. Paul to participate. The exact date of the meeting will be publicized as it gets a little closer to the date. The Board indicated an interest in being present.

A representative of the 5 County Community Health Services Board was present with a tentative proposal for the 1980 Health Plan and reviewed the proposed budget figures. Tentative estimates indicate the Inter-County Nursing Services which serves Red Lake and Pennington County would be appropriated $35,296.00 of a total of $53,179.00 with the two Counties to supply funds for their Ambulances from the balance. Commissioner Stenberg introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the tentative proposed plan for Community Health Services for 1980 be approved as presented in the total amount of $53,179.00.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and declared unanimously adopted.

Commissioner Koop introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

It is HEREBY RESOLVED, that all lands pursuant to Chapter 386, Laws of 1935, as amended, and recodified as Chapter 282, have been forfeited to the State of Minnesota for non-payment of taxes under any existing laws declaring the forfeiture of lands to the State for non-payment of taxes, shall be offered for sale to the highest bidders at the Office of the County Auditor in the Courthouse in the City of Thief River Falls in said County and State, commencing at 10:00 A.M., Friday June 29, 1979, a list of said lands being on file in the Office of the County Auditor of said County.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Stenberg and declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Grabanski seconded by Stenberg that application of A. J. Fjelland for ½ Homestead on his Real Estate be approved. Motion declared unanimously carried.

A representative of the Computer Elections Systems, Inc. presented a proposal and made inquiry if the County was interested in supplying Votomatic machines for the part of the County that does not presently have the machines. The City of Thief River Falls and the Township of Rocksbury have the system now. The Board did not express interest in buying for the balance of the Townships but indicated that the Townships and the Cities of St. Hilaire and Goodridge may be interested as individually the outlay of cash was not that much. The Auditor indicated that he would write the various Township Boards to determine the interest.

Commissioner Koop introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that effective June 1st, 1979 mileage for County travel shall be reimbursed at the rate of 18 cents per mile.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Stenberg and declared unanimously carried.

LEGAL NOTICE

June 18, 1979
Notice of Request
For Variance

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to Chapter 11 of the City Code of Thief River Falls that Kreuter Manufacturing Co. of this City has applied for a variance to Section 11.18 of the City Zoning Ordinance.

Granting this variance will allow the applicants to construct a building at 1023 N. Atlantic Ave. with a side corner setback of 3' and a front yard setback of 0', instead of the required 15' and 20'. (Legal Description: Fairfield Addition, Lot 52).

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that a hearing will be held on the above matter on the 2nd day of July, 1979 at 7:00 p.m. in the City Auditorium. All property owners within 350' of the request will be notified by mail. Any persons having questions on this matter may call the City Planning Office at 681-6780 or write the City Planning Office at Box 528, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Dated this 15th day of June, 1979.

Card of Thanks

We want to take this opportunity to say thanks for everything that was done for us during the recent illness and death of our son, Stuart. Thank you for the prayers, cards and letters, memorials and food.

Especially, we'd like to thank Dr. Heinrichs and his staff; the ambulance squad; Pastor Henke; St. John's Lutheran congregation; our parents, relatives and friends; persons who sandbagged at our home during our absence and those who looked after our children and anything that may have been done for us that we are unaware of. God blessing to all of you.

SPIRITED BUT COMPANIONABLE might be one way to describe horses with Arabian breeding. Bill Vollan, who raises Arabian horses west of Thief River Falls, is shown with some of the mares on the farm. "People sometimes mistake spirit for wildness," Vollan said. "Arabians are a freedom loving breed but they have a general disposition which makes them good pets as well. They respond to affection and they enjoy companionship." Vollan, a teacher in Thief River Falls secondary schools for the past 12 years, equates students and horses by saying each has its own personality and psychological make-up. Not all respond to the same methods.

Vollan Arabian Horses Inherit "Drinker Of The Wind" History

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"Someone who wrote poetically about Arabian horses many years ago called them 'drinkers of the wind'," states Bill Vollan of Thief River Falls, a teacher in Lincoln high school and breeder of Arabian horses. "They have a freedom loving spirit that I thoroughly enjoy."

Vollan isn't into horse breeding on a large scale. Next year he expects to have eight foals and his present plans include never having more than 10. But he has a strong feeling for the quality of the breed and intends to do what he can to maintain or perhaps improve it.

The pride of Vollan's Arabian herd is a 21-year-old stallion purchased as a 12-year-old from a breeder near Salt Lake City, Utah. It was foaled in California by Edna Draper, a noted Arabian breeder and author of the book "From War Horse to Show Horse", a history of the Arabian breed. In fact, the Vollan horse Sur-Knight is mentioned in Mrs. Draper's book. He is also written up in another horse book, "The Story of Champions".

Mrs. Draper and her 14-year-old son were alone at home when Sur-Knight was foaled. The mare was in labor four hours as the colt's foot was lodged against her pelvic bone. Through the son's efforts to restrain the mare's movements and Mrs. Draper's assistance, the foaling was accomplished. The newly-born colt was black and shiny (all Arabian colts are born black) and reminded Mrs. Draper of "a knight in shining armor", she told Vollan. It was the inspiration for the Sur-Knight name.

Vollan comes by his interest in horses naturally. Growing up on a farm near Regan, N.D., about 35 miles northeast of Bismarck, he was put on the farm's saddle mare at the tender age of four or five to herd cattle or ride a mile for the mail. He spent much of his boyhood in the saddle, herding cattle, breaking up fights between rival bulls, hunting rabbits and coyotes and trapping skunks.

The saddle mare was of indeterminate parentage but wise in the ways of cattle and possessed of a gentle disposition. Experience with this and other horses prompts Vollan to emphasize that "there are good horses in all breeds". He has developed a fondness for Arabians after having both quarter horses and thoroughbreds because he admires their appearance and spirit.

Vollan attended a rural school half a mile from his home for eight years, then attended the Regan high school six miles away for two years. When winter storms left him snowbound for weeks at a time and he missed many days of school, his parents suggested that he quit. Instead he asked to be allowed to work in Bismarck and finish high school there, supporting his living expense by working as a carry-out boy at a grocery store. During the summers he worked on his uncle's farm a few miles from his home.

In 1953 he volunteered for the draft and spent two years in the army, later attending Bismarck junior college and graduating from Valley City teachers college with a BS degree in science and health and physical education. He was married between his freshman and sophomore years in college and a son Craig was born to him and Adeline the year that he graduated at Valley City.

While teaching and coaching wrestling and track at Mandan, N.D., Bill bought their first horse. "It was a three-horse package," he said. "We got a black mare with filly at side and bred back to foal against the next year." They kept the animal at the rodeo grounds at Mandan, later buying a fast bay mare on which Adeline learned to ride well. When they left Mandan the bay mare was sold cheap to one of Vollan's young wrestling team members who promised to give it a good home on his family's ranch.

For a short time the Vollans were without horses, but while teaching at Davenport, N.D., near Fargo, Bill purchased a black mare and a pony. They brought the mare and pony with them when they came to Thief River Falls 12 years ago, purchasing 40 acres of land about four miles northwest of the city.

"We lived in town but kept three horses at the farm," Bill explained. "I would go out twice a day to feed and take care of them. About four years later we built a house out there."

It was about three years after coming to Thief River Falls that the Vollans began a serious interest in Arabian horses. "A good horse doesn't eat any more than a poor one," Vollan explained, although he admits the initial costs come a little higher.

Bill and Adeline went to the Bill Marrow Arabian dispersal sale at Dilworth with their eye on a particular animal that they wanted. Unfortunately for them, the animal also attracted other attention and was purchased at the auction by Wayne Newton, stage and television entertainer. The Vollans settled for a gray mare which has provided them with some excellent foals.

Sur-Knight was purchased on a spur of the moment decision. "We saw an ad for him about 6:30 p.m. in a breed magazine," Bill recalls. "At about 8 p.m. I called and told the breeder to hold him and the next day I borrowed the money to buy him. I sent the money and he was shipped to us. I'll never forget the day he arrived. . .and neither will Adeline.

"He arrived from Utah in March when we had a foot of snow on the ground. I had purchased the old horse barn on the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls and moved it to my farm and was using that as my barn. A quarter horse mare had foaled in the alleyway that morning and I had helped her before rushing off to school. Adeline was home alone when the stallion arrived. He came out of the trailer rearing and screaming his head off and she immediately began to wonder what we had gotten ourselves into. He was put in a stall in the barn and kicked the stall door off three times.".

ARABIAN COLTS, despite the gangling look of all young horses, maintain an almost aristocratic attitude that says, "Hey, look at me; I'm something special". Only a few weeks old, these youngsters at the William Vollan farm give ample evidence of becoming fine representatives of the breed.

HORSEMAN BILL VOLLAN gives a friendly pat to his Arabian stallion Sur-Knight, a 21-year-old horse who pedigree extends back to horses of the desert. Sur-Knight was foaled in California and purchased by Vollan from a breeder of Arabian horses near Salt Lake City, Utah. The stallion is at stud to registered Arabian mares only with a $1,000 stud fee.

Mall Public Costs Top $1.9 Million

Direct and indirect public expenses which would result from the construction of the mall development proposed by Erickson Development Co. in June of 1978 would total approximately $1.9 million, according to a retail market analysis prepared by Brauer & Associates of Eden Prairie. Dick Muenich, representative of Brauer, was in attendance at the Monday meeting of the Thief River Falls city planning commission to present the final draft of the marketing study.

Erickson's proposal, presented to the city approximately one year ago, was for the location of a shopping mall on 36.5 acres of land southeast of the junction of highways 1 and 59 on the west side of the city. The proposal has since been withdrawn but remained as the specific case used in making estimates throughout the study. The mall site plan called for the construction of 46 establishments including two large department stores, three restaurants, 39 small shops, a food store and a drug store. A total of 1,650 on-site parking stalls would have been provided.

Purpose of the marketing study, for which the city of Thief River Falls engaged Brauer & Associates, was to ascertain whether or not the Thief River Falls market area could support the additional commercial space a mall would bring, what the capital improvement costs associated with the mall would be, and what the public benefits would be. In addition to dealing with the specific mall proposal, the study was also to address itself in general to the retail development in Thief River Falls and make recommendations regarding future development.

A preliminary report from Brauer, presented to the planning commission May 29, contained an inventory of existing retail establishments, an outline of the retail market area of Thief River Falls, present and projected retail sales of Thief River Falls merchants, estimates of the number of square feet of retail space that can be supported in the present and in the future in Thief River Falls and general conclusions made on the basis of the data.

The preliminary report indicated that "existing retailers will suffer a loss in sales when new establishments are opened to the extent that the establishments duplicate existing goods offered." It can be concluded, therefore, that the construction of a shopping mall would have a detrimental effect on the present retailers.

Second portion of the marketing study, reviewed by the planning commission Monday night, dealt with public costs and public benefits which would result from the mall construction and offered recommendations regarding future retail development in Thief River Falls.

Construction of a storm drainage system would be the most costly of the capital improvements necessitated by location of a mall on the proposed site. If developed,

Woodrow School Dedication Plan

Dedication ceremonies for the Woodrow school at Goodridge have been set and will include a dedication address by Ted Kusmak, former Goodridge resident. The dedication, planned by the Goodridge area historical society in conjunction with the July 4 Eleven Towns jubliee, is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Goodridge school gym.

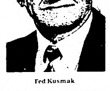
Master of ceremonies for the dedication will be Ernest Swanson. The ceremony will open with recitation of the flag pledge followed by singing of "America" with Kari Jo Peterson as piano accompanist. Jon Peterson will give a presentation entitled "America Means Freedom" and historical background information concerning Woodrow school will be outlined by Mrs. Ernest Swanson.

Roger Hoffman, chairman of the Pennington county board of commissioners, will give a tribute to the pioneers of the community and all people living in the eleven townships, plus Grand Plain, Esplee and Moylan in 1910 and earlier will be recognized.

Becky Swenson of Holt will read her essay which won the senior division of the Red River Valley historical society's 1979 historical essay writing contest. Title of the essay is "The Country School."

All teachers who taught in the Woodrow school, the eleven townships and Grand Plain, Esplee and Moylan of Marshall county will be recognized.

Next on the program will be the dedication address by Ted Kusmak. Kusmak was a 1930 graduate of Goodridge high school, attended the normal department of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and graduated from there in 1931. In 1936 he attended Bemidji teachers' college, then entered the armed services where he remained for four and a half years. After his discharge from the military, Kusmak attended the University of Minnesota and Mankato state college. He is now an instructor in farm management at the Alexandria AVTI.



Ted Kusmak

Dedication ceremony will conclude with the presentation of the Woodrow school to the Goodridge area historical society and the singing of "God Bless America."

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Diane D. Nelson Weds Capt. C. N. Bedenbaugh

Diane Denise Nelson became the bride of Capt. Clarence N. Bedenbaugh at a double ring ceremony at Chapel One at the Grand Forks Air Force base on May 19.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. G.M. Stromsmoe of Thief River Falls and the late Garlin Stromsmoe. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bendenbaugh of Columbia, S.C.

Rev. Michael Cole officiated at the wedding. Peter Lewis was the organist and Nolan Lebow, the violinist. During the ceremony, the bride's sister, Gail Dow read a selection on marriage, from "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran. Janis Malone and Don Sherman sang "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," and Gill Hunt sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law G. Murray Dow. For the ceremony she selected a floor-length gown of ecru chiffon and lace featuring a Victorian collar. In her hair she wore a cluster of babies' breath. She carried a silk bouquet of ecru and pink sweetheart roses and babies' breath.

Matron of honor was Peggy Jenson, Grand Forks, a friend of the couple. Her floor-length gown with tiered ruffles was fashioned of a floral print in muted blue, mauve and dusty pink, complemented by a light blue picture hat. She carried a silk bouquet of blue and mauve sweetheart roses and babies' breath.

Best man was Don Scott of the Grand Forks Air Force base, a friend of the groom. Ushers were Harlan Jensen, Grand Forks, and Mark Siegler, GFAFB, friends of the groom. The groom wore a navy blue, three-piece, pin-stripe suit with an ecru silk rose boutonniere. The best man and ushers were attired in the conventional business suits with blue silk rose boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stomsmoe wore an aqua floor-length gown in a cape effect complemented by an antique gold and pearl brooch and matching earrings. Her corsage featured ecru and pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's parents were unable to attend.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted a reception in the church annex for approximately 100 relatives and friends. Paula Siegler, a friend of the bride, registered the guests.

The three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with dusty pink roses, was cut and served by Mrs. George (Rema) Hanestad. Mrs. Carl (Ethel) Carlson, presided at the coffee service. Both are aunts of the bride.

Also assisting at the reception were the bride's sons: Brandon Nelson, who distributed the groom's cake; Cory Nelson, who ladled the punch; and Joshua Nelson, who was in charge of distributing the rice packets.

Relatives and friends attending were from Columbia, S.C.; Denver, Colo.; Northwood, N.D.; Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; Minneapolis, Northfield, Chisholm and Thief River Falls.

For traveling on the wedding trip to Winnipeg, the bride wore an aqua terry knit V-neck dress with beige accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed by the Cheri-Paul studio in Grand Forks. The groom received his BS degree at Clemson University and his MBA degree at the University of North Dakota. He is currently serving as captain of the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Grand Forks.

Open House Saturday For Clifford Rollers

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Roller will observe their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday at an open house from 2 to 4 p.m., at the Skylite Senior citizen center, 415 Arnold avenue south.

Hosting the open house will be the couple's children, Duane Roller and Mrs. Doug (Joyce) Jensvold.

All friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Good Grief Group Is Open To Those Who Are Grieving

Monthly meeting of the Good Grief group will be held Tuesday, June 26, at 7:30 p.m., at the Fireside room at the United Methodist church.

The group is a non-denominational gathering of people of all ages in this community who have suffered the loss of a loved one through death or by separation or divorce. The purpose of the meetings is to share mutual problems and concerns.

Meetings are open to men, women and children in various stages of grieving. Those who have coped with the problems of death or divorce are also welcome to attend and share their experiences and methods of coping.

There are no memberships and no fees. Those who attend may attend as many meetings as they wish and may return whenever the need is felt.

Anyone wishing further information may call Pat Martin, 681-1571.

Debbie Trontvet To Wed Jon Christopherson

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Trontvet of Thief River Falls announce the engagement of their daughter, Debbie, to Jon Christopherson, son of Mr and Mrs. Cliff Christopherson of Evergreen, Colo.

August 25th has been tentatively set as the wedding date.

Kjorvestad Descendants To Meet At Chervestads

Seventh annual reunion of the descendants of the Ole Kjorvestad family will be held Sunday, July 1, at the Orlando Chervestad farm, north of Oklee. A potluck dinner will be served at 1 p.m. No cards are being sent. All relatives and friends are welcome to attend.

Ole Olson Kjorvestad and his wife, the former Gunild Oldsdotter Homme, left Valle, Setesdals, Norway in 1874 and settled in Fillmore county. In 1875, they came to the Red River Valley and made their home in Valle township, south of Grand Forks.

A family history is being compiled by Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad. Those attending are asked to bring the history and records of their family, together with pictures.

Mary Beth Burns To Wed Roy Westlake

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burns and Mrs. Ruby Westlake, all of Plummer, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter and son, Mary Beth Burns, and Roy Westlake.

The wedding ceremony will take place August 25 at 7 p.m., at the Immanuel Lutheran church at Plummer.

Invitations are not required to attend the wedding ceremony or the reception that will follow in the church basement.

Local Catholic Daughters Install Court Officers

At a colorful installation rites held Tuesday evening, June 5, at St. Bernard's Catholic church, Ione Gonsorowski was installed as regent of the local Catholic Daughters of America, Our Lady of the Snows court, 2023. Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the installation Mass.

Other officers of the court installed were Kathryn Wald, first vice-regent; Gertrude Carpenter, second vice-regent; Helen Glass, treasurer; Barbara Hahn, financial secretary; Jeanne Altepeter, recording secretary; Kay Fleegal, assistant secretary; and Evelyn Paulson, monitor.

For the installation Mrs. Gonsorowski and the first vice-regent wore royal purple satin robes and caps. The remaining members of the court wore robes and caps in various colors, indicative of their office. As each, carrying lighted candles, was summoned to the altar by outgoing regent Ann Kraemer, they were presented to District Deputy Lorraine Olson of Crookston, who accepted their pledge of allegiance to the organization. The banner bearers: JoAnn Protz, Christine Wald and Marie Kleinvachter, presented each officer with a yellow carnation which, they placed at the feet of the Blessed Virgin Mary as "Ave Marie" was sung by Jane Mackenroth. Mary Amundson served as organist and Marcelline Grundhaus as reader. Following the ceremony, the color guard, Theresa Vanyo, Rose Vaudrin and Lorena Lasha escorted the new regent and her court to the church parlors. There Mrs Gonsorowski presented a gift to Ann Kraemer in appreciation for serving the local court as regent for two terms.

Ed And Alma Olson Family Reunion Set

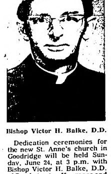
Dedication Set For St. Anne's Church Sunday



Bishop Victor H. Balke, D.D.

Dedication ceremonies for the new St. Anne's church in Goodridge will be held Sunday, June 24, at 3 p.m. with Bishop Victor H. Balke, D.D. of Crookston to offer mass and speak at the dedication. A luncheon and open house will follow the ceremonies.

The original St. Anne's church was built in Goodridge in 1916 during the time Rev. Timothy Corbett served as bishop and Rev. Adolph Dingmann, O.S.B. was pastor of St. Bernard's in Thief River Falls. Rev. Dingmann was the first pastor of St. Anne's since Goodridge was a mission area of the Thief River Falls parish.

Present pastor of St. Bernard's and the mission areas which do not have a resident pastor, is Rev. James Bernauer who has served in that capacity since 1971. Present associates include Rev. Leon Rausdch, Rev. John Kleinwachter; and John Hoover, seminarian.

All past and present parishioners as well as the general public is invited to attend the dedication ceremonies and open house.

Wayne Ortloff Becomes R.N.

Graduating with honors recently from St. Luke's hospital school of nursing in Duluth was Wayne Ortloff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ortloff of Thief River Falls and a 1977 graduate of Lincoln high school.

RRV Coalition Formed For Flood Control

Basic purpose of Red River international flood control coalition, as accepted by members at a meeting in Grand Forks June 11, is "To achieve immediate start-up, using whatever methods necessary, of a 'flood control new' system throughout the entire Red River valley of Manitoba, Minnesota and North Dakota on an emergency basis temporarily and then on a permanent, long-term basis.

"Once basic control systems are in place, to continue to press for ever-improving flood control and to represent the unified people of all parts of RRL interstate and international, in all matters pertaining to drought water supply management and other water resources-related problems."

The statement of purpose was accepted after discussion of the motion made by Don Myrold, Red River Land, N.D. president and seconded by Morris Lanning, Moorhead city councilman. Motto of the coalition is "Red River Citizens Flood Control Now."

Members of the coalition will be primarily private citizens from Manitoba, Minnesota and North Dakota, in accordance with a motion proposed by Myrold and seconded by Richard Fitzsimmons.

Board of directors, yet to be elected, will be composed 70 per cent of flood victims or those seriously threatened by rising waters and not formally affiliated with any water resources or water control group and 30 per cent of representatives of those groups in the water field and of city, county, municipality, etc. government. The motion for the make-up of the board of directors was made by Myrold and seconded by Morris Bushow.

Officers will be elected yearly from the board of directors, according to a motion presented by Myrold, seconded by Doris Loheed and accepted by those present.

A nominating committee will meet June 20 to select the slates of potential board of directors members, which will be offered to coalition members at a later date. Red River Land, N.D. will provide staffing and headquarters until the board of directors is organized.

March Of Dimes Announces First-Ever Campaign

The first corporate-sponsored national fund-raising campaign ever conducted on behalf of the Nationl Foundation March of Dimes was announced by Harry E. Green, chairman of the board. The drive, which hopes to raise in excess of $1 million, will be conducted through the more than 4,300 Kentucky Fried Chicken stores nationwide.

"We're extremely pleased over the prospects of this campaign," Green said. "The Kentucky Fried Chicken organization has demonstrated to us a sincere desire to help the March of Dimes fight birth defects and 'HELP CHANGE THE FUTURE'—the theme of the drive." Green also noted that all the money raised through this project will go directly to the March of Dimes. All overhead costs for collateral materials are being absorbed by the corporate sponsor.

Col. Harland Sanders, the 89-year-old founder of the corporation has been named national chairman of the campaign which will be conducted during the entire month of July.

Sanders related that this campaign is his company's first national public service effort. "It just seemed to me that our franchisees owe a lot to the community," he reflected. "And now it's time to give something back."

But there's even more to the Colonel's interest in the March of Dimes. He can vouch for what they do. Sanders has a great-granddaughter who was treated at a March of Dimes-supported hospital.

The campaign will include a special kick-off event tied to store sales and a month-long in-store canister promotion. Customers will be asked to HELP CHANGE THE FUTURE by leaving their change in specially designated containers. Colonel Sanders himself will host a special picnic for children with birth defects to begin the campaign. And during July, he'll travel all over America visiting March of Dimes-supported research facilities to dramatize the Foundation's worthwhile projects.

The National Foundation March of Dimes is America's third largest voluntary health organization. It has nearly 1,000 chapters throughout the country and raised more than $64 million in 1978. The Foundation is approved by the National Information Bureau, meeting all their stringent criteria for a sanctioned not-for-profit fund-raising entity.

Motorcyclists Need Liability Insurance

Motorcyclists now must carry liability insurance,, just like other motor vehicle drivers, or face stiff penalities for non-compliance, under an amendment passed by the 1979 legialsture.

"For the first time, the law now calls for enforcement and penalities if motorcycle operators don't have liability insurance," said Ken Dirkzwager, director of driver and vehicle services, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Motorcyclists driving without liability coverage are risking serious penalities that range from fines and jail sentences, to loss of their driver licenses and motor vehicle license plates," said Dirkzwager. "And cyclists involved in a crash may face civil lawsuits for damages to other persons and property."

"The best course of action is to go out and buy the necessary liability coverage for your own protection," he said. When applying to register a motorcycle, the owner must now show proof of liability insurance coverage by furnishing the name of the insurance company and the policy number. Failure to have liability insurance is a misdemeanor and, if convicted, the owner or operator faces a maximum penalty of up to $500 in fines and-or 90 days in jail. Operators convicted of knowingly driving a cycle without liability coverage can lose their driver licenses for up to 12 months. If the operator is also the cycle owner, the machine's registration and license plates can be revoked for up to a year.

Hymn Sing To Be Held Sunday

Three Sunday evening hymn sing-a-longs have been scheduled with the first to take place in the L.B. Hartz park this Sunday, June 24 beginning at 7 p.m. Other dates set are July 29 and August 26.

Included in the evening program will be special music, short devotions and hymn singing. Everyone is welcome. In case of bad weather, the meet will be held at the Evangelical Free church.

Three Named To Dean's List

Concordia college dean Gerald Hartdagen has announced the names of students whose superior academic achievement during the second semester of this school year placed them on the dean's honor list.

To qualify for the designation, students must carry a minimum of 12 semester credits and have a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale. Named from this area were Paul Larson, son of Rev. and Mrs. Richard Larson of Thief River Falls; Karen Easthouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Easthouse of Goodridge; and Robert Tunheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tunheim of Newfolden.

Peter Larson Rites Held At Lake Bronson

Peter J. Larson, 93, of Lake Bronson died Tuesday afternoon, June 12, at the Karlstad Memorial home. Since December of 1974, he had been a resident of the nursing center there.

Funeral services for Peter J. Larson were held Friday at 10 a.m., at Zion Lutheran church at Lake Bronson. Rev. Martti Wilkman officiated. Organist and soloist was Mrs. Roger Westerberg. Interment was in the Riverside cemetery at Lake Bronson with the Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Joel Hemmingson, Helmer Larson, Helmer Erickson, B.A. Wennersten, Bill Nelson and Art Johnson.

Peter J. Larson was born Dec. 21, 1885 in Folinge, Jamtland, Sweden to Arne and Ingeborg Larson. At the age of three years, he came with his parents to the United States, settling on a farm in Percy township, Kittson county, near presentday Lake Bronson. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

On March 17, 1915, he was united in marriage to Selma Johnson at Hallock. After their marriage, they settled on a farm in Percy township. Following his wife's death in October of 1944, Larson continued to make his home on the farm until 1961, when he moved into Lake Bronson. In 1974, he became a resident of the Hallock Nursing home and since December of that year, he had lived at the Karlstad Memorial Nursing center.

Larson was active in the affairs of his community. He served on the Percy township board and school board for many years. He was also associated with the Federal Land bank for several years.

He is survived by three sons: Tony, Ferdy and Wally Larson, all of Lake Bronson; three daughters: Mrs. Boyd (Delpha) Nyflot, Wells; Mrs. Rolland (Melba) Benson, Paynesville, and Mrs. John (Elaine) Anderson, Minneapolis; 15 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

In addition to his wife and parents, he was preceded in death by one daughter, who died in infancy, four brothers and four sisters.

Melanie Lunsetter was the organist and Mrs. Howard Lunsetter, the soloist. Interment was in the Lanstad cemetery, near Gatzke, with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of arrangements. Masonic rites were held at the Collins Funeral Home the evening prior to the services at the church.

Pallbearers were Wally Chaplinski, Harold Klamar, Dale Buley, Allen Wicklander, Phillip Swanson and Bob Brand.

James P. Barber, a son of the late Sidney and Alta Barber, was born April 6, 1931 at Whitesboro, Okla. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

On Oct. 28, 1950, he was married at Cleveland, Okla., to Martha Brawley. The couple made their home in Texas until 1968, when they moved to Delores, Colo. In 1973, they came to this area and have since lived on their present farm in Rollis township, Marshall county. For the past four years, Barber had been employed by Polaris Industries at Roseau.

He was a member of the Monahans Masonic Lodge, Monahans, Tex., for many years.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Brad (Pat) Lorentz, Newfolden; a son, Michael Barber, Moscow, Idaho; two granddaughters, a brother, Doyle Barber, Lake View, Ore., and one sister, Mrs. Pete (Sydna Lee) Salmon, Roseburg, Ore.

Services Held For George Lindstrom, 97

Funeral services for George Lindstrom were held Monday at 2 p.m., at the Bethel Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Martti Wilkman officiating. Gilbert Oistad was the soloist and Mrs. Martti Wilkman, the organist. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Mitchel and Stanley Hanson, Roger and Clyde Golby, and Richard and Randy Meader.

George Lindstrom was born in Stockholm, Sweden on Jan. 3, 1882 to Jons and Ulricka Lindstrom, now deceased. At the age of eight years, he immigrated to the United States with his parents, who settled in Marshall county, near Strandquist, where they homesteaded. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

On April 12, 1925, he was married at Strandquist to Ada Mae Golby. The couple made their home near Strandquist for five years before moving to their present farm in Kittson county, near Karlstad.

Lindstrom was well-known throughout that area, having operated threshing rigs for many years in that area, and especially in Deerwood township.

He was a member of Bethel Lutheran church in Karlstad.

Surviving are his wife; a son: George H. Lindstrom, Embarrass; six daughters: Cora Lindstrom, St. Cloud; Laura Lindstrom, Frazee; Mrs. Clarence (Beatrice) Hanson and Mrs. Julia Kleven, both of Karlstad; and Mrs. Marie Fosse and Mrs. Len (Delores) Siegler, both of Minneapolis; 16 grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Bertha Holmstrom of Karlstad.

He was preceded in death by one son, a daughter, one granddaughter, two sisters and three brothers.

Services For A. Mickelson Held Here Tues.

Funeral services for Ames Mickelson, 79, of rural Oklee, were held Tuesday at 1 p.m., at the Belmont Funeral home. Mickelson died Saturday evening at his farm home, near Oklee.

Rev. Charles Gunderson, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, Oklee, officiated at the services. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery, Thief River Falls.

Ames Mickelson was born June 15, 1900 at Tenstrike to Martin and Berth Mickelson. As a child, he moved with his family to Greenbush, where he grew to manhood. He was married at Crookston on Oct. 21, 1929 to Della Robertson. After marriage he worked for a time in Minneapolis and Grand Forks, N.D., in lumber mills and at flour mills. In 1948, they moved to Clearbrook where they farmed. Since 1952, they have lived and farmed in the Oklee community.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Wilton Mickelson, Oklee; a step-son, Ralph J. Morgan, Grand Forks, N.D., three step-daughters: Mrs. Ray (Gloria) Bayans, Nigeria, Africa; Mrs. Jack (Merle) Bottoms, Harvest, Ala., and Mrs. Alvin (Raymode) Stroh, Johnstown, N.D., 20 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents.

Evald Henning Services Today At Thief Lake

Evald Henning, 76, of rural Middle River, brother of Vi and Alvin Henning of this city, died Sunday afternoon at his home.

Funeral services for Evald Henning were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m., at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief Lake. Intermont was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Middle River, in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Services Held Here Today For Myrtle Smith

Funeral services for Mrs. Myrtle Smith, 70, of St. Paul and formerly of Thief River Falls, were held today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m., at the Green Funeral home. Mrs. Smith died unexpectedly on Saturday at Northwestern hospital in this city. She had been visiting in this area for the past month with her sister, Mrs. Garvin Solberg and with other relatives and friends.

Harry Johnson officiated at the services. Mrs. Ray Swenson was the organist and Lavina Swenson and Ray Swenson sang. Interment will be in the Hillcrest cemetery at Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Smith, the former Myrtle Swanson, was born April 16, 1909 at Highland to Samuel and Caroline Swanson, now deceased. She attended school and grew to womanhood there. On Jan. 3, 1929, she was married at Long Prairie to Clyde Smith. The couple lived at Long Prairie until 1932, when they moved to Thief River Falls. Later they lived at Waterville for several years. Mrs. Smith also lived at Omaha, Neb., for a time before moving to St. Paul, where she was currently residing.

Surviving are three sons: Duane Smith, Winter Park, Fla.; Willis, Portland, Ore.; and Darrell, Faribault; four daughters: Mrs. James (Delores) Stewart, Omaha; Donna Ferguson, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Roberta Smith, Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. William (Phyllis) Dickenson, Cambria, Wis., 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Irene Solberg, Thief River Falls; and three brothers: George Swanson, Tacoma, Wash.; Lloyd, Seattle, Wash., and Myles, Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by one son, Robert, and a sister, Alvina.

Library Card Now Of Use Throughout MN

Northwest regional library borrower's card can now be used in most public libraries in Minnesota outside the Twin Cities, according to Wayne Alfveby, Northwest regional library director.

Twelve Minnesota regional library systems recently signed a Minnesota reciprocal borrowing compact that allows regional library cards to be used in public libraries across the state.

The Northwest regional library card, which can be obtained free through any public library or bookmobile in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties, is used to check out library materials from any of the 64 public library and bookmobile stops in the five-county area. The materials may be returned to any other of the stops or branches.

In addition to the Thief River Falls based Northwest regional library, the other Minnesota regional libraries joining the state wide borrowing compact are the Arrowhead library system, Virginia; Crow River regional library, Willmar; East Central regional library, Cambridge; Great River regional library, St. Cloud; Kitchigami regional library, Pine River; Lake Agassiz regional library, Moorhead; Plum Creek library system, Worthington; Traverse des Sioux regional library, Mankato; Viking library system, Fergus Falls, and Western Plains library system; Montevideo.

Ingenuity In Home Decor

ROOM TO GROW

You don't have to spend a fortune creating a fitting setting for an infant. All it takes is a little imagination and the right materials.

In designing the layout and decor of a nursery, strive for a soft, comfortable environment that's efficient and easy to maintain.

When choosing nursery furnishings, be practical and look for items that are durable and easy to keep clean. A toy chest and changing table with simple lines in a serviceable vinyl-coated wicker look can last through several children.

Wall decor can be a snap today. A tremendous variety of inexpensive, self-adhesive wall decals allow you to change the decorations to keep up with the childrens' changing interests.

You'll probably want a floor that's easy to care for, soft to sit on and sufficiently sophisticated in style to stay as the child grows. Consider a cushioned, resilient floor that requires only damp mopping and occasional buffing to keep it clean and fresh-looking. A stain-resistant wear layer may help you find peace of mind about the spills that are almost unavoidable in a child's room. The cushioned surface provides a comfortable, warm play area for the toddler.

These features can be found in a flooring with a simple geometric pattern that can look right for your youngster for years. It comes in the soft pastel colors of Mannington's new Polaris pattern in the Duracon line, featuring the company's exclusive JT88 no-wax finish. You can even save a third of the cost by installing it yourself following the simple, do-it-yourself instructions.

To continue the soft color scheme, try coordinating pastel sheer draperies to the floor. These are relatively inexpensive and easily laundered.

Farm Leaders Ask Military Fuel For Farms

Farm leaders from Minnesota and North Dakota have asked President Carter to divert fuel from military use to reserves for the fall harvest and winter heating season.

Cy Carpenter, president of the Minnesota farmers union and Stanley Moore, president of the North Dakota farmers union, jointly asked the president to "initiate modifications in the fuel consumption of regular and reserve military units", such as restricting cross-country vehicle caravans and other high energy-use maneuvers.

Farm leaders said, "Last year, you told the American people that your adminstration considers the energy crisis the moral equivalent of war. In the upper midwest, there is increasing potential for a virtual state of siege this coming fall. Our harvesting equipment, as well as nearly all our farm-to-market equipment, are diesel powered. In addition, we may face another winter like the last, when the heating season stretched into May. The combined effect of a middle distillate shortage would be devastating. . ."

Carpenter emphasized that if the president orders a cutback in military fuel use, the resulting savings should be allocated to storage for the fall harvest rush, with its accompanying transportation needs, along with rebuilding home heating fuel reserves.

"Such an action by the president would by no means solve our fuel problems, but any increase in supply would help to prevent the imminent, severe hardships we fear," Carpenter said.

Moore said that the strain on the midwest's transportation system will be aggravated by an anticipated increased in export demand. "The increase in demand, and the increase in prices to farmers that should result, won't be taken advantage of unless we have the ability to move the commodities to market. Reduced diesel allocations to truck, rail and barge transporters would cripple our already sluggish ability to move grain," Moore said.

Farmers union leaders said that the ability to transport grain from farm to market is vital, since roughly one out of every four acres of cropland produced grain for export. They said the economies of North Dakota and Minnesota will suffer severely without adequate transportation this fall.

Minnesota Bar Ass'n. To Hold '79 Convention

This year's annual convention of the Minnesota state bar association (MSBA), meeting June 20, 21 and 22 at the Radisson South hotel in Minneapolis, will stress the importance of "law office efficiency, and providing the public high quality and economical legal services", according to David R. Brink, president of the 7,500 member association.

The MSBA general assembly will also consider continuance of the experimental institutional advertising program begun in Feburary of this year as the subject of a pre-test and post-test survey funded by a grant from the American Bar association (ABA).

Brink said that he has invited the members to participate in several of the classroom-type sessions.

S. Shepherd Tate, American Bar association president, will address the June 21 luncheon session on the topic of "Effective Delivery of Legal Services Through Efficient Management."

Honorable Robert J. Sheran, chief Justice, Minnesota supreme court, will also address the convention on "The State of the Judiciary".

"What Minnesotans Think About Lawyers" will be the subject of an address by Bert Russick, president of Mid-continent Surveys, Minneapolis. His company conducted independent pre-test and post-test of an institutional advertising campaign approved by the MSBA board of governors and initiated in February of this year.

Minn. Farm Bureau Séeks Help On Fuel

Merlyn Lokensgard, president of the state's largest general farm organization, in letters to Governor Al Quie, the White House and members of the Minnesota congressional delegation, urged regulatory reform of the trucking industry, a uniform 80,000 pound maximum weight on interstate highways and a uniform maximum tractor-trailer length of 65 feet. The state farm bureau spokesman noted that a U.S. department of energy (DOE) study shows these two steps together could save "one quarter billion gallons of fuel a year — a savings," added Lokensgard, "of one third in fuel consumption on the interstate network."

As farmers, Lokensgard said, his organization's members are "sympathetic" because truckers are "up against the same problems we have fuel shortages, high fuel costs and higher living expenses." And, he said, while demonstrations, shutdowns and truck stop blockades accent the seriousness of the problem, they do little toward resolving complaints which are the result of diesel fuel scarcity and price.

"Because a widespread trucker's shutdown would mean ruin for millions of pounds of perishable commodities and cost farmers millions of dollars," Lokensgard stressed in his communications with President Carter and Quie, "truckers and farmers alike must have assurances of necessary fuel for on-farm use, for the movement of harvested crops and other produce to market and for the transportation of production inputs to farms."

State Legion Convention At Rochester

Sixty-first annual department (state) convention of the Minnesota American Legion is scheduled for the Kahler hotel, Rochester, July 12-14, according to Harlan Buck of Hayfield, department commander.

At the annual legislative session of the Minnesota Legion, delegates from 605 posts will be listening to reports of accomplishments in areas of concern to the Legion and acting on resolutions to guide the activities of the organization in the years ahead.

The musical spectacular competition will take place at John Marshall High School on Friday evening, July 13, 1979 starting at 7:00 p.m. The contests will name the musical champions for 1979.

Junior and senior drill teams and color guards will be competing for championships on the John Marshall field at 3:30 p.m. on Friday, July 13.

Saturday morning, July 14, the delegates will elect state officers for the upcoming year. Milo Cecka, Minneapolis, and Vernon Carstensen, Mankato, are competing for the top spot as state commander. The new officers will assume office at the close of the convention on Saturday.

Convention parade will take place on Saturday afternoon in downtown Rochester as the closing event of the annual convention.

ACTUAL MILEAGE on the odometer of the Buick on display in the showroom during Thomas Motors open house was the subject of intense interest by visitors during the event. A cash prize of $200 was offered to the person guessing nearest the recorded mileage, with the prize raised to $500 if the exact figure was guessed. Mayor Bob Carlson is shown removing the tape which masked the numbers while Thomas Motors owner Tom Kenville observes at left. John Wolbeck of route 3, Thief River Falls, came the closest of the many hundreds of entries with a guess of 88,625 miles. Actual mileage was 88,628. Kenville said that approximately 25 people guessed with 50 miles of the actual mileage.

Sen. Boschwitz Claims Cut In Federal Grant

An amendment by Senator Rudy Boschwitz which he says will save taxpayers $5 million was successfully attached to a spending bill passed last week in the Senate.

Boschwitz' move came as the Senate considered authorizing of funds for a bill known as the rural development policy and coordination act. Twenty million dollars had been set as the price tag for the act, whic gives grants to states for the coordination of rural development policy.

"This figure of $20 million," pointed out Boschwitz, "represents a doubling of money requested last time around. This is especially odd since the number of grants to be funded by the program is expected to drop by over ten per cent in the next two years.

"Also," he continued, "the money is not for actual development programs themselves which would contribute to our rural productivity — it's designated for administrative purposes. Since many of the same types of programs already exist through HUD and the EDA, such spending is clearly excessive." (The amendment reduced spending to $15 million.)

"Unfortunately," Boschwitz said, "I was unsuccessful when I objected to an amendment offered by another Senator. He asked for the establishment of five 'rural information centers' to be used as centers for explaining government programs to rural residents."

Explained Boschwitz on the Senate floor, "Most rural Americans I know do not want anotherlayer of bureaucracy, do not want another set of establishments like rural information centers. They do want to be left alone by the federal government.

"This amendment that the Senator from Vermont is asking for is probably going to cost a couple of million dollars in its early stages and it will probably take some money away from the overall objectives of the rural development bill. I object to further layers of bureaucracy. I object to further troubling the rural people of Minnesota, Vermont or the nation. I want my objection recorded."

State Selected To Participate In Fed Program

Senators Dave Durenberger and Rudy Boschwitz announced today that Minnesota has been chosen to participate in a demonstration program that provides residential housing accommodations and services for persons with chronic mental illness.

Minnesota was one of 27 states chosen for the program which was initiated by the U.S. department of housing and urban development in cooperation with the U.S. department of health, education and welfare. It targets federal funds to meet the housing and support services needed by mentally ill persons if they are to live independently in the community.

The HUD fund includes $25 million for construction or substantial rehabilitation of small group homes for up to 12 individuals, or apartment complexes of up to 10 units. In addition, $5 million is available for rental subsidies to assure the residents pay no more than 25 per cent of their income for rent. States may use HEW medicaid and other social security act program funds for support services in the residential facilities.

Community based organizations that want to participate in the demonstration program should contact Harvey Caldwell, Assistant Commissioner, Bureau of Community Services, Department of Public Welfare, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Federal Funds Available For WIC Program

State commissioner of health Dr. George Pettersen has announced that new federal funds may soon be available to local health agencies wishing to participate in the supplemental food program for women, infants and children (WIC).

The WIC program provides eligible participants with nutrition education services and vouchers good for the purchase of specified food items. These services are available to pregnant, post-partum and nursing women, and to children under age five who have been found to have special problems. The family income of program participants must not exceed the federal department of agriculture's poverty income guidelines by more than 95 per cent.

Agencies interested in receiving grants to start local WIC programs have been asked to contact the state health department in writing by June 30. The department is responsible for administering the federal food supplement program in Minnesota.

Agencies applying for the WIC grants should be capable of administering the program and providing ongoing health services to women, infants and children. Upon request, any such agency will be sent a packet of grant application materials, including general program materials and an application form with instructions.

Any action taken on an application will be reported to the submitting agency within 30 days. The new WIC funds would be available from Oct. 1, 1979 to Sept. 30, 1980, so grant applications should be submitted to the health department by Sept. 30.

Regional development commission and the health systems agency having jurisdiction in an applicant's intended service area will review each application, and their comments will be considered before action is taken on the application. Grants will be awarded according to the applicant's standing in the local agency priority system, and the relative need of the applicant's service area, as determined by the affirmative action plan in the Minnesota state plan of program operation and administration for the WIC program. The awarding of grants will also depend on the availability of funds from the department of agriculture.

Agencies requesting application materials should write to the WIC Program Administrator, Minnesota Department of Health, 717 Delaware St. S.E., Minneapolis 55440. For further information call Greg Smith at (612) 296-5233.

Slow down and live.

'U' of M Regents Change Age Law For Retirement

Eleven University of Minnesota faculty members scheduled to retire this year will remain on the faculty as a result of a board of regents vote recently to change mandatory retirement age from 68 to 70.

The board approved the motion unanimously despite the fact that several regents stated flatly their disagreement with the principle of raising the age for mandatory retirement.

Fifteen university faculty members were scheduled to retire this year until the Minnesota legislature passed a bill in April raising retirement age to 70 effective immediately. The bill was passed to bring state law into line with similar federal legislation.

The federal law, however, will not take effect, at least as far as tenured faculty members are concerned, until 1982. As a result, eight and one half of the University of Minnesota positions expected to open because of the projected retirements had been filled by the time the state law was passed.

Of the 15 faculty members affected, four have said they will probably retire this year anyway. The bill for keeping the other 11 on for two more years will come to $341,000, said Robert Stein, vice president for administration and planning.

The university probably will ask the legislature for a deficiency appropriation to cover the cost of keeping the 11 faculty members on the payroll, Stein said.

Several regents expressed dismay over the implications for universities of an older retirement age. Allowing tenured faculty members to stay longer means it will become much harder for younger faculty members to join the faculty, and will disrupt the institution's affirmative action efforts, said Minneapolis regent Robert Latz.

"It's a damned shame we have to do this," said regent David Lebedoff, Minneapolis. "I'm tired of reading the stories in the paper every night about how young teachers can't get positions anymore. We talk and talk about making tough choices. Well, these are the tough choices we have to make."

Stein told the board members that despite the fact there will be no mandatory retirements in the next two years, about 20 faculty members will retire anyway. "This gives us at least some leeway," he said.

In other action, the board approved a proposal to authorize the hiring of an architect and a program consultant for a major remodeling and replacement of University hospitals facilities expected to cost between $175 and $188 million if it is completed by 1986.

The project, which would combine two projects earlier known as unit H and unit J, will be "the largest expenditure the university will ever make on a single project," said Donald Brown, vice president for finance.

Regents have refused to act on the proposal at last month's meeting, fearing approval of the combination would imply approval of the entire project. The proposal adopted today endorses only the preparation of a master plan, which the regents would then consider.

The project would replace much of the old main hospital and would include 500 adult and pediatric beds and new operating and recovery rooms. The 500 beds would be replacement beds, and the actual number of beds the hospital contains would be reduced, according to John Westerman, university hospitals director.

"If we don't get a new facility, I think we're in serious trouble," John Najarian, chief of surgery, told the board. "We're going to lose our patients. We have a teaching mission here, and we can't teach if we don't have patients."

Under the current proposal, the money to build the new structure would be raised through the sale of either state general obligation bonds or university bonds, Brown said.

The regents also passed a resolution criticizing the student-run Minnesota Daily for its June 4-8 humor issue, calling it "in poor taste and inconsistent with the high principles that the regents, the administration and students have established for the University of Minnesota."

The humor issue contained stories on a fictitious mass student suicide on the mall the children's sexual mores and a parody of the religious publication "Today's Student," which the Daily dubbed "Today's Stupid." The regents voted to lodge a complaint with the board of student publications, the body that oversees the Daily.

St. Paul regent Michael Unger argued that, if passed, the resolution could set a precedent for future meddling in Daily editorial policy by the regents and could be an infringement on the Daily's first amendment rights. "In the future, this could be read as a precedent by others with less noble intentions," Unger said.

Lebedoff, who has been a staunch defender of the Daily's rights to its own editorial policy, disagreed. "This resolution isn't a violation of first amendment rights," he said. "A great many people in the state would be very interested in our opinion of this issue. Our own first amendment rights would be infringed if we could not express our opinion."

In other action, the board approved the appointment of Robert Dunlop as dean of the college of veterinary medicine. Dunlop is dean of the school of veterinary studies and foundation professor of veterinary science at Murdoch university in western Australia.

Dunlop is a Canadian citizen who holds a doctorate in veterinary medicine from the University of Toronto and a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Minnesota.

Gasohol Gets Boost Through Senate Support

Efforts by Senator Rudy Boschwitz on his rural development agriculture committee contributed to the shape of a gasohol-production bill passed by the Senate last week.

The act, which authorizes $500 million in federally-guaranteed loans for gasohol pilot projects, will not restrict the number of plants which may receive the financing, a significant departure from past policy.

Boschwitz, who had pressed hard for the non-restriction when the bill was considered in committee, explained, "In the past, only a certain amount of plans could qualify. This meant that the big projects ended up with the money and that the little guy, and one who needs an extra helping hand, was shut out.

"If this nation is going to find energy answers, we need every bright idea we can find. And that means spreading the financing around. If an idea is financially feasible and the project judged worth funding, we should see that it has a chance to qualify for this government program."

Boschwitz pointed out that the authorization of $500 million is "not for a government expenditure. It's for loans which will be paid back. And, it's an investment in turning the tide on the energy problem which, left on its present course, would continue to contribute immensely to the rising rate of inflation."

An amendment to the bill, also supported by Boschwitz, requires that at least one-fourth of the loans go to small projects.

The pilot projects eligible for funding are designed to determine what agricultural commodities and forest programs can be converted to gasohol.

Unemployment Benefit Level Rises July 1

Minnesota's maximum weekly unemployment insurance benefit will go up $17 to $150 effective July 1, the Minnesota department of economic security announced recently.

Barbara Beerhalter, assistant commissioner for unemployment insurance, said the increase will apply to workers who file claims after July 1 and whose average weekly wage is $299 or more. The current $133 maximum weekly benefit amount will continue to apply for all claims established prior to July 1.

Under state law, the maximum benefit amount is recalculated every July based on the average weekly wage during the previous year. The $150 maximum as of July 1 is 66 and two-thirds per cent of the average weekly wage in 1978, $225.63. The $133 current maximum is 64 per cent of the average weekly wage in 1977, $208.17. The percentage increase in the calculation formula is a part of law and, having reached the maximum, will remain at 66 and two-thirds per cent next year.

So far this year, about $91 million in unemployment benefits has been paid compared with about $82 million for the same period last year. The total for last year was $137 million. Money to pay unemployment insurance comes from taxes paid by employers.

MSU Aerospace Workshop Set For July 5-16

Aerospace education workshop that includes flying lessons, a training session with moon rocks and a planned free flight and visit to the National Air and Space museum in Washington, D.C., will be offered at Moorhead state university July 5-16.

The workshop is designed for elementary and high school teachers and will include tips, aids and ideas on teaching about the science of flight and space in the classroom.

Tom Hill, from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will conduct training sessions July 5 and 6 during the workshop for teachers who want to be certified for the instructional use of moon rocks in the classroom. Certified teachers may check out lunar samples with NASA for school projects and lessons.

Hill is an assistant professor of aerospace education at California state university representing the Johnson space center in Houston.

A field trip to a small private aircraft manufacturing firm and to the Grand Forks Air Force base will be part of the workshop along with lectures, demonstrations and the latest films on space.

The four-credit workshop — all class materials and trips are provided at no additional costs — is co-sponsored by MSU and the USAF-Civil Air Patrol. To register or for more information, contact Emil Kochis at 236-2954-2141.

Classes will meet weekdays from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. in Hagen hall 307.

Jerry Holmaas Selected For Studies Award

Jerry M. Holmaas, formerly of Newfolden and son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Holmaas of Newfolden was recently selected by the faculty of the theological studies department at Wheaton graduate school, Wheaton, IL, to receive the Schultz award in Old Testament studies.

The award was established by Dr. Samuel J. Schultz, professor of Old Testament at Wheaton college and graduate school, to recognize the graduate student in that field who has excelled during the academic year in quality of course work, as well as in general ethical and spiritual character.

Holmaas has been attending Wheaton graduate school for the past two years and has completed all residence requirements for the MA degree in theological studies — Old Testament. He and his wife will be moving to Fergus Falls soon where he will pursue a master of divinity degree at Lutheran Brethren seminary, as well as complete work on the master's thesis for his MA.

Burglary Becoming Common; Protect Your Valuables

You have been away on a trip or out for the evening. As you walk up to the house, you notice the front door is standing wide open. Immediately, you think, "Did I lock that door before I left?"

Coming closer you see the lock has been broken, and through the open door you see the contents of the hall closet strewn about the floor. Now the realization strikes you — the house has been burglarized.

Throughout the house, the terrible aftermath of the burglar is seen. Drawers have been pulled out and dumped, closets emptied, coin banks smashed. Your jewelry, appliances, silverware and other valuable belongings are missing.

When the police officers arrive, they begin asking questions. "Did you lock all the doors and windows before you left? Did you leave a light on? Did you have an alarm? Do you have a list of the serial numbers of the missing items?" To each question, you answer, "No, I never thought of that". Slowly, you realize that you had taken hardly any precautions against the possibility of being burglarized, and now your home is a shambles and your property gone.

If this, or something like it, didn't happen to you, consider yourself lucky, reports the Thief River Falls police department. It did happen to more than a million persons last year, causing nearly a billion dollars in losses. All indications point to another large increase in the number of burglaries again this year.

To reduce the chance that you will ever have to live through this experience the police department has proclaimed the month of June 1979 as burglary prevention month. During this month, police authorities and insurance companies will offer tips in foiling the would-be intruder, including the following three basic steps to prevent burglaries:

(1) Basic Home Preparation:

Your home or apartment should be protected with several simple devices. All doors should be equipped with strong pin-tumbler locks, which have the "dead bolt" feature. This type of lock is "jimmy-proof", which means that the bolt cannot be forced back by a burglar tool or pocket knife. It locks and unlocks only with a key. If the door has a glass panel, it should be small and placed high in the door, to that entrance cannot be gained by breaking the glass and crawling through or reaching in to unlock the door.

Windows also should be protected with a strong lock, preferably one which locks the window when open slightly, as well as when closed. Particular attention should be paid to basement and second story windows, which are frequently overlooked. Storm windows and screens, hooked on the inside, also provide additional protection to windows.

Your home can be "cleaned out" in just minutes by experts, so see to it that your windows and doors are locked and alarms set every time you leave the house.

(2) What You Should Do Before Going On A Vacation:

Even though your house will be empty, it should appear as though it is occupied. One of more lights should be connected to an automatic lamp times, which turns them on at dusk and off at bedtime. This creates the impression that someone is inside. Outdoor lights that turn on in the evening also add to the lived-in look and put a spotlight on attempts to break in. Shades and drapes should be left in their normal positions, not pulled tightly shut.

All deliveries, such as milk, newspapers, etc., must be discontinued. Arrangements could also be made with a nieghbor to keep the grass mowed and to remove circulars and handbills left on the porch. Mail can be held at the post office or removed from the mail box by a friend until your return.

The garage should be closed and locked whenever you are away. This protects you in three ways. First it protects the tools, ladders, movers, etc., which are kept in the garage, from being stolen. Second, it prevents these tools and ladders from being used to break into the home itself. Finally, it keeps the would-be burglar from knowing that the car is not there, which is an indication that no one is home.

Whenever you plan to be away for several days, be sure to notify the police department. Tell them when you will leave, when you will return and where they can obtain a key in case of emergency. It is advisable to leave a key with a relative or friend, who will check the house occasionally, water the plants and take care of any minor difficultures which may arise.

While it is advisable to notify the police and one trusted neighbor about your planned absence, be careful not to tell everyone in town. Don't leave notes on the door or in the milk bottle and don't allow the local newspaper to mention your trip until after you return.

(4) Keep The Risks Low:

In spite of your precautions, a particularly determined burglar may disregard all your efforts and break in anyway. In case this happens, try to make the burglar's "haul" as painless to you as possible. Don't keep cash around the house. Jewelry, stocks, bonds and other valuables should be kept in a safe deposit box. A storage vault is an ideal place for furs during the summer, for double protection against hot weather and burglary.

Keep a record of the serial numbers which are found on appliances, typewriters, cameras and many other valuable items. This will assist the police in recovering the goods if stolen, and also provides the necessary information for a quick settlement of your insurance claim.

You can prevent financial loss, personal inconvenience, and possibly even physical danger by taking a few moments to protect your home. The average burglar is looking for the easy job, the unprotected, empty house. Few will take the extra time and effort to overcome the obstacles you place in his path. So remember the basic steps:

(1) Prepare your home with adequate locks, lights and other protective devices. Noise is a deterrent; connect TV or radio to timers.

(2) Give your home a "lived-in" look, whenever you are away.

(3) Notify police when you are leaving town.

(4) Keep your valuables in banks, safe deposit boxes, vaults and other safe places outside the home.

Let these tips serve as a guide to keep your home safe from the danger of burglary.

4-H Dairying: Not Just For Farmers

Dairy cattle judging sessions encourage 4-H members to sharpen their skills in animal selection. The national 4-H dairy program is supported by Insurance Company of North America and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Young people enrolled in the national 4-H dairy program learn many things and some of the most valuable have nothing to do with cows.

That is O. G. Daniel speaking. Says Daniel, head of the Extension Animal Science Department at the University of Georgia, "We don't expect every youngster who feeds a calf to become a beef cattle breeder or dairy farmer any more than we expect all Little League baseball players to play for the majors."

But, he says, he does expect youngsters who have voluntarily saddled themselves with the care of an animal to exhibit, over time, a more mature attitude toward responsibility, planning and attention to detail.

Junior livestock shows at all levels are one of the rewards of this effort. At these shows 4-H members 9-19 learn both how to show and how to judge and, inevitably, they also learn the hard way that the reward for hard work is not always a ribbon or trophy.

Older 4-H'ers with a serious interest in dairying often prefer to concentrate on scientific milk production. From there, it is one short step to a valuable education in animal physiology and genetics.

4-H dairy members may also have opportunities to participate in the National 4-H Dairy Conference, Oct. 2-3 in Madison, Wis.

The 4-H dairy program is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Insurance Company of North America. INA provides incentives to program members at all levels: six $1,000 scholarships nationally, expense-paid trips to the 58th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 25-29 in Chicago, for state winners; and four medals of honor per county.

Awards are arranged by National 4-H Council and winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service. More information is available from county extension agents.

Former TRF Resident Is Vista Volunteer Worker

VOLUNTEER WORKER through VISTA is Mary Lehr of Fargo, N.D., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Poolman of Thief River Falls. She works with "independent parents", mostly divorced women in the 23 to 35 age bracket, who have custody of their children.

Harry Hoving could have had it easy in an air-conditioned architect's office, making anywhere from $800 to $1,000 a month, according to a local architect.

So why is the 1978 architectural graduate roughing it in Fargo, N.D., as a VISTA volunteer on a monthly allowance of $260 that barely keeps him afloat?

"I wouldn't trade the experience for anything," says the Williston native over a cup of coffee. "I had decided to join VISTA even before graduating from North Dakota state university. There are frustrations in dealing with people reluctant to try something new, but I feel it's been worth it."

That something new that people were reluctant to try was a proposed arts cooperative in downtown Fargo that "never got off the ground."

"We hoped to bring together a group of local artisans and craftsmen to set up their shops in a building that was condemned," says the 24-year-old Harry. "Most of them were receptive to the idea and the mayor was excited, but the artists just weren't willing to buy the structure and renovate it.

"It was very frustrating. With a thing like that, you can rush it. The idea, I'm convinced, is still valid and Fargo could benefit from it."

Until VISTA fins a new sponsor, the arts cooperative and other services will have to wait. Harry and his five female co-workers have just concluded their one-year service and are ready to leave.

The project, until now sponsored by McCormick Park association, was begun in May of 1978 with 14 volunteers.

"We never had an office or a budget, aside from VISTA allowances," says supervisor Carol Hatlen. "We worked out of my house. I think no job should be run out of one's house. You never tend to get away from your job.

"There's a thousand things that can be done in the area, but a new sponsoring agency is the key of VISTAs are to be really useful to the community."

Perhaps the most successful part of the program, that throughout the year shied from seeking publicity, has been the services to Fargo's "independent parents," mostly divorced women, ages 23 to 35, having custody of their children.

Mary Lehr, herself a mother and "independent for three years," has helped to survey these mothers to find out their most pressing problems. Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Poolman of Thief River Falls.

"We went door-to-door and found many that were not aware of their rights," she says. "Some were not receiving child support, others didn't know how to prepare their income tax returns.

"You deal with drug and alcohol abuse, as well as emotional problems. There's a lot of stigmas attached to single parents. Out of 200 we surveyed, almost all are women, generally poor. Most of them make less than $5,000 a year."

"When I think of VISTAs like Mary, I think of services not available anywhere else," says Ruth Poer, a divorced mother. "She's helped me out of depression many times. I can talk to her about the problems I'd be uncomfortable bringing up before. Through VISTA, I got to know other people with problems similar to mine."

All Fargo VISTAs are local recruits and, along with a thousand North Dakota retired senior volunteers and 50 poster grandparents, are part of ACTION volunteer agency.

Can a VISTA receiving $260 a month, as opposed to per capita monthly average of $623 for all North Dakotans, still be called a volunteer?

"I don't consider this allowance a wage," says Harry Hoving. "Part of the stigma, I guess, is that you work through the government. But I do the job like everybody else, although it's a different job. Our food and lodging allowance is just that, an allowance."

"Some people may feel there's no need for VISTA because they have their heads stuck in the sand," says Mary Lehr. "Most don't even understand what being a VISTA means. You're on call 24 hours a day."

Adds supervisor Hatlen: "The people in this area are very hardworking and independent, but our climate is conducive to turning them inward to themselves.

"I believe in voluntarism and think it should be rewarded. Giving due credit is important. If we're going to overcome problems as a nation, we have to recognize the voluntarism and VISTA."

Persons interested in joining VISTA or the Peace Corps may call collect to the recruiting office in Denver, Colo., at (303) 837-4173, ext. 23.

Alcohol With Sedative Is Risky Compound

General population, and especially women, are more likely to combine alcohol with psychotropics than with other drugs, according to staff members at the Northwest mental health center at Crookston.

According to the national institute on alcohol abuse and alcoholism, it is fairly certain that the public, and many physicians as well, are unaware of the serious effect that tranquilizers as central nervous system (CNS) depressants can have when used with alcohol, which is also a CNS depressant.

Minor tranquilizers are the drugs most often combined with alcohol, studies have shown. One investigator has placed the minor tranquilizers in the same psycholpharmacologic class as barbiturates, with the same potential for serious or fatal interactions with alcohol.

When alcohol interacts with another drug in the body, the combination may result in a reduction of the effects of either or both drugs known as an "antagonistic interaction." On the other hand, it may produce an interaction in which the combined effect of the drugs is greater than the sum of their indivudal effects might be. This is also known as "supra-additive interaction."

From the public health point of view, supra-additive drug interactions are the most hazardous. One such is the highly dangerous combination of alcohol and barbiturates. A 10-year study on drug-related deaths in Ontario suggested that blood levels as low as 0.5 per cent of the barbiturates secobarbital or pentobarbital combined with blood alcohol levels of 0.1 per cent caused death from respiratory suppression. Another series of studies showed severe intoxication occurred with blood alcohol concentrations in the 0.06 to 0.16 per cent range in persons who had taken barbiturates. Symptoms included unconsciousness, extended sleep, vomiting and severe motor impairment.

There is also a fourth type of alcohol-drug interaction experienced by alcoholics of heavy drinkers. Chronic alcohol use can produce tolerance to alcohol, and it can also produce diminished responses, or a kind of tolerance to other drugs, depending upon the kind of a drug. "Cross-tolerance," as this condition is termed, does not always require previous exposure to the secondary drug in order to create problems. (An example cited by the National Institute is the common clinical observation that alcoholics are more difficult to anesthetize with ether than nonalcoholics.)

There would appear to be serious implications here for women who are heavy drinkers and use other drugs in combination with alcohol.

Special Open House Planned At Ft. Snelling

Minnesotans interested in their history are invited to attend the Minnesota Historical Society's open house the weekend of June 23 and 24, from 10 to 5, at historic Fort Snelling in the Twin Cities. The open house and admission to the fort is free and open to the public for the entire weekend.

Representatives from the historical society's main divisions will be on hand to discuss their services and distribute and explain materials on Minnesota history produced by their staffs.

Exhibits and presentations are being contributed by divisions of education, archives and manuscripts, publications, the historic preservation office, library collections, historic sites, archeology and administration. A main audio-visual center will have motion pictures, film-strips, and slide shows playing through both days of the open house.

Along with free tours of Fort Snelling, a national landmark and the state's major historic site, there will be films and slide shows exploring over twenty other important historic sites around the state located from the North Shore to International Falls, from the Red River Valley to the St. Croix, and the farmlands of southwestern and southeastern Minnesota.

An exposed archeological dig site at Fort Snelling will be shown to visitors and explained how such excavations play a major role in the accumulation of historical evidence and the development of an historic site. Many artifacts discovered over the years at Fort Snelling will also be displayed plus some prehistoric artifacts found around the state.

A new exhibit, "The Immigrant Experience," will have its first public showing over the open house weekend. Other important works produced by the society's education division will be displayed, including periodicals, maps, filmstrips.

Representative items from the society's publication and museum shop collections will be on view and many will be available for purchase, including such diverse work of Minnesota craftsmen as Pipestone carvings, scrimshaw, and decorative beadwork.

Regular features of Fort Snelling such as cannon demonstrations, troop drills, the blacksmith, carpenter, and abker shops, sutler's store, etc, will also continue throughout the weekend. Fort Snelling is located off Highways 5 and 55 between St. Paul and Minneapolis. For further information contact Jeffrey C. Beyer at 612-726-1171.

FAST & FINE GRASS SEED
Makes Old Lawns Look Young Again
The worst enemy of an old lawn is hard soil. Fast & Fine contains new fast sprouting, fine bladed NK-200 perennial ryegrass. Compared to typical bluegrass the NK-200 root system is a power house. It has the strength to break through compacted soil to a depth of 12 to 18 inches. NK-200 is the first sufficiently winter hardy fine leaved ryegrass for this area. And, it's hard to tell from bluegrass.

Scholarships Available For Youth Institute

July 1 is the dealine for interested high school juniors and seniors to apply for the 100 scholarships offered for the third annual Minnesota rural youth institute, July 9-13 at Southwest state university in Marshall.

Scholarship recipients will discuss important rural issues and values and hear from prominent state and national authorities at the annual institute sponsored by the Minnesota rural development council.

Featured speakers at this year's rural youth institute will include U.S. assistant agriculture secretary Roger Sandman, and two Minnesota state government officials, Lieutenant Governor Lou Wangberg and agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin. Application forms for the scholarships are available at all Minnesota county agricultural extension service offices, and from high school vocational agriculture instructors, guideance counselors and home economics teachers.

Scholarships provided by the Minnesota rural development council will pay all expenses at the institute during the five-day sessions in Marshall. Recipients need to provide only their own travel expenses to and from Marshall.

"The institute tries to vary its approaches to the many rural themes that it discusses, in attempting to broaden the understanding of Minnesota's rural history and culrutal heritage, its challenges and the ability to cope positively with continuing change. The institute is a forum for developing our future rural leadership," states Dr. Steve Wiener, coordinator for the event.

"A DRINKER OF THE WIND" is one of the poetic descriptions of the Arabian horse. This Arabian filly on the William Vollan farm west of Thief River Falls is poetry in motion as she illustrates the breed's love to run. Arabians run with a fluid, almost effortless stiff-legged gait which was likely developed in the loose sand of their native desert many generations ago. On California trail rides where horses and riders cover 100 miles in 11 hours, Vollan said, no other breeds but Arabians are in contention. For the average rider, however, he emphasizes that there are good horses in all breeds and his partiality to Arabian horses is a personal preference.

Vollan Horses Build On Firm Arab Ancestry

Vollan used the stallion at stud for a $400 service fee for a few years, then closed his stud book to grade mares and raised the fee to $1,000. It was an effective way of limiting service. Bill plans to retire the horse from stud in the near future but never intends to sell him. "I fully expect that he'll live out his life on the farm," Vollan said.

Last fall Bill moved to a new location about six miles west of Thief River Falls. He built a 112x44 steel building with living quarters for himself at one end and two foaling stalls, three box stalls, three tie stalls and a 40x44 arena in the remainder of the building. Adeline currently lives in East Grand Forks and Craig is in the second year of a four-year enlistment in the air force in Cheyenne, Wyo.

In addition to his routine horse care and putting up hay, Vollan is using this summer to construct four concrete shelters to help him winter his horses. Despite their desert origin, Arabians do well in Minnesota winter cold. "Start leaving them out at night in late August and September when nights begin to get cool," he advises. "Don't blanket them and make sure they get high protein feed. This will help them develop the short, dense coat that they need for protection against the cold."

Bill does all of his own farrier work and is a self-taught veterinarian for most routine health problems. He keeps a close watch on his animals and is especially mindful of parasites. "More horses are hurt by poor hay than any other management practice," Vollan speculates, "and I would say that internal parasites cause the next greatest damage."

Some years ago Vollan took in a few horse shows as a showman, but now he prefers to let others do the showing. "I'm not a hardware chaser," he said. "I appreciate watching horses, being with them, taking care of them. I would rather produce good horses and let other people show them than go on the show circuit myself."

Although horse breeding requires a great deal of time and effort, Vollan looks upon it as a self-supporting hobby rather than a money-making business. "Really, there's no money in raising horses," he said. "But I enjoy it. I prefer to see my investment, rather than lock it in a safety deposit box. Arabians are a lot prettier to me than stock certificates."

Two fillies bred at the Vollan farm responded to Bill's urging to run. Tails erect and manes flying, their hooves pounding the sandy pasture, they ran for the sheer joy of running, exhibiting that freedom of spirit that makes them "drinkers of the wind".

Agassiz Board Sets Workshop, Reviews Plans

Steven Ott, of applied management, Denver, Colorado, will lead a workshop for members of the Agassiz Health Systems agency board of directors on Thursday, June 21, at the Town House, Grand Forks, N.D. The topic under consideration will be "Can HSA Boards Be Effective? The Positive Potential."

Under other business, the board will elect new officers and executive committee; review a planning grant for community health services in Clearwater county; and consider as part of the health systems plan special reports on blood banking, ambulatory surgical services and long-term care services.

All Agassiz meetings are open to the public. For further details or complete agenda, contact Mary Ellen Preston, Agassiz Health Systems Agency, 124 DeMers avenue, East Grand Forks, 56721, (218) 773-2471.

NW Women For Agriculture To Meet June 22

Northwest area Women for Agriculture will hold its June meeting at 12 noon Friday, June 22, in the Minnesota wheat growers building which is located one mile south of Red Lake Falls on highway 32.

A potluck dinner will be served and Vern Wavra, fieldman, will speak and show film strips. A tour of the wheat growers building will also be given. All interested persons are invited to attend.

BSU Center Offers Course On Management

Bald Eagle outdoor learning center at Cass Lake will offer a one week course in forest management for small wood lot owners, July 12-16. Bald Eagle center is part of Bemidji state university and the management course will be offered for credit in the undergraduate and graduate programs.

Topics include tree identification, insect and disease control, economics of growing trees, government aid for forest management, forest taxation, reforestation, timber harvest, improving timber stands, forestry and wildlife, common forestry terms and related special projects such as Christmas trees and maple sugaring.

Each day of the workshop will consist of about two hours of classroom lecture with the remainder of the day spent in the field on current forestry projects.

The Bald Eagle center offers housing and meal service, included in the overall cost. For more information contact the Bald Eagle Ourdoor Learning Center, Cass Lake, MN 56633.

SILVERTON . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harder, Rodney, Mark, Jamie, Jodie and Lori and Mrs. Harder's mother Mrs. Mary Baker returned home this week from a trip out West. Mrs. Baker visited relatives in Seattle, Wash. and the Harder family visited at the Bob Bidwell home at Ganges, Salt Spring Island, British Columbia. Mrs. Bidwell is Wayne's sister. Lori stayed to visit for a month and will return here with the Bidwell family when they are on vacation.

Mrs. Roger Skime, Troy and Jodi were Monday afternoon coffee guests last week at the Clarence Peterson home.

Mr and Mrs. Thomas Matson brought greetings and lunch to his brother, Olaus Matson at Rosewood Friday afternoon for his birthday.

WITH TEAMMATE Bill Penning looking on, Ed Gilbert missed this putt on the seventh green during last week's Thief River Falls men's golf league competition at the Thief River Country Club. Penning and Gilbert are members of the Hartz Wholesale squad which competes in the Hogan Division of the 135-member, three-division league. Complete league results will be announced by league officials next week when the first three weeks of play will be used to establish league handicaps.

Forage Seed Receipts Are Record High

Cash receipts from 1978 production and marketings of two important forage seed crops achieved new all-time highs for Minnesota growers of timothy and red clover seed, Agriculture Commissioner Mark Seetin said recently.

Combined receipts of the two seed crops were $7.71 million or almost 59 per cent above gross sales income of $4.88 million for 1977 production and marketing of timothy and red clover seeds.

Minnesota continues to lead the nation in production of timothy seed. Last year's production of an estimated 11,515,000 pounds represented 68 per cent of the national 1978 total. At an average price of 47 cents a pound, Minnesota's 1978 marketings of timothy seed grossed growers $5,358,000.

Only Oregon topped Minnesota last year in production and marketing of red clover seed. Minnesota's 4,180,000 pounds harvested represented 13 per cent of US production, and was the highest volume harvested since 1970. Cash receipts of Minnesota growers for red clover seed sold at an average price of 58 cents a pound were estimated at $2,352,000.

MIXED UP PUP? Siberian huskies are supposed to be a breed of dog which provide transportation for man, pulling sleds in the frozen far north. So why is this fine representative of the breed seeing fit to reverse the roles? Probably because he can get away with it. The seven-week-old pup was hitching a ride with owner Callie Walseth, 14, who said the little rascal objected at first but soon got to liking the back pack travels. The male pup and another male littermate are for sale, Callie said, along with both parents.

Real Estate Appraisers Are Needed By State

State of Minnesota is seeking qualified real estate appraisers to work for three departments during the next 12 months.

A spokesman for the Department of Natural Resources, which is coordinating the effort, indicated a change in the law and policies required the establishment of standards for appraisers and for advertising the need for appraisal services.

Agencies needing appraisers are the DNR, Department of Administration and Department of Transportation.

The state will develop a list of qualified appraisers based on resumes of work background submitted by applicants. Once the list is established, it will be a closed list and no additions will be made until next year.

Resumes must be in to the DNR by June 30, 1979. They should be sent to: Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Land, Acquisition and Exchange Section, 670 Space Center Bldg., 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, 55101; phone (612) 296-7945.

Qualifications that will be accepted as evidence of substantial training in real estate appraising for "designated" appraisers include membership in professional organizations and certification as an accredited rural appraiser (ARA).

Non-designated appraisers with at least two years experience in real estate appraising will also be considered. Details on professional background required can be obtained from the DNR, Bureau of Land, at the above address.

Public Costs Of Mall Top $1.9 Million

the site could be expected to generate approximately 41 cubic feet of runoff per second (18,200 gallons per minute) in a 1.25 inch rain of one hour duration. To handle the runoff either an open drainage ditch or a storm sewer system would be required.

Cost of the open ditch would run between $27,000 and $67,500 in 1979 prices depending on the quality and disposition of the excavated material. A storm sewer system, which would be much preferable in the eyes of the city, could only be constructed to serve a larger area than the mall itself. Cost of such a system would be approximately $1.8 million dollars. Of this $1.8 million, $460,000 could be directly attributed to storm sewer construction for the mall itself with the remaining $1,340,000 for the system to serve the remaining west-end district. The $1,340,000 can be indirectly attributed to the mall, however, since its construction would trigger a need for the entire storm sewer system.

Other public costs that would result from the construction include $30,000 for a looped water main which would assure adequate fire protection for the mall area and $106,500 for the extension of Ruby avenue southward and First street westward to provide proper roadways at the site.

This brings the total public costs directly attributable to the mall to between $163,500 and $204,000 if the open ditch drainage was opted for and to $596,500 if the storm sewer were constructed. If the storm sewer were constructed, spurring installation of an entire west-end system, direct and indirect costs would total $1,936,500. Some type of traffic signalization would also likely be required in the area raising public costs further.

To cover the capital improvements the city would either issue general obligation bonds or assess affected property owners for improvements over a period of years.

Additional tax revenue generated by the mall would be the main public benefit of the shopping center outside of the actual shopping convenience and the additional employment provided. Mall taxes would total approximately $178,000 compared to the $150 now collected annually on the land. Biggest benefit from the additional tax income would be to the school district which would acquire 53 per cent of the revenue without accruing any additional costs. The 53 per cent share would mean additional income to the school district of $94,340.

Other parties which would share in the additional tax revenue would be the city of Thief River Falls which would receive $42,364 annually at the present mill rate; Pennington county which would get $37,558; Red Lake Watershed, $3,382; and region one, $178.

To put the city's tax benefit in perspectieve, it must be considered that if the city bonded for the $596,500 of improvements, required as a direct result of the mall construction, it would take at least 14 years, using the mall tax revenue, to pay for the improvements not including any interest or administrative costs. The actual tax benefit decreases further when we consider indirect impacts of the mall.

The first section of the Brauer report indicated that by 1985 the Thief River Falls market area would be able to support 2.5 per cent less commercial square footage at the present level of profit than it can in 1979. This is taking into consideration only a modest seven per cent rate of inflation.

The proposed mall would add an additional 210,100 square feet of commercial space, a 30 per cent increase in existing retail space. "One might reasonably expect, therefore," the Brauer market study states, "that unless the proposed shopping center were to exclusively offer goods not presently offered in Thief River Falls or were to attract consumers who have heretofore never patronized Thief River Falls establishments, then sales per square foot of existing establishments would decline. This, in turn, might lead to the existing shops either relocating to the shopping center or elsewhere, or simply closing altogether."

The marketing analysis estimates that, with the location of a mall in the city, sales of present retailers would, within a year, show a 12.6 per cent decrease from the existing 1979 level and continue to drop decreasing 15.8 per cent by 1985. With the proposed retail uses at the mall being in a 69 per cent to 31 per cent ratio of shoppers goods to convenience goods, it can be expected that existing shoppers goods stores, those selling furniture, apparel and accessories, would see the greatest percentage decline in sales if a mall were constructed.

After six years of operation, the study indicates that the mall would capture $14,850,000 in sales that would otherwise be spent at present retail establishments. This $14,850,000 means a loss of support for approximately 133,100 square feet of shoppers goods space and 22,100 square feet of convenience goods space at the present level of support if the 69-31 per cent ratio is applied. At 1979 average store sizes, this would be equivalent to the loss of 19 shoppers good stores and seven convenience goods stores or a total loss of 26 existing retail establishments.

These figures are applicable if all stores maintain real dollar sales at present levels. "The most likely result, however," according to the report, "will be that some stores will suffer a decrease in real dollar sales volume and that marginal stores may close or relocate."

If it is assumed that the city loses even 128,100 of the 155,200 square feet of retail for which there is no longer support this means an annual tax loss to the city of $19,000. This brings the city's net tax gain resulting from the mall to only $23,400 and lengthens the period of time it would take to pay for the necessary capital improvements if they were bonded for.

On the basis of the foregoing data, Brauer recommendations state, "the shopping center proposed for the west side of Thief River Falls should not be given approval for construction." This recommendation is based on both the projection that a mall would have a detrimental effect on the existing retail establishments and that the site selected would be uneconomical to serve with public utilities.

The report does state, however, "If the site were to be developed in another fashion, or the proposed uses were to occur at another location, private and public benefits and costs might offset each other to the point of neutrality or benefit."

General recommendations to the city regarding future development suggest that the city "not zone large tracts of land for commercial purposes so long as there is an existing supply of land adequate to accommodate demand that is located and serviced consistent with the goals and policies of the city." It also suggests that the city "continue to assist downtown merchants in providing an effective circulation and parking system for the area."

Downtown merchants were encouraged to "make every attempt to remain competitive and attractive, both in relation to each other and to retailers in other cities and towns;" and not to expect to "have public support for limiting commercial expansion or growth simply because it will harm existing establishments."

Brauer's final draft was well accepted by planning commission members and will be reviewed in the near future with the city council and downtown development commission.

Mid-State Officials Meet

Athletic directors of the Mid-State Conference are meeting today (Wednesday) and Thursday in Detroit Lakes to consider a number of items, activities director Del Mollberg of Detroit Lakes high school told Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes Tribune this week.

Among the items on the lengthy agenda to be discussed will be the application for membership in the Mid-State Conference for football only by current Northwest Athletic Conference schools Thief River Falls, Crookston and East Grand Forks.

Officials of those three schools applied for membership in the Mid-State Conference during the past year and are hoping they could be admitted for the sport of football by the present Mid-State members beginning in 1980.

TRF Pitchers Face Eddie Feigner

While the star — pitcher Eddie Feigner — draws most of the attention when the world-famous "King and his Court" four-man softball team performs its diamond magic, a pair of Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league performers will be concentrating on the Court's hitting prowess when Feigner brings his act to Crookston's Highland Complex Monday for a 7 p.m. exhibition game against the Crookston area all-stars.

Among those invited to perform against the "King and his Court" are pitchers Al Erickson and Tom Neibauer of the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league. Erickson pitches for Action Realty and Neibauer hurls for North Star Transport.

The opposition they'll face Monday is awesome. While Eddie Feigner does his act on the mound, his supporting cast features son J.R. Feigner at shortstop, first basemen Al Jackson and catcher John Bateman. The four-man line-up is hardly a handicap. Since Eddie Feigner strikes out two out of every three batters he faces, chances are pretty good that the other batter who touches the ball could hit it to one of the infielders. The four-man unit is even an advantage offensively since they're all good hitters and they get to bat that many more times.

And what Erickson and Neibauer will be facing is home run power. In 1978 Bateman, a former major league baseball player, hit 148 home runs. That broke J.R. Feigner's year-old record of 125 homers against over 200 different pitchers in 227 games in 1977. Meanwhile Jackson, who has been with the Court for 21 years, is considered the world record holder with 924 career home runs.

Lakers Admitted To New League

Tom Goddard of Thief River Falls, a member of the Warroad Lakers senior amateur hockey team, reported today that the Lakers, after being turned away from the Manitoba Assiniboine Hockey League May 1 for being "too good," have been accepted as a member of the higher-caliber Central Amateur Senior Hockey League (CASH), the top league in the province of Manitoba.

Goddard and the Lakers will be playing 36 CASH games in 1979-80 against the Steinbach Huskies, St. Boniface Mohawks, Transcona Chargers, East Kildonan Millionaires, St. James Flyers and Brandon Olympics. Steinbach, the defending league champion, reached the Allen Cup Canadian playoff finals last winter.

Warroad had to meet a seven-point proposal for admittance into the CASH, which was announced Monday. In addition to meeting increased franchise fees, performance bonds and Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association fees, the Lakers have agreed not to use Manitoba players — costing the club its coach, Warren Harrison, and Jim Cole, both of whom ranked among the top four scorers on the squad in 1978-79.

The Lakers will also be without the services of Bruce Salmela who is headed for Michigan Tech, and may lose goalie Pete Waselovich to the United States Olympic team.

Team officials, who hope to name a new coach by July 17, are also on the prowl for area players who are interested in playing at the highly competitive CASH level.

Far North Softball Event Slated Sun.

Dallmann Athletic, Inc. of Thief River Falls will be trying to become only the second team in history to successfully defend its title Sunday in the 17th annual Thief River Falls Far North fast pitch softball tournament.

Pairings have not yet been finalized for the 16-team event which will be played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamonds beginning at 9 a.m. Entries have been accepted from Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Detroit Lakes, Grand Forks and Crary, N.D. Championship game is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Not since the East Side Merchants of East Grand Forks took back-to-back titles in 1964 and 1965 has a team been able to successfully defend its championship performance in the Far North tournament that began here in 1963.

Rain postponed Tuesday's Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league game pitting winless Melvies against unbeaten North Star Transport. There were no league games planned Monday. North Star Transport will try to extend its season-opening winning streak to five games Thursday in a 9 p.m. feature against Dallmann Athletic, Inc. (4-2).

Legion, Elks Teams Rained Out Tuesday

Rain Tuesday kept a pair of Thief River Falls baseball teams at home, with the American Legion squad weathered out of a game at Bemidji and the Ellks Babe Ruth club washed out of a game at East Grand Forks.

The 13-15-year-old Elks were scheduled to make up yesterday's postponement with a 10 a.m. contest today (Wednesday) against the East Grand Forks Blue. Thief River Falls, 5-3 for the year, will be at Bemidji Saturday to face the Braves in a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

No make-up date was announced for the Thief River Falls-Bemidji American Legion ball game. Thief River Falls will carry a 2-0 record in a Northwest American Legion game Thursday at 7 p.m. against East Grand Forks — the final league home game for chach Terry Sullivan's squad.

The 13-year-old Thief River Falls Merchants, 2-0, were scheduled to host Roseau today (Wednesday) in a 1 p.m. doubleheader at the Northland community college diamond.

World's largest minnow is the Colorado River Squawfish which can grow to a length of six feet and attain a weight of 80 pounds, says the National Wildlife Federation.

Division I Monday doubleheaders in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association produced two wins for the division-leading Rusty Nail Raiders and Tony Dorn, Inc.; two losses for Hartz, Hobo Haus and Arnold Realty; and a split for Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc.

Rain washed out Tuesday's slate of games.

The Raiders ran their record to 9-1 — best in the 32-team association — with wins over Hobo Haus 8-7 and Arnold Realty 12-3.

A single error in two games helped Tony Dorn, Inc. beat Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. 12-4 and Hartz 10-5. Jim Leach, who was 3-for-4 in the opener, homered against Hartz in the nightcap. Randy Dallmann and Rocky Ammerman also homered for the winners.

Swenson Plumbing & Heating rebounded from its first game loss to edge Hobo Haus 11-10 as Scott Sabo and Mike Kosel homered. Hal Harbott completed an outstanding 7-for-8 doubleheader night that produced six RBI with a 4-for-4 performance for the winners.

Single game Division I winners were Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. with a 12-6 victory over Hartz to complete a doubleheader setback for the losers, and the TRF Merchants who completed a doubleheader loss for Arnold Realty.

In the only non-Division I game Monday, First Northwestern Insurance Agency remained the only winless team in the slow pitch association by absorbing a 16-6 Division III loss at the hands of Great Northwest Agency, Inc.

Horseshoe Event At Newfolden

A horseshoe tournament, sponsored by the Newfolden Lions club, will be held in Newfolden beginning June 27 as part of Newfolden's 75th anniversary celebration.

Qualifying rounds — used to determine what class of competition participants will be placed for tournament play — will begin at 7 p.m. on Wed., June 27. The qualifying rounds will continue Thursday and Friday evenings, June 28 and 29, and until noon on Sat., June 30. The actual tournament competition will begin at 2 p.m. on Sat., June 30.

Tournament participants must supply their own partner. Entry fee for the tournament, open to everyone, is $1, with the money used to cover the cost of prizes.

Jack Boyer, Jerry Imgrund, Keks Lee, Gary Laidley and Russ Lane were the champions of the first annual Member's Day Texas golf tournament held recently at the Thief River Country Club, it was announced this week.

The team birdied every non par-three hole in the front nine for an outstanding 29. A back nine 32 gave them an 11-under total of 61.

Jerry Johnson, Ernie Padilla, Vi Johnson, Steve Olson and Jeff Storhaug combined for a second place 64.

Two teams shot 65 to tie for third place. Bob Fitzgerald, Marge Corliss, Dean Anderson and Curt Geatz finished 33-32, as did Bob Forsberg, Jim Hellie, Steve Easton and Linda Waale.

In the ensuing sudden death playoff, Fitzgerald recovered from a lengthy, but errantly placed drive by hitting an eight-iron shot two feet from the cup. His dead-center putt closed out the Forsberg-led squad after they failed to convert an 18-foot birdie putt.

Rest of the standings were as follows: Jeff Imgrund, Monty Markstrom, Rick Parkhouse and Myrna Lane 33-34-67; Alex Easton, Ron Martin, Jimmy Geatz and Scott Blankenfeld 33-35-68; Stewart Rugland, Arnie Johnson, Bill Corliss, Charles Samuelson and Idella Samuelson 35-33-68; Steve Waale, Shari Idso, Ike Anderson and Don Aandal 34-35-69; Tim Hogan, Scott Iverson, Elaine Charlson, Bill Penning and Karl Gjernes 36-34-70; Wade Hoppe, Tommy Kenville, Frank Harger and Art Welter 34-37-70.

AGASSIZ NATIONAL WILDLIFE refuge reported this week that the first Canada goose brood was seen at the refuge May 23. Since then many more goslings have been spotted, said Agassiz personnel, along with duck broods, deer fawns and moose calves. Wildlife observers are reminded that mornings and evenings are the best time for viewing wildlife at the refuge.

TRF Swimmers Open AAU Season

Twenty-five Thief River Falls swimmers collected 103 ribbons Saturday and Sunday while competing in an AAU swim meet at Montevideo.

Headlining the 43 first place ribbons won by the Thief River Falls swimmers in their season-opening summer competition was Tim Penn who qualified for the Aug. 3-5 state AAU meet in Minneapolis by swimming a 27.96 in the 11-12-year-old boys Class B 50 freestyle and a 33.54 in the 11-12-year-old boys Class C 50 backstroke.

Led by Dan Vrudny, a former Brainerd high school swimming standout and the first full-fledged certified AAU coach in the six-year history of the program here, Thief River Falls' most ambitious AAU program began with practice sessions for the 63 participants May 1.

Eleven Thief River Falls swimmers will compete this weekend at Alexandria. A Thief River Falls-Bemidji dual meet will be held July 5 at Bemidji. Thief River Falls' summer schedule, featuring five or six meets, will include trip to Fargo for a large invitational July 21-22.

Environmental Record Poor For President

Both President Carter and Congress have received negative ratings on their environmental records in a poll of 26,134 members of the National Wildlife Federation, the country's largest citizens conservation group.

The president received a less-than-good mark from more than two thirds of the NWF members taking part in the nationwide survey, with 21 per cent giving him a "poor" and 47 per cent a "fair" mark. Twenty-three per cent rated him "good" and only two per cent scored him "excellent."

Congress fared even worse with the conservation-minded respondents in the annual poll conducted by National Wildlife, the NWF's bimonthly magazine. Thirty-four per cent gave the nation's legislature a "poor" vote and 54 per cent a "fair" vote—for a total negative rating of 86 per cent. Eight per cent found Congress's record "good" and only one per cent thought it "excellent."

In contrast, the nation's environmental movement was perceived as having done an "excellent" or "good" job by almost 60 per cent of the respondents, with nine per cent voting "excellent" and 48 per cent, "good." Thirty-seven per cent gave the movement a "fair" grade, and seven per cent voted "poor."

Post card ballots went out to members of the federation in the February-March issue of National Wildlife.

The NWF canvass is considered significant because it reaches more than ten times the number of people who take part in most public opinion surveys. In addition, it is the nation's largest annual poll aimed not at the general public, but at persons who have demonstrated a special interest in environmental issue by joining a conservation group.

Readers were also asked to vote on three controversial issues. On one of them an overwhelming majority (85 per cent) agreed that the benefits from the control of pollution offset the costs involved.

As in previous years, the NWF members are asked to "help the federation decide on its priorities for the coming year" by ranking the most critical conservation issues facing Americans today. Voters assigned their highest priority to fighting environmental pollution. Saving endangered species was ranked second.

The environmental issues were ranked on a basis that gave one point for a first-place vote, two points for a second-place vote, on up to eight points for an eighth-place vote. Thus, the issue with the least number of points received the broadest support.

Based on the results of the survey, a special resolution was adopted at the NWF's annual meeting March 22 at Toronto. The resolution stressed the need for stricter pollution controls and stronger efforts to protect endangered species.

In addition, another of the 40 resolutions passed at the annual meeting, which established policy for NWF each year, demanded a moratorium on the licensing of new nuclear power plants in the U.S. until safety and waste problems are solved.

Sponsors Bill On Protection Of Wetlands

Senator Dave Durenberger has cosponsored legislation to protect natural habitats and preserve wetlands. The bill increases federal water bank payment to participating farmers and extends coverage to wetlands not now eligible for water bank funds.

Federal water bank was established in 1970 to encourage the preservation, restoration and improvement of wetlands. Under the program, farmers enter into voluntary agreements with the U.S. department of agriculture to protect waterfowl breeding and nesting grounds. The farmers receive payments in return for agreeing to use the farm land in a manner to protect natural habitats.

The government does not acquire land nor exercise any control over the use of the land when the lease terminates.

Durenberger said the bill he is cosponsoring would have three important effects. "Under this bill, farmers will get a fair payment for the use of their land. Currently, farmers sign a 10-year lease with no adjustments, even though inflation is driving up land and crop values. My bill will allow a reevaluation at the beginning of the fifth year.

"Also, the program will protect all wetland areas, not just migratory bird habitats as it does now. And, the $10 million ceiling on the program will be eliminated. This will give protection to more land," Durenberger said.

A companion bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman James Oberstar. A House committee recently set the appropriation level at $30 million annually.

"Even though the Carter administration has recommended elimination of this program, it has been an effective means of protecting our environment and offers farmers a creative and flexible land use option," Durenberger said. "It offers vital protection of wetlands without decreasing private ownership of property."

RLF 5-4 Winner Over Pizza Hut

List of unbeaten teams in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league fell to just two Monday as Red Lake Falls used a double play to turn back Pizza Hut 5-4 in a match-up of undefeated rivals.

It was the second victory of the night for Red Lake Falls, an easy 13-2 winner over First Federal Savings & Loan Association in the first half of a twinbill that produced a league-leading 6-0 record.

Schmidt' Stealers also remained unbeaten with a 24-5 romp over Hydra Mac-Toreq as Ruth Ostby hit two home runs, including a three-run shot.

Previously winless J & B Drug snapped a sixth inning tie with a five-run outburst that upset Roseau Transport 11-8. Karla Reid hit a three-run home run for J & B Drug.

The Ridge Runners ran up a 25-5 fifth inning lead en route to an easy win over the Healthy Hustlers.

Helen Anderson, Linda Olson, Donna Kompelien, Jodi Ranum and Shelly Magner all hit home runs as Falls Clinic handed Rusty Nail its fifth straight loss, 15-3.

Laurie Bottem was 3-for-4, including a triple, as the Farmer's Co-op Stingers edged Ekeren Drug 10-9. Kelly Storhaug hit a two-run home run for Ekeren Drug.

Waterfowl Outlook Considered Good Across Canadian Prairies

Officials of Ducks Unlimited, North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization, have announced that the nesting outlook for ducks and geese across the Canadian prairies is improved over that of 1978 despite the fact that a late Canadian spring delayed waterfowl migration in some regions.

"Our field reports indicate a continuation of the improved, water-condition trend observed through Saskatchewan and Manitoba last year," said Ducks Unlimited executive vice president Dale E. Whitesell. "Ask Canadians in those two provinces about the 1978-79 winter, and I don't think they'll hesitate to tell you that it was one of the longest — and certainly the coldest — on record. But thanks to an overall cool spring with above-average precipitation, the runoff in most areas was excellent, with many river systems receiving so much water that the flooding really got out of hand."

Though the late Canadian spring apparently caused some apprehension among biologists concerning the 1979 nesting season, Whitesell said that recent DU (Canada) field surveys from Saskatchewan and southern Manitoba indicate that production this year may be the best in a long time. "In western Saskatchewan, for instance," said Whitesell, "water conditions are nearly comparable to those top-notch levels which existed back in the nesting seasons of 1969 and 1970 when you couldn't have reasonably hoped for a whole lot more. The breeding population in this part of Saskatchewan is, dominated by mallards, pintails and blue-winged teal, and given some reasonable summer rains to ensure adequate brood water, these species should be in fine shape when it comes time to avaluate this region's fall flight.

"It was not until mid-May that the major portions of our waterfowl breeding populations became established in southern Manitoba, but most permanent marshes there are full or flooded and the total number of waterbodies in this region has increased by nearly 150 per cent. A significant increase in the breeding population is evident, and as one would expect for the prairie-parkland zone, the increase is dominated by mallards and pintails."

Whitesell went on to say that the optimistic nesting-condition reports for Saskatchewan and Manitoba are "reason enough" for the members of Ducks Unlimited to continue the habitat restoration and preservation fight begun by the organization 42 years ago. "It takes a certain amount of enthusiasm and dedication to raise the kind of money needed to support the work our DU (Canada) field crews will carry out on some one-half million acres of critical waterfowl breeding habitat this year. Our fund-raising goal for 1979 stands at an even $20 million, and our volunteers consider this a solid pledge ensuring that the fight to save diminishing North American waterfowl habitat will continue to be fought."

Wetland Easement Violations Will Be Enforced In Minnesota

An ever-increaseing demand for crop production, irrigation water needs and mechanical and social changes in agriculture have posed some serious threats to Minnesota's wetland resource.

Since the early 1960's the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) has been acquiring wetlands in western Minnesota through an outright purchase of these areas or through an easement agreement with landowners. The wetland easement offers landowners a one-time cash payment so they will not drain, fill or burn the wetlands on their acreage. The easement agreements are ever-lasting regardless of any ownership changes, and access to these areas is at the landowner's discretion.

The problem with easements is that many are being partially or wholly drained, filled or altered. The loss of wetlands has grown acute and the Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Department of Justice will be vigorously enforcing easement violations in Minnesota.

While the FWS wetland program is in 28 counties in Minnesota, the majority of easements are in Pope, Big Stone, Pipestone, Otter Tail and Mahnomen counties.

There are 922 easements for wetlands in western Minnesota covering 136,000 acres with 33,000 acres of the amount being wet areas or actual potholes.

An additional 121,000 acres of waterfowl habitat have been acquired in Minnesota through fee title under the FWS program. Of this figure nearly 45,000 acres are permanent wetlands or potholes.

Of the 922 wetland easements for Minnesota, FWS authorities estimate as many as 10 per cent of these are in violation of the original easement agreement.

Main violations regarding easements relate to drainage of wetlands. Ditches installed by farmers-landowners are the most obvious, but tile or subsurface drainage is equally devastating.

The FWS wetland program is not unique to Minnesota. North and South Dakota and part of Montana have had active wetland programs in the past, and violations have occurred in these areas as well.

FWS employees have made every effort to keep landowners informed of their current obligations regardless of ownership changes. Letters, phone calls and personal visits by FWS personnel have been used to point out and explain easements. Articles and fact sheets have been supplied to local newspapers, and in general, the local community and its citizens are well informed about the ramifications of easements and the consequences of violating the agreement.

FWS personnel annually review county courthouse records to detect ownership changes on land that has a wetland easement. Owners are notified about the easement and the restrictions that apply to them.

An easement survey is also done annually where FWS specialists look at all easements under their jurisdiction and detect violations if they have occurred. From aerial spot checks, the FWS visits sites for ground proofing of any suspected violations. Violators are notified and a "wetland restoration" date is set. FWS personnel meet with landowners and establish a restoration date compatible with landowner's time schedule, crop maturation and harvest, and contractor availability. Every effort is made to be lenient and understanding in meeting landowner needs in solving wetland easement violations.

FWS personnel give landowners adequate time and incentive to comply with restoration. So far only about one-half of the easement violators have complied or restored wetlands without legal action.

The FWS wetlands acquisition program is intended to benefit waterfowl. Without wetlands, and specifically the "prairie potholes," the Mississippi Flyway could lose many waterfowl species. Lands acquired and managed under the FWS program have proven successful in preventing the demise of America's waterfowl resource. Eastment areas should, to a large degree, provide similar benefits to wetlands purchased in fee title despite the less intensive management aspects.

"The task of enforcing easement violations will not be pleasant for anyone," according to Norrel Wallace, wetlands program manager in Fergus Falls. "It is often hard to equate the value of wetlands in the long run when short term-profits from agricultural production are so important in our society."

Wallace said people will no doubt be choosing up sides and cheering for the ducks or farmers, but the problem is not that simple. Laws have been broken. Society demands a quality of existence that cannot be fabricated if wetlands are lost and in the long run wetlands could prove to be extremely beneficial to landowners who now view them with disdain.

Enshrine Three Into Fishing Hall Of Fame

First annual enshrinements in recognition for outstanding achievement, for the national fresh water fishing hall of fame have been announced, according to Bob Kutz, the hall's administrator.

After deliberating for two years, the national board of governors of the hall of fame chose as its first inductees Ole Evinrude, a significant and lasting pioneer in the outboard motor industry, who marketed his first outboard in 1909; Dame Juliana Berners, a British nun who, in the 15th century, compiled the earliest known treatise in English on angling; and Izaak Walton, often referred to as the inspiration to modern day fishing because of his famous work, "The Compleat Angler."

Plaques bearing an inscription and engraved likeness of the enshrinees will repose in the big fish anglers shrine of the hall complex. Companion engraved plaques will be presented to the Evinrude corporation, the Izaak Walton League and to proper official representatives of the British angling fraternity.

For next year, and each succeeding year thereafter, a gala public banquet will be held for the annual induction ceremonies. A committee has been selected from within the ranks of the hall's national governors board to accept public nominations beginning now, and by the process of elimination, select next year's inductees.

Nominations of living or deceased candidates for enshrinement for 1980 may be submitted through the end of 1979 by the public by writing to the National Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame, Box 33, Hall of Fame Drive, Hayward, Wisconsin 54843. The elimination and selection process will then continue in the Spring when the committee selects final inductees to be honored for that given year.

World nominations for outstanding achievement and accomplishment in the realm of angling, equipment development, science, conservation, education and communication, relative to fresh water fishing, are eligible.

A nominee may be an individual, a group, a company or an organization. It was emphasized, by the committee, that the mere catching of a record fish, or a quantity of fish, will not in itself be interpreted as an outstanding contribution for the purpose of enshrinement. Such feats, they noted, already have their rightful place in the hall's fishing museum and in the hall's world record program. The committee also noted that contributions to the conservation and betterment of fresh water angling are best demonstrated, for recognition, by evidence of dedication, development, research, organization, and various efforts in education, awareness and communication.

All nominations will be acknowledged and unsuccessful candidates may be re-nominated for a following year. Supporting statistics, photos, and a maximum two page narrative must be submitted on behalf of nominees. Ample postage must be included if return of materials is desired after judging. The decision of the enshrinement selections committee will be final.

Detailed guidelines, rules and regulations of the annual enshrinement program are available by request from the hall of fame.

Jim Marshall has played in all 254 Vikings games since Minnesota joined the NFL in 1961 — a league record.

605 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield mobile home and lot, two entries, front living room, stove and fridge, washer and dryer, skirting and tie-downs installed, $22,750 - terms.

625 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield, nearly new, huge entry and deck, large corner lot by the park, $24,800 with terms.

We have three new homes in various stages of construction that are for sale, all under $45,000 with financing available now. If your're shopping, these may be a better buy than many older homes in town - the interest rates continue to rise but this is still a good time to buy a new home.

We have a limited number of mobile home lots for sale. These are also good values as compared to renting a site - we can finance or rent to you with an option to buy at a later date - we can and will trade almost anything of value to help with your down payment. Call us.

REAL-ESTATE PARTNER WANTED

Got that boxed in feeling, not happy with your commission checks, being suppressed by your boss, want to make more money, be your own boss? Think there's got to be a better way?

There is, and we would like to talk with you about it. Let us show you how the experience, knowledge and leadership of nearly a century can work for you. Let us provide the expense of signs, forms, advertising, catalogs, printing. Let us provide the tools, reputation and training necessary to succeed in both listing and selling.

Pay no franchise fee, have no boss. We are partners. We succeed or fail together. Don't wait any longer. Let us show you the better way.

"AW, MOM! I'M SLEEPY!" Objecting to being aroused from a sound and relaxed snooze in a sun-warmed sand pile is this young colt on the William Vollan farm west of Thief River Falls. Vollan is in the process of building shelters and other structures on the place to help him properly care for his Arabian horses. The pile of sand used for the construction process was immediately found by the colts to be a comfortable bed.

To Coordinate Effort Against Valley Flooding

A promise of cooperation from a Senate committee chairman, a successful meeting with Governors Arthur Link and Al Quie, and a proposed gathering of members of the federal delegations from Minnesota and North Dakota — these are three outcomes of action taken by Senator Rudy Boschwitz since his trip to the Red River valley two weeks ago.

Testifying this morning before the Senate's subcommittee on Water Resources, Boschwitz told its chairman, Senator Mike Gravel (Alaska), of the problems faced in the Valley and explained that legislation may be forthcoming to implement a concerted effort in solving problems in the region.

"You can be assured, Senator Boschwitz, that your efforts will receive our committee's full cooperation," responded Gravel.

Boschwitz explained to the committee that the Red River suffers from unique conditions: It runs north and floods easily when the water meets still icy conditions in Canada, its slope decreases only six inches to a foot per mile, and it drains 12,000 square miles of land.

Said Boschwitz after the hearing, "During my three day trip through the Red River Valley two weeks ago, I talked to hundreds of people from Moorhead up to Noyes on the Canadian border. And everywhere I went, I heard the same thing: Plans made for the future must involve both sides of the river working together.

"Since my trip there, I've already met with Governors Link and Quie and presented the beginning outline of a plan that would view the problem area as an interrelated region of millions of acres of land and that would encompass the entire valley. Both men showed great interest.

"Accordingly, I've now invited Congressmen Mark Andrews (N.D.) and Arlan Stangeland (MN.) and Senators Milton Young and Quentin Burdick (N.D.) and Dave Durenberger (MN.) to a joint meeting to begin planning."

Explained Boschwitz, "When you look at the history of the Red River Valley, you have to admit that – unless something pretty drastic changes — topsoil from millions of acres of land will continue to erode, almost like part of an annual spring ritual.

"The federal government, of course, can not prevent floods. We can, however, move their crest down a couple of feet and eliminate much of their damage.

"Right now, we're spending close to $100 million each year to build and tear down dikes. But dike construction deals only with effects; it doesn't change the cause of the flood damage.

"Because the wealth of the Valley is at stake and because federal money is heavily involved, it's obvious we must begin a comprehensive program for the entire region," Boschwitz concluded.

Basic Standard Set For School Lunch Program

Single standard of eligibility for free meals and free milk under the national school lunch, breakfast and special milk program will go into effect July 1.

Assistant secretary of agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman recently announced a new regulation permitting the change. The regulation implements public law 95-627 which provides that children of families whose income is no higher than 125 per cent of the secretary's income poverty guidelines are eligible for free meals, and for free milk in schools which elect to provide it.

Although states previously could set eligibility from 100 up to 125 per cent of the guidelines, virtually all participants received free benefits at the 125 per cent level. Under current guidelines, a family of four, to be eligible, should earn no more than $8110 a year.

Under the school food programs, states received additional financial assistance for each meal served free or at reduced price to eligible children. In January, 37 per cent of the 26 million lunches served daily were provided free. The new regulation was published in the June 8 Federal Register and becomes effective July 1.

Although Late, Crops Said In Good Condition

Although last week's warm temperatures stimulated crop growth, it also reduced topsoil moisture supplies and placed crops under moisture stress in some localities. Weekend rains replenished moisture supplies across the three central districts, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. Prior to those rains, some late-planted crops were emerging slowly or unevenly. Statewide, most crops are now in good condition although later than normal.

Tractor fuel supplies remained mostly adequate as the time of high consumption during planting is past. In a number of localities, however, supplies were tight.

About 95 per cent of the state's corn acreage has emerged. Despite some dry areas, overall growth has been good and the crop is averaging six inches high, about one-half the normal height for this time of year. The first cultivation is 38 per cent completed.

Nearly all the soybean acreage is planted and 85 per cent has emerged. The average height is three inches, compared with the five inch normal. Farmers have cultivated 16 per cent of the acreage for the first time.

Small grain seeding is nearly wrapped up with 91 per cent of the spring wheat and barley and 94 per cent of the oats emerged. A few fields have begun to joint. Winter wheat is 30 per cent and rye 49 per cent heading. Herbicide spraying was active last week.

Sunflower planting is 97 per cent completed. Potato growers have 95 per cent of the acreage planted. The flax crop is 91 per cent seeded and 63 per cent emerged. Planting of sweet corn for processing is almost completed.

Farmers began to cultivate and thin sugarbeet fields last week. The first crop of alfalfa hay is 29 per cent cut.

Album

Our wedding day! We all have cherished memories. In fact, the one thing no one can take away from you is your memories. Which is true . . . but also just a little sad.

Sad, because memories are another word for the past. Fine in its place. But we need to live today, and to look toward tomorrow.

So, don't linger over the snapshot album too long, don't bog yourself down in what was. Get in the mainstream, here and now! A great place for a launching is in the Church.

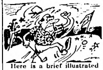
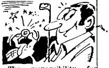
THE RULES OF GOLF





Here is a brief illustrated guide to some of the many rules applying to all golfers:

If your opponent touches or moves your ball, your opponent incurs a penalty stroke.

When a ball dropped in a hazard rolls out of the hazard, it must be redropped, without penalty.

If the flagstick is not attended before a stroke is played, it cannot be attended or removed while the ball is in motion.

Setting these rules and other measures to preserve golf's integrity is part of the job performed by the United States Golf Association (USGA), which has nearly 5,000 golf club members. OUTDOOR WOOD

Hints For Homeowners On Planning And Building

DECORATING YOUR DECK

A deck can be an ideal place to enjoy that first cup of coffee in the morning, especially if it's an attractive place to be—and you can make it so with the addition of appropriate plants and furniture.

To harmonize with the larger scale of the outdoors, plants should be larger than those for indoors, possibly displayed at several levels—ground, eye and deck railing.

To make sure both deck and railing remain unaffected by water draining off plants, you should construct them with a pressure-treated lumber like Wolmanized® wood. Containers for large plants, shrubs or trees can also be made of this durable material so that they too will withstand the weather.

Containers holding tall plants or trees should be weighted so they cannot be toppled over by the wind. Other attractive plants for your deck garden are ferns. They must be watered often and sheltered from the wind.

Tubed vines like ivy, geraniums, sweet peas and morning glories can be a great addition to a deck, as can berry-bearing bushes such as the Pyrachantha.

Let your patio furniture reflect the mood of your home. Synthetics, Plexiglas and metal mesh are weather-resistant materials that give you a variety of choices.

Easy-to-build benches of Wolmanized lumber can be attached alongside the deck for simple, inexpensive seating, while in open areas, wrought iron—now available in contemporary, Early American and Spanish styles—is another option. You might also make your own low-cost chairs by adding mildew-proof cushions to barrels.

For more information and other ideas using Wolmanized pressure-treated lumber, call, toll free, 800-245-2708. In Pennsylvania, call collect 412-227-2441, and in Canada, 416-826-9648.

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

"This (energy) crisis struck home less than five months ago. Congress has wasted time while some members have insisted on grinding their own political axes, but common sense is beginning to prevail. Our nation will have some hardships and living styles will change. I am confident, however, that we will continue to progress, to maintain our economic vigor, to be a dynamic world leader. We will beat the energy crisis."

The rhetoric sounds familiar, doesn't it? Every day we read similar pronouncements in the newspaper. Usually, the statements are placed next to articles on the growing severity of the energy crisis.

There is a hidden message in the statement above, however: It was made five years ago, in March 1974, by a former United States senator. It's obvious we haven't beaten the energy crisis. In fact, it has grown worse.

The tragedy is that after five years we have learned very little. We are still using empty rhetoric to fill empty tanks. Politicians blame the oil industry, the oil industry blames government and everyone blames the public's unquenchable thirst for gasoline.

The last is the most unfair. While government and the oil industry can be convincted of consistent errors in dealing with the energy crisis, the American people hold the key to the solution of many of our problems. And, they are responding, just like they have in past crises. Certainly Americans can and must do more to conserve, but they have demonstrated they are willing to make the effort.

Recently, I was reminded of the public's response to another shortage — the California drought of 1977. Reviewing that experience, it becomes clear why Californians successfully handled the water shortage, while we, as a nation, we have failed miserable to cope with our energy problems.

Two years ago in California government officials worked with utilities to convince the people that the drought would not end soon. Credibility was high because statements to the public were consistent and the people were kept informed. The citizens were told the extent of the shortage, what their daily usage quotas were and whether they were meeting their quotas. The public also was given practical information on methods to reduce consumption.

Just as importantly, the state government cooperated closely with local governments. Counties and cities established goals, not the state bureaucrats. California recognized that quotas should vary in different parts of the state depending on the extent of the shortage, and local units of government could best determine realistic targets for their areas.

The result is that California survived the drought. The public was creative. Everyone involved — government, the utilities and the citizens — adapted and cooperated.

Today, we are seeing the same voluntary conservation efforts begin applied to energy. Nationally, gasoline consumption is down about 5 per cent. In the last year, the use of electricity in Minnesota has declined by about one-fifth. Yet, too often, government and the oil industry have stifled those efforts.

I hope recent events signal a change in our public policy. On June 5, the Senate took a positive approach to an emergency national energy conservation plan. The Senate-passed bill reminds everyone that we do face the potential of a serious energy shortage, but, it doesn't mandate that everyone in the country react to a shortage in the same way.

Instead, it gives the states a stronger role in resolving an energy shortage. Each state can design a conservation plan based on its individual needs. It recognizes that all states are not the same.

Another encouraging action came when several senators joined me in sending a letter to Energy Secretary James Schlesinger requesting an independent audit of our crude oil supplies before and after the Iranian crisis. We also asked that the audit determine how this country's refineries have been utilized.

'It's clear that many Americans are skeptical about the oil shortage. Conflicting and confusing reports add to their skepticism. We can't begin to solve our energy proglems until we know the extent of our shortages.

With positive cooperative efforts and solid information we can solve the energy crisis. As the senator said five years ago, "We will beat the energy crisis."

Why Are Products Packaged Differently?

Looking at supermarket shelves with their eye-dazzling array of bottles and cans in various sizes, designs and materials, may prompt the question: Isn't all this unnecessarily costly and wasteful? Wouldn't it be better to use one size container for all products, and less wasteful to use one kind of material instead of using paper, metal, glass and plastic?

First, of course, there is no one material, one size or one container design that is best for every product just as there is no one shoe size or style that fits every foot and every purpose. Not everyone's needs are the same. Size of family and how often the product will be used make a difference. For individuals living alone, or using small quantities of a product, a small size is the most economical. For large families, buying in large containers makes more sense—it is less expensive per unit.

What the public wants, in the end, determines what manufacturers supply. Soft drinks, for example, are packaged in various sizes and types of containers because people's needs and activities vary as much as their preference. For picnics or boating, metal cans are generally preferred because they chill faster, take up less space and won't break. Homebodies may prefer beverages in glass. On the other hand, the new two-liter size plastic bottle has been an instant success not only because the larger size is less costly per ounce, but because these larger plastic bottles are lighter and easier to handle than comparably-sized glass bottles.

Some materials are better suited for certain products. A no-drip top may be best or an easy-grip handle, or a metal pouring spout or a bottle that squeezes out the product.

Practically all liquid bleach is in plastic bottles today because shoppers prefer the ease of handling and the fact that they won't shatter if dropped. That's also why most people buy liquid kitchen cleansers and bathroom products in plastic bottles.

The most important function of packaging is protection — in transit, in storage, in use. From the time the product leaves the production line months may elapse before it is consumed. Dye-containing shampoos in glass or plastic bottles are additionally packaged in paperboard cartons to prevent light from damaging the hair dyes until they reach the consumers.

Does a shopper pay more for products because there are different kinds of containers? On balance, same size containers serving the same purpose tend to be comparable in price. If one kind of container were to cost considerably more to produce than an equally-acceptable type, it would increase the cost of the product on the supermarket shelf and the product most likely would stay there.

Can packaging conserve energy and reduce waste? Take a can of frozen concentrated orange juice as an example. A fresh orange squeezed at home is 40 percent juice. The other 60 percent is pulp and peels that end up in the garbage. Frozen concentrate processors, by contrast, turn the pulp and peels into fertilizer and cattle feed. And for every truckload of frozen concentrated juice you would have to ship seven truckloads of fresh oranges to get the same amount of juice.

Wednesday afternoon guests at the Don Dyrdal home were Gunvar Boyeie and Svarre Odegard of Nordberg, Norway and Mrs. Edith Dyrdal. Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Todd joined them there for supper, after which they were joined by Daryl and went to Thief River Falls where the families viewed movies taken in Norway at the meeting room of the public library. Also coming to view the movies were Nels Dyrdal, David Dyrdal, the Don Dyrdal family, Shelly Solseng, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Arvin Hanson, Mrs. Olga Oswald, Mr. and Mrs. George Mostue, Mrs. Edwin Hestad and Mrs. Ed Mozinski. Coffee and refreshments were served following showing of the films and much visiting in the Norwegian dialogue was enjoyed throughout the evening.

Thursday visitors of Mrs. Marion Hoglo were Tracy Hoglo and Randy Berg and later Mrs. Jack Kjellberg and her mother, Mrs. Olga Oswald, all who are from Thief River Falls.

Coming from a distance to attend the funeral of Marvin S. Johnson last Monday were Mrs. Lillian Johnson, Vicky, Valarie, Larry and Kevin of Minneapolis, who were here for the day, Mrs. Ed Edstrom and her brother, Melford Haugen of Minneapolis, who arrived Sunday evening and were house guests until Tuesday morning of Mrs. Eleanor Joyce, Nora and Helmina Holo of Langdon, N.D., who spent Monday, and Mr. and Mrs. Elrie Johnson, who arrived Friday evening, the 8th, and spent the following week at the parental Johnson home. Ethel (Mrs. Marvin Johnson) has been a patient at Northwestern hospital since last Tuesday and at this writing is reported to be improving.

Visiting at the home of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal Thursday afternoon with her houseguests from Nordberg, Norway were Nels Dyrdal of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Pederson of Numedal. Nels was also a supper guest. Joining them for the evening were Mrs. Esther Solseng, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dyrdal, John, Kristy and Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Todd. Svarre Odegard and Gunvar Boyeie left by bus the following morning for Minneapolis, where they spent Saturday before boarding a plane Sunday for their return home.

Friday afternoon coffee guests of Mrs. Roger Dyrdal were Mary Ann Anderson of St. Hilaire, Mrs. LeRoy Scholin of Thief River Falls, Mrs. LuAnn Lewis and Mrs. Julie Steinert.

Saturday visitors and luncheon guests at the Daryl Lewis home were Alvin Lietzow in the afternoon and Kathy, John and Kristy Dyrdal in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Solseng and Heidi of Fargo, N.D., spent a few days over the weekend of June 9 visiting at the homes of Esther Solseng and the Martin Solseng family.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson took Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong out to dinner for Father's Day Sunday. Later they and son Steven, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd VeVea of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Dake Ayers, Denise, Diane and Darla visited at the Armstrong home. Ron Armstrong of Rockville, Maryland, also telephoned long distance with Father's Day greetings.

Helmets Make Sense

While we have long maintained that the wearing of a helmet while riding a motorcycle should be a matter of choice rather than law, we strongly encourage such use. Wearing helmets just plain makes good sense.

The motorcycle safety foundation points out some of the reasons why it is both practical and wise to wear a certified helmet while riding a motorcycle. The reasons follow:

Wearing a helmet does not hinder vision — That's right. When standing still a person has peripheral (side) vision of about 110 to 115 degrees. When a helmet is put on, the perpheral vision remains the same because certified helmets provide a minimum perpheral vision measuring 120 degrees. This is standing still.

Once the cyclist starts riding his area of vision decreases, but this is caused by increasing speed (not the helmet) causing a tunnel effect on the cyclist's vision. This happens with all moving vehicles, motorcycles as well as cars. The faster you go the smaller the tunnel, and the less you see.

Wearing a helmet does not impair hearing — What a helmet does is provide a screening effect, but it screens all sounds to the same degree. Thus, noises that the cyclist doesn't need to hear, such as wind blast, are screened along with other sounds.

The cyclist wearing a helmet hears all critical sounds at the same relative strength as the rider without protection, except at higher speeds. Then the rider with the helmet hears better

At highway speeds wind noise becomes a critical factor in the cyclist's hearing. Because the helmet acts as a wind screen, the helmeted cyclist actually hears better at high speeds than the bareheaded rider.

Wearing a helmet does not cause neck injuries — The common argument is that the added weight of a helmet contributes to whiplash injuries; however, whiplash injuries don't happen to cyclists. If a cyclist is hit, the entire body is free to move, but when a car is hit only the driver's head and neck move violently over the back of the front seat. This snapping action is what causes whiplash.

Whiplash injuries are peculiar to car accidents. And, yes, a helmet does add extra weight. But only for a day or two; then the neck muscles adjust and you don't feel any "weight problem."

The chances of taking a direct blow on the neck during a fall are pretty slim, but the chances that you'll hit your head are over 50 per cent.

Most neck injuries occur when the rider's head gets bounced on the pavement, or hits a guardrail or cracks somebody's windshield.

Helmets do save lives— During 1978, motorcycle deaths exceeded 4,300, accidents exceeded 175,000. Of every 10,000 motorcycle registrations, 333 will be involved in an accident. It could happen to you even though you might not be at fault.

Why A Death Penalty?

Following column by Patrich Buchanan appeared recently in the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

A few days ago, Jeremiah Stephens, 65, lay in a coma in critical condition in Howard University hospital. He was dying of pneumonia, heart failure and terminal throat cancer.

When the nurse left the room, his daughter, Patricia, pulled a pair of scissors from her purse, cut the tubes feeding him liquid food and oxygen, disconnected the respirator and watched her father die. When the nurse returned minutes later, Patricia Stephens was making the sign of the cross over the body of her father.

John Spenkelink has died in the electric chair for the Florida murder of a drifter six years ago.

While Stephens' death did not cause that feeling in the pit of the stomach, Spenkelink's did. Both actions raise moral questions in a society that calls itself civilized; both actions, in the judgment of this writer, were correct.

While Miss Stephens' act has been called ere "euthanasia" and "mercy killing," the description is imprecise.

The dictionary defines euthanasia as "the act or practice of killing individuals. . .that are hopelessly sick or injured for reasons of mercy."

Strictly speaking, Miss Stephens did not kill her father. She would have done so had she plunged a knife into his heart — or shot him to death. What she did was terminate the efforts of modern medicine to prolong his life a few extra hours, a few extra days.

The moral difference between what she did and "mercy killing" is vast.

Of concern about the Stephens decision, however, is the precedent established. She very probably should have taken the decision only in concert with her father's doctors — and let them carry it out. The danger lies in the precedent that was set. How do we handle her purblind imitators who pull the plug on poor Uncle Sid who was horribly disfigured in an auto accident but who can still live a productive life?

Considering Spenkelin, that sick feeling comes from the fact that we came, somewhat, to know him — not his victim — and our natural sympathy is to side with the man fighting to keep his life, rather than with the agents of the state who wish to take it.

But Spenkelink's death is nevertheless a small sign of a society which may have relocated its missing moral compass.

That comment will cause consternation, and range. How, it is asked, can society which professes to believe in the sanctity of human life cold-bloodedly destroy a human life?

As Professor Ernst Van Den Haag points out, the question should be reversed. Do we not show a certain disregard — even contempt — for innocent life when we send the killers in our society the message that there is no limit to the number of murders they can commit which will cause us to do to them what they have done to their victims?

By making the life of murderers sacrosanct, we have made the lives of innocent people insecure. Who knows how many men, women and children might have been spared — had more than two convicted killers been executed in 15 years?

Which brings us again to the questions. Does the state have the right to kill? Does the death penalty deter?

The answers seem obvious. Of course, the state has a right to take life. Why else do we train our police in the use of deadly weapons?

Of course the death penalty deters. What other than the threat of death from the air deterred North Koreans from axe-murdering more American soldiers along the DMZ? What other than the threat of atomic destruction — and his own death in the rubble — prevented the homocidal maniac Stalin from seizing Berlin in 1948?

Professed atheists, Communists are also rational men. They fear the death penalty. So, too, should the murderers in our prisons and in our midst.

When I Was A Kid . . .

Alec Sirken wrote the following letter to the editor of the Washington Post recently:

"The legistics of inflation hadn't really hit home until recently, when, for the first time in years, I purchased a pack of chewing gum — for 25 cents. Ah, how different things are from the good old days of childhood when gum cost a nickel and bubble gum a penny.

"When I was a kid and went off to the playground with 75 cents in my pocket, I was filthy rich. I could buy a huge lunch at the corner market — a quarter for a quarter-pound of freshly sliced baloney, a nickel for a crisp, hard roll and a dime for a pint of lemonade. And plenty left over for a snack of ice cream and maybe a soda later on. When I was a kid. . .but those were the old days. Now I'm not a kid anymore. Now I'm 23."

Borrowed Nonsense:

Fed up with the speeding cars which frightened his livestock and menaced his children, the farmer erected a sign which immediately caused motorists to slow down when passing his place. It read, "Caution: Nudist Camp Crossing".

"Never really wanted to go away on no vacation," the old-timer mused. "When I loaf, I kinda want some work handy to loaf from."

Country Girl — "If you treat a cow with affection, it will give more milk."

City girl — "Big deal, honey; so will the milkman."

Interesting Opinions:

"Never lose an opportunity to seeing anything that is beautiful; for beauty is God's handwriting . . . a wayside sacrament. Welcome it in every fair face, in every fair sky, in every fair lower, and thank God for it a cup of blessing."
—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Already shouldering a man's work in the African bush country, this little boy closes his eyes to the setting sun. With the help of UNICEF, his tomorrows and the future of the world's billion and a half children can offer the promise of better health, nutrition and education. International Year of the Child 1979 provides another challenge for the entire world community to "think children" and act to improve their lives (ICEF 7639/Hewett)

Mrs. Albert Widseth

Albert and Emily Widseth and Wayne and Alice Jackson and Judy Marmorine and Conrad and Elsie Lorents, Bill and Min Janous, Lawrence and Lillie Olson were among those passengers who filled the Farmers Union bus Thursday for the trip to Duluth. The others came from Gonvick, Clearbrook and other towns close by. They left at 6:00 in the morning, returning home close to midnight, and had a great day sightseeing. In Duluth they were treated to a surprise smorgasbord dinner, toured the shipyards, enjoyed a two hour ride on the harbor and rode the Skyline Drive. They had lunch along the way and supper at Grand Rapids. Weather was rainy on the way over, then cleared for a bright day in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Butch Petterson and family of Mahnomen spent the weekend at the Palmer Petterson's in Gonvick.

Chester Hanson of Minneapolis is spending a week in the home of his brother and wife, the Alfred Hansons. They visited the Forrest Hanson's in Bagley one day last week.

Visiting with Albert and Emily Widseth on Monday was Bertha Clemenson and Gunda Brue and Irene Metzer and Mavis Rantala of Nashwauk. Irene and Mavis were spending the weekend with Bertha and Gunda.

John Hoeker was a Monday dinner guest of Albert and Emily Widseth.

Thomina Wilmo returned to her home in Berner this week after spending a week in Minneapolis with her sons, Wesley and Warren Wilmo and daughter Durly and their families in Minneapolis.

Edith Widseth and daughter Judy, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Widseth returned to their homes last weekend after a month's vacation spent in Oregion and the west, where Edith and Judy visited and the Widseths visited their son and family, Rodgers, and also the Alfred Widseths enroute home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Nelson of Pengilly spent the weekend visiting Bertha Clemenson and Gunda Brue here and also Nels Nelson, who is at the Samaritan center in Clearbrook.

Thomina Wilmo was a soup dinner guest at Grace Brown's Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hanson were Fosston callers Thursday. They also visited at the Palmer Petterson's in Gonvick.

Energy and Constituent Services

The energy crisis is affecting everyone. Gas prices are continuing to rise and in some areas of the country this fuel, which we depend on so heavily, is becoming difficult to find. As Americans, we must meet the problem head on. A short term solution is conservation which can give us breathing room to develop long term alternatives. This must occur at all levels of government, business, industry, and right on down to the consumer. As your Congressman from the Seventh District of Minnesota, I have decided to take action that will greatly reduce the amount of energy consumed by my office.

My duty is to represent the people of the Seventh District in Washington, D.C. Unfortunately, while Congress is in session in the Nation's Capital, it is not possible for me to meet and listen to constituent concerns in Minnesota. To compensate for this I established, upon my election in 1977, a staff of three District Field Representatives who travel around the District listening to legislative and Federal concerns and then relay them to me.

I have decided, in view of reduced gasoline supplies and higher gasoline prices, that it is no longer appropriate to maintain constituent services in this form. The District Field Representatives travel an average of at least 90,000 miles each year by car and mobile van.

The services provided by the District Field Representatives were excellent. At this time, however, these services do not represent a responsible use of energy. Therefore, I am discontinuing them. As an alternative to traveling District Field Representatives, I have decided to install in my District Office in Moorhead a toll-free telephone number for constituent use. Seventh District residents will now find it possible to call this number, at no cost to them, and discuss legislative and Federal concerns with someone in the District Office who will then relay them to me. The cost in taxpayer dollars will be greatly reduced, with virtually no reduction in constituent services. We will also realize a substantial savings in gasoline, but only by eliminating the miles traveled by the Field Representativez but also by eliminating the travel of constituents to meet with members of my staff.

I strongly urge you, as constituents of the Seventh District, to make use of this toll-free number in order to help keep me informed of your views, problems and concerns. This toll-free number brings your Congressional office as close to you are your telephone.

New Publication Says People May Be An Endangered Species

World's population will reach the 5 billion mark by 1987, and we will have one person for every year the earth is old. What does this astronomic figure mean to the future of the human race? That question is examined in a new publication from the National Wildlife Federation entitled, "People: An Endangered Species?"

"The rapid growth in the world's population is primarily the result of a dramatic reduction in deaths, due to improved public health measures and food production techniques," explains the 16-page, illustrated booklet. Since 1940, the world's death rate has been cut in half while the birth rate has remained essentially the same. As a result, there are now about 4.2 billion people on this planet.

Can the earth support another 800 million? It's possible, says the NWF booklet, but only if everyone assumes a standard of living much lower than that of most Americans. Experts calculate that the world could support only 700 million people (about 18 per cent of the present population) at the American standard of living.

+ Food Shortages. About 500 million people in the world are severely malnourished, according to the United Nations food and agriculture organization. And the demand for food worldwide is expected to double by the year 2000. Meanwhile, millions of acres of fertile farmland are lost each year because of the growth of cities, erosion, formation of deserts, salinization, deforestation, overgrazing and dam construction.

+ Pollution. Air pollution is a problem in every major city in the world. And water pollution is often aggravated by techniques used to increase food production — run-off of animal wastes from feedlots, build-up of chemical fertilizer in water supplies and the use of toxic pesticides. Two-thirds of the people in poor countries lack access to safe water.

+ Wildlife Losses. Through its numbers and ecologically-disruptive activities, the human species threatens the survival of thousands of plants and animals. About 300 species of birds and mammals are threatened with extinction.

+ Unemployment. The labor force in developing countries is projected by the international labor organization to expand by 91 per cent between 1970 and 2000, while in the developed countries it will increase by 33 per cent. Applicants will far outnumber jobs.

Fortunately, there are practical, humane ways to limit world population growth, explains "People: An Endangered Species?" Family planning services can help the more than half the world's couples who do not use modern birth control methods. Andy by improving social and economic conditions we can encourage small families.

"Providing women with education and career opportunities opens up alternative role options to childbearing," suggest the NWF booklet. And governments can follow the examples of Pakistan and Tunisia by adopting policies that promote small families.

In addition, affluent countries should make a concerted effort to restrict resource and energy consumption. Americans, comprising five per cent of the world's population, use about one-third of the world's annual production of nonrenewable resources and energy. In fact, Americans waste more energy than the total amount used by the poorer half of the world's population.

Perhaps what's needed most to conquer the overpopulation problem is wisdom, notes the NWF publication. After all, the human species is a relative newcomer to the earth, having been here only about two million years. In contrast, the dinosaurs, thought to be poorly adapted to their environment, dominated the earth for 140 million years.

As "People: An Endangered Species?" points out: "If we do not keep our numbers in balance with the earth's ability to support human life, the human species could follow the dinosaur into extinction."

The Public Interest

WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT OIL IMPORTS?

We can decrease our dependency on foreign oil.

Our oil companies are seeking new sources of important resources.

As domestic reserves of oil and gas steadily decline, we are daily becoming more dependent upon crude oil supplies from the Middle East and other politically unstable areas. The exporting countries can now set the volume and price of their oil at whatever levels they wish. Such dependency carries with it the constant possibility of a major disruption and a major lack of fuel for our factories, offices and homes. Thousands could be thrown out of work.

Fortunately, there are some things we can do about this. We can utilize the tremendous resources of this country in a united effort to deal with the real problems at hand.

For many years, the oil industry has been working diligently to increase petroleum supplies and to overcome the serious and growing problem of oil shortages. Most companies are already spending more than they make in new oil and gas exploration and production. Their ability to do more in the future depends upon the income that the American people, through the Congress, allows them to have. One company, Pennzoil, has pledged to use any additional net income it receives from oil decontrol to look for more domestic oil and gas. The higher its cash flow, the more exploration it can do, and the more domestic fuel our country is likely to have.

Our domestic oil and gas supplies can be improved substantially experts say, through realistic exploration and production incentives and through a new atmosphere of cooperation between industry and government.

In addition, we must conserve all we can and develop other sources of energy. The United States is rich in resources. We have by most estimates 100 years or more of coal reserves. The potential for nuclear energy is considerable, there is still some potential in the area of hydro-electric power and, though years away, the possibilities for solar power, wind power and atomic fusion are great.

A whole-hearted national effort to achieve significantly increased energy conservation and substantially increased domestic energy supplies, it appears, would be greatly in the public interest.

HOME MAINTENANCE TOOLS

A visit to a hardware store can sometimes be a disturbing experience...the displays of the great variety of special purpose hand tools that have become available are frequently enough to scare off many a would-be self-maintenance homeowner.

Yet the basic "fix-it and improve" tools are few and simple, and can easily be fitted into a size 10 shoe box. With the resulting "home workshop," the tools are at hand to complete almost any repair or improvement project, from rewiring a light fixture to putting up new storage shelves. Only when somewhat more complex jobs are tackled, like installing a new door lock where a hole saw is required, will there be a need to acquire such useful though infrequently used specialty items...or strain the home maintenance budget.

Here's a list of workshop basics. First, work gloves and safety goggles. Somehow everything has to be measured, so a good steel blade push-pull tape is essential. A hammer, of course. Screwdrivers for regular slotted and Phillips-head screws. A "Nest of Saws"—three different type interchangeable blades and handle. A soldering iron and an electric wire cutter/stripper. A 4-In-Hand file, one tool that does the work of four. A utility knife, good scissors, and metal snips. Finally, a medium-size adjustable wrench and a pair of adjustable-jaw pliers.

For the economy of long-lasting tools, select top quality. You'll find familiar names like Jones, Nicholson, Boker, Crescent, Lufkin, Weller, and Wiss at your hardware center—most have been around for a century or more, the favorites of professionals too.

GARDEN VARIETY ITCHES

BEWARE!
ITCHY PLANTS

With food prices in supermarkets at record high, millions of Americans will attempt this year to hold down their food costs by hoeing down their own vegetable gardens.

That's the word from the U.S. Department of Agriculture which reports that 35 million citizens will take to the soil in 1979, an increase of 4 percent over last year.

Gardens will again sprout the standard varieties of flowers, too, since the "pleasure of growing something," is as important as the production of food, says Evelyn Kaitz, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Medical specialists warn, however, that while the spirit and appetite of home gardeners may be gratified by their sweat and honest toil, the skins of many of them may pay a price. Face, hands, neck and legs will be exposed to a host of garden variety skin irritations.

Newtimers, as well as old-timers, in the garden should be forewarned that while the worst skin irritants—poison ivy and poison oak—may spring up as garden weeds, there are also any number of "good" plants—vegetables and flowers that can and do irritate the skin.

Says Maurice I. Shinefield, M.D. of New Jersey, a Fellow of the American College of Allergists: "A number of vegetable plants, including carrots, celery, garlic, okra, onions, asparagus, and more can cause a rash with accompanying intense itching."

In fact, says another medical specialist, almost any plant in the garden can cause a rash on some individual.

And flower gardeners too may find some irritants among their blossoms.

"Allergic skin reactions can be caused by such standards in the garden as chrysanthemums, hyacinths, and tulips...and the common, ever present ragweed," says Jerome Z. Litt, M.D. Assistant Clinical Professor of Dermatology, Case Western Reserve School of Medicine.

Biting bugs seem to relish their yearly crop of gardeners. While mosquitoes, bees and biting flies are familiar, gardeners should be aware of the tiny chigger, known also as the "red bug." So small that it easily slips unnoticed from plant to clothes, the chigger migrates until it finds a tasty spot of skin to sample.

In "The Gardener's Bug Book," Cynthia Westcott, a plant pathologist, notes: "Chigger bites occur most frequently on the legs, just above the shoes and belt line. In addition to intense itching, chiggers produce large papules which persist for about two weeks."

What to do about these evils in the garden? Long pants, long-sleeved shirts and gloves help, but if exposure is unavoidable, or if a rash is developing, wash the exposed area thoroughly with warm water and soap. Keep available an analgesic/anesthetic product, such as Rhulispray or Rhulicream, to treat an irritated area. Rhuli can calm the itch before repeated scratching seriously irritates the skin. A visit to a physician is recommended in any case of plant rash or insect bite or sting in which the irritation persists.

REPORT TO CONSUMERS

BUYING YOUR FIRST HOME

By Lisa Drake

Drake

With the average price of a conventional, site-built house now over $64,000, many young couples feel frozen out of owning their own home. Yet, first-time home buyers needn't despair. Mobile/manufactured homes, because of efficiencies of production, offer housing at a price that people can afford: more than 76 percent of all under-$30,000 homes sold in 1978 were mobile/manufactured homes.

Mobile/manufactured homes typically come in two basic types: single-section homes with about 1,000 square feet and multi-section homes with up to 2,000 square feet or more. Split level and even two-story homes can be ordered. Mobile/manufactured housing is a good investment, appreciating as the demand for housing increases.

Here are some tips on what to look for when shopping for a mobile/manufactured home:

Go to several mobile/manufactured home sales centers to determine price ranges, styles, and special features. The cost of the home usually includes furnishings and appliances but does not include the lot or site, a foundation, base siding or exterior amenities, such as a porch or garage — unless it is a resale.

A first home: perhaps the most important investment a young couple will make.

When figuring the total cost of the home, consider the cost of the lot, whether you rent it or you buy it, as well as the cost of connecting to water, gas, electrical and sewage systems, and, of course, taxes and insurance.

Your sales agent can advise you on financing. Lending practices vary from one location to another. Banks, finance companies and credit unions provide reasonable financing, and there are a variety of government guarantee programs.

New homes should have the HUD seal located on the outside of the home. It assures that the home was built to strict construction safety, durability and energy-efficient standards.

In addition, a compliance certificate spells out all ratings of and other pertinent factors about installed equipment. Federal requirements regulate the acceptable level of heat losses (R-value) and are posted inside each home. Homes designed for the northern regions require storm windows or insulated glass and heavier insulation than homes designed for more southern regions. These compliance standards plus a one-year warranty are unique: site-built homes are not subject to these regulations.

When you consider location, think of your lifestyle. Nearly half of all mobile homes are in planned communities.

But you may want to site your home on your own larger lot. Some communities allow the mixing of site-built and mobile/manufactured homes; others do not.

Lisa Drake is a Consumer Affairs Advisor for the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI). MHI is a national association whose membership comprises manufacturers and suppliers engaged in producing and servicing mobile/modular homes.

What's In It For You???

More energy for less money may be available to the people of the United States, experts say, if our oil companies are encouraged in their efforts to find more fuel.

Domestic reserves of oil and gas are steadily declining and America is daily becoming more dependent upon crude oil supplies from the Middle East and other politically unstable areas.

Fortunately, most oil companies are already spending more than they make in new oil and gas exploration and production. Their ability to do more or less in the future depends upon the income that the American people through the Congress allows them to have.

Under the Administration's new decontrol and so-called "windfall profits" tax, the American people are going to immediately pay a higher price for oil, but only a small portion of the money will be available for adding to the nation's energy supply. The government may spend it on things that make little near-term contribution.

FUEL BILL
OIL EXPLORATION

Your fuel bill may not go as high as it otherwise might, thanks to more oil exploration.

On the other hand, energy experts say, our domestic oil and gas supplies can be improved substantially through realistic exploration and production incentives and through a new atmosphere of cooperation between industry and government. It would appear people in the industry want to do their share., J. Hugh Liedtke, chairman and chief executive officer of Pennzoil, for instance, pledged to use every additional penny of net income that his company received from oil decontrol for increased domestic oil and gas exploration and production.

What's in it for you? The possibility of more fuel and less foreign influence.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Marvin Johnson who passed away Thursday at the age of 88 years. He had been a resident at the CNC Unit of Northwestern hospital for about 3 years. Marvin was a pioneer of Norden township.

Sympathy is also extended to the family of Jesse Bakke, who passed away Friday. He had been in poor health the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Bakke resided just across the line in Sanders township.

Mrs. Mark Olson was a visitor at the Daryl Lewis home following the Marvin Johnson funeral Monday afternoon. Rev. T.J. Weltzin of Climax visited after the funeral at the home of Edith Dyrdal and with her houseguests from Norway. He had also visited with Mrs. Marvin Johnson and Myrl at their home earlier.

Jane Olson Graduates

Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson, was among the graduates of Lincoln high school. Following commencement exercises May 31 the following attended a reception in her honor at the Olson home. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zavoral, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Olson and Cayler, Kathy Olson, Scott Olson, Lilas Klefstad, Norman Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Olson, Brent and Tricia, Todd and Troy Hannon of East Grand Forks, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Berg, Pam, Sandy and Karen of Helgeland, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nelson, Darrel and Grant of Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Waterworth of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Nelson of Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Janzen, Dan and Tom of Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klegstad, Mr. and Mrs. Aldon Carlson, Janie and Gretchen, Mrs. Marion Langevin, Larry and Dale Langevin, Jenni Bulger, Myrl Johnson, Gerald Tricle, Margie Pulczinski, Kathy Walker and Merisa Johnson. Mrs. Paul Furuseth of Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Oson were also brief callers. Mrs. Ray Berg had made the cake featured at the luncheon. It was decorated in school colors of blue and gold, inscribed, and topped with a graduation cap and scroll. The following Thursday Jane left for Brainerd and the All-State Lutheran choir camp, and will be tourning the state until the end of June.

Sunday dinner guests at the Daryl Lewis home were Svarre Odegard and Gunvar Boyeie of Nordberg, Norway, Mrs. Edith Dyrdal, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dyrdal, Greg, Kathy and John, Randy Nelson and Avln Lietzow.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson left Friday for Waskish to spend the weekend. Saturday evening they went to Grand Rapids and visited with the John Halvorsons who recently bought the Americana Motel there. The Olsons returned home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong left June 1 on a trip to Grand Rapids, Michigan to visit their son Donald and girls. Enroute home they had the experience of crossing Lake Michigan on the ferry. In Wisconsin they visited with two nephews, Gerald Magsam and Elmer Magsam and a niece, Mrs. William Neuske, and Mrs. Armstrong's brother, Ray Magsam. They also visited at Bemidji with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong before returning home Thursday noon.

Rocksbury . . .

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Anderson and family attended the open house in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Poole on their 25th wedding anniversary.

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
Oklee, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Halvorson and mother, Mrs. Hedeen visited at the Malcolm Stucy home Saturday evening. Sunday afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Halvorson of Grand Forks and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hovet of Goodridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howard, Mrs. Rod Kragness and Brad, Mrs. Duane Howard and Stephanie and Derek of Goodridge returned home from Helena, Mont., a week ago. They attended the wedding of Jack Nielson, son of Darrel Nielson of Trail, and nephew of Mildred Howard. Stephanie Howard was a flower girl and Brad Kragness was the ring bearer. The Howards also visited at the Bennie Howard home in Belgrade, Mont.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard attended the golden anniversary of Lloyd Nielson of Thief River Falls last Sunday evening. Lloyd is a cousin of Clarence.

Mrs. Fred Lundeen was pleasantly honored on her birthday Friday afternoon when the following came over: Alice Olson, Luella Peterson, Birdie Gunderson, Mable Hofstad, Karen Peterson and boys, Gloria Rustan and Sherri, Kathy Dulka and Andy, Annebelle Chervestad, Shirley Lundeen, Connie Lundeen and family, Annette Vettleson and family, Ginger Lundeen and sister Susan Sjulestad, Lori Reinbold and family, Opal Stucy, Mildred Howard. Evening visitors were Sena Chervestad, Signe Evenson and Helen Chervestad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prigge and Michella from Gilbert spent the weekend at the Fred Lundeens and Harold Haugens.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howard were Sunday evening company.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Gustafson were Sunday afternoon company at Adolph Peterson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundeen and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Olson and Joe Peterson came over to visit with Adolph who has been a patient at the Crookston hospital and is feeling much improved.

Regene Radniecki and brother Charles from Staples were Thursday overnight guests and Friday visitors at Sybil Radniecki's. Patty and Oscar Radniecki were Saturday company at Sybil's.

Mrs. Alvin Burstad of rural Thief River Falls was pleasantly surprised on her birthday on Friday when the following came over: Mrs. Martin Geving, Mrs. John Keck of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Tom Washmut of Greenbush, Mrs. Alice Lendobeja, Mrs. Julian Lendobeja, Mrs. Knute Knutson, Mrs. Carl Lindbloom, Mrs. Raymond Parnow, Mrs. Norton Nelson, Mrs. Henry Waale, Mrs. Simon Breiland, Mrs. Tila Burstad, all of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Signe Evenson, Sena and Helen Chervestad. Helen brought special decorated birthday cake and a potluck luncheon was served. Sunday birthday luncheon guests who came over were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Burstad, Pamela and Patti, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Kalsnes, Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Hofdahl, and Mrs. Myrtle Hanson.

Signe Evenson, Sena and Helen Chervestad visited at the Ralph Sorenson home Monday and picked up some strawberry and raspberry plants and lots of rhubarb for freezing.

Bjorgulv Bjornaraa from Valle, Norway has by now become well known among the Setesdals in Minnesota, as a folk leader and a poet. Eivand Aakhus was well known violinist and Sam Sorenson was becoming one and they were interested in such an organization. There were enthusiastic people who spoke up at many of the small meetings. Among them were Aanend Rystad, Halvor Loiland, Arne Gunderson, Gunder Nestland, Ole Birkeland, Ole Vattensdal, Ole Rystad, Ole Dahle and many others. The women did not speak up. In true Setesdal fashion, they let the men talk and claim all the opinions and ideas, but also in true Setesdal fashion, they had done their directing at home.

The crown that met at Grand Forks college on June 30, 1909 did not know what to expect. They didn't even know what they wanted but as it took shape throughout the day, certain procedure was started that was followed in all the future meetings — informality and no fancy rules or restrictions — that would bar anyone from attending. They had all suffered as newcomers and good fellowship now must be the keynote to the lag.

Bjorgulv Bjornaraa was elected temporary chairman at the first meeting. The meeting was called to order by Aanend Rystad. He bade the members welcome. Grunde Gunderson was elected temporary secretary. A motion was made and seconded that we organize a stevne. Regarding the name of it the following were suggested: Sebydjelaget. Setesdals Laget. A vote was taken with 26 votes for the former and 27 for the latter, and so the name Setesdals Laget was accepted.

Beginning: The story of Setesdals Laget Book, written by Bergit Anderson, as part of the observance of its 70th year.

The Setesdals Laget of America will hold its annual convention on Oklee June 30, 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. See and hear the folklore team Harestua, Hadeland, Norway plus our best in music and speakers. The purpose of the Setesdals Laget is to preserve and promote the best in our Norwegian language, music, history and family ancestry. The officers of the laget are president, Oliver Lien, Oklee; vice president, Bennett Larson, Oklee; secretary, Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Oklee; directors, K. B. Knutson, Julian Gunderson, Oscar Flatland, all of Oklee, Dreg Bjornaraa of Minneapolis, Osmund Olson of Grand Forks N.D. and Clifford Olson of McIntosh.

Organization of the Lag. 1909

It was in 1909, 37 years after the arrival of the Ose family to Minnesota and sixty-six years after the first Setesdal settlement in Wisconsin that the Setesdals met to organize the Setesdals lag. This idea had been growing in their minds over a period of years from one region to the other.

They were still lonely in their flat windswept prairies; lonely for their solid fields, their stirring fjords and their rockbound roads. Many were eager to belong to some informal organization where they would meet other Setesdals, also lonely for the same scenery, same memories and the same culture.

We should meet every year, they told themselves. For two whole days we could be back in Kjaere Setesdalen as much as it is possible in the Yankee land. We could dress in Setesdals clothes if we had them, and sing stew and tell skrono. We could dance the sensible dances, like spring danse, gangaren with Hallingkast thrown in. Aa ja, san! to kick the ceiling, stomp the floor and swing the girls around in the graceful Setesdals way.

Last Monday evening Mrs. Bill Erickson and her mother Mrs. T.G. Torgerson of Roseau brought Todd Erickson to his grandparents home, the Randall Erickson's. He was a guest at his grandparents until Thursday when they brought him home to Roseau. Mr. and Mrs. Randall Erickson were overnight guests on Thursday evening at the home of their son and family, the Bill Ericksons.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bendickson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Micki Shaffer and Scott of Coon Rapids visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gunderson.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Archie Anderson visited at the home of Mrs. Hannah Kisch at Silverton.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lamb of Chicago, Ill. arrived at the Albert Koop home to attend the Mary Koop—John Wayne wedding on Saturday, June 9 at St. John's Lutheran church. The Lamb's are remaining a week as guests of the Koop's and will visit other relatives and friends.

Weekend guests at the Bob Michalicek home were Bob's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Michalicek and Andrea, and Bob's mother Mrs. Illa Michalicek all of International Falls.

Guests at the Cecil Anderson home on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sjoblom and family of Gilman, Wisc.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bob Michalicek and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Michalicek and Andrea and Mrs. Illa Michalicek of International Falls attended the Evangelical Covenant church's Sunday school picnic held at Valhall.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wold were among those attending an open house for Mr. and Mrs. Ken Poole in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. The Wold's also visited briefly at the Roy Shetler home on Sunday afternoon.

AN EYE ON BEAUTY

Give your eyes a more beautiful look.

Since the eyes are the mirror of the soul, have a soul-searching look at yourself — and start making the most of your eyes.

Here's an exercise that will help improve the appearance and function of your eyes. Turn your head from side to side as though you were emphatically saying "no." Do this ten times a day, especially when you are using your eyes a lot for close work.

To relax your eyes and help release facial tension, sit in front of a picture. Look at it, then close your eyes and gently cover them with your palms. Don't press the lids. Relax; breathe slowly and deeply about 30 times. Open your eyes; lower your palms. Look at the picture again.

To refresh your eyes, wring out a washcloth in chilled water. Lie down with a pillow propped under your knees. Place the damp cloth over your closed eyes and very slowly and smoothly rotate them: about ten times in each direction. Your eyes will feel — and look less tired.

For really eye-catching eyes, nothing compares with using the finest eye make-up and applying it with finesse. That's why L'Oreal of Paris, a leading beauty authority, developed Eye Accents. For this different approach to eye makeup, L'Oreal created both a new international collection — and a radically different applicator: it works just like an extension of your finger.

Three different eyeshadow finishes are offered in a range of 28 vibrant colors; nine crayons, three kohls and three mascaras complete the array. The applicators slip securely onto your index finger, letting you design your eyes with expert sureness of touch. They are sold at most Penney's, Sears, Montgomery Ward's and at better drugstores and cost between $1.50 and $3.50.

To be eyed with admiration — remember: the eyes have it.

Will you have peace of mind , at thunderstorm time?
Production Credit Association
Farming is everybody's bread & butter.
Everyone who's ever planted a crop knows the worry that comes when storm clouds roll in. And everyone who's had good insurance protection knows the peace of mind good coverage can bring.
Farmers who carry crop hail insurance through Production Credit Association have peace of mind plus. They know that when they have a claim their PCA representative will have an interest in seeing that they receive a fair settlement.
PCA members have a choice of policies, standard or deductible. Rates are realistic, based on probability of hail in your area.
Take away risk, worry and tension with crop hail insurance available from PCA. Then you can enjoy summer weather and have peace of mind at thunderstorm time.

Milk Rates High In 'PER'

"PER" is to proteins what carats are to diamonds!

PER stands for "protein efficiency rating" a measure of the quality, not quantity, of food protein. And milk has one of the highest PER's of any high protein food.

Every day, 4-H members 9-19 are learning facts like these, then translating their knowledge into tasty and nutritious dishes made with milk and milk products. Their projects and activities are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Carnation Company.

4-H'ers learn-by-doing to plan, prepare and serve a wide variety of dairy foods, like vanilla pudding master mix (see recipe below), that are full of such essential nutrients as protein and calcium.

To recognize members' accomplishments in the national 4-H dairy foods program, Carnation donates awards at all levels: six $1,000 national scholarships; an expense-paid trip to the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 25-29 for each state winner; and four medals of honor per county.

Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service and awards are arranged by National 4-H Council. More information is available from county extension agents.

This master mix, containing nonfat dry milk, can be made up ahead of time and stored in quantity.

Vanilla pudding master mix is a favorite with 4-H members. The mix can be made in advance, stored, and turned into the final product at a moment's notice. 4-H dairy foods projects and activities are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Carnation Company.

Vanilla Pudding Mix

1⅓ cups sugar
2¼ cups nonfat dry milk
¾ cup cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients; stir until well blended. Store in tightly covered container. Yield: about 5 cups MIX. Variations:

Caramel Pudding Mix. Substitute 1½ cups brown sugar (packed) for the white sugar in the Vanilla Pudding MIX.

To prepare pudding:

1. Combine 1¼ cups MIX and 2½ cups water in heavy 2-quart saucepan or in double boiler.
2. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened.
3. Add 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and remove from heat.
4. Beat two eggs slightly; add some of hot pudding to beaten eggs.
5. Blend egg mixture into rest of pudding and cook one minute.
6. Remove from heat and add 1½ to 2 teaspoons vanilla.
7. Yield: 6 servings.

Big swinger.
Swing it to the left or swing it to the right. The hydrostatic header drive and the center placement of the arched tongue on the header frame permit infinite positioning of the Hesston Center Pivot Hydro Swing" 1014 Windrower. And because you can cut on either side of your tractor, you can windrow in either direction...up and down the field. Then, when you need to clear a gate or road the unit, simply swing the header directly behind the tractor. Available in 12' or 14' widths, these headers give trouble-free operation, even in dense crops. And the 57" conditioner rolls gently fluff hay into well-formed windrows or swaths of Hesstonized Hay. Fresh Chives Enliven Low-Cholesterol Omelets

The fresh harvest of a window sill garden of herbs and seasoning can add a sparkling touch to your cooking. Chives, a member of the onion family, are easy to grow and can perk up sauces and cheeses and egg dishes. To keep the plants looking well, cut a few of the thin tubular leaves low rather than bobbing the top which will brown where cut. Remember that chives, like all bulbs, rely for plant renewal and strength on the leaves; so don't cut any one plant too often.

Cottage Cheese-Chive Omelets make a low-cholesterol luncheon entree when made with Egg Beaters Cholesterol-free Egg Substitute. Many people are now restricting their intake of saturated fats and cholesterol since diet has been found to be one of the risk factors associated with heart disease. And egg yolks are the single highest source of cholesterol in the average American diet.

Skim milk dairy products are also recommended for sensible eating; so this recipe calls for dry (uncreamed) cottage cheese. Serve with crisp salad greens and a corn oil based dressing for a light Sunday brunch.

COTTAGE CHEESE-CHIVE OMELET

1/4 pound dry cottage cheese
1 teaspoon chopped chives
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine
2 cups Egg Beaters Cholesterol-free Egg Substitute

Combine cheese, chives and pepper. Set aside.

Melt 1 tablespoon margarine in a 9-inch skillet over medium heat until bubbly. Add 1 cup cholesterol-free egg substitute. When bottom is set, lift edges to let uncooked portion flow underneath. Sprinkle 1/2 of the cheese mixture over top. When bottom is browned, fold over and onto a serving dish. Repeat with remaining ingredients to make second omelet.

Makes 4 servings.

TRF Adopts State Comments To CAB

Special meeting of the Thief River Falls city council was held Thursday, June 21, to discuss the position the city of Thief River Falls should take on regulations proposed by the civil aeronautics board (CAB) as guidelines for making essential air service determinations.

City attorney Bob Wurst, who also serves as president of the state-wide local air service action committee (LASAC), summarized the joint comments being submitted by LASAC and the Minnesota department of transportation (MN-DOT) on the proposed regulations and recommended that the city adopt the same comments with one addition. "In so doing," Wurst stated, "we would form a united front and be in a stronger position."

After reviewing the LASAC-MN-DOT comments council members did vote to adopt the comments for the city of Thief River Falls with the addition suggested by Wurst. The comments were made on the proposed "part 325 essential air service procedures," "part 395 delegation: nonhearing matters, " and "part 398 guidelines for individual determination of essential air service." City comments to be forwarded to the CAB in Washington will include eight recommendations drafted by LASAC-MN-DOT and the one additional recommendation suggested by Wurst. They are:

(1) The board must "guarantee a level of essential air service which would ensure public acceptance of the program and meet the public air transportation needs of those areas of the country which require such service" rather than just "require service to only one hub."

(2; That "air service be to the point or points of interest" rather than to "the nearest hub" which in some cases might not be the hub to which the community is tied in business and recreational travel.

(3) "All aircraft must be sufficient to accommodate passengers, accompanying baggage and air cargo requirements of the point" rather than just passengers and baggage since air cargo does help to support air service in some regions of the country.

(4) "Aircraft other than those serving points in Alaska or points that have agreed to some other arrangement, must have two engines, two pilots, pressurization and have access which will accommodate handicapped persons" rather than just the two engines and two pilots proposed by the CAB regulation. This recommendation is included since "pressurization is essential to allow the aircraft to operate at altitudes above marginal weather and to maximize passenger comfort and since

A LITTLE EXTRA CARE is given by Valerie Prestegaard to her car — a vehicle which was a graduation present and which she finished and painted while an auto body student at the Northwest vocational center in 1978-79. Next fall she will enter the two-year auto body program at the Thief River Falls AVTI. Val is one of 11 candidates for Miss Thief River Falls at the pageant to be held July 28.

Val Prestegaard In Queen Event

(This is the first in a series of personal interviews with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycee Aquacade pageant. The official Miss America preliminary event will be held Saturday, July 28, in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

For most girls an interest in body work involves diet and exercise. For Valerie Prestegaard it means pounding out dents, straightening frames, finishing metal and putting on paint. She is enrolled in the Thief River Falls AVTI's auto body repair course for this fall.

The daughter of Eugene Prestegaard and Mrs. June Prestegaard of Thief River Falls, Val is 18 years old and a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has light brown hair and hazel eyes and will present original poetry for her pageant talent number.

A few years ago when the TRFinettes drum and bugle corps was going strong, Valerie was a member of that all-girl organization for two seasons. In high school she participated in the orchestra for three years and choir for three years as well as being a church choir member for three years.

Last fall she enrolled in the auto body program of the Northwest vocational center and participated throughout the year. Working in that program, including finishing and painting her own car, she became increasingly interested in auto body work as a career field. The interest prompted her to enroll in the two-year program at the area vocational-technical institute beginning this fall.

A girl who enjoys outdoor sports, Val carried that enthusiasm to the extreme last summer when she accompanied a local group of young people to North Dakota to attempt sky diving. She

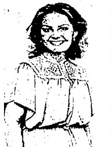
Seek Agreement On Rural Fire Protection Pact

Assessment for rural fire protection was the topic of a meeting held Thursday, June 21, with Thief River Falls fire department committee members and 15 township officials from Norden, Smiley, North, Rocksbury and Silverton present. This is the second meeting the groups have held in an effort to negotiate a new fire protection contract for 1980-82.

The groups' previous agreement, negotiated in 1973, was designed to be a five-year contract. It called for townships to maintain the two vehicles they supply for fire fighting, a 1974 diesel and a 1954 model. Townships are also responsible for the insurance costs on the trucks. When city fire department personnel respond to a rural fire call, under the old agreement they are compensated at a rate of $40 for the first hour and $20 for each additional hour. This money goes to the volunteer firemen's relief association.

In the first meeting with township officials city personnel indicated that rural areas account for approximately 25 per cent of the annual calls, 25 per cent of the population served and 25 per cent of the assessed valuation of the service area. If the rural factions were, therefore, asked to bear 25 per cent of the 1979 operating budget ($160,000), the assessment for rural protection would be $40,000. However, the proposal from the city was that the five townships pay a $20,000 assessment in addition to the hourly fees now paid. This assessment would go to the city to help cover operating costs with the hourly fees still going to the volunteer firemen's relief association.

In Thursday's meeting, however, township officials presented the fire department committee with a counter proposal for a substantially lower assessment figure. The proposal will be considered by the finance and fire department committees of the city council prior to another meeting of the groups.



MISS THIEF RIVER FALLS Julie Schelling was among 25 contestants in the Miss Minnesota pageant held June 17-23 in Austin. Julie's talent presentation, an original free verse poem entitled "Life Is a Flower", earned her one of three $100 scholarships presented to non-finalists in the talent division of the competition. One scholarship is presented to a non-finalist for an outstanding vocal, instrumental and dramatic talent. Julie was the winner of the $100 scholarship for a dramatic talent. Crowned Miss Minnesota in the final Saturday night pageant was Miss Byron, Debra Nerby, Julie's roommate for the week-long festivities.

Times Changes In Publication Dates Listed

Because of the Independence Day holiday on Wednesday, July 4, the Times must make two changes in publication dates. The issue of July 4 will be printed on Tuesday, July 3 and the issue of Monday, July 2, will be printed on Saturday, June 30.

Advanced deadlines for the two issues will make it necessary to obtain early advertising and news copy for both papers. Cooperation by advertisers and news sources will be appreciated by the Times staff.

Public is also reminded that the annual vacation period for the Times Staff has been set for August 5-12. There will be no papers published on Wednesday, August 8 nor Monday, August 13.

Offer Women In Business Seminar Thur.

"Be Your Own Boss," Women in business seminar, will be held Thursday, June 28, at Northland community college room A-16 beginning at 6:15 p.m. The course, co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, Northland community college and Minnesota North Country, will cover personal qualifications for going into business, forms of business, financing the business, regulations and taxes, financing the business, regulations and taxes, financial record keeping, marketing-advertising--promotion, local business and conditions and sources of business management assistance.

Resource persons will include Noelann Brown, founder and president of Lemon Bear, Inc. in St. Paul; Sarah Johnson, loan officer in Small Business Administration of Minneapolis; Jana Voiska, director of the Small Business Institute of Moorhead; Dwayne Dahl, management assistant in Small Business Administration of Minneapolis; George Schmidt, executive director of Minnesota North Country, Inc.; and Charlotte White, industrial development representative from the Minnesota department of economic development.

Cost for the seminar is $5 for advance registration and $7.50 for payment at the door. For further information or to register contact the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce.

Post Office Sets July 4 Schedule

Post office will operate on the usual holiday mail schedule in observance of Independence Day on Wednesday, July 4, postmaster Art Buringrud said today.

There will be no regular residential or business deliveries. Normal lobby window service will be closed with the exception of lockbox service, which is open 24 hours.

Certain expedited mail delivery services will continue during the holiday. This includes special delivery. Mailers should call the post office at 681-3026 for information about schedules and rates. Mail pick-up from collection boxes will be on a holiday schedule as posted on the individual boxes, or may be determined by calling the post office.

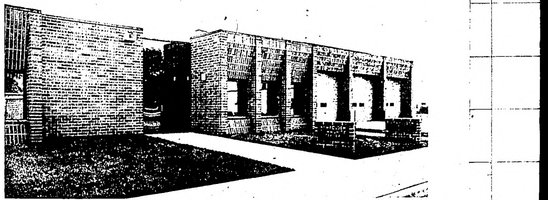
The postmaster also noted that many mailing services are available on the continuing round-the-clock basis, including the purchase of stamps and scales and rate charts use. Normal mail service will resume Thursday, July 5.

Prestegaard Is Injured In One-Car Mishap

Stuart Prestegaard, 16, is listed in serious condition this morning at United hospital in Grand Forks following a one-car accident early Saturday morning east of Middle River.

Prestegaard was reportedly alone in a car which left the roadway and went into the ditch. The accident was reported at 1:33 a.m. to the Marshall county sheriff's department. Prestegaard was brought to Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls for emergency treatment and transferred to Grand Forks.

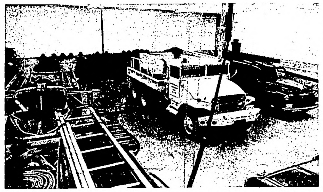
Stuart is the son of Eugene Prestegaard and Mrs. June Prestegaard of Thief River Falls.



CITY OF NEWFOLDEN will open its diamond jubilee this week with dedication ceremonies for the new city community center and public safety building on Friday at 7 p.m. The 80x125 building was constructed with grants from the federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) agency and the Economic Development administration (EDA) in addition to city contribution of land and some project work. Total value of the project is in excess of $450,000. The building contains a large community center meeting room to seat 400 people, two smaller meeting rooms (20x24 and 11x16) for city council and public use, kitchen, rest room, two storage areas, mechanical and electrical rooms, 68x50 fire department and public safety vehicle storage area and locker room. The dedication program Friday, which will use the community center's large meeting room for the first time, will be followed by open house to allow the public to view the building.

To Dedicate Newfolden Community Center Fri.

LARGE MEETING ROOM capable of holding 400 people will be used for the first time when dedication is held for the new community center and public safety building in Newfolden. Folding doors at the back of the room can be opened to provide the seating area for 400 people. The state at left folds back out of the way when not needed. The open window in the wall in the background will be a serving window from the kitchen adjacent to the meeting room.



NEWFOLDEN FIRE STATION provides ample space for storage of the city's fire fighting equipment as well as the police department's squad car and civil defense and rescue equipment. Dedication of the new building will take place Friday at 7 p.m.

Dedication of a new community center and public safety building in Newfolden will take place Friday at 7 p.m. in the community center area of the new building. The ceremonies will be a part of the community's diamond jubilee.

Speakers for the dedication ceremonies will include Ray Arneson, fieldman for Congressman Arlan Stangeland; Rep. John Corbid, Oklee; Rep. Myron Nysether, Ross; Sen. Marv Hanson, Hallock; John Roue, president of the northern Minnesota fire region; D.H. Stewart, Thief River Falls engineer; and Bob Kertz, representing Prichard Bros., Inc., general contractor.

Dave Kragness, principal at Marshall county central school, will be master of ceremonies for the event. Rev. Earl Eveland, pastor of the Evangelical Free church, will give the invocation and benediction. Vocal music will be provided by a man's quintet including Brian Rokke, Jim Pederson, Mark Jorgenson, Deland Elseth and Bruce Elseth.

Greetings will be given by Mayor Stan Holmaas, who is also chairman of the dedication committee and who will read messages sent by people associated with the project but not in attendance. Rite of dedication will be conducted by Jaroslav Kruta, city attorney for the city of Newfolden.

Refreshments will be served following the dedication program with the Newfolden study club catering the lunch.

Present council in addition to Mayor Holmaas includes Grace Lindquist, clerk; Sharol Wawrzyniak, treasurer; Don Hanson, Muriel Mercil, Harvey Stokke and Dave Kragness. Past council members who served while the building was in the planning stage were Percy Stokke, Glenn Espe, Doyle Harstad, Audrey Maki, Art Rud and Derek Forsell. Grantsmen were Robert Fincher, Forsell and Dennis Hjelle.

Citizens committee members assisting the council are planning and approving the building design were Lucille Tunheim, Newell Berggren, Earl Eveland, Joan Sethre, Ray Elseth and Dennis Hjelle.

Diamond jubilee events will continue on Saturday and Sunday. Beard contest Friday night will follow the dedication. Saturday events include a tennis tournament to start at 9 a.m., children's games at 10 a.m., parade at noon, tug of war at 1:30 p.m., horseshow tournament at 2 p.m., Norwegian concert at 3:30 p.m., old time fiddler's contest at 8 p.m. and street dance at 10 p.m.

Sunday events will open with united church services at 10 a.m. at the school auditorium. Norwegian choir concert will be held at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium and tennis finals at 3:30 p.m. Folden church reunion and dedication will be held at 4:30 p.m. at the Harvey Dyrud farm.

Lunches and meals will be served by several church groups Saturday and Sunday at the community center, old village hall the Bethlehem church.

Art In The Park Program Planned

Opening ceremonies for the art in the park program sponsored by the Thief River Falls community arts council have been scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday, July 6, at Northland community college. The two-day celebration will include a number of exhibits and activities, involving a number of art forms with emphasis on participation and appreciation by youngsters in the "International Year of the Child".

Mayor Bob Carlson and Miss Thief River Falls of 1978, Julie Schelling, will be on hand for the opening ceremonies.

Workshop sessions for children and adults will be offered with pre-registration necessary for all workshops. To pre-register call the following numbers: Watercolor, 681-1151 or 681-2582; macrame for children, 681-6331; and puppetry, 681-1027.

Watercolor workshop for children ages 8-12 will be held Friday and Saturday, July 6 and 7, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Macrame for children will be held Saturday, July 7, at 2 p.m. and puppetry for all ages on Friday afternoon, July 6. Macrame workshop for adults will be held Friday, July 6, at 2 p.m. Workshop fees will be $2 for adults and $1.25 for children. If insufficient pre-registration is received the workshops will be cancelled.

Any group interested in having a food booth at the event is encouraged to contact Kathy Winjum at 681-4517.

Activities for children of all ages will also be conducted both days from 1 to 3 p.m. Each child participating is asked to bring a penny for contribution to UNICEF, the United Nations children's fund.

The regional art show will be on display at Northland community college during the week of art in the park and public viewing of the show is encouraged. The Lutheran Brotherhood traveling art show will be on exhibit at Northern state bank July 2-9.

Weather permitting, many of the art in the park activities will be held outdoors at the college campus.

Membership Pins Given At Legion Aux. Meet

At the June meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, "7 in 79" membership pins were awarded. The star pin is awarded to members for each new member enrolled during the year. Two pins were awarded to President Constance Driscoll and one each to Lavonne Haraldson and Lila Quam.

Constance Driscoll presided at the meeting and also displayed the two certificates of merit which she had received at the Legion Auxiliary convention held recently at Bagley. The certificates of merit, awarded to the unit, were for the poppy program with Barbara Restad as chairman, and for outstanding community service with Lila Quam chairman.

Members were reminded that there will be no unit meetings during the months of July and August. Members were also reminded to save cancelled stamps, old eye glasses and watches during the summer months. These items are to be turned in to the new chairmen in the fall.

Oakland Park Birthday Party Hosted By WCTU

June birthday party at Oakland Park Nursing home was hosted on Tuesday afternoon by the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Special guests were the residents observing birthdays in June. They wee Lena Iverson, Lillie Lee, Roy Adams, Emma Copp, Tom Stolaas and Olive Stenson. Each was presented with a card from the group and a potted coleus plant.

A brief program was given with the residents joining in singing the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." The devotional meditation based on John 14: 1-6, "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, and that where I am, there ye may be also."

Adding interest to the program was a report given by Chris Mathson on the activities at Youth Temperance Council camp held the previous week at Lake Koronis, near Paynesville. Speakers at the camp included Vern Rawling, a reformed prisoner who had spent over 20 years in jail; Mel Johnson of Minneapolis, a representative of Tips For Teens; a Marine Corporal and a policeman. Camp activities also included an educational lecture on the harmful effects of alcohol, cigarettes and drugs on the human body, and a concert given by "New Beginnings," a group from Northwestern college, Roseville.

The program also included the reading of Psalm 103, and Edward Bulwer-Lytton's "A Higher Destiny." It concluded with a prayer and the humn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Prior to the program, the women served fruit muffins to the residents, together with orange juice provided by McDonald's. The unit's business meeting followed.

The next regular meeting of the unit will be held at the Longren home on July 13. Further reports on the Youth Temperance camp will be given at that time.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Cecil Anderson
route 3,
Thief River Falls

Lasagna

1½ to 2 lbs., ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 No. 2½ can whole tomatoes
1 8 oz., can tomato sauce
1 small carton small curd cottage cheese
1 package spaghetti sauce mix
½ lb. lasagna noodles
½ lb. mozzarella cheese, shredded
Parmesan cheese, grated

Method: Cook noodles and drain. Brown meat with seasoning. Add tomatoes, cut into pieces. Stir in tomato sauce and spaghetti sauce mix. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Pour one-third of the meat mixture sauce in a 9x13 inch pan. Cover with a layer of noodles, half of the cattage cheese, and 4 oz., of Mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers, beginning and ending with sauce. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over top and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Let stand for 10 minutes before cutting.

The Cecil Andersons, former residents of the Karlstad-Stephen area, live on route three. They have three children: Nicole, 9, and Jon, 7, who attend Washington school, and Vanessa, 4, at home. Anderson is owner and operator of Anderson power and Equipment. They are members of Redeemer Lutheran church. Mrs. Anderson stated that sewing used to be her hobby, but now, with the high cost of living, it has become a necessity, rather than a hobby.

BALLET will be demonstrated during the Thief River Falls community art council's art in the park program July 6 and 7 by Wendy Easton of Thief River Falls. Schedule of art form presentations will be announced later.

Campanula Club Continues Study On Phenology

Campanula garden club met recently at the Emil Koglin home. To correspond with the year's theme, "Phenology" members answered roll call by listing certain aspects, such as the return of certain birds, warmer weather and the blossoming of tulips and lielacs. The monthly phenology report was given by Bertha Hastad.

A report was given on the planting of the flower plots at the Pennington County court house; and members specified when they will care for the plots. An iris show for June 21 at the Public Library was scheduled and a get-well card was signed for a former member, Mrs. Dorothy Berve. The meeting also included reports by secretary Mrs. Emil Koglin, treasurer Olga Johnson and Good cheer chairman Bernice Knutson. It was noted that the report on the Gavin Garden in St. Hilaire, written by Mrs. Walter Fischer, had been published in the June issue of the Minnesota Horticulturist.

Members viewed the Koglin vegetable and flower gardens. Lunch was served by the hostess. A plant exchange concluded the meeting.

The July meeting will be held at the Olga Johnson home. A demonstration on floral arranging will be given.

Prayer Chain To Give Program To Trinity Women

Trinity Lutheran Church Women will meet Thursday at 2 p.m., at the church basement.

Members of the Prayer Chain will be present and will give information on their organization. Following the presentation, small groups will be formed to discuss the month's theme, "Communication With God." Mission emphases will be presented by the Ruth circle.

Special music will be a violin solo by Clark Dyrud.

Hostesses will be members of the Lois circle with the Hannah circle members in charge of hospitality.

Karen Brosseau-Doug Hill To Marry July Fourth

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Brosseau, rural Thief River Falls, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Karen, to Doug Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill of Waskish.

They have chosen July Fourth as their wedding date.

Edgar Naplins Will Note 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Naplin, rural Red Lake Falls, will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 1, at an open house at their home. Hours will be from 2 to 4 p.m.

Family Meets Again

On Thursday, June 7, Mrs. Vance Lefrooth and her two daughters, Margaret and Vanette, left for a vacation trip out west. They traveled across the Grand Teton national park, where they ran into a snow storm up in the mountains. They continued west across the Three Sisters mountains and the Williamette national forest in Oregon.

By Saturday evening they were at Eugene, Oregon where they visited Emma, Mrs. Linus Anderson, Adrienne's aunt, and also visited John, Karen, Shawn, Renken and Claudia. Sunday night they stayed at Laurel Sjobloms.

Monday morning they left for Los Angeles, Calif., traveling along the coast of Oregon and California. They had supper on the beach. The Oregon ocean was very beautiful but cold. They also traveled through the Jedediah Smith redwoods state park.

They reached Los Angeles on Wednesday and visited Adrienne's aunt, Lilly and uncle Hilmer (Pappy) Quarnstrom. They stayed at Arnold Quarnstrom's. They had a very enjoyable visit and the Quarnstrom's were very surprised to see them in Los Angeles since it was 37 years ago since they had last met.

Thursday they headed down to Anaheim to Disneyland, and had a good time there. Leaving L.A., they drove through a wild thunderstorm in Casper, Wyo. Saturday found them at Custer national monument in Montana. They stopped at Medora, N.D. to shop.

They arrived home on Sunday at 6:30 a.m., tired but happy to be home. Margaret and Vanette were really happy to meet their great uncle and great aunts.

Norwegian Folk Group To Appear At Oklee School

Hadeland, Norway folk dancers and musicians will perform in concert on June 30 at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Oklee high school auditorium. They are sponsored by Setesdals Laget of America in conjunction with the group's 70th anniversary.

This group known throughout Norway as "Furuleiken" folk dancers and music players was organized in 1929 and have actively performed in weekly concerts. As an amateur entertainment group, they perform on Norwegian television often and attract tourist audiences at the Sas hotel in Oslo.

According to Carrol T. Juven of Fargo, the group will arrive in Fargo on June 29 and proceed on concert tour as part of a "Norway People to People" program. They will be housed in private homes during the tour as part of a cultural exchange with the Fargo school's music department, which left June 20 for Norway.

The Norwegian group will have eight concerts in a three state area combined with a sightseeing trip. They are from the town of Harestua, a small farming community located forty miles north of Oslo in the mountains of Hadeland.

Laget Plans 70th Annual Convention

Setesdals Laget of America, a society of emigrants from Setesdals, Norway, and their descendants, will hold its 70th annual convention Saturday, June 30, at the Oklee high school auditorium from 2 to 7:30 p.m. Purpose of the Laget is to promote and preserve the Norwegian heritage.

The day's events will open with a welcome by Oklee Mayor Earl Swanson. Serving as master of ceremonies for the program will be the organization's president Oliver Lien. Schedule for the day includes two performances by the Furukeiken folklore team of dancers and musicians from Hadeland, Norway; and music, skits and stories by area performers.

Among those participating will be Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kvande of Fosston, Gunder and Turman Sorenson of Grand Forks, Audrey Stawarski and Eileen Votovaa of McIntosh and Alice Skreland and Grace Hammer of Thief River Falls. An evening dance will also be held at the new city auditorium with music by the Erskine Oldtimers.

Land O'Lakes Stockholder Payments Given

Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minneapolis-based farm supply and food marketing cooperative, made a cash patronage payment of nearly $7.4 million payable June 15, to member-stockholders in the organization's six-state membership area. The amount represents 30 per cent of the patronage earned on business volume of nearly $1.5 billion in 1978. The remaining amount is allocated to the member's retained equities accounts for redemption at a later date which will be determined by the board of directors.

The retained equities are used to finance expansion and improvement of services and facilities as needs of members keep growing. Specific amounts distributed to individual stockholders in June were based on margins generated in specific product categories and on the amount of business each member transacted with the cooperative during 1978.

In announcing the payment, Land O'Lakes President Ralph Hofstad said, "Recognizing the importance of keeping the revolvement time cycle as short as possible, the Land O'Lakes board of directors will consider revolving one full year of equities in December. If this action is taken, it would bring the total cash payments to members in 1979 to nearly 65 per cent of 1978 patronage margins."

Over the last 10 years, Land O'Lakes has made cash distributions to members in excess of $100 million. Total assets at the end of 1978 were $453 million.

Maturity Date Extended On Barley Loans

Farmers with 1978 crop barley are being given the opportunity to extend their loans for six months, Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Department of Agriculture's agricultural stabilization and conservation service, said recently.

Fitzgerald said the extension would help alleviate transportation and storage problems that many producers are now facing and give producers another marketing option.

Recently, grain prices — including barley — have been steadily increasing. However, while barely prices are still at or only a little above loan levels in some states, department projections indicate that barley prices should continue to increase. The six-month extension will allow farmers to market their barley over a longer period.

The action comes after secretary of agriculture Bob Bergland said last March corn and barley loans might be extended if the maturing of a large number of loans at the same time posed "A threat to orderly marketing." However, the farmer-owned reserve will not be open to 1978-crop barley, Fitzgerald said.

Producers who wish to extend their loans should contact the ASCS office where they obtained them.

TRF Adopts State Report On Air Service

"air carriers. . .that did not allow for ease of access by handicapped persons. . .would 'fly in the face' of present national transportation policy."

(5) That the CAB not adopt an arbitrary limit of 60 seats to and from a point as a national standard without taking into account "travel peak demands at specific times of day, week or season of the year, and route structure."

(6, 7 & 8) That if initial essential service determinatons are made by the bureau of pricing and domestic aviation then "an appeal procedure should be devised to provide a fair and impartial evaluation of the matter"; that appeal requests should be "handled by someone other than bureau which prepared the proposed rule", preferably a more objective bureau such as the bureau of administrative law judges; and that the law judges also hear the appeal rather than having it heard by the senior board staff personnel as the CAB proposed regulation suggestion.

The ninth recommendation submitted by the city of Thief River Falls, which will likely also be added to the joint LASAC-MN-DOT comments was that, in the event of an appeal, "the present level of service or the service specified in the initial determination of essential service, whichever is greater, should be maintained during the appeal process." This, it is felt, would be more in line with the established principles of due process than the CAB proposal that the level of service set by the initial determination be maintained in all cases during an appeal.

Prestegaard Is Candidate For Queen Title

made two 3,000-foot jumps and would like to do more. "Ever since I was a little girl I wanted to be a professional sky-diver," she said. "Floating down under a parachute you get almost no sensation of motion. It doesn't even seem as if the ground is coming up at you. It's really a neat feeling."

She also likes bicycle riding, horseback riding, playing Frisbee and other outdoor sports, especially softball. Singing, writing poetry, making new friends, working with the elderly, young children and the handicapped are other areas she enjoys.

"As a junior in high school I was enrolled in the health occupations course which gave me the chance to learn about myself as well as other people," she said. "It also gave me the chance to work with the elderly in the CNC unit at the hospital and with others who have been less fortunate that I have."

Val comes from a family of seven children. Her oldest brother is Duane Dickman, 26, who has been in the air force for more than six years. Mollie, 25, is married and living in Wyoming. Her older sister Laura Prestegaard is attending school for hotel and restaurant management. Younger family members include Stuart, Nita and Dean.

Employed at part time work since she was 15 years old, Val worked at Country Kitchen, the Fountain cafe and the Best Western as a waitress before beginning work this summer at Total Auto store where she is a clerk, part-time bookkeeper and works with stocking shelves and maintaining inventory.

So far she has enjoyed the pageant preparation activity, particularly the choreography rehearsal for production numbers. Rehearsals are being held each week.

Will you have peace of mind at thunderstorm time?

Production Credit Association
Farming is everybody's bread & butter

Everyone who's ever planted a crop knows the worry that comes when storm clouds roll in. And everyone who's had good insurance protection knows the peace of mind good coverage can bring.

Farmers who carry crop hail insurance through Production Credit Association have peace of mind plus. They know that when they have a claim their PCA representative will have an interest in seeing that they receive a fair settlement.

PCA members have a choice of policies, standard or deductible. Rates are realistic, based on probability of hail in your area.

Take away risk, worry and tension with crop hail insurance available from PCA. Then you can enjoy summer weather and have peace of mind at thunderstorm time.

Susie Ginther Services Set For Wednesday

Mrs. Susie J. Ginther, 90, of Thief River Falls, mother of Mrs. Andy Nesland, died early Sunday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Susie Ginther will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., at the Belmont Funeral home. Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir, pastor at the United Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows cemetery at Monett, Mo.

The body will repose at the Belmont Funeral home from Tuesday noon until time of services. A complete obituary will follow.

Services Set For Alfred Skarstad, 87

Alfred Skarstad, 87, of Moorhead and formerly of Thief River Falls, died Saturday at the V.A. hospital in Fargo, N.D.

Funeral services for Alfred Skarstad will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m., at the Olivet Lutheran church in Fargo. Rev. Richard L. Holleque will officiate. Interment will be in the Fort Snelling cemetery with the Korsmo Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Alfred Skarstad was born June 1, 1892 at Argyle. He grew to manhood at Argyle and later worked in banks there, at Middle River and Thief River Falls. For a time, he owned and operated an independent lumber retail business in this city. In 1952, he moved to the Fargo-Moorhead area and served as an appraiser for the Federal Housing administration until his retirement in 1961.

He was a veteran of World War I.

On April 28, 1921, he was married in Thief River Falls to Gena Granum. She survives together with one son, James Skarstad, Longmont, Colo.; a daughter, Mrs. Wallace (Marllyn) Small, Minneapolis, and six grandchildren.

Ida Hanson Services Today At Viking

Mrs. Ida Hanson, 78, of the Newfolden-Viking area, widow of Edward H. Hanson, died Friday at Oakland Park Nursing home where she had resided this past winter.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Hanson are being held today (Monday) at 2 p.m., at the Viking Covenant church. Rev. Sheldon Lorenson and Rev. Earl Eveland of the Evangelical Free church, Newfolden, will officiate. Interment will be in the Viking cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Services Held Here Friday For Alice Adkins, 84

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice C. Adkins, 84, of Thief River Falls, were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Mrs. Adkins died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Jonathan Law, pastor at the United Methodist church, officiated at the services. Mrs. Sherman Idso was the organist and Teri Cuppett sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Amazing Grace." Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers were Lawrence Bjorkman, David Bjorkman, Rodney Helgenset, Peter Solem, Roger Solem and John Solem.

Mrs. Adkins, the former Alice Catherine Solem, was born Sept. 12, 1894 in Excel township, Marshall county, to Peter and Alvidle Solem. She attended school and grew to womanhood in this community and taught for several years in the rural schools in Marshall county. Later she entered nurses training, graduating from the General Hospital School of Nursing in Minneapolis. She returned to this area and was head nurse at the Grygla hospital for several years. Following the closing of the Grygla hospital, she nursed in the local hospitals.

She was married on Sept. 1, 1931 to Dr. Charles Adkins. They made their home here.

Surviving are two sons: Caylor Adkins, East Grand Forks; and Curtis, Silver Springs, Md.; two step-sons: Dr. Douglas Adkins, Minneapolis, and John, Pine River; a step-daughter, Arda Berg, Moorhead; 14 grandchildren, a sister, Ruth Lee, Port Charlotte, Fla., and two brothers: Alfred Solem, Thief River Falls, and Allen, St. Paul.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents and two brothers.

Mrs. Harold M. (Mae) Johnson Dies June 12

Mrs. Harold M. (Mae) Johnson, 74, of Thief River Falls, died Tuesday afternoon at Northwestern hospital, following a brief illness.

In accordance with her wishes, private funeral services were held Thursday at 10:30 a.m., at the Belmont Funeral home. Rev. Keough Patnode of Oklee officiated. There was no reviewal or visitation. Private interment was made in the National cemetery at Fort Snelling.

Memorials to the Cancer Research fund, with notification to Graydon Garlough, 42 Elm Street, Wolfboro, N. Hampshire, 03896, are preferred.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Mae Roberts, was born in West Valley township, Marshall county, on March 30, 1905 to Harry and Ida Roberts. As a child, she moved with her family to Thief River Falls, where she grew to womanhood.

She was united in marriage to Harold M. Johnson on March 18, 1933 at Fargo, N.D. Following their marriage, they lived in various locations where Johnson was employed. She also traveled with him during the time he served in the U.S. Army from 1942 to 1946. In 1948, they returned to Thief River Falls and since then, she had made her home here. For a number of years, she was employed by Pennington county as deputy county auditor. She was also chief clerk of the O.P.A.

Mrs. Johnson was very active in the American Legion auxiliary, serving on local, district, state and national level. She was a Life Member of the Ecklund-Holmstrom unit 117 and served as president from 1957-58. From 1959-1960 she was Ninth district president, serving concurrently with her husband who was district commander. In 1967, she was elected Department President. During her term as state president, she had as her theme, "Lamp of Service," and received the cooperation of the auxiliaries in the state in completing her project of furnishing the living rooms in the Minnesota Soldiers home. On National level, she was selected to serve on the finance committee in 1963 and was elected as National Committee Woman in 1969. She was a member of the Past Presidents Parley and was instrumental in beginning the project of presenting packets to men and women entering the service. At the time of her death, she was serving as secretary of the local American Legion auxiliary.

She was also active in other organizations in the community and received several awards and citations for her outstanding work. She was active in the Pennington-Red Lake County Association for the Retarded, the Pennington County Community Service Commission, The March of Dimes, and Voter registration, serving for many years as election judge. She received two Presidential Awards for her volunteer work with the American Red Cross, a citation for her work with the American Women's Volunteer service and an award from the National Foundation. For her work with the Children and Youth program in 1957 in instigating the local mentally retarded association, the 40 et 8 award was presented to the Legion auxiliary.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died March 12, 1962, her parents, and one sister, Lillian.

Around the home of the deceased, many tasks can be graciously handled by relatives and friends. Some can answer the phone and the door to receive visitors, relay messages, accept gifts of food, etc. These helpful persons can spare the family from many concerns, yet make each caller welcome. A list of visitors and gifts should be kept for the family's later expressions of appreciation.

Services Held For Mrs. John Daubenspeck

Mrs. John Daubenspeck, 71, of Detroit Lakes, mother of Mrs. Kenneth Kohler of this city, died unexpectedly on Wednesday at her home at 620 West State Street in Detroit Lakes.

Funeral services for Mrs. Daubenspeck were held Saturday at 11 a.m., at Zion Lutheran church in Detroit Lakes, where she was a member. Rev. M. J. Buchhop officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Barrie Henke of Thief River Falls. Becky Woodard was the organist and provided the accompaniment for the Guild Singers. Interment was in the Lakeside cemetery at Frazee.

Pallbearers were John Jess, Bill Lindow, Albert, Alan and Neil Wothe and Norman Sorenson.

Mrs. Daubenspeck, the former Alvina Wothe, was a lifetime resident of Becker county. She was born June 10, 1908 at Frazee and was married there on Oct. 22, 1931 to John Daubenspeck.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth (Joanne) Kohler, Thief River Falls; three grandchildren, Kathy Levi, Kristy and Jim Kohler; and three brothers and one sister: Mel, Walter and Herman Wothe and Mrs. George (Cecelia) Lindow, all of Frazee.

Two brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Attending the services from Thief River Falls, in addition to Rev. and Mrs. Henke, were Mr. and Mrs. Don Pream, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Mehrkens and Kyle and Mrs. James Anderson.

Set Open House For Accounting Co. Anniversary

In observance of the 25th anniversary of its founding, Holcomb, Knudson and Company will hold an open house on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at its offices at 116 Third st. W. in Thief River Falls. Public is invited to tour the offices during those hours.

The company was founded by Gerald C. Knudson, CPA, on June 1, 1954, in Crookston. In 1957 Boyd Holcomb, CPA, purchased existing practices from Ralph Luhman in Thief River Falls and Al Myrold in Crookston. The two firms were combined into the Holcomb, Knudson partnership in 1966.

That same year the firm expanded into Grand Forks with the purchase of the Homer Matheson practice and Knudson moved to Grand Forks to manage that operation.

Robert Poissant, CPA, a partner in the Thief River Falls office, was admitted to the firm in 1968. Richard W. Anderson, CPA, became a partner here in 1974. Offices have been added in Bemidji, Devils Lake, N.D., Alexandria and Detroit Lakes.

"In 1979 we intend to admit three more partners into the firm," Poissant said. "For our young people to develop, there is a compelling necessity that we grow, and we intend to do so through a loyal and enthusiastic organization.

"Contrary to popular opinion, the U.S. economy and certainly our geographical area are not dominated by large corporations. Actually, 90 per cent of all firms are sole proprietorships, partnerships and small corporations with less than 100 employees and gross sales of less than $500,000 per year.

"Small business is not on the way out," he added. "The ratio of the number of business firms to each 1,000 people in the population has remained stable for 50 years. Small business has its own niche in a growing economy and has been the reason for our past expansion and for our projected future growth."

Operating from new facilities occupied about a year ago, the company offers monthly accounting and write-up work, preparation of income tax returns, auditing, management services, tax planning, estate planning and electronic data processing.

"During the next 10 years we expect to continue to grow with expanded service in such specialties as tax and estate planning and electronic data processing," Poissant added. "We project we will have at least 25 partners and 12 office locations by the end of the period."

25th ANNIVERSARY of Holcomb, Knudson and Company, CPA firm, will be held Thursday with open house from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the offices located at 116 Third st. W. Bob Poissant, a partner in the firm, is shown in his office in the building. Tours of the building's offices, reception area and computer facilities will be held during the open house and public attendance is encouraged.

Junior High Students Asked To Suggest Law

Junior high school students in the state are trying their talents at being lawmakers by sending their ideas to the "There Ought to be a Law" essay contest the Minnesota House of Representatives sponsors each year. In 100 words or less, they're saying what they think ought to be a law in Minnesota.

Last year's statewide winner was a sixth grader, Corey Evans, from Balton. He wrote about energy conservation. This year, the contest rules ask the kids to write about juvenile justice, protection for the elderly, child care, solid and hazardous waste, natural resources or human rights.

Mary Arnold from Rochester writes that she thinks, "There ought to be a law that would make parents more responsible for their children. If a child steals something, the parents should be made to pay for it...," says Mary. Michael Poddock of Blackduck, a winner from last year, has entered again. He thinks there ought to be a law requiring a cash deposit on glass, metal, plastic and other containers so people "could return them at any grocery store; "just like pop bottles."

Carmen Tobeck, an eighth grader from Hopkins, was a district winner last. She saw herself on the evening news following her day as a legislator. She said it was fun to be on TV, but that was not her reason for looking forward to this year's contest.

"Everything was so interesting," Carmen told a news reporter. "It was really exciting to be a part of it. I'm going to start now to think about a law to write for next year's contest. It would really be fun if my law would be one of those chosen for the students to discuss."

For complete rules, students should call or write the House Information Office, Room 8, State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, (612) 296-2146, and get in on the fun.

The contest is open to all junior high students in the state and runs until August 3. One hundred and thirty-four district winners get to be lawmakers for a day at the Capitol in St. Paul where they will debate and vote on the top six winning entries.

Area Truckers To Meet Tues. At Erskine

Area truckers have been invited to attend a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Erskine school to discuss uniform weight laws, efforts to obtain 100 per cent fuel allocation and rates to compensate for increased fuel costs.

A representative of the Independent Truckers association as well as area legislators are expected to be in attendance. The session is being continued from last Thursday when a representative of the Independent Truckers association was unable to attend a scheduled meeting due to a traffic mishap.

Ruling Made On Possible Food Stamp Cut

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland recently announced an emergency rule directing states to prepare for possible across-the-board cuts in food stamp benefits in August and September of this year.

"The cuts could be necessary," Bergland explained, "chiefly because unexpectedly high food prices have boosted the cost of the program well above original budget projections, and, without supplemental funding, the program is going to run out of money before the end of the fiscal year."

Food stamp benefits, which currently average 33 cents per person per meal, are indexed to the cost of food. Food Stamp act of 1977 imposed a cap on program expenditures for each fiscal year based on estimates of food price inflation. At the time the law was enacted, that inflation was projected at three to four per cent each year. However, food prices are now projected to rise 22 per cent in the first two years since the bill's passage.

"I am hopeful that Congress will respond to our appeal for additional funding," Bergland stated, "but if it does not, we will have to reduce or cancel benefits at the end of this fiscal year to avoid violating the food stamp act and the anti-deficiency act. The action we take will depend upon the size of the budget shortfall and whether we absorb that shortfall over one or two months."

Benefit cuts due to a budget shortfall would be unprecedented in the 15-year history of the program and would follow substantial cuts now being made on benefits for several million persons as a result of tighter eligibility and benefit rules implementing the 1977 act.

But while the new act has terminated or reduced benefits for many higher-income households, it has resulted in increased participation by lower-income housholds, which has also contributed to increased program costs. Since January of this year, when the requirement that households purchase their food stamps was dropped, several million persons have entered the program. These persons were previously eligible but had not participated because they could not afford to buy their food stamps. While a significant increase was anticipated, it has occurred at a faster rate than anticipated, and the new households will therefore receive benefits for more months of the fiscal year. Also because these new households are somewhat poorer than anticipated, they qualify for larger benefits, further depleting dwindling food stamp funds.

Any food stamp cuts would affect all households equally, Bergland noted, with reductions applied on a flat percentage basis. States would notify food stamp households of benefit cuts through the news media, direct mailing of notices or posters in food stamp offices.

Because states must prepare now for possible benefit cuts, the emergency procedures were published as a final rule in the June 12th Federal Register. However, the department is inviting public comment and will reissue the rule in final form after considering all comments. Comments should be submitted to Alberta Frost, Acting Deputy Administrator for Famioy Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washing, D.C., 20250 by August 13.

Institute On Aging Attended By Area Persons

Twenty-first annual Institute on Aging, held June 11-12 at St. Cloud state university was attended by three area women: Hilda Opdahl, senior support program director of the Inter County Community Council; and Pennington county senior aides, Gladys Loeffler and Margaret Syverson. Focus of the two-day program was on interdependence in aging family networks and approximately 15 workshops were offered on aging related topics.

Speakers at the workshop included Governor Al Quie who discussed Minnesota's governmental responses to aging and family issues and Dr. Lillian Troll, professor of psychology at Rutgers University and co-author of "Families in Later Life." Banquet speaker was a Brainerd community college instructor Joseph Plut.

Jehovah's Witnesses Set Conventions

Steven P. Spilde, spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses in Thief River Falls, said the Thief River Falls congregation will be well represented at the four-day district convention planned for the St. Paul civic center, where 14,500 persons from the upper midwest are expected.

"Mankind truly needs hope in these times," Spilde said. "All of us are concerned about the anxiety created in society due to crime, violence, inflation and changing moral standards and ruined marriages with broken homes.

"People are in need of hope," Spilde continues, "but many wonder where such hope can be found. Others possessing hope are concerned as to how they can preserve it, enhance it. These conventions are specifically designed to explore the reasons for stress, unhappiness, and hopelessness in modern society and, more importantly, how to cope with the problems."

Spilde said the sessions are planned for all age groups and all meetings are open to the public.

A Stacked Deck

Evidently the American people think they're competing against a stacked deck in the energy game.

The Carter administration can take no solace from the latest Gallup Poll, which indicates people think the current oil shortage is created by the oil companies. And it's not by a bare majority either, but a 77 to 14 per cent margin.

Less than half the people polled believed the energy crisis was very serious, and strangest of all, 38 per cent of the people believe that the United States produces enough oil to meet all of the nation's demands without importing any oil.

The Tribune happens to believe that the energy crisis is real, and is not a by product of either the government's or the oil companies' chicanery. But you can see why people are led to believe as they do with officials of the Carter administration constantly giving contradictory statements, and the oil companies coming across like real heavies with behind the scenes maneuvering to boost their own profits.

The huge profits reported for the last quarter by the oil companies certainly did nothing to instill public confidence especially in light of the rapidly escalating price of gasoline at the pump.

Even well educated, well informed people are convinced that the American people are being "ripped off" by the oil companies, and the government knows this but does nothing to stop them.

On an international level, recent developments do nothing to enhance the government's reputation. The United States guaranteed to provide Isreal's petroleum needs if it could not get the oil it needed. Isreal exacted this promise in return for giving up the oil fields in the Sinai to Egypt as part of the peace package.

And recently there were news reports that the United States is thinking of selling oil from Prudhoe Bay in Aalska to Japan. Then there are stories, not yet substantiated, that the nation has huge oil reserves, and that storage tanks throughout the nation are virtually bursting at the seams.

You add it all up and you get the basis for one gigantic case of mistrust. Small wonder people are disgusted and that Carter is having a very difficult time in trying to sell its energy program to the American people. Until suspicion and distrust are replaced by trust and a spirit of cooperation, no energy program proposed by the administration has much of a chance of working.

It's time the oil companies and the Carter adminstration started leveling with the American people, and if they have been honest with their information, it's time they started to build confidence in what they say and do. A big job to say the least.

A Lousy Policy!

This is a copy of a letter I plan to send to the administrators of an insurance policy I now hold, discussing the reasons why I no longer want the policy:

1. The Policy was orginally purchased by my parents, who, when they discovered the fraudulent nature of it, were too embarrassed to do anything.

2. When it came time for me to assume the payments, I was tricked into believing that there were no similar policies available.

3. Now, after my parents have paid on the policy for eighteen years, and I have paid on it for another twelve years -- a grand total of thirty years -- I find that the policy has no cash value.

4. From time to time, I am required to increase my payments for supposed increase in benefits, whether I desire the improvements or not.

My parents both died and never received any payment. If I were to expire now, because I have no family the company would not have to make any payment, even though I would like to name others as beneficiaries.

6. The company will not allow me to change the policy within the company, nor in fact will it allow me to drop the policy, using the equivalent amounts to purchase a similar policy from another company.

7. The company holding my policy has not shown a profit since its inception, is not required to pay taxes, has more employees than other companies, and at this time is bankrupt.

8. In order to get a copy of the contract, I must pay $2.50. The contract is two volumes and contains over 800 pages.

9. The company is again in the process of changing my policy. In an effort to understand the changes better, I am in the process of reading the four volumes made up of some 2000 pages, which discuss the changes.

10. One of the changes recommended is that the company will be in the position of deciding whether or not I need the money it is supposed to pay, upon completion of my portion of the agreement.

THE POLICY IS CALLED THE OLD AGE SURVIVORS AND DISABILITY INSURANCE SYSTEM, COMMONLY REFERRED TO AS SOCIAL SECURITY.

American Ingenuity

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

During World War II the United States lost its supply of natural rubber as the result of Japan's over running the producing countries in Malaysia.

We did not create a Department of Rubber, or sell tires on odd and even days. Instead our chemists and researchers got down to work and created synthetic rubber and a large new industry. The country still had tires and supplies of rubber for other needs.

Something like that has to be done to overcome the managing of our petroleum supplies by the OPEC nations, who can raise prices as they wish and create shortages by holding down production.

Petroleum can also be used as a political weapon. Iran will not sell oil to Israel. Nigeria threatens that it will withhold oil from us if we recognize the coalition regime in Rhodesia Zimbabwe.

What is needed is the exercise of our technical abilities to create another fuel, rather than gasoline, or to make another fuel out of resources which we have.

As the price of petroleum continues to rise it makes the prospect of turning coal into a petroleum and gasoline substitute more attractive. The ability to do this is known, but the cost had been too high to make it attractive when both our domestic and imported oil was selling at artifically low prices.

Again going back to World War II, Germany ran its vehicles on alcohol, when its supply of petroleum dried up. Gasohol — a mixture of gasoline and alcohol — is being used in the midwest.

The Wall Street Journal carried an interesting story recently about a Minnesota farmer who built his own still and is planning to make enough alcohol to run all of his farm machinery. In effect he will use corn he has grown to make alcohol to plant more corn.

His research into the possibility of distilling his own alcohol included such varied sources as the Library of Congress and two weeks spent with an old moonshiner in Alabama.

That's the kind of American ingenuity that has made the country in the past. And its what we probably are going to have to depend on in the future.

The bureaucracy specializes in managing scarcity, not producing new products or alternative fuels. Perhaps out of the present scarcity and foreign dependency we will develop a new fuel to free us from OPEC.

Interesting Opinions:

"Politically, the world is fragmented; it always has been and, short of a miracle, it always will be. I accept that as a fact of life, but I am a devoted and optimistic advocate of what I call one-world economics. There are no geographical boundaries to the needs of people and no justifications in morals or ethics for some nations to be haves and others to be have-nots . . . Unlike one-world politics, one-world economics is within reach. The productive system is proven out, and much of it is in place. What remains is to harness it effectively."

State Traffic Deaths Lower Than Year Ago

Minnesota's traffic deaths in the first five months this year were running about 10 per cent below the same period last year, announced commissioner John P. Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Traffic crashes killed 249 persons from January through May this year, compared to 279 who died in the first five months of 1978, according to preliminary figures for both years. The 1979 preliminary figure could change as later reports of deaths arrive. The final five-month toll for 1978 was 330 deaths.

Sopsic called on all Minnesotans to help prevent traffic crashes this year. "The decline in the death toll so far is encouraging, but we'll all have to make a conscientious, consistent effort in order to reduce traffic crashes and fatalities through the rest of the year," he said.

"Everyone must make a commitment to safer driving and to reversing the recent trend of seriously increasing traffic deaths," said Sopsic. After the annual traffic toll hit a 13-year low of 777 persons killed in 1975, the state's fatalities have climbed to 809 in 1976, 856 in 1977 and 980 in 1978.

"Do your part by obeying the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, always buckle up safety belts, and avoid drinking and driving. If Minnesota motorists adopted these three simple and basic rules, the state's road toll could be cut by at last half."

Preliminary figures for January-May 1979 show pedestrian deaths were 41, motorcyclist fatalities at 15 and bicyclist deaths were three. During all of last year, traffic crashes killed 115 pedestraians, 106 motorcyclists and 23 bicyclists.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

No Matter How You Slice It, It's Still Boloney

Have you ever noticed how often life in Washington contradicts what passes for normal everywhere else? Take for example, the principle of competition. In the real world, competition is desireable; the more there is the better the chance of controlling inflation and even bringing prices down. But in Washington, the opposite is true; the more politicians compete, the faster prices seem to shoot up.

The current duel of political one-upmanship between President Carter and Senator Kennedy on the issue of health care illustrates just how this process works. With the President's popularity fading, and the Senator's threat growing, a top Carter political adviser recently admitted, "Kennedy leveraged Carter into expanding health care." Of course, we mustn't think that's necessarily inflationary.

On the contrary, the presentation of the President's National Health Plan seemed so slick one would have though we were receiving the latest initiative from his team of inflation fighters. Here were the same people whose policies have provoked more than a doubling of inflation in less than three years, now reassuring us their health plan will mark a continuation of the official policy of "restraint." During the first year, 1983, the plan should only total $24 billion in new costs and taxes. Of course that kind of austerity cannot last forever; eventually, we will be expected to make some real sacrifices.

But don't panic. There is an alternative. If we really want to get tough with inflation, we should support Senator Kennedy's more "comprehensive" approach. His plan (depending on whose figures you believe) will only cost two to three times more the first year than Carter's — or $40-$60 billion. The Senator claims what seems more expensive will actually be less expensive. How, you ask? Why, through the federal government's magical managerial skills — the skills which will enable us to cut out unnecessary costs and save consumers billions of dollars. Anyone swallowing a proposed cure-all like that is bound to wake up with a financial migraine.

You see what's really at stake here, stripped of their rhetorical bows and ribbons, are two proposals that will take us squarely down the road toward socialized medicine. The only difference is one of timing. Kennedy would allow the government to move in quickly virtually controlling both spending on health care and fees doctors and hospitals could charge. Carter would move more gradually, lulling us with only a glimpse of the camel's nose under the tent.

The advocates of socialized medicine never point out that only five per cent of Americans lack any health insurance, and a slightly higher percentage lacks catastrophic coverage. Both these groups would be protected by slightly expanding coverage of existing health programs. We are told that without more government control, costs will go through the roof. But it was precisely when all the government's programs, regulations and paperwork began weighing down on the industry in the mid-60's that medical costs first took off. How in the world will even more bureaucracy lead to lower costs?

So the basic questions are these: Where is the evidence that a government take-over of the health care industry will produce anything but more pain — both physical and financial — for the consumer: And where will we find leaders to direct this magnificent medical leap into the unknown? From those who have blessed us with 18 unbalanced budgets in the last 19 years? Or perhaps from those who so dependably run our trains and deliver our mail? Or maybe even from those who have so mismanaged the Medicare and Medicaid programs that even HEW's famous computers seem ready to tilt?

Of course we could look overseas for guidance. But where? Certainly not to Australia where socialized medicine proved so unpopular and unworkable that it was completely scraped; nor to Great Britain, where to cut costs, thousands have been left to die from acute kidney disease, where some 800,000 others must wait up to three years for the most basic operations, where there is a serious shortage of medical personnel and where 50 per cent of the medical buildingst were constructed before 1900; nor to Sweden, which suffers from similar problems and where there is a tacit understanding that such operations as organ transplants will not be available to people over 70; nor, finally, to Canada where frustrated physicians are fleeing in droves — to the United States.

We can solve these pressing problems of escalating medical costs, but only by reducing government control and regulaton and by simultaneously promoting more competition. I'll deal with that alternative in my next column on medical care. In the meantime, let's not be fooled by the reported differences between the Kennedy and Carter health plans. Let's not mistake the light at the end of the health care tunnel for the beacon of one of their oncoming federal trains.

Wild Rice Festival Set July 6, 7 And 8

Seventh annual Kelliher-Waskish Wild Rice festival is set for the July 6, 7 and 8 weekend.

Under the general chairmanship of Rublie Martin, the festival is expected to be the best yet. The area-wide event is expected to draw interested individuals from all over the state, with many aspects of previous years adding return committments. On Friday evening to kickoff the three day event, the North Star Dippers will again be in the school fym and at the same time in the Kelliher auditorium, Randy Baurer's Mojo band will be playing.

Saturday the parade and queen contest will be drawing units from throughout Northern Minnesota. Other attractions of the day include the flea market, recipe contest and the tractor pull. The tractor pull is sanctioned by the Red River Valley Tractor Pullers Association and includes both modified and out of field tractors and four wheel drive pick-ups. The day also includes the Powderhorn Puppets of Minneapolis, the wild rice supper in the high school gym and the evening program at 8 p.m. All Friday and Saturday events are in Kelliher.

Sunday at Waskish, begins with outdoor church services and a wild rice pancake breakfast, horseshoe, bandstand entertainment, invitational softball and the Horseshow by the Waskish Swamp Stompers are part of the days event. Airplane rides over the paddies will go on all day.

For further information contact Rublie Martin at 218-647-8339.

Taxpayer ID Numbers Assure Account Credit

No two snowflakes, scientists say, are exactly alike. Similarly, the Social Security Administration (SSA) and the Internal Revenue Service have issued millions of different social security and employer identification numbers to individuals and organizations. The IRS calls both social security numbers for individuals (SSNs) and employer identification numbers (EINs), taxpayer identification numbers (TINs).

Because persons and entities are given their own unique TINs, the TINs are particularly useful in the work of the IRS. TINs enable the IRS to sort billions of transactions and properly credit taxpayers' accounts even when individuals or businesses have the same name or relocate.

To ensure that their IRS accounts are accurate, taxpayers should provide their correct TINs to all payers of income and withholders of tax. Examples of those to be provided with TINs are: employers, banks and other savings institutions, payers of pensions and stockbrokers.

Both businesses and individuals should be certain to include their correct TINs on all communications with the IRS, including tax returns, information items and correspondence about their accounts. A penalty of $5 may be levied for each failure to furnish the TIN to an appropriate person or to show the number of filed returns.

Both businesses and individuals should be certain to use their own TINs. For example, an EIN belonging to a business's former owner should not be used by the present proprietor.

Any indivual who doesn't have a social security number but receives taxable income or has tax withheld from income can get a TIN by submitting a completed Form SS-5, "Application for a Social Security Number," to any SSA office. Application forms are available at any IRS or SSA office and many post offices.

A person or business required to report employment taxes or give tax statements who does not have an employer identification number can get one by sending a completed Form SS-4, "Application for Employer Identification Number," to the area Internal Revenue Service center at Ogden. Form SS-4 can be obtained at all IRS and SSA offices.

Region Meets Discuss Water Research Needs

Water research needs and priorities in the state of Minnesota will be the topic of a series of nine regional meetings throughout the state during the months of June and July. Northwest Minnesota residents are invited to a June 28 session at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Crookston middle school.

"Since research money is so limited, we wanted to make sure that available funds are used to solve problems which Minnesotans view as being most critical," said John Waelti, director of the University of Minnesota water resources research center.

Assisting the center in planning for the discussion meetings are members of the Minnesota Environmental Education board and its system of 13 Regional Environmental education councils.

Primary purpose of the meetings is the development of a list of research needs and priorities as perceived by people from all corners of the state who are representative of various water resources interests.

In developing the compilation of needs and priorities, the Water Resources research center is seeking broad public participation. All phases of water resources are to be considered, including physical and engineering, biological, economic, sociological, political and public policy aspects.

Waelti said the sessions are open to everyone. "We're not necessarily looking for water experts," he said. "We are hoping to get representation of all segments of the Minnesota population — people who can help us make better decisions about how water should be used and managed in the future."

Karen Loechler, executive director of the Environmental Education board suggested that attending the regional meetings would be one positive way for Minnesotans to observe 1979 as Water Awareness year, as proclaimed by Governor Al Quie.

DID YOU KNOW?

Alcohol and Adolescents

The medical profession, sociologists, social workers, and teachers who work with youth have found the prevalence of drinking practices among adolescents has risen steadily in the past 23 years. The astounding fact is that many children as young as six years of age have not only tasted alcohol but also have regularly been permitted to drink small amounts at home.

More recently adolescent drinking and traffic accidents have been on the increase. Much is blamed on the lowered legal drinking age. Also the cases involving vandalism and violence have been connected to the drinking of youth between the ages of 14 and 21.

Authorities are beginning to point their fingers back to the parents and home. The lack of discipline has been cited as a leading factor in the behavior of children.

During this International Year of the Child there must be a more concerted effort to reach children with the importance of total abstinence and the signing of the pledge. Many of our greatest leaders have said the signing of the temperance pledge, which restricted the decision to the age of 21 in most cases, has kept them from ever taking a drink.

Steigers Note Production Of 10,000 Tractors

Douglas and Maurice Steiger of Thief River Falls, inventors of the first 4-wheel drive Steiger tractor, gave a helping hand as the ten-thousandth Steiger tractor came off the production line Wednesday, June 20, at the Steiger plant in Fargo, N.D.

Maurice Steiger operated the hydraulic lift that carried the 25,615 pound tractor from the last station on the assembly line over to the hoist where tires were installed. After tires were attached, Doug Steiger drove the tractor out of the plant.

This tractor, a 325 horsepower Steiger Panther, came off the line during Steiger's tenth year anniversary in Fargo.

Ross Hunsaker of Mainline Ranch, Inc., outside of Nampa, Idaho, will be the owner of this tractor.

Already the owner of an earlier Steiger model, a Steiger Cougar I, Hunsaker plans on using both tractors to supplement his growing small grain and sugarbeet operation.

Spotted Fever Is Carried By Common Ticks

State health department officials report that an 11 year old Minneapolis boy was stricken with Rocky Mountain spotted fever (RMSF) last month, following a visit to a church camp in southern Minnesota.

Officials say this was only the eighth case of RMSF in Minnesota since 1950. The Iowa health department has reported nine cases of the disease in that state since May, compared with a normal incidence of one to three cases during an entire year.

RMSF is transmitted to humans through the bite of disease-bearing ticks, according to John Washburn, communicable disease epidemiologist at the Minnesota department of health. Common wood ticks or dog ticks are the usual carriers. The disease occurs throughout the United States during the spring and summer, but a majority of the cases occur in the eastern and southeastern states. Over 700 cases have been reported each year since 1973, over two-thirds of them in children under 15 years of age.

The Minneapolis boy became ill May 9, after receiving two tick bites at camp the previous weekend. He was hospitalized May 14 with a temperature of 104 degrees. He was successfully treated with antibiotics and relased a few days later.

Washburn said there is no threat of an RMSF outbreak in Minnesota, but he suggested a number of measures people can take to lower their risk of getting the disease.

Washburn suggested that people avoid tick-infested areas, use commercial tick repellents, and remove ticks from their bodies as soon as possible. A tick must usually remain attached for four to six hours before the disease organism that causes RMSF can become active, he noted, so searching your entire body every three to four hours and removing any ticks can usually prevent the disease. Each tick should be pulled off with a gentle, steady motion, to avoid crushing it or leaving any mouth parts attached.

In the case of the Minneapolis boy, one tick had remained attached for at least three days.

The symptoms of RMSF, according to Washburn, can include moderate to high fever, severe headache and chills. A characteristic rash develops on the hands and feet about three days after the first symptoms appear, and spreads quickly to the rest of the body. The symptoms develop quickly, and the fever remains consistently high for an extended period of time. The disease is fatal in about 20 per cent of untreated cases, but with proper treatment death is uncommon.

Postal Size Standards Go In Effect Soon

Postmaster Art Buringrud reminds customers to use up small and undersize envelopes and cards before July 15. That is the date when the postal service's new size standards become effective. After July 15, envelopes and cards measuring less than 3½ inches high or 5 inches long will be returned to the sender if mailed.

Buringrud said that because the envelope and greeting card industries have had more than three years to prepare for the new standards, few retailers should still be selling undersize pieces. Some consumers are likely, however, to have some of the smaller envelopes or cards in their supply of stationery.

The regulations also prohibit flimsy cards. In the future they must be at least seven-thounsads (.007) of an inch thick. An official postal card, for instance, has a thickness of nine-thousands of an inch.

Undersize and flimsy cards are being banned because they can become trapped in other mail, tear and jam mail processing machinery. As a result, other letters can also be damaged.

The new standards also affect oversized and odd-shaped pieces of mail. For first class mail weighing one ounce of less, there will be a surcharge of seven cents for pieces more than 6 one-eighth inches high or 11½ inches long. For more information, check with a post office window clerk.

Dean's List At NDSU Includes Area Students

More than 840 North Dakota state university students earned places on the spring quarter dean's list announced by the deans in the seven academic colleges. Students maintaining a 3.50 grade point average (B plus or better) on a 4.0 scale qualify for the Deans' List issued each quarter by the seven NDSU colleges.

Numbering among those qualifying from this area were Marilyn Kiesow, Goodridge; Mark Sax, Grygla; Vnace Haugen, Oklee; Pamela Hesse, Plummer; Dean Lizotte, Kvevin Amiot, and Brian Vatthauer, Red Lake Falls; Kimberly Kollar, Roseau; and Brian Hushagen, Shelly Langlie, Bryan Grove, Jani Swanson, Shaun Oen, Bette Hanson, Joey Scholin and Tamara Schwartz, all of Thief River Falls.

NW Experiment Station Plans Ag Tour Day

Public is invited to visit the Northwest Experiment station Wednesday, July 18. Registration will take place at the Ag Research center and visitors will be bused to tour locations. The forenoon will feature general tours to the soils research plots and to the agronomy plots.

Tours begin at 7:45 a.m. and continue until about 12 noon. A noon lunch will be served in the college dining hall for field day visitors. Refreshments will be available on the grounds. The popular pest clinic will be featured, among several booths and clinics.

There will be special tours in the afternoon for potatoes, for the alfalfa studies, and the specialty crops, including sunflower studies, as well as a tour out to the natural history area, looking at old gravel pit use and prairie restoration work. The afternoon tours are scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Bemidji State Dean's List Is Announced

Spring quarter Dean's list was released recently by Dr. Richard Beitzel, vice president for academic affairs at Bemidji State University, and included a number of students from this area. Bemidji State students carrying twelve or more quarter hours during any one term and earning a "B" or better average are listed on the Dean's list which is published quarterly.

Those among the list of academic students are Paul Becker, Kevin Hanson, Lori Harlow and Rebecca Harlow, all of Warren; Steven Hjelle, Viking; Jon Anderson, Plummer; and Lucy Derosier, Jared Raebel and Michael Schmitz all of Red Lake Falls.

Also Jerome Hruby and Margaret Lambert of Oklee; Linda Bjornrud and Wanda Holmaas of Newfolden; Nancy Cwikla, Middle River; Lamar Gunnarson, Karlstad, Jodeen Pearson, Lake Bronson, Ann Chrzanowski and Jane Slawson of Greenbush; Gerald Ness, Argyle and Terry Beich, Frank Hazard and Rodney Wentzel, all of Thief River Falls.

Big swinger.

Swing it to the left or swing it to the right. The hydrostatic header drive and the center placement of the arched tongue on the header frame permit infinite positioning of the Hesston Center Pivot Hydro Swing® 1014 Windrower. And because you can cut on either side of your tractor, you can windrow in either direction...up and down the field. Then, when you need to clear a gate or road the unit, simply swing the header directly behind the tractor. Available in 12' or 14' widths, these headers give trouble-free operation, even in dense crops. And the 57" conditioner rolls gently fluff hay into well-formed windrows or swaths of Hesstonized Hay. Ask us soon about the productive Hesston 1014 Hydro Swing.

Notes to Financial Statements
Year Ended December 31, 1978

1. Description of Funds
The accounts of the City are organized on the basis of funds or groups of accounts, each of which is considered to be a separate accounting entity. The operations of each fund are accounted for by providing a separate set of self-balancing accounts which comprise each fund's assets, liabilities, fund equity, revenues and expenditures/expenses.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A. Basis of Accounting
The modified accrual basis of accounting is followed for general, special revenue, and debt service funds. All other funds, (Enterprise, Intragovernmental Service, Capital Project, Special Assessment, and Trust and Agency) are on an accrual basis of accounting, except that capital project funds encumber uncompleted contracts.

B. Investments
Investments are stated at cost, plus accrued interest to date.

C. Receivables
Current taxes are accrued at year end. This represents revenue for 1979 and a deferred reserve is set up equal to the current taxes receivable.

Delinquent taxes are recognized as revenue when received in cash.

Sales and income are recognized at various times: Liquor sales are recognized at the time of sale; Utility sales are recognized when billed with an accrual at year end for unbilled services; Miscellaneous accounts receivable are recognized when billed.

D. Inventories
Inventories are stated at cost and are recorded on a first-in, first-out (FIFO) basis.

E. Fixed Assets
Fixed assets are valued at cost. No provision is made for retirement of assets upon sale or abandonment.

General fixed assets are recorded as expenditures in the General, Special Revenue, and Capital Project funds. These acquisitions are also recorded in the General Fixed Asset group of accounts. Depreciation is not provided for these assets.

Fixed assets are acquired through the enterprise and intragovernmental service funds are capitalized when purchased and depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful life.

3. The City participates in a contributory pension plan under the Public Employees Retirement Association (PERA), Minn. Stat. Chapter 353, which covers substantially all employees except those qualifying as temporary or seasonal employees or those public safety police and fire personnel covered by the relief associations. The City's contribution is a percent of salary which is determined by the particular plan to which each individual belongs.

The City's contribution for the coordinated plan (PERA and Social Security) to PERA is equal to 5.5% of the total salary of each individual. For the basic plan, the City's contribution is equal to 10.5% of each individual's salary. The pension cost including amortization of estimated prior service cost was $ 82,165. for the period ended December 31, 1978. It is State law that the City fund this pension cost as it accrues. Prior service cost is being amortized over a period of 40 years and is being funded as a percent of gross wages by all employers participating in the State association. The amount of unfunded prior service cost attributable to individual reporting entities is not determinable.

The City's contribution to the Federal Insurance Corporation of America (Social Security) for those individuals belonging to the coordinated plan, is equal to 6.05% of the first $17,700. in 1978. The contribution to Social Security was $48,538. for the period ended December 31, 1978. In 1979, the Social Security contribution will be based on 6.13% of the first $22,900.

4. Taxes receivable delinquent in the amount of $41,180. as of December 31, 1978 for tax levies through 1977 have been confirmed by the County Auditor as outstanding, but are not included in this report.

And reconsider.

As your Authorized Stran Builder, we're very much aware of how inflation has affected the cost of building new facilities.

Costs have risen dramatically for both materials, and construction labor. That's why it makes good building sense to take a look at Stran's building systems approach. Why?

- Most of the building is fabricated in a modern manufacturing plant to take advantage of automation and more productive man-hour utilization.
- The system is designed and produced to go together fast at your job site. Saving valuable man-hours in on-site construction costs.

So before calling off your plans for a new building, call us and let's see how we can help you deflate inflation. We may have you breaking ground after all.

Legion Faces Busy Week

What shapes up as the busiest week of the 1979 season for the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team begins Tuesday when coach Terry Sullivan's ball club visits Warren for a 7 p.m. Northwest League game.

Thief River Falls will then host the Grand Forks Air Force Base in a 6 p.m. Wednesday doubleheader and travel to Crookston for a key 7 p.m. Northwest League contsst Thursday.

Terry will then match wits with brother Pete in a 7 p.m. game at Red Lake Falls Friday. The two Sullivan's will have a rematch in Thief River Falls the following week.

Thursday's game at Crookston is the most important contest of the week for the young Thief River Falls squad. Crookston, with ace left-handed pitcher Brent Stahlecker on the mound, is considered by most observers to be the favorite for Northwest League Sub District tournament honors this summer.

However, Stahlecker had what must rank as his poorest outing of his fine high school and American Legion baseball career last week when Bemidji battered him for eight runs in less then four innings of work in a loosely played game finally won by Bemidji 12-11. Bemidji built a 12-2 lead against Stahlecker, but committed three errors that led to six unearned runs in an eight-run Crookston outburst in the bottom of the seventh. Bemidji pitching star John Noga had to come on in relief of Roger Degerman, notching the final out on a called strike three against Dan Royal with the tying run on the first base, to nail down the win.

The Thief River Falls-Red Lake Falls games could be interesting, too. The two teams split a high school doubleheader this spring and Pete Sullivan's American Legion squad opened play with three impressive wins — 11-6 over East Grand Forks, 7-3 over Bagley and 7-5 over Gonvick.

Warren, meanwhile, began the year with four Northwest League losses, losing recent 9-1 and 13-4 decisions to Crookston and East Grand Forks, respectively.

Thief River Falls has apparently established itself as a Northwest League contender with its season-opening pitching performances that included a two-hitter by Kelly Gutterud in a 3-1 victory over Roseau, a one-hitter by Monty Peterson in an 8-1 victory over Warroad and a two-hitter by Scott Sabo in a 3-0 blanking of East Grand Forks Thursday.

Needless to say, additional performances like those would make Thief River Falls hard to beat. However, only time will tell if Thief River Falls' three-man staff can match Crookston's solid trio of Brent Stahlecker, Brian Bachmeier and Trent Stahlecker.

Some offensive support would certainly help Thief River Falls' cause. They collected just three hits in both the Roseau and East Grand Forks wins while getting eight against an unheralded Warroad club.

At this point it looks like a Thief River Falls-Crookston match-up for post-season Northwest League Sub District honors, and that means another Scott Sabo vs. Brent Stahlecker pitching duel. If you recall, they locked up in that classic 1-0 ten-inning struggle won by the Pirates over the Prowlers during the 1979 spring high school baseball season.

Northwest League Sub District American Legion tournament play is scheduled July 24-28. The Ninth District tournament is slated Aug. 1-4 at New York Mills.

Miscellaneous

+ Ron Ruud, a Bemidji State University graduate and a native of Sprague, Man., has been appointed head basketball coach at Roseau high school, succeeding Larry Peterson, a Thief River Falls native who resigned earlier to accept another coaching position in southern Minnesota.

+ Joe Pollard, a former Grand Rapids high school and Itasca community college basketball standout, has been appointed head basketball coach at Itasca. He is currently attending the University of Minnesota-Duluth.

RADIO SHACK (TRF) catcher Mitch Dicken had the plate blocked, but the ball got by him, allowing Wright Contractors (Bemidji) base runner Larry Eickstad to score from second base on an infield error in the sixth inning of an opening round game in Sunday's 17th annual Far North fast pitch softball tournament played in Thief River Falls. Radio Shack won the game 8-6.

Grand Forks Teams Meet Far North Finals Sunday

In an all-Grand Forks final, Red River Cement built a 9-0 lead after four innings and then had to hang on to finally beat Molstad Excavating 9-7 in the 17th annual Far North fast pitch softball tournament played in Thief River Falls Sunday.

Red River had a big first inning, chalking up six runs. Three of the runs scored on Baumer's homer, his seventh hit of the day-long tournament. Red River added three more runs for a 6-0 lead after just one inning. Single runs in the second, third and fourth innings — the final run on Scott Loeslie's solo homer — increased the Red River cushion to 9-0.

But Molstad Excavating wasn't ready to roll over. Two Molstad runs in the sixth cut the gap to 9-2 and five base hits and a wild pitch pushed over five more runs with only one out in the seventh.

But winning pitcher Del Hager got the last two outs to record the win for Red River Cement. Larry Riley suffered the loss for Molstad's.

Red River Cement advanced into the championship game with three wins over Thief River Falls opponents, blanking Melvies 10-0, Coca-Cola-Action Realty 3-1 and Radio Shack 2-0.

Molstad Excavating opened with an 11-0 rout of OK Tire of Bemidji, sidelined defending champion dallmann Athletic, Inc. of Thief River Falls 4-2 and edged the Bemidji Moose Lodge 2-1 to reach the finals.

In an all-Thief River Falls consolation championship match, North Star Transport decisioned Melvies 4-0 behind Tom Neibauer's three-hit pitching. Ron Ostby supplied Neibauer with the only run he needed with a first inning home run.

Championship Round

First round — Red River Cement (Grand Forks) 10, Melvies (TRF) 0; Coca Cola-Action Realty (TRF) 14, Voyageur Supper Club (Detroit Lakes) 1; Skaar's Pabst (Bemidji) 8, Schmidts (TRF) 4; Radio Shack (TRF) 8, Wright Contracting (Bemidji) 6; Molstad Excavating (Grand Forks) 11, OK Tire (Bemidji) 0; Southam (Crary, N.D.) 1, Kruger Excavating (Callaway) 0; North Star Transport (TRF) Moose Lodge (Bemidji) 6; Dallmann Athletic (TRF), bye.

Quarterfinals — Red River Cement 3, Coca Cola-Action Realty 1; Radio Shack 6, Skaar's Pabst 1; Molstad Excavating 4, Dallmann Athletic 2; Moose Lodge 4, Southam 2.

Finals — Red River Cement 9, Molstad Excavating 7.

Consolation Round

Quarterfinals — Melvies 6, Voyageur Supper Club 5; Schmidts 7, Wright Contracting 6; Dallmann Athletic 18, OK Tire 3; North Star Transport 10, Kruger Excavating 2.

Semifinals — Melvies 9, Schmidts 1; North Star Transport 3, Dallmann Athletic 2.

Finals — North Star Transport 4, Melvies 0.

Men's Golf League Completes Third Week, Lists Standings

Arctic Swingers, Lee Plumbing and Heating Co., Wennbergs, Inc. and Doctors, Inc. are the leaders in after three weeks in the men's golf league played at the Thief River Country Club.

With the first three weeks of league play being used to establish individual handicaps, golfers are now ready to vie for the 1979 men's league title.

Bob Forsberg, playing for HBO of the Hogan Division, carded the third week's low score at 35. Cold, wet, windy conditions prevailed Wednesday as the many golfers struggled to higher scores in the below normal conditions.

Arctic Swingers playing in the Demaret Division, hold an impressive three-week low score of 552. Team members include Jon Bolen, Bob Carlson, Harvey Ebbighausen, Chuck Follet and Bob Kuchowicz.

Other team scores in the Demaret Division include Northern State Bank 558, Larson Music 561, Blue Cross 562, KOSN and Model Laundry 564, Bridegemans 570.

Remainder of the Snead Division include Hartz Wholesale 558, Elks Club 559, First Northwestern Bank 562, Bakke and Iverson Agency 565, Dwights Hartz 571 and Pepsi-Cola 572.

In the Hogan Division, a first place tie has developed between Wennbergs, Inc and Doctors, Inc. at 556. Members of the Doctors, Inc team include Bob Carter, Phil Murray, Arnie Berg, Ross Taylor and Ernesto Padilla. Playing on the Wennbergs, Inc. team were Dale Wennberg, Curt Geatz, Gus Holmes, Larry Spong and Russ Lane.

Remaining teams in the Hogan Division are Ekeren Drug and HBO, tied at 557, First Federal Savings and Loan Association 558, Professional Building 561 and Gordon's Hallmark and Gifts 562.

League play continues Wednesday at the Thief River Country Club before a two week layoff for the fourth of July.

Forest Fire Experts Hold Yearly Meeting

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry is hosted this year's annual meeting of the northeastern area fire supervisors at the Hotel Raddison in Duluth on June 18-21.

DNR commissioner Joseph Alexander welcomed forest fire protection supervisors from the 20 northeastern states. Representatives from Canada, U.S. Forest Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Indian Affairs and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service were on hand.

Northeastern area fire supervisors group is sanctioned by the national association of state foresters, and each of the 20 northeastern states take turns hosting the meeting.

Theme of this year's meeting was "Cooperation — The Key to Effective Resource Protection" and stressed the importance of interagency cooperation in fire protection activities such as training, communications, equipment and man-power availability, interstate compacts, cooperative agreements and international cooperation.

Included in tha agenda was a panel discussion on the multi-agency fire suppression effort that occurred in Minnesota during the severe drought of 1976.

Biggest dinosaur to roam the earth was the Supersaurus, reports the National Wildlife Federation. That prehistoric creature was three times talled than a giraffe and weighed as much as 14 elephants. The smallest dinosaur was the Compsognathus, about the size of a chicken.

Scott Sabo Strikes Out 17 In 3-0 Win Over EGF

First there was a two-hitter as Kelly Gutterud beat Roseau 3-1; then a one-hitter as Monty Peterson stopped Warroad 8-1; and Thursday it was another two-hitter as Scott Sabo blanked East Grand Forks 3-0 to extend Thief River Falls' remarkable string of season-opening American Legion baseball pitching performances that have supplied first-year coach Terry Sullivan with a 3-0 start in Northwest League play.

Sabo, who just joined the team, was in complete control. The Bemidji State University-bound lefthander struck out 17 East Grand Forks batters, fanning the side through the first four innings. However, his quest for strike-outs did produce a lot of pitches and seven walks during the chilly two-hour game on the fairgrounds diamond.

Pat Babinski, the number nine hitter in the East Grand Forks batting order, spoiled Sabo's no-hit bid with a bloop single into short left field in the fifth inning. It was the only ball East Grand Forks hit out of the infield all night. Only other hit for the visitors was a sixth inning infield chop by Dave Thompson that bounced high over Sabo's head and didn't come down until Thompson was crossing the bag at first.

Thief River Falls, meanwhile, made the most of four hits collected off East Grand Forks righthander John Roche.

In the bottom of the first inning Jeff Kosel, another first-game addition, reached base on an infield error, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored when third baseman Jim Nunn couldn't handle Jeff Ulrich's hard-hit ground ball.

Ulrich made it 2-0 in the third when he drilled a two-out base hit off shortstop Dan Gasperlin, stole second and scored on Babinski's error at second base.

Another Babinski error, this time a two-base throwing error, put Jim Sethre in scoring position in the fourth. He went to third on an infield out and scored when Dave Kays punched a single into left field. Mark Lundin and Kosel followed with ground balls that found their way out of the infield to load the bases with one out. But the hardest-hit ball of the inning, a line shot to Gasperlin by Tom Drury, was turned into an inning-ending double play.

Thief River Falls will play its first road game of the year Tuesday, a 7 p.m. Northwest League contest at Warren.

RLF, Stealers Match Unbeaten Records Tonight

Last unbeaten teams in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league will square off tonight (Monday) when Red Lake Falls (6-0) tangles with the Schmidt Stealers (5-0) in a 7:40 p.m. game on the East Side diamond.

Tonight's game will start a demanding week for the Schmidt Stealers who will play a Tuesday doubleheader against second division teams Ekeren Drug and Rusty Nail, then run up against the once-beaten Ridge Runners (4-1) Wednesday.

For Red Lake Falls, it'll be the second consecutive meeting with an undefeated opponent. The current league leaders knocked off previously unbeaten Pizza Hut 5-4 last Monday.

A full slate of games will be played Tuesday when the 16-team league makes up for last Wednesday's rain-outs.

Leaders Are Unchanged In Women's Golf

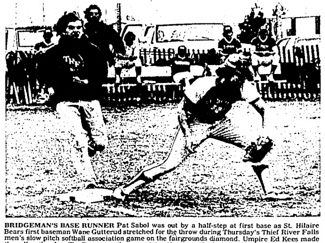
First week leaders First Northwestern State Bank and Simplot Soil Builders expanded their leads in the second week of Thief River Falls women's golf club competition.

In the A League, First Northwestern State Bank leads the way with a 309, followed by Gladys' 323, KTRF 327, Thune-Upham & Associates 332, Bredeson Home & Office Supply 337 and Northern Motors 350.

The B League scores show Simplot Soil Builders with a 334, Bergan Travel 355, First Federal Savings & Loan Association 356, Lee Plumbing & Heating Co. 365, Gordon's Hallmark & Gifts 372 and Evan's Seed, Wool & Fur 376.

Joan Peterson shot a 32 for low net score in the A League, with Jean Hogan shooting a 38 for similar honors in the B League.

Minnesota Vikings gained a team record-tying five first downs on penalties against Green Bay on Oct. 22, 1978.



BRIDGEMAN'S BASE RUNNER Pat Sabol was out by a half-step at first base as St. Hilaire Bears first baseman Wane Gutterud stretched for the throw during Thursday's Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association game on the fairgrounds diamond. Umpire Ed Kees made the call on the play. The Bears won the game 6-4 on the strength of a pair of Gutterud home runs to hold on to their Division II lead.

Rain Interrupts TRF Slow Pitch Softball Schedule

Rain, which erased a full round of eight games for the second straight night Wednesday and cut into Thursday's slate, finally spared Friday's Division III schedule in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association.

Headlining the games played Thursday — changed from the slow pitch complex to the diamonds at the fairgrounds and Northland community college — was a 6-4 St. Hilaire Bears victory over Bridgeman's in a key Division II match.

Wayne Gutterud hit two home runs for the division-leading Bears (7-2); clearing the left field fence with a solo shot in the first inning and finding the range again for a two-run homer in the third for a 4-0 lead.

The loss dropped Bridgeman's (5-4) from a second place tie into fifth place in the tight Division II race, with First Federal Savings & Loan Association (6-3) pulling into one game of the Bears following a 10-4 win over Popplers-Action Realty.

Kmart took a Division IV doubleheader from the TRF Aggies Thursday, 14-4 and 4-2, while Tip & Ring handled Lon's Restaurant & Pub 11-1 and Wilson Brothers Co. (6-2) pulled within one game of idle division leading Jean Junction-Rundell Electric by beating Smith & Holthusen 9-7.

Friday's Division III action included some heavy hitting by Great Northwest Agency, Inc. The Middle River-based outfit pounded out 45 base hits in a doubleheader sweep over McDonald's 22-2 and First Northwestern Insurance Agency 14-9. In a 26-hit assault against McDonald's, Dennis Green and Ken Niemela were both 4-for-4 with home runs, Ken Kesterke was 3-for-3 with a home run and Darrell Severts was 3-for-3.

Consumer's Co-op split a Friday twinbill, losing to division-leading Arctic IWA 9-2 but beating Phase II 13-11.

Schumacher's Tireland defeated McDonald's 16-6.

Arctic IWA, in beating Consumer's Co-op, benefitted from 13 walks issued by losing pitcher Mitch Hoard. The division leaders then combined 23 hits with 10 errors by The Club for an 11-10 victory. Jeff Joppru, Dan Sletten, Scott Johnson and Greg Bulger were all 3-for-4 for the winners.

Hoppe, Forberg Win Best-Ball

Wade Hoppe and Bob Forberg successfully defended their city best-ball golf championship by a one-shot margin when Hoppe dropped a six-foot putt on the 27th hole of the event held Saturday at the Thief River Country Club.

Hoppe and Forberg finished with a one-under-par 107 en route to their one-stroke victory over both the Tom Williams - Paul Williams and Bob Fitzgerald-Mike Kosel tandems. They shared second place at 108. Jay Moum and Stan Sjoberg were fourth at 109.

Brothers Ardell and Dewey Liden won the closely contested men's handicap division with an 18-hole 60. Clayton Hefty-Jon Bolen, Bill Corliss- Wally Krueger and Steve Easton-Scott Blankenfeld combinations finished second, third and fourth, respectively.

Women's handicap division had an easy winner in Linda Waale and Norma Jean Looker with a 63. Marge Corliss and Dorothy Boyer were six shots back at 69.

Next action at the Thief River Falls Country Club is the second annual Arctic Cat and Pro Am Classic scheduled July 21-23.

32 Golfers To Begin Play In Tunberg Classic

Thirty-two area golfers are scheduled to begin play Friday in the second annual Tunberg Motors match play classic at the Thief River Country Club.

This year's tournament field, open to both men and women members of the Thief River Country Club, includes 1978 champion Steve Easton.

The tournament, scheduled to be completed July 20, features a match play handicap format.

Elks Sweep RLF, Split With Braves

A pair of doubleheaders produced three wins for the 13-15-year-old Thief River Falls Elks baseball team last week.

At Red Lake Falls Thursday, Thief River Falls claimed 16-11 and 12-8 wins. At Bemidji Saturday, the Elks lost to the Braves 15-0 in the opener but bounced back to take the nightcap 3-1.

Thief River Falls, 8-4, will be on the road again this week, playing a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Roseau Tuesday, a 3 p.m. single game against the East Grand Forks Red Thursday and participating in a tournament at Bemidji Saturday.

Elks — RLF

Everybody in the Thief River Falls line-up collected at least one hit as the Elks outscored Red Lake Falls 16-11 in the first half of Thursday's doubleheader.

The 15-hit attack by the winners, which included seven extra base hits, included three hits apiece by Mark Harder and Tim Bergland and four RBI apiece by Mark and Greg Harder. Greg Harder pitched three innings of hitless ball in relief of Mark Harder to receive the win.

Hitting attack by the Harders continued into the second game, won by Thief River Falls 12-8, as Greg went 3-for-3 and Mark drove in four runs.

Tim Bergland was the second game winning pitcher, with relief help from Rob Blankenfeld.

Merchants — Roseau

A six-run outburst in the third inning carried the Thief River Falls Merchants 13-year-old team to a 9-3 second game win over Roseau Wednesday, with winning pitcher Tim Bottem and Bob Huot collecting two hits apiece.

The first game ended in a 1-1 extra inning stalemate.

Owning a 3-0-1 record, the Merchants will be at Crookston today (Monday) for a 1 p.m. doubleheader, at East Grand Forks Thursday for a 1 p.m. single game and at Roseau Friday for a 1 p.m. twinbill.

Deadline Is Today For TRF Softball Meet

Today (Monday) is the deadline for teams interested in participating in a two-day men's slow pitch softball tournament, scheduled to be held Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls.

Entry fee for the ASA tournament is $40 and one ball. Teams will guaranteed three games. Ten trophies will be awarded, along with special prizes for team and individual achievements. Special events are also being arranged for Saturday night.

To enter the tournament call Dennis Bendickson at 681-6922 or 681-2181.

Longest run for a touchdown by a member of the Minnesota Vikings in 1978 was only five yards — by Robert Miller vs. Seattle on Oct. 8.

FINANCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS from several Thief River Falls business places, individuals and organizations raised the $1,050 needed to purchase a Leaper-Plus mini-gym apparatus for the Lincoln high school athletic program. The equipment, installed Wednesday, will be utilized during the summer open gym sessions at Lincoln every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and throughout the school year by all Lincoln athletes. Trying out the new machine, designed to increase body speed, quickness and power, was Kyle Hams. Looking on were, left to right, Wade Hoppe, Kathy Walker, Paula Kertz, Bill Jury and Dave Geatz — a cross section of Lincoln athletes. A number of schools have purchased the popular piece of equipment. Coordinating the fund-raising project for the Sports Boosters Club was Dean Hams. Contributions came from the American Legion, Sjoberg's, Bill Dee, First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Paint and Glass Supply, VFW Club, Northern State Bank, Purdy's Shoe Store, Russ Embury, Tom Hederson, L.B. Hartz Foundation, Pepsi-Cola, Dean's Third Street Barber Shop, Nelson State Farm Insurance, Tunberg Motor Co., Thune-Upham & Associates, McDonald's Restaurant, Dallmann Athletic, Big T Restaurant, Rotary Club and Bridgeman's.

Schmidts, Coca-Cola Winners In Fast Pitch

Schmidts and Coca-Cola were winners Friday in Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball when three days of rain finally cleared. Schmidts moved up a notch in the standings with a 3-1 victory over winless Melvies while once-beaten Coca-Cola kept pace with unbeaten North Star Transport by beating Action Realty 4-2.

A 9 p.m. Friday game matching North Star Transport and Coca-Cola will cap this week's schedule.

Coca-Cola 4
Action Realty 2

A 7-3 winner over Action Realty a week earlier, Coca-Cola claimed a 4-2 victory in the Friday rematch.

Coca-Cola opened with a run in the top of the first inning when Roger Cota was hit by a pitch. Rob Almquist moved him to second with a single and Tony Johnson drove in the run with a double to left.

It became 3-0 in the second inning on successive doubles by Steve Drury, Cota and Kelly Gutterud.

Action Realty picked up a run in the fourth on Nick Drees' double and a couple of errors. Wayne Smith's two-out home run in the fifth then narrowed the gap to 3-2.

But Coca-Cola struck again for a run in the top of the sixth for a 4-2 margin and then got out of a seventh inning jam when Johnson struck out Smith with runners on first and second and got Wayne Liden to fly out to center to end the game.

Melvies 1

A three-run sixth inning enabled Schmidts to overtake Melvies 3-1 in Friday's doubleheader opener.

That lead lasted until the sixth when Larry Coltom's lead-off fly ball was dropped for a three base error. Another error on Rick Johnson's ground ball knotted the contest. Howard Dalager looped a single to center, sending Johnson to third, and Steve Haats lofted a sacridice fly to center for the go-ahead run. Bruce Johnson's two-out single plated the third.

Seek Views In Evaluation Of Lunch Programs

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is seeking proposals to evaluate the national school lunch and breakfast programs, assistant secretary of agriculture, Carol Tucker Foreman said recently.

"The contractor selected to evaluate the programs will focus primarily on their nutritional impact," Foreman said. "Additional objectives are to explore the overall impact of school feeding programs on children, their families and schools and to identify exceptionally successful school lunch and breakfast operating strategies.

The department's food and nutrition service provides states with funds and donated foods for schools and institutions that operate the school lunch and breakfast programs. Participating schools and institutions must serve meals based on USDA nutrition standards and must provide eligible children with free or reduced priced meals.

Evaluation will be carried out in four phases. The first phase will review and synthesize data from existing school feeding programs to assess the programs' nutritional impact on school children. The second phase will develop research designs to collect information, and phases three and four will implement the research efforts designed in phase two. The evaluation is expected to be completed in two-and-one half years.

Persons interested in the request for proposal should write: Contracting Officer, Administrative Services Division, Room 793 GHI, FNS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Eye Safety Urged In July Fireworks Use

An estimated 6,139 Americans were treated in hospital emergency rooms for fireworks-related injuries last year, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB). With the Fourth of July approaching — the prime time for use of firecrackers and other pyrotechnics — the society has issued a warning that all kinds of fireworks are a threat to life and limb, especially to eyesight.

"Eye damage accounted for some 20 per cent of last year's reported injuries from pyrotechnics," Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the NSPB, pointed out. "This figure represents only a fraction of acutal injuries since there is no way to estimate how many were treated in doctors' officer, at home or by direct hospital admission," she added.

"All fireworks, ranging from bottlerockets and firecrackers to punks and sparklers, are harmful to the eyes. Seemingly harmless sparklers burn at heats exceeding 1500 degrees F," Mrs. Boyce said.

Since children are most often the victims of injuries from fireworks, the society advises parents to keep even the smallest firecrackers away from them. "Almost 60 per cent of the fireworks-related eye injuries reported last year were suffered by children under the age of 15. With the cooperation and supervision of concerned parents, such unfortunate and needless accidents can be avoided this year and in the future," Mrs. Boyce asserted.

For many years, the NSPB has urged that the use of all fireworks be restricted to licensed public display. This recommendation has already been enacted into law in many states and municipalities. Still, bootleg fireworks regularly appear on street corners and in under-the-counter sales.

"What seems like fun to the unsuspecting public can result in painful burns, injuries and even blindness. Enjoy the holidays, safely, in public exhibitions," Mrs. Boyce advised.

National Society to Prevent Blindness, established in 1908, is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

A LITTLE COOPERATION is all it takes to get a drink of water from the well at Camp MOE south of Thief River Falls. More than 100 Girl scouts are registered for the day camp being held there this week. The old pump gets the job done in bringing up cold water for thirsty campers but it does take a bit of energy and togetherness to get the job done. Cooperation is also required to conduct the camp session. Assisting the eight professional staff members are local volunteers including Eleanor Kuchowitz, Polly Edington, Carol Peterson, Kathy Sundstedt, Connie Kuyath, Rose Schmitz, Arlene Huot, Carol Borchert, Janice Hendrickson, Kitty Cornell, Carol Novak, Gretchen Belto, Gloria Johnson and Jeanne Olson.

Summer Reading Program Begins Mon. At Library

Children in Thief River Falls are invited to join the Northwest regional library's "Quest to Daer", a summer reading and activity program scheduled to begin Monday, July 2, at the headquarters library, 101 East 1st Street, Thief River Falls.

July 2 from 2-3 p.m. a "Depart to Daer", program will be held. Featured in the program is an introduction to the "Quest" including an explanation of the reading program and an opportunity to register for it.

Also in the program are stories and games for children of different ages as well as a Laurel and Hardy film, "Their First Mistake," which begins with Ollie adopting a baby to keep his wife busy.

Registration for the program is not necessary, but more information can be obtained by calling the library at 681-4325.

Tunheim Heads Minnesota Law Review Board

John Tunheim, a native of Newfolden, was recently selected president of the board of editors of the Minnesota law review. Tunheim, a third-year student at the University of Minnesota law school, will direct the publication of Volume 64 of the review.

The review, established in 1917, is a legal journal that publishes articles by leading experts in their fields, as well as student-prepared notes and comments on recent legal developments.

Tunheim is a 1971 graduate of Marshall county central high school in Newfolden, and a 1975 graduate of Concordia college in Moorhead. He was a member of the staff of the late Senator Hubert H. Humphrey from 1975-1978. He and his wife, Kathy, currently live St. Paul.

Times Changes In Publication Dates Listed

Because of the Independence Day holiday on Wednesday, July 4, the Times must make two changes in publication dates. The issue of July 4 will be printed on Tuesday, July 3 and the issue of Monday, July 2, will be printed on Saturday, June 30.

Advanced deadlines for the two issues will make it necessary to obtain early advertising and news copy for both papers.

Secretary Bergland

U.S. Secretary Of Agriculture To Speak Here

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland will be in Thief River Falls Saturday evening to address a fund-raising dinner sponsored by the Gene Wenstrom volunteer committee. The dinner will be held at 8 p.m. at Lon's restaurant.

The fund raiser is one of several being held in the Seventh Congressional district that day for Wenstrom, unsuccessful candidate for Congress in the last election.

Tickets are available locally from Pennington county DFL officers at $50 per person or $75 per couple. Persons planning on attending are asked to get their tickets as early as possible to permit a better attendance estimate.

Secretary Bergland, a native of Roseau, served as Congressman from this area several terms prior to resigning to accept appointment by President Jimmy Carter to the post of U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. He is expected to spend about a week of vacation time in the area.

Hearing Scheduled On Street Projects

Preliminary project report for proposed 1979 street improvements was presented to the Thief River Falls city council by city engineer Doug Stewart at a regular meeting of that group held Tuesday, June 26. Total cost of the proposed work was estimated at $1,130,395, $469,245 of which is eligible for the use of state aid funds. The remaining $661,150 would be classified as city work and be assessed back to the property owners.

Council members accepted the report of the engineer and set July 23 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed projects. The hearing will convene at 7 p.m. and include discussion on both proposed bituminous surface maintenance program and street construction.

Included in the resurfacing program are portions of Atlantic Ave., Sixth St., Arnold Ave., First St., Nora St., Spruce Ave. as well as resurfacing of all 1957 projects and the east side 1962 paving. Total cost of the bituminous surface maintenance program would be $296,895, 53 per cent or $181,245 of which would be eligible for the use of state aid funds The remaining $115,650 would be city cost assessed back to property owners.

Proposed 1979 street construction includes a $85,000 project on Oriole Ave., Cardinal Ave. and Cardinal Drive; a $29,000 project on Kendall Ave. from Third St. to Taft St.; a $42,000 project on Merriam Ave. from First St. to Third St.; and a $11,000 state aid project on Fourth St. from the Burlington Northern tracks to Brooks Ave.

Also: a $24,000 state aid project on Brooks Ave. from Third St.—to—Fourth St.; a $42,000 project improving the arena parking lot; a $40,000 project on Columbia Ave. from Greenwood St. to Parkview St.; a $41,000 project on Jerome St. from Columbia Ave. to north of Greenwood St.; a $4,500 state aid project on Barzen Ave. from Third St. to Sixth St.; a $70,000 project in the Greenwood cemetery; and a $253,000 project on Greenwood St. from Pennington Ave. to Kendall Ave. and Crocker Ave. to Spruce Ave.

Also included in the street construction proposed project list are $192,000 of alley improvements including the following alleys: Second St. to Third St. between LaBree Ave. and Horace Ave., Third St. to Fourth St. between LaBree Ave. and Main Ave., Second St. to Third St. between Main Ave. and Knight Ave., and the alley south of First St. between Northwestern hospital and Bridgeman's.

In other business, the council discussed the warrant for a traffic light on highway 59 and First St. and passed a resolution requesting MNDOT to go ahead with necessary steps to acquire the light. Cost for the light would be split on a 50-50 basis by the city and the state.

Executive vice president of the chamber of commerce, Norm Cruse, was in at-

COMMENDATION from Gov. Albert Quie for his service to Pennington county and state of Minnesota in civil defense was given to Ellsworth Jorgenson of Thief River Falls Tuesday. Jorgenson (right) received the certificate of commendation from Henry Jung of Bemidji, Minnesota emergency services coordinator for MES region three. Jorgenson has been county civil defense director since 1966 and served as deputy director for seven years prior to that time. Gov. Quie's commendation cites Jorgenson for "outstanding service to the people of Pennington county" and notes that he "was instrumental in developing the impressive emergency response capability of Pennington county's civil defense organization and has labored effectively when needed to obtain disaster assistance for the citizens of his area."

School Board Approves 1979-80 Budget Monday

School district 564 in Thief River Falls adopted a 1979-80 expenditure budget of $6,569,847 Monday evening and set in motion a procedure to levy an additional half-mill of local taxes to provide operational income for the 1980-81 school year. Action took place at the regular meeting of the board in the school district service center.

Adoption of the $6,569,847 expenditure budget and $6,510,780 revenue budget took place through a resolution which also noted that the board of education will review the expenditure budget following salary settlements and a capital related decisions and the revenue budget following fall pupil enrollment count.

Business manager Harry Nelson noted that the budget adopted is exclusive of the area vocational-technical institute budget which was adopted at the previous meeting. That revenue and expenditure budget is balanced at $1,770,339 and includes primarily reimbursable items.

The half-mill local levy proposed by the board for 1980-81 would produce approximately $30,000 locally. Through the procedure established by the 1979 legislature, whereby school districts levying up to one-half mill may be subsidized by the state up to $27.50 per pupil unit, the local district could receive $66,250 in state funds. Net effect of the half-mill local levy would thus be the availability of $96,250 for the school district to use for 1980-81 operations.

A hearing on the proposed half-mill increase was set for Monday, July 23, at 8 p.m. in the school district service center. Following that hearing date, the public would have 20 days to petition for a referendum on the question. If such a petition is not forthcoming, the levy will be put into effect by the county auditor.

Business manager Nelson said that the budget prepared for board approval Monday is based on financial information available through June 25. In all the expenditure reports an estimated salary increase was included. Since salaries are the largest part of the school budget, adjustments will be necessary as salary settlements are reached.

Nelson also emphasized that no funds had been budgeted for substantial capital expenditures on buildings, such as demolition of the Old Washington building in the Lincoln high school complex or major remodeling proposed for Knox elementary school. "Because of our current negative fund balance in capital outlay," Nelson said, "we can not finance such expenditures out of fund balance."

Budget approval by July 1 is necessary for the district to be in compliance with state law.

Comparison of 1979-80 budget with the current operating year's budget is complicated by funding changes made by the legislature and accounting changes made to include a community services area in the local budget. Some funds previously included in other areas of the budget have been transferred to the community services area and some new funds are included in that budget division.

Revenue budget for 1979-80 shows general fund increase from $4,752,547 last year to $5,006,442 in 1979-80 for a dollar increase of $253,895 or 5.3 per cent. Transportation fund increased from $354,018 to $455,419, a jump of $101,401 or 28.6 per cent, with about 21 per cent of that figure involving a fund for school bus purchase.

Debt service increased from $176,441 to $180,847 — up $4,406 or 2.5 per cent. Reductions were noted in food services from $298,475 to $294,656 ($3,819 or 1.3 per cent) due to change in vocational school meals from the AVTI to a joint arrangement with Northland community college. Capital area of the budget declined from $272,189 to $263,160 (3.3 per cent) due to a reduction in pupil units from 1978-79 to 1979-80. Community services revenue was budgeted for the coming year at $297,956.

Expenditure budget shows an increase in the general fund of $173,805 or 3.6 per cent from $4,787,769 to $4,961,574. Food services had a 9.1 per ALIZA NOVACEK is a farmer's daughter who thoroughly enjoys tractor driving for farm field work. She was also an attendant to the Region One Northwest dairy princess this year and is one of 11 candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title. The 1979 Greenbush high school graduate is currently employed at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

Aliza Novacek Enters Pageant

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the second in a series of personal interviews with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the official Miss American preliminary pageant to be held July 28 at Lincoln high school. Other interviews and photos will be published in succeeding issues.)

If the old pun is true — that a farmer is a person out standing in his field — then Aliza Novacek is an outstanding example of a farmer's daughter. She is addicted to farm field work and tractor driving but has a list of activities at Greenbush school and in her community that would reach all the way from home to the south forty.

The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Novacek of rural Greenbush, Aliza is a 1979 graduate of Greenbush high school. She is five feet four inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has light brown hair and hazel eyes. Her talent number will be either a dramatic presentation or trumpet solo.

Aliza (pronounced ah-LEE-sah) had a fair amount of preparation for either talent number while in school. Not only did she play trumpet in the band for half a dozen years (except for switching to another instrument during a bout with dental braces), she participated in about seven school plays and had the lead role of Lilli in the school production of the musical "Carnival".

She sang soprano in the school choir and pop group for several years and plays guitar for folk masses and other functions at St. Aloysius church near Greenbush. A football and wrestling cheerleader for three years each, she won the most spirited cheerleader award for her school. Basketball and track participation were among other activities.

Class treasurer as a freshman, she was vice president of the school VICA club and vice president and later president of the Future Homemakers of America chapter there. Between activities she was typist for the school annual.

Winner of most improved vocal award and most outstanding drama student award, she is listed in "Who's Who in Music". Selected from among FHA members to be chapter sweetheart for the Future Farmers of America chapter at Greenbush, she was also selected as an alternate to the Region One dairy princess at Northwest dairy day in Thief River Falls June 12.

When the field work is done at home, Aliza loves to dance, participate in softball or football games or go camping, motorcycling or fishing. She is

Boman Bond Set At $100,000 In Murder Case

Making his first appearance in Pennington county district court on Monday afternoon, Paul Walter Boman had bond set at $100,000 by Judge Warren A. Saetre. He is in custody at the Pennington county law enforcement center.

Boman was indicted June 15 by a Pennington county grand jury of 22 members on a charge of murder in the first degree. He is charged with the shotgun slaying of Duane Morben of Thief River Falls at Morben's mobile home on June 11.

Amateur Talent Contest Slated At County Fair

With $200 in prize money to be awarded from first through fifth place, the amateur talent contest to be held during the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls is being announced this week. Co-chairmen for the event are Mike Lehrer and Doug Engstrom.

First 15 entries to be received in person or by mail will be accepted for the contest to be held Thursday, July 19, at 7:30 p.m. in front of the grandstand at the county fair. All entries should be brought or sent to Larson Music company, 217 LaBree av. N., in Thief River Falls.

Prize money for the contest will be divided with $75 for first place, $50 for second, $35 for third, $25 for fourth and $15 for fifth place, the co-chairmen said. Anyone is eligible to enter and there is no age limit but all entrants must be strictly amateur.

Registration forms are available at Larson Music company. Talent performances are to be limited to four minutes and contestants are to bring any equipment which they might need to perform their talent numbers. Piano, microphones and sound system will be provided.

Women's Aglow Fellowship To Hear O. Marth

Oscar Marth of Detroit Lakes, an evangelist and teacher, will be guest speaker at the meeting of Women's Aglow Fellowship set for Friday at 7:30 p.m., at the City Auditorium meeting room.

Marth was born in Yugoslavia to German Parents. At the age of 24, he moved to Canada; and from 1960-64, he and his family lived in Austrilia, where he ministered to Germans who had moved there from Europe. The following 10 years, they lived in Canada. Since then, he and his wife and their seven daughters have formed a singing ministry and have traveled throughout the United States and Canada.

Women of all faiths are welcome to attend meetings of Women's Aglow Fellowship, an interdenominational, worldwide organization of charismatic women, under the authority and protection of leaders in the charismatic renewal. One of its purposes is to encourage women to be members of and to participate in their local churches. The Fellowship is not a substitute for, nor in competition with, any local church or demoninational group.

State Epilepsy League Wins National Prize

Minnesota Epilepsy League (MEL), a United Way member agency, won an award for its self-help program at the Epilepsy Foundation of America's annual national conference in Washington, D.C.

Pat O'Keefe started MEL's self-help program in 1975, and has written a booklet on the subject entitled "Helping Other Persons with Epilepsy." In the self-help groups, MEL offers the opportunity to understand the medical aspects of the disorder. Group members come to grips with the psycho-social aspects, as well.

O'Keefe says, "It's hard for people to deal with something they don't understand." As group members build their knowledge of epilepsy, they begin to lay a foundation for the development of self-confidence.

MEL maintains self-help groups, some run by volunteers, in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Duluth, Mankato, St. Cloud and Brainerd. MEL plans to start groups this fall in Thief River Falls, Winona, Moorhead, Grand Rapids, Faribault, Crookston and some range communities.

MEL, which also offers other services, is located at 404 S. 8th St., Minneapolis, Minnesota, 55404; telephone: (612) 340-7630. A statewide agency, MEL receives United Way funding in all 87 Minnesota counties.

J. M. Anderson, Conductor For Soo Line, Dies

James M. Anderson, 59, of 320 North Merriam, a conductor on the Soo Line railroad, died unexpectedly on Tuesday at his lake cottage on Springsteel Island, near Warroad.

Funeral services for James Anderson will be held Friday at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist church with Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir officiating.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home, beginning Thursday at 3 p.m., and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

Rites Held At Thief Lake For Evald Henning

Funeral services for Evald Erick Henning, 76, of rural Middle River, were held Wednesday, June 20, at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Thief Lake. Henning, who had been in ill health for the past six months, died Sunday afternoon, June 17, at his home in Thief Lake township, Marshall county.

Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the Services. Mrs. Hjalmer Hanson was the organist and Miss Audrey Beito and Mrs. Elwood Beito sang. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of arrangements.

Evald Erick Henning, a son of the late Jone and Emma Henning, was born June 29, 1902 in Thief Lake township, Marshall county, near Middle River. He was a lifetime resident of the Thief Lake area, where he attended school, operated a mink farm during the 30's, and was engaged in farming.

Henning was an avid hunter and outdoorsman and was a long-time member of the Gatzke Sportsman's club. He was also a member of Our Savior's Lutheran church at Thief Lake.

Surviving are a brother, Alvin Henning, Thief River Falls; three sisters: Vye Henning, also of this city; Mrs. Al (Alice) Clark, Minneapolis, and Mrs. C.J. (Hazel) Blom, Middle River; a step-brother, Walter Anderson, New Richmond, Wis.; and one step-sister: Mrs. Edna Haugen, St. Paul.

He was preceded in death by two sisters, three brothers, a step-brother and one step-sister.

J. Adamski Services Held At Strandquist

Joseph R. Adamski, Sr., 54, of Strandquist, father of Mrs. Thomas Puppe, Mrs. Dewey Hanson, Jr., Mrs. Darrel Mehrkens and Roberta Adamski, all of Thief River Falls, died unexpectedly Friday evening at the United Hospital in Grand Forks, N.D.

Funeral services for Joseph Adamski, Sr., were held Tuesday at 9 a.m., at St. Edward's Catholic church in Strandquist. Rev. Duane Pribula offered the Mass. Interment was in the Assumption Catholic church at Florian with the Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, in charge of arrangements. Military honors were accorded by members of the Middle River American Legion post.

Joseph Robert Adamski, a son of the late Joseph and Helen Adamski, was born Jan. 11, 1925 at Stephen. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Stephen and Florian communities and was baptized and confirmed in the Catholic church at Florian.

He served in the U.S. Army in Germany during World War II. Following his discharge in January of 1947, he returned to the Stephen-Florian community.

On Jan. 27, 1948, he was united in marriage to Esther Dolney at Greenbush. The couple made their home in various communities in North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota during Adamski's employment in the construction business. For the past five years, he had made his home at Strandquist.

He was a member of the Middle River American Legion post and St. Edward's Catholic church, Strandquist.

He is survived by his wife; five sons: Joseph, Jr., Williston, N.D.; Jerome, Strandquist; Alan, East Grand Forks; and Phillip and Lloyd, both of Crookston;

Also eight daughters: Mrs. Kenneth (MaryAnn) Johnson, Greenbush; Mrs. Palmer (Audrey) Rud, Strandquist; Mrs. Thomas (Zeffy) Puppe, Mrs. Dewey (Teresa) Hanson, Jr., Mrs. Darrel (Pat) Mehrkens, and Miss Roberta Adamski, all of Thief Riever Falls; and Josephine and Adeline, both of Crookston; and 13 grandchildren;

Also three brothers: Harry and Peter Adamski, Sr., of Stephen, and Steve of Strandquist; and four sisters: Mrs. James (Bernice) Sullivan, California; Mrs. Francis Novak and Mrs. George (Zeff) Kuznia, both of Argyle, and Mrs. Henry (Kay) Nelson of Newfolden.

One daughter, three brothers and three sisters preceded him in death.

Johanna Pjerce Services To Be Held At Halma

Mrs. Johanna Pierce, 87, of this city, a resident of the Skylite apartments, died Monday morning at Northwestern hospital, where she had been a patient for several days.

Funeral services for Mrs. Johanna Pierce will be held Thursday at 10 a.m., at the Eidsvold Lutheran church in Halma with Rev. J. M. Hovland, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, officiating. Mrs. Michael Follond will be the organist and Mrs. Loren Germundson, the soloist. Interment will be in the Karlstad cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Ron Gerardy, LaMar Johnson, Larry Lundbohm, Dennis Morrison, Richard Vigstol and Franklin Skappel.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home, where a prayer service will be held tonight (Wednesday) at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Pierce, the former Johanna Skappel, was born Feb. 26, 1892 in Thompson township, Kittson county, to Lars and Mathilda Bragline Skappel. She was baptized in the local school house by a circuit rider pastor and was confirmed in the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Thompson township. She received her schooling at Hallock.

On Oct. 3, 1909, she was married at her parental home to Arthur (Archie) Pierce. Following their marriage, the couple worked for a number of years on a farm. Her husband entered the service during World War I, became ill, and was hospitalized on the West Coast for the remainder of his life. During that time, Mrs. Pierce lived for several years with her mother on the family farm. Later, she lived for a time at Lake Bronson and then moved to Halma, where she resided for 20 years. Seventeen years ago, she came to this city and for the past eight years, had been a resident at the Skylite apartments.

She was a member of the Eidsvold Lutheran church at Halma.

Surviving are a daughter-in-law, Florence Pierce, Thief River Falls; a son-in-law, Lyle Dagon, Kennedy; 11 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren, and one sister, Anna L. Carlson, Crookston.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by a son, Harold, one daughter, Mrs. Mildred Dagon; a grandchild, four great-grandchildren, one brother, Joe, and a sister, Laura.

Peter Englund Services Held At Karlstad

Peter C. Englund, 69, of Karlstad died Tuesday morning, June 19, at the Veterans Administration hospital in Fargo, N.D.

Funeral services for Peter C. Englund were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the First Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Donald Peterson officiating. Kirstin Olson was the organist and Mr. and Mrs. Ingolf Ingebrigtsen sang. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery with military honors accorded by the Karlstad American Legion post. The Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements.

Peter Clifford Englund was born Dec. 10, 1909 in Arveson township, Kittson county, near Karlstad, to Lars and Ericka Englund, now deceased. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Karlstad community.

He was a veteran of World War II. Following his discharge from the U.S. Army in 1945, he returned to Karlstad. He worked for several years as a lumberjack near Orr and later was employed in the Karlstad area for many years as a carpenter.

On Oct. 25, 1975, he was united in marriage to Margaret Olson. Since then, they have made their home at Karlstad.

He was a member of the Karlstad American Legion post and the Thief River Falls VFW.

Surviving are his wife, a step-daughter: Mrs. Claus (Marlene) Pearson of Karlstad; three grandchildren; Marelyn, Joycelyn and Jonathan Pearson; three sisters: Mrs. Ruth Stearns, Grand Marais; Mrs. Martha Bjornson, San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Bob (Jewell) Grover, Warroad; and three brothers: Nimrod and Clarence Englund, both of Karlstad, and Wayne of Perham.

Two sisters preceded him in death.

Ida Hanson Services Held At Viking

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Hanson, 78, of Newfolden and formerly of Viking, were held Monday at 2 p.m., at the Viking Covenant church. Mrs. Hanson died Friday at Oakland Park Nursing home where she had been a resident this past winter.

Officiating at the services were Rev. Sheldon Lorenson, pastor of the Covenant church, and Rev. Earl Eveland, pastor of the Evangelical Free church at Newfolden. Mrs. Larry Gustafson was the oragnist and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson sang. Interment was in the Viking cemetery. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Halward Anderson, Duane Hansen, Marvin Johnson, Charles Busall, Lloyd Fagerstrom and Robert Fagerstrom.

Mrs. Hanson, the former Ida Anderson, was born Nov. 5, 1900 in Comstock township, Marshall county to John and Christine Anderson. She attended school and grew to womanhood in that community. On Dec. 16, 1926, she was united in marriage to Edward H. Hanson. The couple lived and farmed in Marsh Grove township, near Viking. While living there, they were members of the Viking Covenant church and were known in the area for their musical contributions in various churches and the radio program, "Rural church of the Air." After the death of her husband in 1962, Mrs. Hanson lived at Viking until the following year, when she moved to Newfolden. While living there, she was a member of the Evangelical Free church.

She is survived by one son, Wallace Hanson, Viking; three daughters: Mrs. James (Ruth) Tostrop, Newfolden; Mrs. Erhard (Violet) Woetzel, Dassel; and Mrs. Paul (Dorothy) Waterworth, Kalona, Iowa; 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

In addition to her parents and husband, she was preceded in death by one son, two brothers and three sisters.

Helen Larmoe Services Held At Thief Lake

Helen Larmoe, 82, a longtime resident of Como township, Marshall county, near Middle River, died Tuesday evening, June 19, at the United Hospital in Grand Forks, N.D. She had been in failing health for the past three years.

Funeral services for Helen Larmoe were held Friday at 10 a.m., at Our Savior's Lutheran church at Thief Lake with Rev. Robert Amundson officiating. Mrs. Wayne Klemetson and Mrs. Elwood Beito were the vocalists and Mrs. Hjalmer Hanson, the organist. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Middle River, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Sanford Anderson, Archie Knutson, Floyd Jesme, Carroll Curtis, William Melby, Lowell Scramstad and Harold Brandon.

Helen Johanna Larmoe, a daughter of the late Christ and Sophie Larmoe, was born Jan. 25, 1897 at Ulen. As an infant, she moved with her family to a homestead on Como township, Marshall county. She attended school in that community and had since lived on the home farm.

She was a member of Our Savior's Lutheran church.

She is survived by one brother, Stanley Larmoe, Middle River; and two sisters: Gladys Larmoe, Middle River, and Mrs. Stella Hasse, New Richmond, Wis.

Services Held Today For Mrs. Susie Ginther

Funeral services for Mrs. Susie J. Ginther, 90, of Thief River Falls were held today (Wednesday) at 10:30 a.m., at the Belmont Funeral home. Mrs. Ginther died Sunday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir, pastor at the United Methodist church, officiated at the services. Mrs. Arnold Hammer was the organist and soloist. Interment will be in the independent Order of Odd Fellows cemetery at Monett, Mo.

Mrs. Ginther, the former Susie J. Hackney, was born March 14, 1889 in Oberlin, Kans., to James and Frances Hackney. She grew to womanhood there. In 1910, she was united in marriage to Roscoe Ginther. The couple lived at Oberlin until 1940, then they moved to the Newfolden area where they engaged in farming. In 1955, they retired from farming and became residents of Thief River Falls. They returned to Missouri in 1961 and were living there at the time of Ginther's death on Nov. 31, 1975. Mrs. Ginther returned to Thief River Falls in 1976 and since that time had made her home here with her daughter, Mrs. Nesland.

She was a member of the Methodist church and the Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are a son, Melvin Ginther, Monett, Mo.; her daughter, Mrs. Andy (Lucille) Nesland, Thief River Falls, 10 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Drullinger, Cope, Colo.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by a grandchild, four brothers and one sister.

Minnie Gjerde Services Set For Thursday

Minnie Gjerde, 83, of Thief River Falls died Monday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Minnie Gjerde will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., at the Green funeral chapel, where the body is reposing. Rev. Curtis Anderson, pastor at the Evangelical Free church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Melo cemetery, rural Angus.

A complete obituary will be published in Monday's edition of the Times.

Warren Fair Talent Contest Seeks Entries

Entries in the amateur talent contest which will again close the Marshall county fair in Warren on Sunday, July 22, are now being sought by the Warren hospital auxiliary which will be producing the event.

The fair association will offer $350 in cash prizes to three winners, with first prize being $200, second $100 and third $50. The first place winner will represent Marshall county at the state fair talent contest in August.

Contest rules are as follows:

Entries may come from within the seven county Region 1 area which includes Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Roseau, Kittson, Norman and Red Lake counties; Persons with any professional experience are not permitted to compete; and anyone who participated in previous years may compete again, with the exception of first place winners.

Registrations will be accepted through July 10, and the committee urges early registration to allow time to arrange auditions. The dates for auditions are July 11 and 12 at the Warren city auditorium from 7 to 9 p.m. both evenings. All contestants are expected to audition in order for the committee to better prepare the program.

Entries may be registered with any one of the following people and mailed entries should include the entrant's name and address and title of selection to be presented: Mrs. Violet Fillipi (phone 745-5325), Box 47, Warren, Mn. 56762; Mrs. Betty Westberg (phone 745-5119), 715 East Fletcher Ave., Warren, Mn 56762; or Mrs. Dorothy Teal (phone 745-4554), 213 East Fletcher Ave., Warren, Mn 56762.

Judging the contest will be Mrs. Dale Rokke of Newfolden, Mrs. Gerald Dalzell of Warren and Don Flaagen of Oslo. Acting as master of ceremonies will be Phil Thompson of Warren.

Food Stamp Cost-Of-Living Increase Made

Participants in the food stamp program will see a 6.8 per cent cost-of-living in their food stamps starting July 1. The average food stamp benefit will rise, from the current 33 cents per person per meal, to 35 cents.

Even though the cost of food has risen 7.9 per cent, the costs of the inexpensive foods recommended for food stamp users by the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) in its Thrifty Food plan have risen at a slower rate. This is why the semi-annual adjustment does not match the over-all increase in food prices.

Under the new standards, a family of four with no net income may receive $204 in food stamps, instead of the current $191. Of course, most households have some income, and their allotments are reduced accordingly.

Two other changes were made in the food stamp program by USDA to allow for inflation:

—The maximum income allowed for participation in the program was raised. For example, the maximum monthly income (after deductions) for a family of four will increase from $542 to $596 per month.

—Standard deductions used to compute that income will increase, from $65 to $70; and the combined deduction for dependent care and high housing and utility costs will go up from $80 to $90.

The new standards are as follows with household size, maximum income and maximum value of food stamps listed respectively: One per household, $306, $61; two per household, $403, $112; three per household, $500, $161; four per household, $596, $204; five per household, $693, $242; six per household, $790, $291; seven per household, $886, $321; eight per household, $983, $367; and each additional person, +97, +46.

For more information about the food stamp program, call the local county social service or welfare department. Or call the state's food stamp information line; 296-0190 (metro area) or 1-800-652-9747 (toll-free).

State Legion Auxiliary Sets Convention

Department convention of the American Legion auxiliary will convene at the Holiday Inn, downtown in Rochester on July 12-14 to review reports of the year's activities and establish programming for the coming year, according to Mrs. Margaret Lonergan, Lakeland, president of the Minnesota American Legion auxiliary.

Wednesday evening, July 11, at the Holiday Inn, a formal reception will be held at 8 p.m. honoring the national president of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Earl (Maxine) Bigalow of Medford, Ore. She is scheduled to address the auxiliary convention on Thursday morning.

Minnesota commissioner of veterans affairs, Donald M. Miller, will be presented with a check by Department President Lonergan to complete her project of providing $6,000 for outfitting the coffee shop at the Hastings Minnesota veterans' home.

At 3:15 p.m. Thursday, the annual department music contest for auxiliary choruses will be held in the grand ballroom. Friday, July 13, will be a working session, with the Girls state governor and department junior auxiliary president addressing the assembled delegates.

Saturday, July 14, Governor Quie will address the auxiliary and Legion sessions. Results of election of officers for the coming year will be announced and the new officers for the upcoming year will be installed.

Lambert In East Africa On Navy Duty

Navy hull maintenance technician second class Randy H. Lambert, son of Harold A. and Mildred Lambert of Thief River Falls, recently visited the East African city of Mombasa in the Republic of Kenya. He is a crewmember aboard the fast combat ship USS Camden, homeported in Bremerton, Wash.

During the visit, Camden personnel presented "Project Handclasp" material (including textbooks, medical supplies, seeds and fertilizer) to the Mombasa provincial commission as part of the navy's "People to People" program. The Camden's primary mission is supply replenishment in support of the Midway task group in the Indian ocean.

The Camden is 793 feet long, displaces 53,600 tons and carries a crew of 600 officers and enlisted men. She is designed to provide rapid replenishment of petroleum, munitions, provisions and supplies for other fleet ships while at sea.

A 1974 graduate of Lincoln senior high school, Lambert joined the navy in August of 1974.

Sunflowers To Show Growth In Popularity

Sunflowers are no rival for soybeans yet, but they are catching on far faster than soybeans did right after their U.S. introduction. Planned acreage is up a whopping 75 per cent from last year, which may push 1979-80 supplies over three million metric tons. Supplies this season total 1.9 million, according to the U.S. department of agriculture.

Farmers in the big four sunflower states (North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Texas) are planning on 4.9 million acres — with 95 per cent seeded to oil varieties (40-45 per cent oil).

Farmers grow sunflowers primarily on the northern fringes of the corn belt where soybeans and corn don't do very well, either because of the short growing season or too little rain during critical periods.

A hefty gain in prices over the past year has helped generate grower enthusiasm, too. No. 1 oil-type sunflowerseeds were selling for 13.8 cents a pound at Duluth in April, up from 10 cents a year earlier.

Sunflowerseed acreage gains this year will likely be at the expense of oats, barley and flaxseed.

The lion's share — possibly as much as three-fourths — of the U.S. crop will probably wind up in foreign markets. The big buyers are West and East Europe, Mexico and Venezuela.

Domestic crushing capacity is expanding, but there still aren't many mills handling sunflowerseed. Of the 15 processing sunflowerseed this season, two-thirds are cottonseed mills in the south which handle sunflowerseeds part-time. The remainder are in Minnesota and handle sunflowerseed from the Red river valley.

Highway 89 Detour Work Is Scheduled

Bids on 36 road and bridge projects, estimated at $24 million, will be received by the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) at the state transportation building in St. Paul until 9:30 a.m., Friday, July 6.

Included among the projects were bridge construction, renovation, deck repair and overlay, culverts, grading, bituminous surfacing and resurfacing, bituminous and aggregate shoulders, pavement widening, planing and joint sealing, high water warning system, traffic signals and signs, lighting, turn lanes, landscaping and salvage yard screens.

In Beltrami county on CASH 15, improvements call for bituminous surfacing and aggregate shouldering on 24 7 miles of county state-aid highway (CSAH) 15 at various locations between US 2 at Bemidji and TH 1 in Redlake. This road is to be used as a detour during TH 89 construction. Work is scheduled to begin August 13 and to be completed within 15 working days.

Fladeland Is Elected Wheat Council Head

At the June meeting of the Minnesota Wheat research and promotion council, Terry Fladeland of Red Lake Falls was reelected producer-chairman for the 1979-80 year. Kermit Stahn of Morris was retained as treasurer and Tom Runholt of Marshall was reelected secretary.

Because of increased pressures on movement of wheat from country points into export positions, the council voted to increase its budget from $10,000 to $40,000 for expanded work in the field of transportation. "We feel that movement of our wheat to the market is as important as producing it," explained Larry Bogestad, council member from Donaldson.

Research projects involving the University of Minnesota and North Dakota state university will cost about $130,000 and a major portion of the council's income will be spent in overseas market development through contracts with Great Plains Wheat, Inc., and Western Wheat associates, USA.

"We are confident that the 100-million bushel increase in overseas sales of dark northern spring wheat that has occurred since the council was formed just two years ago justifies our budget of $233,000 for overseas projects," Runholt pointed out.

Special overseas activities outside existing contracts will cost about $65,000 in Europe and Asia "We see an opportunity to expand our markets further and we are rushing to take advantage of interest in DNS," Terry Fladeland asserted.

Council officials have returned from Idaho where they attended a meeting of Western Wheat associates where one of the major discussions concerned the consolidation of the two overseas market development organizations into one group called "U.S. Wheat."

"Our overall sales promotion programs will be increased by this one organization. Minnesota has been strong for the formation of a single organization," stated Einer Satter, council member from Morris.

Weigel Finishes Sales Course

Darryl L. Weigel of St. Hilaire and a sales representative for combined Insurance Company of America recently graduated from an extensive training course held in the corporation's regional headquarters in Edina.

Earl A. Forte, senior vice president, said the unique training program is based on the positive mental attitude (PMA) philosophy and experience of the company's founder and chairman.

Action Dropped Against AMPI Dairy Co-Op

United States department of justice has dropped an action to cite Associated Milk Producers, Inc., (AMPI) in contempt for allegedly violating a 1975 consent decree, according to the cooperative's president, Irvin J. Elkin, Amery, Wisc. AMPI is a cooperative association owned and operated by diary farmers in 20 Mid-western and South-western states.

The government filed a contempt petition against AMPI on April 19, 1979, charging that the San Antonio based cooperative violated the consent decree under which it was operating, by discriminating against milk processors who bought milk from sources other than AMPI. The cooperative denied the charge.

Elkin said that representatives of AMPI had met with justice department officials and that their differences had been resolved. "It appears that our present milk marketing agreements satisfy the justice department in every respect, and we expect that the court will approve the justice department request for dismissal of the contempt action", Elkin said.

Outreach Week For Family Set At Battle Lake

Annual Outreach family bible camp will be held at Faith Haven near Battle Lake July 1 to 6.

Program is planned with Charlie Grier presenting the book of Revelation by means of a 6' by 16' chart; Randy Taber will speak on the timely subject "keys to cults." Joel T. Pederson, Outreach director, will be the evening speaker.

All campers are urged to register Sunday, July 1st between 4 and 5 p.m. or on arrival, the evening services are open to the public at 7:45 p.m. and morning sessions, Monday through Friday, will begin at 9 a.m. There will be a special July 4 service at 11:15 a.m. also open to the public.

Outreach sponsors a non-denominational bible school at McIntosh, where students attend from several states for the christian workers course and is recognized by the state department of education as a vocational school.

Seek Hosts For Visitors From Other Nations

Youth for Understanding, the largest high school student exchange program in the world, will place some 4,000 teenagers from 26 overseas countries with American families this August. "If you've ever wanted to expose your family to an experience in international living, we can help provide that adventure for you in your own home," says Youth for Understanding President John Richardson Jr., formerly assistant secretary of state from 1969 to 1977.

The non-profit organization matches teenagers aged 14 through 18 from Europe, Latin America, Africa or Asia with compatible American families. It places students in local schools, orients families and students, provides insurance and offers professional guidance from 20 regional offices.

"The year my family hosted a young European girl was perhaps the most enriching adventure in international living that my family has ever experienced," Richardson explains.

"As a family, we expanded our vision of the world, became intimately exposed to different cultures and countries, and developed a profound awareness of what it means to be Americans.

"One of our jobs was to introduce our student to American life. We were delighted to discover that she wanted to expose us as well to her European culture and way of life.

"Hosting was a meaningful adventure that the Richardson family highly recommends to any family, large or small, with teenagers or without, with an interest in developing a deeper understanding of international concerns."

Students and their host families receive support from nearly 1,000 volunteers in communities across the country. Families provide room and board; students, who come prepared with English language skills, handle their personal expenses.

For more information, contact Margaret McMillan in Washington, D.C., toll-free at (800) 424-3691, or contact the Youth for Understanding regional office at 4829 Minnetonka Blvd., St. Louis Park, MN 55416, or call 612-920-2415.

Knudson Takes Course At St. Cloud State

Kathleen Knudson, Thief River Falls educator, was among the participants in a public relations workshop held June 18-22 at St. Cloud state university. Knudson, a teacher at Lincoln high school, will incorporate the workshop information into the new senior high school mass media course next fall.

As a part of the mass communications workshop Knudson and fellow students became acquainted with a video terminal display computer and used the computer in creating a brochure. They also prepared a news release and a newsletter and undertook an additional project for graduate students. Classroom facilitators for the course were Dr. J. DeSanto, noted educator; Mary Oemcke, teaching assistant and St. Cloud public relations graduate; and Mike Likens, senior teaching assistant.

Additional Information

Additional information has been received regarding the "7 in 79" membership pins that were awarded at the recent Legion Auxiliary meeting. The pins were for each seven new members signed up. Lavonne Haraldson and Lila Quam each received one pin, and Constance Driscoll, who had signed up 14 new members, received two.

Ekeren Drug Receives Award

Ekeren Drug, Inc., of Thief River Falls has been awarded the Rexall trophy for the second successive year for having the most Rexall sales in the state of Minnesota.

Bob Ekeren was presented with a special trophy in the form of a reproduction of a 15th century Spanish mortar and pestle recently by Nancy Mayer, Rexall sales representative.

Theatre Group To Perform In Roseau Park

On Saturday, July 21, the Roseau County Historical Society, county museum and Roseau public library are sponsoring, dinner theater in the park. A pig roast dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., followed by the Commedia theater company presenting "The Physician in Spite of Himself," by Molier.

The world of medicine is turned up-side down when a simple illiterate wood-cutter is mistaken for a very famous doctor.

The Minneapolis based Commedia theater company is one of the fastest growing and most popular in the Midwest. As a touring theater that travels to seven states and southern Canada it has preformed both indoors and outdoors to over 30,000 people. The company is composed of eight actors and two musicians.

The evening of entertainment will be held at the Roseau city park and in case of inclimate weather, in the high school. Pre-sale tickets are available at the museum and Roseau library. Write or call 463-1918. For more information contact the Northwest Regional Library in Thief River Falls.

Durenberger Is Upset By Plan On Rail Service

Calling it "the most inopportune time to make major cutbacks in the nation's rail system," Senator Dave Durenberger says he will vote to reject the administration's plan to abandon service on 43 per cent of the nation's Amtrak routes.

Durenberger said he will do everything in his power "to improve rather than dismantle the passenger rail service."

The Minnesota senator also urged the administration and Congress to "develop and follow a coordinated, sensible national transportation policy.

"There are too many instances in which the administration promotes conflicting policy. The result is to leave the public in the dark and to short-change the citizens," he said.

Durenberger cited the rural transportation plan announced June 19 as an example of the administration's contradictory programs. "I think the plan to improve transportation services for rural communities is great. The proposals — rural public transportation, commuter air service, branch line railroad rehabilitation and ride-sharing — are among the things I have been urging for a long time.

"However, it's coming at a time when Amtrak, an important part of rural transit, is being slashed. The public is left not knowing where it's going or how it's going to get there. Certainly, we need more gasoline, better railroads and improved transit systems. But the public's greatest need is for more information on what our national transportation policy is going to be. We can't keep investing our money in fancy hardware when there are practical, necessary alternatives available."

Durenberger said Amtrak must be considered as part of an overall transportation system. "On February 2, I wrote a letter to Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams urging him to integrate Amtrak routes with a total surface transportation system. In the letter I said Amtrak should be viewed as a complement or supplement, not an alternative to other transit systems or vehicles, including automobiles and buses.

"The administration has not given the public a realistic long-range policy. The cutback plan was based on the assumption that ridership on long-distance routes would not increase significantly as the gasoline shortage worsened. The people standing in the long lines, waiting to buy Amtrak tickets, can tell you how false that assumption is," Durenberger said.

The senator said the repercussions of the cutback are particularly severe for Minnesota since two of the three Amtrak routes in the state would suffer curtailments:

The Empire Builder, which runs northwest from the Twin Cities through Willmar, Morris and Breckenridge, would be reduced from daily service to three runs per week; and the North Coast Hiawatha would be permanently discontinued, leaving the cities of St. Cloud, Staples and Detroit Lakes without access to passenger rail service.

"Minnesota needs a commitment to better service, not less service," Durenberger said. "The administration's reorganization plan does not address the long-term needs or problems that are plaguing the nation's railroads.

"To cut back nearly half our passenger rail service without a clear understanding of how that cutback affects our long-term needs would be a foolish and wasteful act," Durenberger said.

MSU To Hold Workshop On Glass Design

Workshop on leaded glass design will be offered second summer session at Moorhead State University. Classes will meet from 1 to 5 p.m. July 23 to August 3 in room 166 at the Center for the Arts. Students taking the workshop, however, must attend a 9 a.m. meeting there on July 13 to order supplies. A lab fee of $35 will also be collected then.

The course will survey design and fabrication in leaded glass, using original student designs in leaded glass panels. For further information, call the Moorhead state division of continuing education at 236-2181.

Plan Centennial Celebration In Crookston

Centennial celebration is scheduled in Crookston Sunday, July 1, through Sunday, July 8, with a variety of activities planned throughout the week. A fly-in breakfast planned by the Rotary from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the airport will open the centennial observance Sunday.

Among the highlights of the week are a variety show with Bob Gramer scheduled for 8 p.m. July 2 in the Central high school auditorium; a teen disco dance July 3 at 8:30 p.m. in the Eagles hall; fireworks July 4 at 10 p.m. in north Crookston; carnival July 3-5 at the First National bank parking lot; beard judging contest at 8 p.m. July 5 at the Eagles hall; and centennial road races beginning at 9 a.m. July 6 at Central park.

Main events of the centennial celebration are scheduled Saturday and Sunday and include a Miss Minnesota reception and luncheon at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Best Western Inn; the centennial parade at 1:30 p.m. Saturday; centennial pageant, "Crookston Chronicles" to be presented at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium; and the Central pageant Sunday at 2 and 8 p.m. at the auditorium.

Fuel Center Established For Pilots

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) has established a fuel coordination center for aviation, according to Lawrence E. McCabe, assistant commissioner, aeronautics, Mn-DOT.

Pilots can call (612) 296-6088 twenty-four hours a day for information on fuel availability at Minnesota airports.

"To assure current information on fuel supplies to meet aviation needs in Minnesota, we will be in constant contact with fixed-base operators (FBOs) who sell fuel," McCabe said.

Mn-DOT will actively work with fuel suppliers and FBOs to eliminate spot fuel shortages, he added. FBOs can call (612) 296-8059 if they experience problems obtaining fuel.

Taxpayer Group Likes Actions By Legislature

The 1979 omnibus tax bill enacts $710.2 million in various types of tax relief for Minnesota taxpayers. This amount of tax relief is the largest in Minnesota's history, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"Omnibus tax bill contains substantial tax reform; many of the provisions have been top priority of the Minnesota Taxpayers association", states Ed Kraus, president.

Highlights of the bill are:

(1) Income tax — Indexes the income tax for inflation; drops the top 17 per cent rate; increases credits; allows all out-state losses; exempts non-resident pensions; increases standard deduction.

(2) Property tax — Repeals limited market value; increases flexible homestead base; decreases homestead assessment ratio; increases circuit breaker; increases homestead credit; increases ag credit.

(3) Inheritance and gift tax — Repeals existing inheritance and gift tax. Enacts a new Minnesota estate tax with a $200,000 exclusion, full marital deduction, nontaxation of pensions, and elimination of the inheritance tax lien.

(4) Miscellaneous — Repeal of railroad gross earnings tax; enactment of a pollution control credit; enactment of a residential energy credit.

"The governor and legislature deserve plaudits for an excellent tax bill. We as Minnesota Taxpayers are especially pleased with the final results of the bill. We are more than pleased with the income tax, property tax, and inheritance tax relief which was enacted," Kraus said.

The girls had made prints of nature objects such as flowers, leaves and grass and were watching the images appear in a developing solution during an arts and crafts session.

Railroad X-ing In Warren Is Hearing Topic

A public hearing will be held Tuesday, July 17, to determine whether warning signals should be installed at the Soo Line railroad company crossing at TH 1, east of Warren, according to Larry McNamara of the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn-DOT). The hearing was originally scheduled for June 19 but had to be cancelled because of adverse flying conditions. Interested parties have been notified of the new hearing date.

Testimony on whether the present warning devices are adequate or whether some other type of warning signals are needed will be heard by a state hearing examiner at 10 a.m. in the Marshall county courthouse, Warren.

Affecting the determination will be train frequency, train and vehicle speeds, number of vehicles crossing the tracks daily, visibility in the area and the history of accidents.

After the hearing examiner's report is issued, exceptions may be filed by parties to the proceedings. The commissioner of transportation issues the final order adopting, amending or rejecting the report.

JEAN JUNCTION'S new owner, Sharon Garceau, was visited Friday by chamber of commerce ambassadors and received a "first dollar of clear profit" plaque for the business. Norm Cruse is pictured making the presentation.

'Rainmaker' To Open At MSU

Richard Nash's Western comedy, "The Rainmaker", will open this week as the third offering of summer theatre fare by the Straw Hat Players of Moorhead state university.

The laugh-filled play about a con-man who promises to bring rain to a drought-stricken Western ranch will open Wednesday, July 4, and run through Saturday, July 7, with curtain time at 8:40 p.m. All performances are in the Center for the Arts on the university campus with tickets on sale daily until curtain time.

State's Milk Valued Near $450 Million

Minnesota farm milk production during the first five months of 1979 generated almost $450 million in gross income for the farmers in this fourth leading dairy state, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin reported recently.

That is about $37 million higher than the farm value of Minnesota's $386-million milk production during the January-May period last year.

Commissioner Seetin said the increase in the value of Minnesota milk production "demonstrates that the penny is still an important economic factor. . .at least for this state's dairy farmers, who are averaging 1.6 cents more per pound for the milk they sold this year compared to the same marketing period in 1978."

January-May milk production in Minnesota this year is estimated at over 475.3 million gallons or 4 billion, 87 million pounds. During the same period in 1978 the state's milk output was higher by 37 million pounds or one per cent.

Based on officially estimated mid-month farm milk prices, Minnesota dairy farmers received an average of 11 cents a pound or 94.6 cents a gallon for milk sold this January-May, compared to 9.4 cents a pound or 80.5 cents a gallon averages for the same period last year.

Minnesota's dairy herd held at 833,000 milk cows during May, the same as in April. The May count this year was 8,000 above a year ago, and that was the first May in 17 years that this state's dairy farmers have increased rather than reduced their herds compared to a year earlier.

In May the average Minnesota milk cow produced 1,035 pounds of milk or over 120 gallons with an estimated market value of $112.81.

Refugee Crisis Is Concern To Sen. Boschwitz

An amendment passed by the Senate last week and co-sponsored by Senator Rudy Boschwitz calls upon President Carter to ask the United Nations' secretary general to convene immediately an emergency session of the general assembly to deal with the refugee crisis in Southeast Asia.

Speaking on behalf of the amendment, Boschwitz noted that comments on the floor "have lit a spark in my recollection because, not only am I an immigrant, but so is my wife. On the trip she made to the United States in 1940, the boat on which she was traveling was stopped by a German submarine and people were taken off, never to be heard from again.

"I also hope that the United Nations considers where the Asian refugees are to go. Twenty-two thousand emigrants came out of Vietnam in March, 32,000 in April, 60,000 in May; and the pace is now picking up even faster.

"This country is taking 7,000 of those emigrants a month. The rest of the world is taking only 3,500 a month of the people coming out of Vietnam. Not only do I hope that, in the councils of the United Nations some pressure is brought to bear on the Vietnamese to treat their Chinese residents with greater care, with greater humanity, but that it is also decided what is to become of these hundreds of thousands — 330,000 people, I believe to be quite exact — what is to become of those who are now in the camps of Hong Kong, Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia."

Seek Comments On School Meal Program

Public will have one additional week to comment on a proposal to give schools participating in the national school lunch and breakfast programs an option in the way they announce income eligibility criteria for free and reduced price meals.

Currently, schools participating in the USDA programs must notify parents of the income scales for both free and reduced price meals. The department has proposed to allow school food authorities that wish to do so to announce in the letter to parents only the maximum eligibility level for reduced price meals. All schools would continue to make both free and reduced price income scales available to local news media.

The proposal was published in the Federal Register on May 25. Comments should be sent to Margaret O'K Glavin, director, school programs division, USDA, Food and Nutrition Service, Washington, D.C. 20250, until July 2.

RLF Hospital Committee On Doctor Quest

Contrary to some beliefs, the St. John's hospital committee for physician recruitment has and still is heavily involved in physician recruitment for the Red Lake Falls facility, according to the hospital administration.

The committee, composed of 11 members, meets regularly each Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at St. John's hospital.

Presently the committee is communicating with several doctors and trying to work out details for a successful recruitment campaign. Many elements must be crossed and considered before a successful campaign can be witnessed.

The committee suggests that the best way to witness its activities is to attend one of its meetings. They are open and the committee welcomes attendance from interested people.

Goal of the committee is to recruit at least two to three physicians and also involve a physician's assistant at a satellite clinic in Oklee.

Farm Security Loans Made To Farm Owners

Announcing the approval of 11 additional applications totaling over $1.9-million this month, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin said that the state-guaranteed farm security loan program now has helped establish 140 new Minnesota farm owners.

Commissioner Seetin also reported that the 1979 legislature amended improvements into the farm security act that will increase eligibility for young farmers previously excluded by the impact of inflation.

"The legislature in reality indexed both the entry and the interest credit terminal levels of assets to the impact that inflation has had on credit, land, equipment, and production expenses of farmers during the past three years, that the program has been in operation," Commissioner Seetin said.

"Some of the applications not submitted, or tabled by the farm security advisory council, because the applicant's net worth exceeded the previous $50,000 maximum, may now be submitted for consideration under the new $75,000 maximum net worth."

He added that need for the state loan guarantee and the interest adjustment, along with the capability and management plan of the applicant will continue to be the major criteria for recommendation by the advisory council and the commissioner's approval of state-guaranteed farm security loans.

In addition to raising the entry asset level, the legislature also raised from $100,000 to $135,000 the net worth level at which the four per cent state advanced interest credit will be terminated on farm security loans.

Woman Guilty In Supplemental Security Fraud

A Minot woman, Marigold C. Necklace, recently received a $3,000 fine and was placed on three years probation for forging her sister's name on supplemental security income (SSI) checks, according to William Phalen, social security district manager at Grand Forks. Necklace pled guilty in Minot to 15 counts of forgery before U.S. district court judge Bruce Van Sickle.

Necklace's sister, Marjorie, entered Jamestown state hospital in 1974 and became ineligible for the SSI checks sent to her New Town address. Marigold forged her sister's name to checks totaling more than $2,000 instead of returning the checks.

In a more recent case in Utah a Salt Lake City woman pleaded guilty to getting SSI checks she was not entitled to. She will be sentenced July 12 and faces a possible prison sentence and fine.

Phalen said the purpose of the SSI program is to provide an income for needy persons who are aged, blind or disabled. Any indication of fraud or other abuse of this program is fully investigated and referred to the United States attorney for possible prosecution.

The successful prosecution of Necklace resulted from the combined efforts of the social security administration, the secret service and the postal service.

Planetarium To Feature Lunar 'Footsteps' Show

"Footsteps," a new planetarium program tracing mankind's dream and quest to reach the moon, will be shown at the Moorhead state university planetarium July 10-August 16, marking the 10th anniversary of the first step on the lunar surface.

The university has scheduled planetarium shows six days a week, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesday and Thursdays. Evening shows are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. Afternoon shows are at half price.

"Footsteps" will also be showing continuously from 1 to 8 p.m. during Moorhead state's annual Old-Fashioned 4th of July celebration.

The 50-minute planetarium program documents the formation of the solar system and explores why the earth and moon – each receiving the same amount of sunlight – are such radically different worlds. It looks into the age-old myths and reveries about the moon and then travels aboard Apollo 11 to the lunar surface.

"Footsteps" was produced by the Hansen planetarium in Salt Lake City with a grant from Rockwell International, NASA's prime contractor for the Apollo spacecraft and the new space shuttle. The show is being sent to nearly 500 planetariums around the world and is expected to be seen by more than two million people.

Besides the regular show times, "Footsteps" will be available for special group showings. Call Denis Mudderman at (218) 236-2141 for more information. The MSU Planetarium is located in Bridges Hall 153 on campus, near the intersection of south 11th Street and 8th Avenue south in Moorhead.

Aliza Novacek Candidate For Queen Title

also trying new sports, including downhill skiing ("I'm learning to eat a lot of snow!"), bowling and tennis. She also has been a CYO member at her church and taught pre-school religion classes.

Aliza has an older brother Marc, 19; younger brothers Dale, 17; Noel, 11; and Neil, 10; and a younger sister Marita, 13. The Novacek farm is located 11 miles northwest of Greenbush and includes a place called "the pond" where the family and relatives (about 50 in number) hold an annual three-day campout reunion. The pond is stocked with trout and a fish fry is part of the campout activity.

This fall Aliza will attend Northland community college in Thief River Falls with a view toward completing a four-year program in the health field. She is working this summer as a nurse's aide at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

School Board Okays Budget For 1979-80

cent increase from $338,003 to $368,595 – despite the elimination of AVTI food service – because of the rapid rise in general food costs.

Transportation expenditures increase as a budget item from $444,997 to $479,492, a jump of $34,495 or 7.8 per cent, due primarily to increasing gas prices. Capital expenditures are budgeted to rise from $238,034 to $265,342 (11.5 per cent) while debt expense drops from $170,004 to $165,550 (2.6 per cent). Community service expenditures are budgeted at $323,594.

In other business Monday evening the board approved the employment of George Sodon as recommended by the administration and approved summer school teaching positions for Christine Burnham, Marion Gigstad, Elda Hanson, Pat Klemisch, Jean Petterson, Walt Redinger, Bill Blankenfeld, Jack Boyer, Lee Broeker, Dale Folger, Patricia Johnson and Ed Krystosek.

Vernon Treat at Washington and Peter Tri at Northrop were approved for extra-curricular positions as school patrol advisors in their respective schools. Transfer for Douglas Engstrom to teach music at Lincoln and Northland community college was approved. Transfer was also approved for Walt Redinger from assistant principal and Title I and IV director at Franklin to Title I instructor at Northrop elementary school as per his request.

Reemployment for the 1979-80 school year was approved for Glenna Wefald, fourth grade at Mark Twain; Diane Marshall, one-half time kindergarten at Mark Twain; and Kathryn Trickle, Title I instructor at St. Hilaire.

Transfer was also approved for Lowell McDougall from sixth grade industrial arts to seventh and eighth grade industrial arts. Extra-curricular assignments were approved for Pam Burstad as Prowlins advisor and Charlie Cornell as assistant football coach.

Set Hearing On TRF Street Improvement

tendance at the Tuesday council meeting to seek the council's support in an application by Thief River Falls to the All American Cities award program and to request that the council be represented on a committee to be in charge of the application procedure. Application deadline for the program is September 4 and information on major community projects undertaken to deal with local problems will be a high priority item in the selection procedure. Council members passed a resolution in support of participation in the program and three members will be assigned to sit on the application committee.

At the request of Norm Peterson, hospital administrator, the council will proceed with closure of the medical office building fund. Farmer's Home Administration will be contacted to outline the alternatives for disposing of approximately $29,000 of interim interest project money. At Peterson's request the council will give consideration to applying that amount to the principal as an extra payment at the end of the year and to using the money to finish off a wing of the medical office building.

Council members also followed the recommendation of the planning commission and denied a request by Cliff Rohlf for waiver of platting; set July 16 as a date for a special meeting to review the marketing study recently completed by Brauer & Associates; granted a request by Northwestern Bell for a buried cable; and accepted the extension of sewer and water in Noper's second addition.

Council also granted a request to hold a wedding in Elk's park July 4; granted a raffle license to the Street Wizard's car club; referred a matter regarding the revision of the city wastewater ordinance to the city attorney; instructed the mayor and city clerk to execute the option on the coal sheds on site B; and referred a three-year agreement between the city and North Central to the city attorney for review.

A resolution was passed stating that Thief River Falls felt there should be at least two representatives from northern Minnesota on the League of Minnesota Cities board of directors and the resolution will be forwarded to the league.

A request for the transfer of the cigarette and beer license for Riverside grocery from Art Terrian to Bob and Gwen Brooten was granted; a resolution was passed asking that procedures be started for the annexation of the Kleinvachter addition in the southeast part of the city; and, following a request from the city building inspector for an increase in gas allowance, the council voted to provide him with a used vehicle now in the city's possession and provide gas for a six month trial period.

LOCAL NEWS

A group from the Setesdal valley in Norway arrived in the United States last week to visit relatives in Minnesota and North Dakota and to attend the Setesdal-laget "stevne" in Oklee on Saturday, June 30. They are Tarald Rike, student from Valle and Oslo; Sveir J. Homme, Valle; Torhild and Knut Austad, Ose; and Mr. and Mrs. Knut K. Homme, teacher and librarian in Valle. On arrival in Minneapolis they visited at the Dreng Bjornaraa home. The Austads also visited the Percy and Orva Bridgford home at Bemidji before going to Oklee; Svein Homme continued to Grand Forks; the Knut Hommes visited at the James A. Vellenga home in St. Paul (Vellenga is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Knut Rike of Oklee); and Rike attended the wedding of a St. Olaf college classmate at Odin, Minn. Rike, who attended the Setesdals "stevne" in Oklee two years ago, represents "Fedrelandsvennen", daily newspaper in Kristiansand, Norway.

Mrs. Thorvald Bjornaraa of Oklee left June 15 for Burnsville where she joined her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Bjornaraa and their daughter Jill on a two-week tour of Norway. They are visiting relatives in Bergen, Oslo, Kristiansand, Telemark and Setesdal. Bud is on the athletic coaching staff of Apple Valley high school.

Local Company Joins National Association

Northern Insulation of TRF, Inc., has been selected as a member of Insulate America, a national network of professional insulation contractors. Members are selected on the basis of their overall professionalism and dedication to the customer.

Marvin Johnson, president of Northern Insulation, said the dramatic increases in oil prices will mean higher energy costs for heating and air conditioning.

"Using a 15 per cent per year energy cost increase, which is lower than the national average for the last three years," Johnson said, "a homeowner who paid $500 in heating and cooling costs in 1978 can expect to be paying as much as $1,156 per year by 1984. Insulate America trains its contractors in ways a homeowner can reduce energy costs."

Brief callers Sunday with M Sgt. and Mrs. Jim Giles at the Mrs. Angie Larson home were Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Augustine and family of New Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz, David and Dean and her brother, Wayne Saurdiff, drove to Twin Lakes Saturday and spent Sunday at Mrs. Angie Larson's trailer home by the lake.

About fifty people enjoyed the Mud Lake tour and picnic held Sunday, June 24. Mr and Mrs. Lloyd Larson were among those attending. The picnic dinner was at the Agassiz wildlife refuge headquarters, where a program was also held. Mr. and Mrs. Larson visited at the Johnny Nelson home later in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson of Slayton spent Monday to Wednesday at the Inga and Hannah Halvorson home. They then went to Bemidji to attend the state postmasters convention.

Mrs. Emma Erickson attended funeral services for her brother-in-law, Leonard Erickson held at Redeemer Lutheran church at Thief River Falls Monday, June 18. He was 87 years old. Mrs. Esther Thorssen went with Emma.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Forsberg, Kimberly and Leah of Minneapolis spent Thursday to Sunday at the Ken Forsbergs.

Mrs. Charles Haugen of Brainerd and Mrs. Jeff Conradi, Angie and Shawn of Duluth spent Wednesday to Saturday with Mrs. Emma Erickson. Charles Haugen and John were also here on Wednesday and were dinner guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Berg and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ringstad went to St. Michael the weekend before last and visited at the Charles Anderson home and attended funeral services for Chuck's mother.

Harry and Orlean Watnems visited Wednesday afternoon at the Ted Nyland home. Stanley Swenson visited there Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Solien and boys from the Republic of Panama arrived last weekend to visit at Henry Solien's and attend their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Luverne Solien and family of Buffalo were also here for the weekend.

Thursday supper guests at the Peter Rutkowski home for Peter's birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Forsberg and grandsons Terry and Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Rydeen, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rettmann. Pete had two birthday cakes: one made by Mrs. Esther Thorssen and the other by Mrs. Rutkowski. Others who stopped over to wish him a happy birthday during the weekend were Art and Anton Boman, Art Johnson, Ed Emerson, Lloyd Pladsen and Ted Nyland.

"Summertime" was the name of the mother-daughter banquet held at the Lund church Friday evening and served by the Zion ladies aid. Sanna Brovold, president of Lund ALCW, welcomed the guests and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Russel Wierschke, president of Bemidji conference ALCW, who gave a very impressive talk on "prayers". Special music was provided by Kris Bergman, Becky Bursheim and Beverly Rustan. A fashion show by a group of ladies and directed by Sandy Steile was well presented, interesting and amusing. Rev. Russel Wierschke and daughter Gail gave a little skit talk with God. Everyone enjoyed the meal and program and an evening of fellowship.

RENTAL HOUSING INSPECTORS for the city began their duties Monday and have covered over half of ward one in their door-to-door survey to date. Although information will be recorded about all aspects of the rental units, owners and tenants should understand that minor or insignificant housing code violations will not be given major attention by city staff. It is the violations that might endanger health or safety that will be followed through on by the building inspector. Remainder of the information gathered will be used to assess the rental housing situation and plot strategy for correcting serious deficiencies. Chris Charlebois (left), one of the two employees conducting the inspections, is pictured with renter Kathy Hoeft going over the survey form.

Water Carnival Includes Mini Marathon At DL

Ten mile mini-marathon plus a four mile run will be held as part of the 44th Annual Northwest Water Carnival at Detroit Lakes sponsored by the Detroit Lakes Jaycees.

The marathon will be held Saturday, July 14, starting at 8 a.m. It will begin at the city park and the course will wind around Big and Little Detroit Lakes. Water and refreshments will be provided along the course route and after the race for all participants.

There will be division for both men and women in age groups as follows: 16 and under, 17-22, 23-28, 29-34, 35-39, 40-49 and 50 and over. T-shirts will be given to all contestants. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in each division, along with a trophy for the best time by a man and a woman. Ribbons will be awarded to all finishers.

The registration fee is $5.00 if paid by July 13 and will be $7.00 on the day of the race. Registration forms are available from the Detroit Lakes Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 456, Detroit Lakes, MN 56501, (Attn: Ray Gummer, Race Chairman). Those intending to participate are asked to register as early as possible.

DOOR-TO-DOOR SURVEY is being undertaken by the city to determine the seriousness of the sub-standard rental housing problem in Thief River Falls. One of two college students trained by the city housing staff in inspection methods, Marilyn Anderson (right) is pictured conversing with a city homeowner to determine whether or not there is a rental unit in her house. The students are moving through the city from wards one to five and spend 15 to 20 minutes in the rental units checking such things as plumbing facilities, electrical outlets, wiring, heating systems, ventilation, etc. The information they obtain will be computerized and used in making determinations about the nature and extent of the substandard rental housing problem in the city and to determine what methods should be employed to alleviate the problem.

Swimmer Itch Case Numbers At Normal Level

"Several cases" of swimmer's itch have already been reported in Minnesota this year, according to officials at the Minnesota department of health. Dr. Roger DeRoos, director of the department's environmental health division, emphasized that the cases do not represent an unusual incidence for this time of year.

Swimmer's itch is a common problem in many of the state's lakes during late spring and early summer, said DeRoos. The disease is caused by the larvae of a parasite which normally lives in the bodies of certain birds and rodents, including wild ducks, mice and muskrats.

These animals can leave large numbers of the parasite's eggs in the lake during the fall. The newly hatched larvae then invade the bodies of snails, where they spend the winter. In the spring, they emerge to seek a suitable host for their adult phase. Occassionally, the larvae will borrow under the skin of a human swimmer, causing a rash reminiscent of poison ivy or insect bites.

The swimmer's itch victim may feel a mild prickling sensation after leaving the water, and welts that look like mosquito bites may appear anywhere from 24 hours to two weeks later. The disease does not spread like poison ivy, does not cause blisters and is not contagious. Calamine lotion can be used to relieve the itching.

The larvae die within 24 hours after entering the human body, said DeRoos, and the disease is "usually no more serious than a rash of insect bites." He warned, however, that children may be especially susceptible to swimmer's itch, and some people may be allergic to the parasite. People with the allergy can experience itching, pain, fever and swelling for as long as two weeks, and they tend to become more sensitive to the parasite with repeated exposure.

DeRoos had some suggestions for preventing swimmer's itch. He recommended that people stay out of shallow water as much as possible, avoid swimming in the late afternoon or early evening, avoid staying in the water for long periods of time and towel themselves off thoroughly after leaving the water. He cautioned against swimming in a lake where there is a known swimmer's itch problem, and he suggested that people ask local officials to post warning signs.

ASCS Needs Reports On Crops Planted

Farmers who are enrolled in the 1979 set-aside program are reminded that Friday, June 29, is the final day to file a report of crops planted, according to Harold Kalsnes, chairman of the Pennington county ASCS committee.

Farmers who are participating in the program receive free disaster protection, guaranteed target prices and the priviledge of taking an immediate loan on their grain after harvest. Kalsnes reminds Pennington county farmers that to complete the sign-up process, they must file a final report of crops actually planted, and this report is due at the ASCS office on or before June 29.

A total of 768 Pennington county farmers are in the 1979 set-aside program, and they own and operate more than 211,000 acres of land. This represents more than 93 per cent of all the farm land in the county. More than half of this land will be planted to wheat, barley and corn, and nearly 23,000 acres will be taken out of production under the provisions of the wheat and feed grain set-aside program.

Reports of crops actually planted for 1979 can be filed at the ASCS office on Dale street in Thief River Fals. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Kalsnes reminds farmers that if for some reason they cannot get into the office by Friday, they should call the county office at 681-1612.

Elks Sweep, Merchants Split Doubleheaders

Winning pitchers Mark and Greg Harder gave up a combined three hits Tuesday as the Thief River Falls Elks swept a 13-15-year-old Babe Ruth baseball doubleheader at Roseau.

Mark Harder pitched a one-hit shutout in the opener won by the Elks 10-0. He also contributed offensively, collecting three hits and driving in four runs.

Greg Harder followed with a two-hitter in the second game won by the Elks 7-2 to improve their season record to 10-4 heading into a 3 p.m. game against the East Grand Forks Red Thursday in East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls Merchants split a Monday doubleheader for 13-year-olds at Crookston.

Crookston scored twice in the bottom of the fourth in the five-inning opener to claim a 3-2 come-from-behind victory. Losing pitcher Scott Johnston gave up just four hits, but Thief River Falls managed only three — two by Brian Kemnitz.

Thief River Falls rebounded from its first loss of the season with a 13-1 second game romp. Winning pitcher Bob Huot was credited with a one-hitter, carrying a no-hit bid into the fifth and final inning. Tim Bottem collected a pair of long doubles and Huot also had two hits in the Merchants' eight-hit attack.

Carrying a 4-1-1 record, the Merchants will be at East Grand Forks Thursday and at Roseau Friday for 1 p.m. games.

Mixed Doubles Softball Event At St. Hilaire

A mixed doubles slow pitch softball tournament will be played Wed., July 4, in St. Hilaire.

The eight-team event will feature trophies for first, second and consolation championship finishes.

Entry fee is $40 and should be sent to Bill Dormady, Box 81, St. Hilaire. For additional information telephone 964-5543 after 6 p.m.

TOM NEIBAUER delivered the pitch, John Bateman took a mighty swing and Neibauer, along with third baseman Scott Kleven, turned to watch the ball clear the outfield barrier for a home during Monday's fast pitch softball exhibition game matching world-famous Eddie Feigner, "The King and His Court," against the Crookston area all-stars at the Highland sports complex in Crookston. Neibauer, a member of the North Star Transport team in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league, pitched three innings against Feigner's four-man outfit that includes Feigner, the pitcher; Bateman, the catcher; Al Jackson, the first baseman; and J.R. Feigner, the shortstop. Kleven plays for Action Realty in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league. Bateman supplied all the runs with three towering home runs as the "Court" beat the all-stars 3-1 in a light-hearted game.

STAR ATTRACTION of "The King and His Court," pitcher Eddie Feigner, put his softball magic on display in Crookston Monday against the Crookston area all-stars that included three players from the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league — pitchers Tom Neibauer and Al Erickson and third baseman Scott Kleven. Feigner's remarkably active pitching repertoire, which includes a fast ball, drop ball, rise ball, curve and change of pace, entertained both the spectators and the opposition during the six-inning exhibition game won by the "Court" 3-1.

Unbeaten Legion Ball Club Hands Warren 10-2 Loss

First road game of the 1979 season netted the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team a 10-2 win at Warren Tuesday, extending Thief River Falls' season-opening Northwest League winning streak to four games.

Kelly Gutterud, who began the year with a two-hit, 3-1 win over Roseau, pitched a three-hitter yesterday to continue Thief River Falls' remarkable string of pitching performances by Gutterud, Monty Peterson and Scott Sabo. That trio has surrendered just four runs and eight hits to date.

Sabo, playing first base at Warren, highlighted a four-run first inning with a long bases-loaded triple. He scored himself on an error.

It became 6-0 in the third when a walk and two errors scored Sabo and a walk issued to Jeff Ulrich was followed by a stolen base and a sacrifice by Scott McKeever.

Warren scored twice in the fifth inning but then committed three errors in a three-run Thief River Falls sixth. Ulrich produced the final run of the game in the seventh when he singled, moved to third on an error and stole home.

Thief River Falls will continue a busy week tonight (Wednesday) with a 6 p.m. doubleheader against the Grand Forks Air Force Base on the fairgrounds diamond. Thief River Falls will then play single 7 p.m. games at Crookston Thursday and at Red Lake Falls Friday.

RLF Is Winner In Battle Of Unbeaten Teams

A match-up of unbeaten teams proved to be no match Monday as Red Lake Falls drilled the Schmidt Stealers 24-4 in Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league play.

It was the second win of the night for Red Lake Falls, a 17-7 victor over Ekeren Drug in the opener of the doubleheader that pushed the league leaders to an 8-0 level.

Brenda Laidley's seventh inning grand slam home run opened up a 14-4 Hydra-Mac-Toreq win over the Healthy Hustlers. Sandy Caribeau homered in the fourth inning for the winners.

Betsy Abrahamson hit a two-run home run to lead Great Northwest Agency to a 13-3 triumph over Rusty Nail. Kari Peterson homered for the losers.

In a defensive struggle, the St. Hilaire Saints edged Roseau Transport 3-0.

Chris Charlebois homered as Frist Federal Savings & Loan Association handled J & B Drug 17-2 while Pizza Hut slipped past the Farmer's Co-op Stingers 10-9 and Falls Clinic blanked Credit Bureau 10-0.

Wed., June 27 — (1) Ekeren Drug vs. Ridge Runners, 6:20 p.m.; Schmidt Stealers vs. Ridge Runners, 7:40 p.m. (2) Pizza Hut vs. Hydra Mac - Toreq, 6:20 p.m.; Roseau Transport vs. Credit Bureau, 7:40 p.m. (3) J & B Drug vs. Great Northwest Agency, Inc., 6:20 p.m.; First Federal Savings & Loan Association vs. Rusty Nail, 7:40 p.m. (4) St. Hilaire Saints vs. Falls Clinic, 6:20 p.m.; Farmer's Co-op Stingers vs. Healthy Hustlers, 7:40 p.m.

Raiders Widen Lead In Division I Standings

Front-running Rusty Nail Raiders swept a Monday doubleheader, handling Hartz 19-10 and knocking off Swenson Plumbing and Heating, Inc. 6-2, while the second place TRF Merchants managed only a twinbill split, beating Furuseth, Nelson, Inc. 9-3 but losing to Tony Dorn, Inc. 9-8 in eight innings, to open up a two-game gap in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association Division I standings.

Brad Kosel's third hit of the game, a run-scoring single in the bottom of the eighth inning capped a come-from-behind Tony Dorn, Inc. victory over the TRF Merchants who started with a 4-0 lead. Bobo Dicken homered twice for the Merchants.

Playing shorthanded, Wagon Wheel got by Hartz 10-8. Ken Lindquist homered for the losers.

Swenson, Plumbing & Heating, Inc. beat Arnold Realty 10-4 to complete Monday's Division I schedule.

In Division IV Monday, Phil Fore was 4-for-4 and drove in five runs to lead once-beaten Jean Junction-Rundell Electric to a 9-7 victory over Smith & Holthusen while Kmart rapped Tip & Ring 17-4.

In a struggle for second place behind the St. Hilaire Bears in Division II, The Get-A-Way passed First Federal Savings & Loan Association with an 11-8 victory when those two met Tuesday.

First Federal Savings & Loan Association started the night with a 13-1 romp over Dallmann Athletic, Inc., a team that managed to bounced back to claim a 7-6 verdict over Home Lumber.

Division III pace-setters Arctic IWA and Schumacher's Tireland were both 10-run-rule winners Tuesday. Arctic IWA (9-1) drilled McDonald's 22-10 with a 29-hit assault that featured a 5-for-5 performance by Doug Evjr and four hits apiece by Lee Brandt, Joe Taylor and Scott Johnson. Schumacher's Tireland whipped Consumer's Co-op Association 17-7.

The Club managed a Division III doubleheader split Tuesday, losing to Consumer's Co-op Association 7-5 but beating Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 7-6. Phase II defeated First Northwestern Insurance Agency 12-7.

Leaders Unseated In TRF Trap League Competition

Sjoberg's seven-week stay atop the Thief River Falls trap League point standings came to an end Monday when Sethre's Hartz edged the previously unbeaten leaders 119-118 behind Joel Olson who dropped just one bird while knowing anything less than a 24 would have failed to unseat Sjobergs.

The victory placed Sethre's Hartz into a first place tie with The Times, an easy 120-111 winner over H & B Oil, with 14 points apiece heading into the final week of the first half season shooting.

Sjoberg's fell into a three-way third place tie at 13 points with Arctic No. 3, a 115-109 winner over Noreen Development Monday, and Northern State Bank kept from a first place spot by a 117-117 tie with Pizza Hut.

The top four finishers in each of the league's two half seasons earn spots in the post-season city shoot.

In other Monday matches, Triple J Trap Co. beat Hible's Standard 118-105, American Legion edged Pepsi-Cola 118-117, L.B. Hartz Wholesale got by the Soo Line Hot Shots 121-119, the Cat Busters shaded the Viking Varmints 117-115, Marshallton Gun Club downed Wilson Brothers Co. 120-117, Auto Body Repair tripped Bjorkman's 113-111, Peterson, Biddick Co. upended Service Master 114-112, Arctic Spirit defeated First Northwestern State Bank Southside 117-104 and Northland Realty tipped Hydra-Mac 120-118.

Twenty-five straights were put on the books Monday by Jim Kotz, Northland Realty; Cordes Engel, Arctic Spirit; Jim Heckroth, Marshallton Gun Club; Steve Lappegaard, Soo Line Hot Shots; Pat Fischer, L.B. Hartz Wholesale; Fran Johnson, Triple J Trap Co.; and Sandy Wilson, Northern State Bank.

Members of the Thief River Falls Trap League were scheduled to visit Crookston tonight (Monday) for a club shoot, with Crookston shooters planning a return match in August.

First annual state championship two-man team competition buddy shoot will be held at the Marshallton Gun Club Saturday and Sunday. Spectators are welcome to attend the event, scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. both days, at Marshallton, located 12 miles north of Thief River Falls on highway 59, one mile west and 1¼ miles south of the ridge. A steak fry will be held after Saturday night's shooting.

TRF Competes In Horace May Baseball Meet

Annual Horace May invitational youth baseball tournament for 14-year-olds will be played Saturday and Sunday in Bemidji. The eight-team field includes the Thief River Falls Elks.

Opening round game Saturday will match the Bemidji Braves against Bagley at 1 p.m. and the Thief River Falls Elks against Red Lake Falls at 3:30 at the Bemidji State University diamond, while the Bemidji Lions play Park Rapids at 1 p.m. and Staples goes against Roseau at 3:30 at the Bemidji arena diamond.

Saturday's winners square off in Sunday's 1 p.m. semifinals, playing on the same diamonds they appear on in the opening round. The 3:30 p.m. finals will feature the championship game at the college and the third place game at the arena.

Brainerd, whose Blues and Golds won the past two Horace May titles, will not enter a team in this year's tournament, one of the oldest of its kind in the area.

Arm Wrestling Meet Set For Detroit Lakes

Fourth annual Can Am arm wrestling tournament will be held in Detroit Lakes Sat., July 14, as part of the Detroit Lakes water carnival celebration.

DALLMANN ATHLETIC INC.
118 LaBree Ave. No. Thief River Falls

Fast Pitch Leaders Will Face Each Other Friday

A three-team race for first place has developed in the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league where two of the contenders will clash Friday when unbeaten North Star Transport (5-0) takes on once-beaten Coca-Cola (6-1) at 9 p.m.

North Star Transport held on to its league lead Tuesday with a 5-2 victory over Action Realty. In Tuesday's doubleheader opener, Dallmann Athletic, Inc. got by Schmidts 3-1 to remain in title contention with a 5-2 record — with one of the losses being a forfeit to Coca-Cola.

Fri., June 29 — Melvies vs. Radio Shack, 7:30 p.m.; North Star Transport vs. Coca-Cola, 9 p.m.

But North Star Transport scored what proved to be the winning run in the top of the sixth when Neibauer put down a bunt single, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Johnson's sharp single to right. The winners added two more runs in the seventh.

Dallmann Athletic . . 3
Schmidts 1

Dallmann Athletic, Inc. managed just three hits off Schmidts pitcher Dean Lawrenz, but two of them were fourth inning home runs that produced a 3-1 victory.

Schmidts scored in the top of the first inning when Bob Tunheim doubled to center and came home on Mark Haats' single.

Dallmann Athletic, Inc. answered with a run in the bottom of the first as Randy Dallmann laced a one-out single to left, moved to third via a passed ball and a wild pitch and scored on an error.

Then in the fourth, Bruce Johnson drilled a 2-2 pitch over the left field fence for a 2-1 lead and one out later Dallmann smashed a 3-1 offering out of the park for the 3-1 margin.

Lawrenz retired the final eight batters, but Schmidts was unable to provide him with any offensive support over the final three innings.

N.S. Transport 5
Action Realty 2

Pitchers Tom Neibauer and Al Erickson, teammates for the Crookston area all-stars in an exhibition game against Eddie Feigner, "The King and His Court," Monday, squared off against each other last night, with Neibauer and his North Star Transport teammates beating Erickson and Action Realty 5-2.

North Star Transport began the scoring in the second inning when Bruce Johnson doubled to left and Mike Carriere golfed a 3-1 pitch over the fence.

In the bottom of the fifth, Harley Drees and Mark Thorstad keyed an Action Realty attack with back-to-back singles. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Tim Barris' game-tying single.

Remind Boaters To Use Lights After Sunset

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources reminded boaters and fishermen proper lights are required on boats after sunset.

Kim Elverum, DNR boat and water safety coordinator, noted that collisions over the last year have occurred when one boat could not see the other because it either wasn't equipped with lights or did not have them turned on. In one case, an accident resulted in two deaths.

Minnesota law requires all boats to display lights from sunset to sunrise when they are on the water and not docked or moored. Motorboats, under 26 feet in length, including fishing craft, are required to display a red and green bow light and a white stern light when the boat is underway.

When anchored, only a white light, visible from all directions is necessary. Non-motorized craft (canoes, sailboats etc.) whether in motion or anchored need only display a white light.

Elverum noted that inexpensive battery-powered lights are available for fishermen who do not have a electrical system on their boat.

"Using your lights at night", he concluded, "is probably the cheapest collision insurance you can buy."

Gamefish Stocking Experiments Made

Mark E. Canney
Univerity News

More than 300 million gamefish are stocked in Minnesota waterways last year, according to department of natural resources (CNR) statistics. Most of the fish stocked were walleyes, northern, and muskies, along with 150,000 to 175,000 stocked trout.

The reasons for stocking fish vary. Pressure on the supply of fish — more than one million anglers are licensed in the state last year — and lack of natural spawning areas are the two major reasons.

Much of the stocking of walleyes, northerns, and muskies is done in the lower third of the state where the lakes provide fine habitat for the fish but lack the natural requirements for spawning. Once the fish are introduced to these lakes, they do very well. But because the fish are unable to reproduce, the DNR must maintain the population artificially.

Spawning problems are only part of the reason trout must be stocked in the state's streams and rivers. Spring run-off is the main villain. As the winter snows melt, torrents of water engorge the tiny trout streams, literally flushing the trout out of the streams and transporting them to less habitable sites.

Maintaining high quality sport fishing in Minnesota is an expensive process in both time and money, but University of Minnesota researcher Edmund F. Graham's work on "Cryopreservation" may bring the expense down to a manageable level.

Graham, a professor of animal physiology at the university, has been studying freezing techniques to preserve fish sperm and eggs. Cryopreservation is used world-wide to preserve livestock reproductive cells. Graham and his colleague David Erdahl, supported by the federal sea grant program, are among only a handful of reasearchers working on the culturing of freshwater fish.

The DNR supplies Graham and Erdahl with fish that are ripe with sperm and ova. Graham and Erdahl strip the fish of their reproductive cells and freeze the cells with liquid nitrogen.

The cryopreservation has been done primarily with fish sperm, relying of the same techniques used to preserve bull semen. The fish sperm is "quick-frozen" with nitrogen, at a rate of 80 degrees Fahrenheit per minute down to a temperature of $320 degrees. Fish sperm frozen this way has remained viable for up to two years, Graham said.

"Based on past research, it is conceivable that the fish sperm could be preserved indefinitely," he said.

Graham and Erdahl are now working on procedures that will enable them to use the same freezing techniques on fish eggs. The eggs, like the sperm, are frozen after all water is removed from them and replaced with a cryoprotective agent. One of the cryoprotective agents used to keep the egg cells healthy during the deep freeze is ethylene glycol, the same material used in radiator antifreeze.

Graham and Erdahl have frozen fish eggs and sperm together in the laboratory to a temperature of 20 degrees Fahrenheit, and have successfully hatched the fertilized eggs after thawing and incubation, although "we can't tell when the actual fertilization takes place — before, during or after the freezing," Graham said.

Using this technique, Graham and Erdahl's success rate for fertilization of brown trout has been as high as 90 per cent.

In the past, the DNR has had to trap fish in order to collect the eggs and sperm. Once the fish are trapped, male and female cells are mixed and the resulting fry are reared in holding tanks until ready for distribution to lakes. For walleyes and muskies, the trapping procedure must be done every year. But if Graham's freezing technique is used, the necessity of yearly trapping would be eliminated.

Timing is another roadblock to successful trapping and stocking of fish. "The present method of trapping fish for eggs and sperm is pretty hit and miss," Graham said.

The fish trapped must be ripe — full of eggs and sperm, and ready to release them.

For the male walleye, the ripe period lasts only a few weeks; the female walleye is ripe for only a day or so.

Even in nature, there are times when the male and female ripe periods do not overlap. When this occurs, without some method of preservation the results can be disastrous, especially since the male sperm is active for only 17 to 30 seconds. Cryopreservation could enable the DNR to preserve the sperm until the eggs are available, Graham said.

Though quite different from walleye stocking, trout population maintenance could also be improved through cryopreservation.

Minnesota trout are bred almost entirely through artificial means. Large brood stocks are kept at hatcheries around the state, and their offspring are released at various stages of development.

Cryopreservation would eliminate the necessity for maintaining large brook stocks at every state hatchery, Graham said. Preservation of sperm would also make possible cross-breeding of species to develop stocks of trout with particularly desirable charateristics, such as rapid growth or resistance to disease.

According to Joseph Scidmore of the Minnesota DNR fisheries section, cryopreservation of fish eggs and sperm would eliminate many of the difficultures inherent in transporting fish to lakes and streams since frozen eggs and sperm could be kept refrigerated over time and travel.

"Another plus for the frozen cells is the fact that they will eliminate many of the handling problems," Scidmore said.

Polaris Plans For 1979-80 Race Season

Indecision in determining horsepower limitations and rules governing super stock, super mod and Sno Pro for the 1979-80 race season has had negative results for drivers of Polaris RXLs.

In a statement issued June 1 from Polaris Textron's division headquarters in Minneapolis, vice president of engineering John Dwyer said that because specifications for race machines were so late in being adopted by race associations, it is too late for Polaris' suppliers to manufacture units for the coming season.

"However, it does give us time to plan for the development of equipment for the 1980-81 season," Dwyer said. "Although making this announcement does not please us, we feel it is only fair to inform our independents that new equipment for super stock, super mod and Sno Pro racing will not be available from Polaris this year. And to maintain the strength of the sport, we believe it is best to advise the racers now so that they may plan accordingly for the coming year," he said.

He emphasized, however, that the support program initiated last season will not only continue, but will be expanded to include even more races across the snowbelt.

"The Polaris vans, fully equipped with tools and manpower to help our oval and cross country drivers, will again be traveling the circuits. Moreover, in addition to appearing at selected Sno Pro races on the new world federation of snowmobile racing circuit, the van, staffed with technicians, will expand its schedule to include races that are exclusively masters' events.

"The support program last season was greeted enthusiastically by our customers who race," Dwyer said. "But in limiting our efforts to Sno Pro, masters and cross country, many of our drivers did not receive the benefit of our technical help or reduced prices on replacement parts. By appearing at race sites this season that attract more racers in masters, cross country and enduros, we hope to include more racers in the support program. Our expanded plan also includes some races on Michigan's enduro circuit, where Polaris drivers won the prestigious 500-mile Saulte Ste. Marie event in early February," he added.

Because the race agenda has not yet been finalized by the association, Dwyer was unable to announce the van schedules. Complete dates and race sites will be named as early as possible to facilitate racers' planning for

Cross country racers may expect the same high quality technical assistance that Polaris has furnished for the past three years. Technicians will again staff the van; replacement parts at special racers discounts will be available to drivers.

"Our efforts to support our independents on the ovals and in cross country were most successful last season," Dwyer said. "Our independents' records in all areas of racing have been excellent, and we're confident that furnishing technical knowledge, price breaks on parts at race sites and use of tools that formerly supported our factory teams will continue to help these drivers win their share of the prize money."

Polaris cross country independents last season were also awarded purses won by the factory's only racer, Jomar Bernat of Roseau. Bernat, who races for research and development purposes, turned over nearly $5,000 in winnings to top Polaris independents on the cross country circuits. Dwyer said this program will be continued in the 1979-80 season to assure that the truest form of testing, competition, would remain a viable part of the Polaris race program.

STRIKING OUT at the hands of world-famous fast pitch softball pitcher Eddie Feigner is nothing to be ashamed of, and in fact can almost be enjoyable — if you believe the expression shown by Scott Kleven after he missed a Feigner offering during "The King and His Court" performance against the Crookston area all-stars Monday at Crookston. Kleven plays for Action Realty in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league. Catcher John Bateman, who hit three long home runs in the 3-1 victory by Feigner's four-man squad, returns the ball to the mound after Kleven went down swinging — and smiling.

Second TRF Cat Classic Golf Tournament Slated July 20-22

Arctic Cat Division of Arctic Enterprises, Inc. is scheduling their "Cat Classic" golf tournament for July 20, 21 and 22. Tournament director Jon Bolen stated "Last year's "Cat Classic" was a huge success and with the in*creased purse and additional* divisions, we're virtually assured of another fine turnout." Among this year's new features will be match play competition and women and junior divisions.

The three-day tournament, played at the Thief River Country Club and open to the public, will lead off with a Pro Am competition on Fri., July 20. Many of the area's top golf professionals will compete for a purse of $400 with a first prize of $150. Last year's winning professional, Paul O'Leary of Grand Forks, is expected to return to defend his title. Amateur golfers will have the opportunity to play with the pros and compete for merchandise prizes. The competition will conclude with a free outdoor barbeque.

Main competitive portion of the "Cat Classic" opens on Sat., July 21, to the area's men, women and junior golfers. The men's division begins with an 18-hole qualifying round and the first double-elimination match on Saturday. The semifinal and final matches will be played on Sunday. The defending champion, Thief River Falls Wade Hoppe, is expected to return to defend his title.

New to this year's "Cat Classic" is the addition of women's and junior divisions. Both divisions will play a nine-hole qualifying round and first match on Saturday and conclude with the final two matches on Sunday.

All golfers will compete for medalist honors as well as an increased purse of flight prizes. Additional prizes will be given in the long drive contest and closest-to-the-pin competition. Arctic Cat is again offering a snowmobile for a hole-in-one. This year a 1980 Pantera will be given to the "lucky" competitor on the 160-yard, par-three fourth hole.

Featured at this year's "Cat Classic" golf banquet will be Ron Schara, outdoor sports writer for the Minneapolis Tribune. As in the past all tournament golfers entry fees include attendance to the banquet.

Additional information about this year's "Cat Classic" may be obtained by writing or calling the Thief River Country Club.

A BOREAL OWL is now on display at the Agassiz national wildlife refuge headquarters. Although its name means "northern," the Boreal owl is only an occasional winter visitor in Minnesota. This small owl was found dead at the refuge headquarters and was mounted by Diane Morris, curator-naturalist at Bemidji State University. Visitors are welcome to stop at the Agassiz refuge headquarters during weekday office hours, 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Forest Service, Not DNR Has BWCA Details

U.S. Forest Service is the agency to contact for information on the Boundary Waters Canoe Area, not the Minnesota Department of Natural Reousrces.

The DNR said that from the number of calls received from the public regarding BWCA regulations and other matters relating to the wilderness area, there apparently is confusion over which agency has jurisdiction.

Information on the BWCA can be obtained from the federal information center in Minneapolis (phone 612-725-2073) or the U.S. Forest Service in Duluth (phone 218-727-6692).

Bass Protection

Several fishermen have disagreed with a recent column in which we stated that bass should be fished the year-round, but here is a quotation from the book "Outdoor horizons:"

"Bass are prolific spawners. Too little fishing can be more damaging than heavy fishing pressure. We have the choice of either harvesting the bass crop or contributing to the waste of natural mortality. A large percentage of the bass die of natural mortatlity. Too many Minnesota bass are stunted in growth because not enough of them are being harvested."

Minnesota law states that the bass season opens when the walleye season opens. This is up to the conservation director. He may delay the bass opener. But remember, the bass is a member of the sunfish family, which is fished year-round.

Grand Rapids Report

Fishing in the Grand Rapids area has been excellent. Here is the most recent Rapids Tackle Shop scoreboard:

Northern — 13-pounds, 4-ounces, caught by Lowell Meyer of Lyle in Leech Lake.

Liars Contest

Laurene Cozad of Owatonna, Dave Natwich of Twin Valley and Frankie Wethern of Shevlin were the winners of the 1978 Minnesota Outdoors lairs contest. If you have not yet entered the 1979 contest now is the time. Send your tall tale to Stu and Dee Mann, 104 South Meadow Circle, Burnsville, Minnesota 55337.

DNR Maintains Access Areas On 20 Rivers

Department of Natural Resources is maintaining access areas and campsites on 20 Minnesota rivers this summer, it was announced recently.

Maps of the rivers showing access sites, campgrounds, portages, rapids and river mileage are available without change from the Division of Parks and Recreation, Box 39 Centennial Building, St. Paul, 55155.

Another publication, "A Gathering of Waters", has maps and information on all of the designated rivers and is available from the State Documents Section, Centennial Building at a cost of $5.00.

Ray Masterson, DNR coordinator of boating and canoeing routes, says that the growing interest in canoes and kayaks can be seen by the increase in registration of such crafts within the state.

Registrations have jumped from 41,675 in 1972 to 101,322 in 1978.

Masterson said canoeists can get information on river levels and other stream conditions by calling 612-296-4776. The finrmation is updated weekly between May 1 and Oct. 31.

FREQUENTLY VISITED by campers at Camp MOE south of Thief River Falls is the old cast iron pump at the well outside the lodge. The pump requires some elbow grease to coax it into bringing forth its supply of refreshing water, but the result for a thirsty camper is well worth the effort. This camper is benefitting from another camper's efforts.

YOUTHFUL ENTHUSIASM is channeled into energy outlets such as active games during Girls scout day camp being held this week at Camp MOE. The girls are divided into groups and the camp offers ample space for each group to hold its activities without interfering with others. More than 100 youngsters are registered for the camp session.

CAMP DIRECTOR for the Girl scout day camp being held this week at Camp MOE south of Thief River Falls is Jan Nelson of Fargo, N.D. She is employed by the Pine to Prairie Girl scout council to direct the program. More than 100 girls have registered for attendance at the day camp this year, making it one of the largest such camps in the council. Miss Nelson is known among the campers by the camp name of "Twixxy".

Public May Apply For Vacancies On 7 State Agencies

Secretary of state Joan Anderson Growe is seeking applicants for vacancies on multi-member state agencies. In accordance with the Minnesota open appointments law, application forms may be obtained at the Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, 55155; (612) 296-2805. Application deadline is Tuesday, July 10, 1979.

Advisory task force for the Minnesota post-high school planning program has one vacancy open immediately for a member from the state university system for a term expiring June 30, 1980. The task force provides recommendations to the Minnesota higher education coordinating board on the administration of the post-high school planning program. Meetings are held monthly. Members are compensated for expenses. The appointing authority is the Minnesota higher education coordinating board. For specific information, contact Bettie S. LaDuke, 400 Capitol Square Building, St. Paul, 55101; (612)296-9681.

Advisory task force on bilingual education has one vacancy open immediately for a public member for a term expiring June 30, 1980. The task force makes recommendations to the state board of education concerning approval or modification of proposals for bilingual education programs and advises the board on the administration of duties under the bilingual education act. Meetings are held every other month. Members receive expenses in the same manner as state employees. The state board of education is the appointing authority. For specific information, contact Jessie Montano, Department of Education, Capitol Square Building, St. Paul 55155; (612) 296-1060.

Workers compensation court of appeals has two vacancies created by laws of 1979, special session, chapter 3, open July 1, 1979, for six year terms. Of the five judges comprising the court, at least three shall be learned in the law. The court exercises appellate jurisdiction in all cases under the Minnesota workers compensation law and other law governing public employees. This is a full time position. Members receive $36,000 per year. Members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. Judges must file with the ethical practices board. For specific information, contact Charles C. Reischel, Space Center Building, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul 55101; (612) 296-6409.

Committee on non-public schools has five vacancies open immediately for members representative of the various areas of the state and knowledgable about non-public schools, for four year terms. The committee defines issues and makes recommendations on non-public schools to the commissioner of education and the state board of education. Meetings are held at the call of the committee chairman. Members are compensated $35 per day plus expenses. The appointing authority is the governor. For specific information, contact Mary Jo Richardson, Governor's Office, 130 Capitol, St. Paul 55155 (612) 296-3391.

Citizens advisory task force on the Boundary Waters Canoe Area has seventeen vacancies open July 1, 1979, for members selected as follows: three residents of St. Louis county, three residents of Cook County, three residents of Lake county, eight residents of the state residing outside of the aforementioned counties. Terms of office expire June 30, 1983. The task force shall conduct research into all matters related to the establishment and operation of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area and make the recommendations to the United States forest service and other agencies. Meetings are held at the call of the chairman. Members receive expenses in the same manner as state employees. The appointing authority is the governor. For specific information, contact Mary Jo Richardson, Governor's Office, 130 Capitol, St. Paul 55155; (612) 296-3391.

Rehabilitation review panel has eleven vacancies open July 1, 1979, for members selected as follows: Two members each from labor, employers, insurers, vocational rehabilitation, and medicine, and one member representing chiropractors. Terms are for four years. The panel shall review rehabilitation plans, hold revocation of certification approval hearings, study rehabilitation, and advise the commissioner of labor and industry. Meetings are held at the call of the chairman. Members shall receive $35 per day plus expenses. The appointing authority is the goernor. For specific information, contact Mary Jo Richardson, Governor's Office, 130 Capitol, St. Paul 55155; (612) 296-3391.

Council on quality education has one vacancy open immediately for a public member for a term expiring January 7, 1980. The council encourages and performs research and development for quality education in Minnesota elementary and secondary schools and evaluates the results of significant innovative programs. Members receive $35 per day plus expenses. The appointing authority is the governor. For specific information, contact Eugene Kairies, 722 Capitol Square Building, St. Paul, 55101; (612) 296-5072.

DESCRIPTION OF WORK: Includes remodeling work in and around the gymnasium portion, and remodeling existing science room of the school.

TYPE OF BIDS: Single construction contract including general mechanical and electrical contractors.

BID TIME: 8:30 P.M. CDST

PLACE: Superintendent's office, Independent School District No. 440, Middle River, Minnesota.

Bid received after this time will not be accepted. All interested parties are invited to attend. Bids will be opened and publicly read aloud at a place to be designated later.

—Dodge Scan in Minneapolis.
—Minnesota Builders Exchange at Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul.
—North Dakota Builders Exchange at Bismarck, Fargo, Grand Forks, Minot, Williston.
—South Dakota Builders Exchange at Rapid City, Sioux Falls.

Bidding documents may be obtained by prime bidders from Engineers-Architects, P.C. upon request. A plan deposit of $25.00 is required for one set. All of the deposit will be refunded if the prime bidder submits a bid. If the prime bidder returns the set of documents, in good condition, prior to the bid opening, ½ of the deposit will be refunded. If the prime bidder does not bid, none of the deposit will be refunded.

Partial or complete sets of plans and specifications may be obtained from ENGINEERS-ARCHITECTS, P.C. by other than prime bidders. The sets or partial sets will be distributed upon receipt of payment for the information charged at the current reproduction rate. None of this payment will be refunded. Completeness and adequacy of the list of documents requested shall be the responsibility of the person making the request.

BID SECURITY: Each bid must be accompanied by a Bidders Bond in a sum equal to five per cent of the full amount of the bid, executed by the bidder as principal and by a Surety Company authorized to do business in this State, conditioned that if the principal's bid be accepted and the contract awarded to him, he, within ten days after notice of award, will execute and effect a contract in accordance with the terms of his bid and a Contractor's Bond as required by law and the regulations and determinations of the Board.

THE OWNER reserves the right to waive irregularities, to reject Bids and to hold all Bids for a period of 30 days after the date fixed for the opening thereof.

State of Minnesota
County of Pennington

PROBATE COURT
COUNTY COURT
PROBATE DIVISION

In Re: Estate of Henry Rux, Deceased.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

Notice by publication is hereby given that on the 19th day of July, 1979, at 1:00 o'clock P.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the probate of an instrument purporting to be the Will of the above named decedent, and for the appointment of Darrell D. Sevre as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes, and expenses, and sell real and personal property and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Dated May 21, 1979.

FOR SALE

405 Hickory Road, 3 bdrm. rambler, full masonry basement, masonry chimney, oak cabinets, oak trim, brick planter, double garage, carpeted, $54,500 — FHA, VA, or conventional financing.

601 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Schult mobile home, with expando, wood skirting, tie-downs, new floor covering, on large lot facing the park and tennis court, $21,500 - will sell contract for deed.

605 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield mobile home and lot, two entries, front living room, stove and fridge, washer and dryer, skirting and tie-downs installed, $22,750 - terms.

625 Hickory Rd., 14x70 Marshfield, nearly new, huge entry and deck, large corner lot by the park, $24,800 with terms.

We have three new homes in various stages of construction that are for sale, all under $45,000 with financing available now. If your're shopping, these may be a better buy than many older homes in town - the interest rates continue to rise but this is still a good time to buy a new home.

We have a limited number of mobile home lots for sale. These are also good values as compared to renting a site - we can finance or rent to you with an option to buy at a later date - we can and will trade almost anything of value to help with your down payment. Call us.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to all my relatives and friends for their visits, gifts, flowers and cards during my recent hospital stay. Everyone was so kind.

A very special thanks to Dr. Taylor, Dr. Herber, all the nurses in the intensive care unit, and all the nurses on the second floor who put out all their special effort for me.

Thanks to Fr. Bernauer, Father Rausch, Rev. Keith Prekker and Rev. Don Knudson for their visits and comforting prayers.

Thank you all very much and God bless each and everyone of you.

Early Child Health Testing Encouraged

Even a relatively minor health problem can seriously complicate the difficult task of growing up. As they grow, children must learn the basic skills of living, cope with the demands of school, and deal with an ever-widening social environment. That takes time and energy, and it can place big demands on a family's emotional and financial resources. An illness or a handicap can only make things that much harder.

Both the financial and emotional cost of a childhood health problem can be reduced if the problem is caught and treated early. In many cases, early treatment also means more effective treatment. That's why health authorities stress the importance of comprehensive health screening programs for children. An effort to encourage participation in such programs is now underway, as part of the United Nations' international year of the child (IYC) observance.

Although a screening can give you a very thorough picture of your child's health, the results are not final. "A screening is not a medical examination," noted Mary Donohue, of the state health department's early and periodic screening (EPS) program. "A screening is a series of quick, simple procedures, which we use to find children who might have a physical or developmental problem requiring further attention. Then we refer these children elsewhere, most often to a doctor or dentist, for actual diagnosis and treatment."

Child health screening programs have already demonstrated their value in uncovering potential health problems, according to Donohue. During 1977 and 1978, over 65,000 Minnesota children participated in publicly run or publicly funded health screening programs. About 40 per cent of those children were referred for further evaluation of a possible problem, and about 90 per cent of the children referred were ultimately diagnosed as having a problem. Most of the referrals were to physicians or dentists.

Children in Minnesota are served by three public health screening programs:

—Early and periodic screening, diagnosis and treatment (EPSDT). This federal program reimburses local health "providers" for screening children who are eligible for medical assistance. Under EPSDT, children are screened at regular intervals throughout childhood and adolescence, beginning at the age of six months. In Minnesota, EPSDT is administered through the state department of public welfare.

—Early and periodic screening (EPS). This state level program offers all children the type of screening service available to medical assistance children under EPSDT. Many of the children eligible for reimbursement under EPSDT are screened by EPS clinics. Parents of children not eligible for EPSDT are charged a "sliding fee" for the service, based on their ability to pay. County level community health services agencies run the actual clinics, and the Minnesota department of health administers the over-all program. Forty-two local EPS programs are now in operation statewide.

—Preschool screening (PSS). Under this program, each local school district in Minnesota must provide a one-time screening for preschool children in the district. There is no charge for the screening. A district can set up its own screenings under the supervision of school health personnel, or it can arrange to have the screenings done through an EPS clinic or some other provider. The program is administered through the state department of education.

State Health department trains screening personnel for all three programs, and provides technical assistance to EPS and Pss clinics. The three programs offer similar screening procedures, administered according to similar standards.

Each screening includes an evaluation of each child's health history, immunization record, nutritional status and physical growth. Also included are an unclothed physical inspection, a dental inspection, a developmental screening test, hearing and vision test, and laboratory analysis of blood and urine.

Noting that participation in these screening programs is completely voluntary, Donohue urged parents to have their children screened. "Ultimately, what we're trying to di s give children a better start in life," she said, "and we don't like to see anyone miss out on that."

State Produces 784,700 Tons Of Vegetables

Commercial vegetable production of an estimated 784,700 tons, principally of sweet corn, green peas, carrots and onions, grossed Minnesota contract growers an estimated $54,670,000 in 1978, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin has reported.

Processing vegetables, principally sweet corn and green peas, accounted for most of that total. Only Wisconsin and California produced and processed more canned and frozen vegetables last year than Minnesota's 744,450 tons valued at $50,432,000.

Commissioner Seetin said that Minnesota's vegetable production overall is probably among the top five states, and generates well over $100-million in farm income.

The annual report on commercial vegetables focuses on contract crops. It does not include, for example, Minnesota's $48.4-million 1978 potato crop, last year's $8.3-million dry edible bean crop, or the production and seasonal marketings of the hundreds of Minnesota truck and farm-garden markets.

Minnesota's nation-leading 1978 crop of sweet corn for processing was an estimated 641,000 tons, valued at $29.1-million. That was over 26 per cent of the national production, and was second highest production for Minnesota growers.

Green peas for processing added 82,850 tons and $18.1-million farm value to Minnesota's 1978 vegetable achievements. Only Washington and Wisconsin produced, canned or froze more green paeas last year. Minnesota's production was 18 per cent of the U.S. total.

Carrots for fresh and processing markets achieved new Minnesota highs both in production of 27,650 tons, and in farm value of $1,998,000. Summer storage onion production, 11,150 tons, grossed Minnesota growers $1.08-million.

SUPPLICATION

There is a drama to surgery unequalled by almost anything else. This really is life and death, and sometimes the balance is incredibly slight.

The operating room team is highly trained, the surgeon is supremely skilled. His hands are a marvel to watch, his technique flawless. Yet no one knows better than he that, in this critical moment, there is a much higher authority involved.

Before he entered the room he paused for a moment, in silent prayer. He asked for God's guidance, as he always does. His patient is now in two sets of hands; one human, one divine.

Have you ever stopped to think how many people who do important things are regular churchgoers? They have realized, long since, the need to go beyond themselves.

Personality Quiz

HOW GOOD ARE YOU AT SHARING?

Once the automobile was king of the American road, but now that other highway users are growing in numbers, sharing the highways with courtesy is more important than ever. Just how courteous a driver are you?

1. Should you follow another car or motorcycle (a) one car length for every 10 m.p.h. (b) a two-second interval at least (c) either of these?

2. You should shake a tailgater by (a) hitting your brakes and trying to scare him out of his wits (b) driving much faster and trying to lose him (c) maintaining speed and giving him every opportunity to pass?

3. After you have followed at a safe distance and someone cuts in front of you but you back off to a safe distance and someone does it again, you should (a) keep backing off (b) blow your horn at the idiot (c) start following too closely yourself?

4. When you and a motorcycle reach an intersection at the same time (a) assume you have the right-of-way and proceed through (b) it's all right to turn left in front of the cycle (c) regard the motorcycle as another car and act accordingly?

5. When you want to keep a motorcycle from passing (a) speed up (b) move left to make passing difficult (c) move right to make passing impossible on the right (d) none of these?

GOOD, COURTEOUS DRIVERS share the road with all vehicles no matter what their size.

ANSWERS: 1. (c) The better way is to allow a two-second interval. To set it, select an object along the road ahead. When the vehicle in front of you passes it, begin counting "one thousand-one, one thousand-two." You should reach the object just as you finish saying "one thousand-two." If you reach it sooner, you're too close. 2. (c) 3. (a) 4. (c) According to the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, most motorcycle accidents occur when a motorist turns left in front of a cyclist. 5. (d) This is a real test of your courtesy.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

How Your Community Can Lower Its Taxes

Are you tired of seeing your local taxes go up each year, even though the level of services might stay the same? Did you know that there are many alternatives which could provide your community with an almost surefire way of reducing your tax burden — to cite but one, a privately-run fire department? Research published by the Local Government Center in Santa Barbara, California, indicates communities now contracting with private fire departments have cut the cost of their fire protection roughly in half

Two communities that have proven this concept are Scottsdale, Arizona, and Elk Grove Township, Illinois. In Elk Grove, the owner of the American Emergency Services Corporation, Gary Jensen, estimates he can save $6,000 each time he buys a fire truck without decorative chrome. The tradition, of course, has been for fire departments to use spiffy chrome-plated trucks which must be polished by idle firefighters at additional taxpayer expense in anticipation of the next parade.

In Scottsdale, the owner of the Rural Metro Fire Department, Lou Witzeman, not only avoids chrome trucks, but factory-built equipment as well. Witzeman has found his company can build its own equipment for under half the regular cost.

Witzeman has also developed other ingenious ways to cut unnecessary costs without sacrificing efficiency. In a story appearing in TWA's February edition of Ambassador magazine, Witzeman said 80 per cent of all fires are the kitchen or brush fire type and can be exteinguished with less than 300 gallons of water. So he developed what he calls an "attack truck," which is basically an oversized, specially-equipped pick-up truck with a 300 gallon pumper. The truck can be operated by one person, and it is the first piece of equipment Witzeman sends to a fire. If the fire is too big, he has additional equipment on the scene within minutes.

Witzeman deliberately cuts corners on nonessentials, but not on his equipment which features radio-controlled fire hydrants, remote-control units capable of carrying water into a fire too hot for a fireman, and even microfilm viewers which permit firemen to examine the floor plan of a building while their trucks are still speeding to the blaze.

Probably the greatest source of savings for a private fire company is the unique way it staffs a portion of its force with reservists. In Elk Grove, rather than pay for an expensive contingent of full-time firefighters who would be idle much of the time, Gary Jensen employs only nine full-timers and supplements them with 17 paid reservists at lower rates. The reservists hold regular jobs in the community and can be immediately summoned by portable paging radios.

What about the bottom line? The cost of these two operations, which have both established dependable records of firefighting skills, works out to approximately $15 per capita in Elk Grove, and $11 in Scottsdale. Compare those prices to the national average of approximately $30, and you can understand why similar private operations are spreading across the country.

And obviously, private enterprise can be used creatively in other areas to secure traditional public services for less moeny. According to Ambassador, the police force in Scottsdale is only half as big and much less costly than forces in other cities of comparable size. Reason? Civilians answer phones and do paperwork which frees up police officers for more dangerous work. Meanwhile, the city saves money because of the salary and pension-plan differential between officers and civilian police workers. The city has also purchased a specially-designed garbage truck which uses huge hydraulic claws to empty cans. One driver can both operate the vehicle and collect more garbage in one shift than can two ordinary trucks with three-man crews.

Given this innovative spirit, it should be no surprise that taxes in Scottsdale are low and that its citizens are pleased with their city government. The lesson here is clear. Our private enterprise system offers magnificent opportunities to solve problems, and it is waiting to be tapped for the benefit of every man, woman and child in America. So if you're tired of seeing your resources being pumped away, maybe it's time your community gave private enterprise a try.

Meet The Waisvisz Family — America's 20th Century Pioneers

It's a story that deserves to be told. For our purposes, let us pick it up in 1966 when they arrived in British Columbia as immigrants from the Netherlands. Things seemed bleak at first; they knew no one; he had no prospects for work, and only enough money to afford lodging in a third-rate hotel where they were told they must sleep on the floor. But they did have hope, and each other, and an enthusiasm, spirit and discepline — indeed a total commitment — to realize their shared dream of eventually becoming Americans and living a better life in the United States.

Today, the Waisvisz family, Herman, his wife, Vera and their three sons, Max, 15, Lehman, 13, and David, 12, have already realized that dream and much more. Indeed, they are living proof of Harry Emerson Fosdick's belief that free democratic societies are strong and endure because, "there are extraordinary possibilities in ordinary people."

It didn't take Mr. Waisvisz long to locate his first position as a project engineer for the Park and Tilford Comapny in British Columbia, nor for him and his wife to save enough money to make a down payment on their first, very modest home. By 1969, his engineering abilities earned him a better offer from the Arthur G. McGee Company in Cleveland, and the family at the chance to live in the United States. . . and in a better home. But they only stayed there a year, as Herman's reputation had already caught the attention of the U.S. Industrial Chemicals Company in Tuscola, Illinois.

Today, they live in nearby Champaign, Illinois. Herman now works as group leader of USICC's engineering division. Vera works too, selling jewelry in Robeson's, a downtown department store. Thanks to all their work and sacrifices and promotions, Herman and Vera now own two homes — their present residence in Champaign, and their former home in Cleveland which they rent. That's pretty impressive after starting from scratch just 13 years ago; but it's really just the beginning of this family's amazing story.

You see the Waisvisz sons, Max, Lehman and David, not to be outdone by their parents, bought a home themselves in 1977 for $40,000. How did they do it? Each one saved nearly every cent he earned over a four-year stretch delivering papers; then they combined their savings and pledged the entire amount toward an $8,000 down payment. Of course Dad did have to chip in with the final $1,800, but the boys have already paid half of that back. The brothers now rent the house, make the necessary repairs with a little help from Mom and Dad, and use the money from the monthly rent payments to meet their tax and mortgage obligations. And that leaves them free to start saving again for their next anticiapted investment — a college education. In their interim, they will have gained a practical education most people don't get until they're 30.

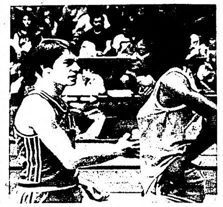
Our office got a taste of just how businesslike these young landlords are when we called the Waisvisz family The boys weren't there — probably out delivering the Champaign New-Gazette or fixing a faulty faucet in their house — but they did have their own recording which beeped, and then courteously requested us to leave our message.

When we did talk to the boys, we got a feeling of their responsibility, their motivation, in essence — their character. "You have to always make sure everything is right," said 12 year old David about his house. Lehman told us that when he's feeling "happy" he can deliver his 49 papers in 15 minutes. 'He admitted he takes longer when he knows they're having spinach for dinner.) Max, who first had the idea to invest the brother's money in something that would appreciate in value, has a room full of stereo equipment bought with a little money and lots of bargaining skill.

Together, the boys have won bikes, and even a trip to Florida, as first prizes in contests run by their local paper to gain new subscribers. Through it all, they find plenty of time to watch television, see friends and play ball. But they sometimes wonder how others their age can accept allowances without doing any work.

Writer George Will recently observed: "For nations, as for individuals, character is destiny. . ." The members of this remarkable family know precisely where they are going: They are going up And they also know why They know that to succeed, besides hard work, they basically need only two things The discipline to live within a budget, to live below their yearnings, and the wisdom to invest well for tomorrow, rather than to spend for today. As young David remarked, "If you looked at my shoes, you might think I was poor, but I'm not!"

Our government insists on the opposite spending appreach. Do you think it just a coincidence that our economy is also headed in the opposite direction — down? Could it be, that all our government's greatest minds lack the simple common sense of a 12 year old boy?



The opposition makes a startling discovery about Mavis Washington (r.) the star forward of what's supposed to be an all-male basketball team, in this scene from "Fast Break." The zany comedy opens Wed., June 27 at the Galaxie Twin Theatre.

WILD OAT HERBICIDE

Rain won't wash it off.* And it works without moisture.

*Fifteen minutes after applying Carbyne, it can pour rain without washing off Carbyne. Yet Carbyne works without moisture. No incorporation. And no worries about working soil when it's too wet, or too dry.

Just two of the reasons Carbyne outsells all other wild oat herbicides.

See us about your supply of Carbyne.

A Dangerous Trend?

Sen. Rudy Boschwitz recently wrote the following column regarding the problems projected through chain ownership of the nation's newspapers:

Is a current trend within the newspaper industry dangerous to the freedom of the press as we've known it in America? Does that trend threaten to limit our freewheeling exchange of ideas?

These are major questions we've been exploring this week in hearings before the Senate's Small Business Committee on which I serve. We're discussing the increasing number of papers owned by newspaper chains and the decreasing number of family-owned, independent daily newspapers.

The figures are alarming. By one count, only 691 of the 1,759 daily papers in the United States remain outside chain ownership. Since 1973, chains have purchased dailies at the rate of 55 each year. Weekly papers face similar problems.

This trend concerns me for two reasons: As more newspapers pass from local control and individual ownership and into the hands of centralized groups, the number of views and perceptions heard by the American public is potentially cut. The flow of information is controlled by an ever-decreasing few.

Secondly, consider the local, independent owner who has lived in a community, raised his children there, and depended on the economic health of that community for his livelihood. He cares about the town, and the stamp of caring he places on his town's newspaper often makes it a better and more unique product than one put out by a fellow who's simply serving as the local manager for a chain ownership with headquarters located out of the community.

Reasons for the trend toward chain ownership are easy to find: they're called financial. Inheritance taxes are crippling. Few families are able to afford what they must pay if they want to retain ownership. However, they can usually profit from sale to a chain.

The family newspaperman finds himself in much the same dilemma faced by the family farmer: Inheritance taxes are based on his property's market value, the amount a chain or corporation would probably pay. Unfortunately, this value is usually totally out of line with the property's book value.

Two plans are presently being discussed in Congress to halt the trend: One would limit the number of papers that can be owned by a chain. Another would allow special tax provisions for newspapers.

Both plans have drawbacks. Both would single out the press and pass legislation specially designed for newspapers alone. Some see that as jeopardizing a free and independent press.

An eventual solution may be to revamp inheritance tax laws in general so that all small businesses — be they family farms, family newspapers, or whatever — would have estate taxes based on operating profits of the property, not on artifically high market values.

As I said, the present trend concerns me deeply. I've often thought that the Holocaust, which occurred in Nazi Germany and from which only some of my family escaped, might have been avoided. . .if Germany had had a free press such as exists in this country with reporters and editors ready and willing to prove into governmental workings.

I fear any trend that blocks access into the free marketplace of ideas.

Hail To The Duke

Steve Lang wrote the following editorial recently in the Morris Sun:

John Wayne's bigger-than-life patriotism and staunch belief in American ideals could be summed up in a quote attributed to the late film giant, when asked to name his favorite song so an orchestra could play it.

"Aw, if they played my favorite song, everybody would have to stand up he said.

Marion Michael Morrison, known as John Wayne or "the Duke" during his 50-plus years in the motion picture industry, left a legacy that will be difficult to equal. Always portrayed as a defender of America, whether on the western plains, the sands of Iwo Jima, the jungles of Vietnam, the vast oceans or in the skies as a military pilot, his beliefs and love of country extended well beyond his movie roles.

Wayne's opinions and statements on American politics and policy never wavered from the right wing stance and ruffled numerous government feathers the most recent his outcry against the controversial Panama Canal treaty. His stance was often criticized, but his loyalty to the U.S. could not be questioned.

In John Wayne, the American public viewed a genuine hero, one who could be envisioned on many fronts as the type of character that settled our nation, led the thrust for law and order, fought and triumphed in our battles. One could almost find security in the long shadow his large frame cast as he strolled to a duel-to-the-death engagement in the western sunset.

The sun has set on the Duke for the final time, and as is the case with genuine articles, no heir-apparents loom on the horizon.

He May Be Right

Following editorial by Bob Johnson appeared in the Wadena Pioneer-Journal:

David Brinkley has always given us the impression of a calm, composed and reasonably cheerful man on the TV news. That's why we were surprised by the news accounts of a speech he gave recently in Atlanta, Ga.

The federal government has lost its common sense, the NBC anchorman said, "Washington thinks it should not only run the government, but also the country," he said. "They tell us who we should hire, what we must pay them and how we should spend every dime and dollar. No tyrant in the 18th century would have dared to do this. But Washington does.

"I see a public that is angry, restless and fed up with national government. The answer is to give more power and money to state, county and local governments. Run every program at the lowest possible level."

During a question-and-answer session following his speech, Brinkley said, "The last federal program that worked was World War II."

Come to think of it, he may be right.

Following Examples

North Battleford News Optimist is credited with the following editorial:

When Johnny was six, he was with his father when they were caught speeding. He saw his father hand the officer a five dollar bill. There was no ticket.

When Johnny was ten, he broke his glasses on the way to school. He heard his mother tell the insurance company that they had been stolen, and she collected $27.

When Johnny was 15, he made right guard on the high school football team. His coach taught him to block and, at the same time, hold the opposing guard back grabbing his shirt. He was cautioned not to let the official see him do it.

When he was 16, John took a summer job at a large market. His job was to put the overripe fruit on the bottom and the good fruit on top.

When John went to College, he was approached by an upper classman who offered him the answers to an English examination for three dollars. "It's OK, kid," he was told. "Everybody does it." Johnny was caught and sent home in disgrace.

"How could you do this to your mother and me?" his embarrassed father asked.

If there is one thing the adult world can't stand, it's a kid who cheats — and gets caught.

Interesting Opinions:

"The curse of continued and even accelerated inflation, according to my mail, is of greatest concern. Strangely, though, the letters requesting increased appropriations for various federal programs outnumber by at least five to one those asking for decreased expenditures. The problem is one which the White House and Congress can resolve but it may well require another election and many more new faces in Washington."

—Sen. Milton R. Young (N.D.)

If today we have an affluent society it's because, once, no labor was scorned. It was hard labor that opened our prairies, built our railroads and factories. Those who peopled the country from the old world did not come here disdaining this job or that. They did the labor that was here to be done. We serve our young badly whenever, by example or precept, we teach them that some work is ignoble, that it is better to live in idleness than to carry dirty dishes in a cafeteria."

—Vermont Royster

One of the things that brings inflation home is when your son or daughter gets a starting job at a salary you once dreamed of making at the peak of your career.

MAX
CHARLOTTE...DO YOU PUT THE RUBBER PANTS OVER OR UNDER THE DIAPER?
YOU'RE THE GUY I'M COUNTING ON TO SEND ME TO COLLEGE?
CHARLOTTE OUR SIX MONTH OLD SON JUST INSULTED ME!
LOOK, I'M SORRY, BUT I'M A LITTLE WORRIED ABOUT HOW YOU'RE HANDLING MY IMPORTANT FORMATIVE MONTHS
WHAT DOES THAT MEAN?
LIKE, HOW ABOUT PUTTING A GUARD RAIL ACROSS THE BASEMENT STEPS? I'M A LITTLE BABY... I COULD FALL AND BREAK MY HEAD.
I NEVER THOUGHT ABOUT...
OF COURSE YOU DIDN'T! AND DID IT EVER OCCUR TO YOU TO GET ME AN APPOINTMENT WITH THE DENTIST? I AM GOING TO HAVE TEETH SOON.
NOBODY TAKES KIDS TO THE DENTIST 'TIL THEY'RE SIX OR SEVEN YEARS OLD.
OH, IS THAT RIGHT, DR. WELBY? THE FACT IS THAT AS SOON AS THE FIRST TOOTH ERUPTS FROM MY CUTE, LITTLE PINK GUMS YOU SHOULD GET A DENTIST TO CHECK ME OUT. HE MAY SPOT PROBLEMS THAT'LL SAVE ME YEARS OF DENTAL WORK–AND YOU LOTS OF MONEY.
THAT DOES MAKE SENSE.
TRUST ME...NOW LET'S TALK ABOUT SOME INVESTMENTS I THINK YOU OUGHT TO BE MAKING IN MY NAME...
EVEN BABY TEETH NEED THE ATTENTION OF A CARING DENTIST

4H CLUB

Holt

The Holt 4-H met on June 18 at the Newfolden village hall. Meeting was called to order by president Dana Peterson. Flag pledges were said and roll call was answered by "What is your favorite sport?" Secretary's report was read and correction made.

There was no treasurer's report.

Old business: Holt won the softball game against the Cedar 4-H club with a score of 18-3.

New business: The county softball tournaments will be on June 25 at 6 p.m. in Newfolden. It was announced that our club serves lunch following the June 4-H federation on June 25. One pan of bars from each family is needed.

On Thursday, June 25, there will be project workshops at the Newfolden village hall from 2 to 4 p.m. Clothing members were reminded that fashion review registration is due in the extension office on June 29. The pre-registration blanks are due in the office on July 10.

Barbara Garthus and Joyce Hoglund told about Lake Sarah 4-H camp. The next meeting will be on July 12 after the tour.

Eric Kjensrud made a motion the meeting be adjourned and James Garthus seconded that motion. Meeting was then adjourned.

Our club then gave a program for the Grove Valiants 4-H club. There was a skit given by Dana Peterson, Karen Kjensrud, Nikki Leach, Barbara Garthus, James Garthus and Eric Kjensrud. A reading by Kim Olson, songs by Barbara Garthus and Joyce Haglund, and a reading by Barbara Garthus and Joyce Hoglund were also given. Songs were led by Joyce Hoglund and Barbara Garthus. We played "How do you like your neighbor?" and lunch was served.

Silverton

Silverton 4-H club held its monthly meeting June 14 at the Silverton hall. Meeting was called to order by president Melodee Rupprecht followed by the roll call which was "different dairy breeds". Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Old business of our club paying half of the Lake Sarah campers expenses was discussed. Also, we are planning to take some of the Oakland Park residents and wheel them around the park. Art in the Park and demonstrating at the fair were areas of new business. The meeting was adjourned.

Demonstrations were given by Melodee Rupprecht and Sue Peterson on foods. Melodee's demonstration was on "ice cream and sherbert". Next Loren Haagenson gave a talk on photography. Sue Peterson then gave her demonstration on "chocolate milk shakes". Karen Langefeld read a poem entitled "Happy Flag Day" and Debbie Torgerson demonstrated on home environment. Cammy Altepeter gave a project talk on foods. Lunch was served by the Torgersons and the Langenfelds.

Present at the meeting were 21 4-H'ers and two visitors.

Debbie Torgerson, reporter

Papa Bear

The Papa Bear 4-H club held its monthly meeting June 12 at the city auditorium. We will be going to McDonald's on Thursday, June 13, for a tour. We talked about adopting a grandparent. We will plant flowers at the library.

Stephanie Clow, reporter

Star

Star 4-H club held its monthly meeting June 13 at the Star town hall. President Leann Holen called the meeting to order, followed by flag pledges and roll call which was to name a part of a tractor. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The club voted to again make a banner for the fair. Mrs. Orlin Hanson brought out a couple of points from leaders council and announced the club tour plans. Mrs. Robert Parnow gave a brief report on the club's presentation for Oakland Park and Valley Home that afternoon. She also presented a past president's pen to Leann Holen and a paper weight for graduation. Dean Hanson was presented as a graduate also. He had previously been honored during church services and received his paper weight then. The club had five seniors graduating this year. Leann Holen gave a brief summary of her experience of being a Dairy Day princess contestant at Dary Day. The club had sponsored Leann and Mrs. Parnow presented her with a gift from the club. It was announced that Sean Dargus and Dianna Troska had left for 4-H camp that day and Kari Peterson was also attending girls state. It was noted that the club is busy with a number of community pride projects and schedules for club activities have been given to each family by Leann Holen, president. Meeting adjourned and lunch was served by the Leonard Johnson family. Recreation was played outside.

A demonstration was given by Shelley Swanson how to make a terrarium. A project talk was given by Jodi and Paula Mutnansky.

For our program Yuri Klepko from U.S.S.R. was introduced and he gave a short talk (his host family is Robert Parnow's). Also, Terry Courneya gave a short talk and some interesting comments about our club.

Present at the meeting were ten 4-H'ers, nine 4-H parents and three visitors.

KING CRAB AND AVOCADOS TEAM IN FESTIVE LUNCHEON SALADS

The gourmet team of succulent Alaska King crab and buttery-rich avocados is a winning combination in pretty individual salads designed for a festive luncheon.

Colorful Alaska King crab is combined with juicy pineapple chunks, diced cucumber and sliced mushrooms, then arranged in halves of ripe avocado. A creamy mayonnaise dressing flecked with bright bits of pimiento is served on the side.

Alaska King crab is appearing on menus with increasing frequency because of its exquisite flavor and convenience. Tempting hors d'oeuvres, cool salads and savory main dishes can be created in minutes just by defrosting a package of ready-to-use Alaska King crab.

CRAB-AVOCADO SALADS

1 package (6 to 8 oz.) frozen Alaska King crab
1 can (5-1/4 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
1/4 cup diced cucumber
1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
4 avocados
Spinach leaves or crisp lettuce
Fiesta Dressing

Thaw, drain and slice crab. Combine with pineapple, cucumber and mushrooms. Cut avocados in half lengthwise; peel and remove seeds. Arrange greens on 4 individual salad plates. Place avocado halves on greens and fill with crab mixture. Serve with Fiesta Dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Fiesta Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons minced pimiento, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and a dash cayenne pepper.

Q: Fibre-Craft Materials Corp. in Illinois sells craft items, including all kinds of beads. It states on each package how many it contains and I believed it.

Yesterday I was making an ornament which called for 102 beads. The package said it contained 100 beads so I bought two packages. Well, when I used the 100 beads I was not near finished with the ornament so I counted the beads I had used. It was 79. I then counted the second package. It contained 85.

I do not like to pay for something I did not receive. I used over $100 of their beads last fall and now I am wondering how many of those packages contained the amount stated.

Shakopee, Minnesota

A: Fibre-Craft provided a prompt response, part of which said:

"Our packaging objective is to give more, or overfill, the amount called for in our packages. Occasional human error on the part of production personnel does occur. However, we do our best to control packaging by checking as we run a particular product."

"If an error is made in packaging and we are made aware of it we provide our customer with additional product as soon as possible."

"Please use the enclosed stamped self-addressed envelope to write and tell us the exact product numbers and related colors involved in your shortages. Additional product will then be sent."

"We are proud of our personnel and our products and we are concerned about your satisfaction."

Q: We bought 5 gallons of red barn paint at Menards Lumber in Belgrade, Minnesota. After we painted our barn, the paint turned white and it looks terrible. We told them about it in Belgrade and they sent our claim to Southland Paint Company, the makers of the paint. It's been several months and we have heard nothing. The price of the paint was 5 gallons — $34.95.

We would appreciate it if you could help us out on this matter. Our barn needs to be repainted.

Kerkhoven, Minnesota

A: The cause of your paint problem has not been determined but Menhards and Southland have offered you a full refund on your cost of the paint. Southland noted that its policy has always been, complete satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.

Q: Sometime back I was to a Sarah Coventry party at my daughter-in-law's house and purchased a Mother's ring valued at $50.00.

This ring is not standing up to their guarantee. The sets keep falling out. The first time I returned it to them, I enclosed the proof of purchase. They put in the set but did not return my purchase slip.

A short time later another set fell out and I returned it for repair again.

Now for the third time another set has fallen out and I am very dissatisfied with the ring.

So I returned it again and asked for my money refunded. They refuse to do it unless I have my proof of purchase.

How can I return the purchase slip when I already returned it the first time? It is now over three weeks since I last wrote them. They have my ring and here I sit.

Russell, Minnesota

A: The company answered, in part:

"A refund check in the amount of $52.00 has been issued and sent."

"I hope that this adjustment meets with your approval as it does cover the cost of the ring plus postage."

Consumer Tips On Guarantees & Warranties

A rose is a rose is a rose. . . But a guarantee isn't much of a guarantee unless it tells you exactly what is being guaranteed.

Don't wait until the product fails or needs repair to find out how good the guarantee is. The time to become familiar with the terms of a guarantee is before you buy the item.

Before you buy any product or service that is covered by a warranty, consider these key points:

1. What is covered? The entire product? Only certain parts? Is labor included?
2. Who do you call when you need repairs that are covered by the warranty? The Manufacturer? The dealer? A service agency?
3. Who pays for parts, for labor, for shipping charges?
4. How long does the warranty last on the entire product? On parts and assemblies?
5. If the warranty provides reimbursement, is it in cash or credit towards a replacement?

Before you use a product read the owner's manual or instruction sheet. Follow the operating instructions and be sure that any specific routine maintenance or service is done as suggested or required by the warranty.

Keep your warranty and the sales receipt for future reference. Write down the date of purchase and the date of installation. And, remember, your best guarantee of a good guarantee is the care you take in making your purchase.

YOUR COMMENTS ARE INVITED ON MINNESOTA'S PROPOSED COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PROGRAM PLAN FOR THE PROGRAM YEAR OCTOBER 1, 1979 TO SEPTEMBER 30, 1980

The State Department of Public Welfare and County Welfare Departments/Human Service Boards have jointly developed a proposed plan of social services for the State of Minnesota. Social services provided under this proposed plan are designed to help individuals achieve the maximum level of independent living and self support of which they are capable; to prevent and remedy neglect, abuse and exploitation of children and adults; and to preserve, reunite and strengthen families. Before the plan is finalized, your comments and suggestions are invited.

PLAN DESCRIPTION

The proposed social services plan identifies services mandated in Minnesota Statute and reflects local priorities for services offered and people to be served in each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

There are variations in the plan from county to county. In each county, services to be provided and the people eligible were selected from the following:

SERVICES:

Adoption
Chore
Counseling
Developmental Achievement
Day Care - Children
Day Care - Adult
Educational Assistance
Employability
Family Planning
Foster Care for Adults
Foster Care for Children
Health
Home Delivered & Congregate Meals
Homemaking
Housing
Information & Referral
Legal Money Management
Protection - Children
Protection - Adult
Residential Treatment
Social & Recreational Transportation

ELIGIBILITY:

Fully Paid by Federal, State or County Funds
- Recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children
- Recipients of Supplemental Security Income and Minnesota Supplementary Assistance.
- Persons whose annual gross income is below the following:

$ 6,463 for a 1 person family.
$ 8,452 for a 2 person family.

KEYS AMENDMENT (PUBLIC LAW 94-566)

The Comprehensive Annual Services Program Plan for Minnesota this year includes a summary of standards which have been established for each type of medical or non-medical facility (1) which provides for protection oversight of its residents, (2) in which the State has determined a significant number of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients reside or are likely to reside, and (3) which is not already certified for participation in either the Medicaid (Title XIX) or Medicare (Title XVII) program.

The Minnesota Department of Health has been designated as the standard setting authority for Nursing Homes, Boarding Care Homes, and Supervised Living Facilities. The standards for each facility, including enforcement procedures, waiver procedures and identification of deficient facilities may be obtained at no cost by writing.

On-farm field trials show:
CARBYNE® RETURNS DOUBLE ITS PRICE IN EXTRA YIELD.
For the past 3 years, the exact returns Carbyne can deliver have been measured on farms, managed by farmers.
Carbyne-treated and untreated plots are side-by-side and harvested with field combines. No special treatment.
Returns have far exceeded Carbyne investment. Most growers have earned at least double its price. Many have realized a great deal more.
No wonder Carbyne is known across Wild Oat Country as The Double Your Money Maker.
When the Wild Oat Warning sounds, make sure you're ready. See us and order your Carbyne today.
Read label instructions carefully and use Carbyne only as directed.

Berries Salute The Season

Be innovative this fresh strawberry season. Create an easy and elegant Strawberry-Pineapple Parfait that follows the fashionable layered look. Sliced fresh strawberries are folded into thickened Jell-O strawberry flavor gelatin which has been made with the addition of ice cubes. This reduces the preparation time considerably by eliminating part of the setting-time wait. Finished parfait has a bottom and top layer of the berry-gelatin mixture. Middle layer is a combination of crushed pineapple, chopped pecans and sour cream. Chilling time until set is about 30 minutes, then on to the dining table with additional strawberry garnish.

STRAWBERRY-PINEAPPLE PARFAIT

1 can (8-1/4 oz.) crushed pineapple in syrup, drained
1/4 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1 package (3 oz.) strawberry flavor gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 cups ice cubes
1-1/2 cups sliced strawberries, chilled

Combine pineapple, pecans, sour cream and sugar; set aside. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ice cubes and stir constantly until gelatin starts to thicken, about 3 to 5 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice. Fold in strawberries. Spoon half the gelatin mixture into 6 to 8 parfait glasses. Add pineapple mixture and top with remaining gelatin. Chill until set, about 30 minutes. Garnish with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes about 4 cups or 6 to 8 servings.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Norway And Sweden: Scandinavian Savers

Cost-conscious travelers take note: Norway and Sweden have produced some travel packages that offer value for your vacation dollar.

The Norwegian and Swedish National Tourist Office has designed an easy-to-use vacation guide for the independent traveler—"Scandinavia Planner 1979"—detailing a variety of tours.

Panoramic tours of the fjords can be made in two days or more, depending on how much you want to see. In Norway, visitors to the fjord capital, Bergen, from May to October can see "Norway in a Nutshell" during a full-day excursion for only $30.

Another Norwegian cost-cutter: the "rail anniversary ticket," marking the 125th anniversary of the state railroad. The $30 fare is good for one second-class trip of unlimited mileage and stopovers. There are two restrictions: the trip must be completed in seven days, and the ticket's not valid on Fridays.

Sweden has a new hotel, car rental and air cheque system, offering savings and convenience. It's the "Go-As-You-Please" system, featuring greatly reduced hotel accommodations—$17 to $26 per person, including continental breakfast, service charges and sales tax.

Norway's fjord country can be seen from the famous Flydal Canyon.

Hotel Cheques, which can be used in over 400 hotels in Sweden, can be combined with "Discover Sweden Air or Rent-a-Car Cheques." The car rental cheque is $40 for one day with 200 free miles. An air cheque costs $194 and is valid for 15 days for up to 10 trips of any length between any of Sweden's 32 airports.

Free booklets can be obtained by writing the Norwegian-Swedish National Tourist Office, 75 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10019.

4-H'ers Try Granola: It's A 'Natural'

Food and 4-H'ers are a natural combination. Here's a chance to make your own "natural" cereal the way 4-H members do.

Golden Granola
(Makes about 6 cups)
3 cups uncooked oats
1 cup shredded or flaked coconut
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1-1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup raisins

Combine all ingredients except raisins in ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan; mix well. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown, stirring occasionally; stir in raisins. Cool thoroughly; store in tightly covered container in cool dry place or in refrigerator. Serve as cereal with milk or as a snack.

MICROWAVE OVEN DIRECTIONS: Combine all ingredients except raisins; mix well. Cook in ungreased 11x7-inch baking dish in microwave oven at HIGH 8 to 10 minutes or until light golden brown, stirring after every 2 minutes of cooking; stir in raisins.

Because granola is rich in carbohydrates and other nutrients, it's a great pep food! Young people want to feel and look their best, and the foods they eat really do affect their hair, skin, eyes, complexion, figure and vitality.

Try granola, a "natural" cereal or snack that's loaded with high energy nutrients. Young people 9-19 can learn-by-doing to plan and prepare nutritious meals and snacks in the national 4-H food-nutrition program, supported by General Foods Corporation and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

In the national 4-H food-nutrition program, supported by General Foods Corporation, boys and girls 9-19 learn-by-doing about the food groups that are the foundation of a good diet. Projects and activities provide opportunities for 4-H members to plan, prepare and serve a variety of nutritious meals, snacks and party dishes.

4-H'ers who excel in the program may be eligible for awards donated by General Foods and arranged by National 4-H Council.

Four members per county receive medals of honor, and one 4-H'er in each state earns an expense-paid trip to the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 25-29. Six national food-nutrition winners are awarded $1,000 scholarships.

Winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service, which conducts the program. More information is available from county extension agents.

Will you have peace of mind at thunderstorm time?

Everyone who's ever planted a crop knows the worry that comes when storm clouds roll in. And everyone who's had good insurance protection knows the peace of mind good coverage can bring.

Farmers who carry crop hail insurance through Production Credit Association have peace of mind plus. They know that when they have a claim their PCA representative will have an interest in seeing that they receive a fair settlement.

PCA members have a choice of policies, standard or deductible. Rates are realistic, based on probability of hail in your area.

Take away risk, worry and tension with crop hail insurance available from PCA. Then you can enjoy summer weather and have peace of mind at thunderstorm time.

Potholes Take A Shocking Toll

An estimated 93 million pot holes will spot the nation's highways this year making them look more like mine fields than roads, and costing state and local government hundreds of millions of dollars to repair them.

Shocking? That's nothing compared to the experience of driving into a few of these earth-craters which lurk around corners or lie concealed in puddles. When you feel that crushing jolt, think what it's doing to your car or truck, particularly tires, shock absorbers, and steering linkage.

While road crews around the U.S. are checking and filling pot holes this spring, you should have your car's underside inspected for wear and tear. Monroe shock absorber engineers point out that pot holes can damage shock absorbers and tires, knock front wheels out of alignment, and even bend wheel rims.

If shocks are damaged or have broken mountings, they can't do the job they were designed to do—provide a controlled, comfortable ride. Misaligned wheels mean excessive tire wear, and tires damaged as a result of pot holes often can't be repaired. If you hit a pot hole hard enough to bend a wheel, you'll not only need a new wheel, you probably also need a new tire.

As you can see, the proliferation of spring pot holes can be expensive to you, not only as a tax payer, but as a car owner. So be alert to avoid them and have your service station or mechanic put your car up on a hoist and give it a thorough inspection. It could save you money in the long run.
